CHRIST Church, now so called, being dedicated to our Blessed Saviour CHRIST, a Word signifying Anointed. He was King, Priest, and Prophet, in whom alone are fulfilled all the Predictions of the true Messiah. He was born about Anno Mundi 4000, at Bethlehem in Judea, in Syria in Asia, whence it was called the Holy Land, of which Judea Herod was then King; and Cyrenius, the Roman Governor of Syria, under the Emperor Augustus Caesar. His Birth was of the Virgin Mary (attended by Angels, who sung Gloria in Excelsis) having conceived by the Power of the Holy Ghost, and Man. It was about 33 Years from his Birth to his Death; the first 30 whereof he lived in a private Life, and in the last three Years he published his Gospel, confirming the same by Miracles, so surprizingly and unusually circumstantiated, as far exceeded those of the Patriarchs and Prophets who went before him, and of the Apostles and Disciples that lived after him, plainly shewing him to be no less than GOD; then he was crucified on Mount Calvary, a Death in those Days inflicted only on the most notorious Malefactors among the Jews. And the third Day after his Death he raised himself to Life, and lived on Earth 40 Days, doing many Miracles, foretelling his Disciples what should happen to them, instructing them how to behave themselves, and comforting them with the Promise of the Holy Ghost; and then, in their Presence, as he was Blessing them, he was taken up from the Mount of Olives into Heaven, from whence (they were immediately told) he should come again. After his Ascension, he sent the Holy Ghost, as he had promised, which enabled his Apostles, not only to preach in several Languages, but to cure divers Diseases, and do many Miracles, to vouch the Truth of what they said.

BEFORE the Dissolution of the Religious Houses this was the Church of the Grey-fryars, or Franciscans, which was then very large, containing in Length 300 Feet, in Breadth 89, in Height 64 Feet two Inches. Mr. Weaver tells us, that it was honoured with the Sepulture of four Queens, four Dutcheffes, four Countesses, one Duke, two Earls, eight Barons, and about 35 Knights, of which more hereafter.

THIS magnificent Church suffered with others in the dreadful Fire of LONDON, being burnt down, since which Time the Choir, or East End thereof, is only rebuilt, and is made the Parochial-Church for the Inhabitants of this and the Parish of St. Leonard Foster-lane, which is annexed to it by Act of Parliament.

THE new Church is built of Stone, very strong, spacious and beautiful, with Buttresses on the Outside, and adorned with Acroters, Pine-Apples, Pediments, &c.

THE Roof is covered with Lead; and here is a new Spire, finished Anno 1704, which is likewise of fine Stone, adorned with Vases, &c. The Dimensions of all, see a little farther. The Roof of the Nave of the Church within is camberated, and that of the two Side Isles is flat; the first supported by 10 solid Pillars of the Composite Order, the others by as many Pilasters of the same Order.

THE Church is ornamental and pleasant; the Inside of the Roof, and uppermost Windows, are embellished embellished with Cartouches; Cherubims, &c. of Fret-Work.

It is wainscotted with right Oak round the Church, eight Feet high, and the Columns nine Feet: And here are also curious large Wainscot Galleries on the North West and South Sides.

THE Pulpit is of the same Wood finely finnier'd; and especially the Carving is curious, where on one small Pannel is done our Saviour and his 12 Apostles, at the last Supper; and on the other, the four Evangelists, all in Basso Relievo. There is also a spacious Wainscot inner Door-case at the West End of the Church; and a neat Marble Font and Wooden Cover, the first adorned with Cherubims, the latter with an Angel carved.

THE Altar-Piece is spacious, of right Wainscot well carved, of the Corinthian Order. To the North End of the Communion-Table are two Columns, with their Entablature and arched Pediment, at each End of which is a Lamp, and in the Middle a Pine-apple standing on Acroters: And the like Columns, &c. to the South End of the said Table. The Intercolumns are three fine Pannels, the largest of which (being in the Middle) is finnier'd and checquer'd, and they are each surrounded with Frames neatly carved, and the whole adorned with Festoons, Fruit, Leaves, Corn-Ears, &c. over which is in Fret-work, Pedroits, Cartouches, Cherubims, Shields, Palm-Branches, the King's Arms, &c. all inclosed with handsome Rail and Ballister, and the Floor within paved with Black and White Marble.

THE Organ-Case is likewise beautiful, adorned with Frames, &c. carved in Wainscot.

THE Length of the Church is 114 Feet, Breadth 81, and Height 38; and the Altitude of the Steeple (which consists of a Tower and Spire) is (as observed by a Quadrant) about 153 Feet, wherein are two Bells.

IN this Church of the Grey-fryars, there were nine Tombs of Alabaster and Marble, invironed with Spikes of Iron, in the Choir ; and one Tomb in the Body of the Church, also coped with Iron ; all pulled down, besides 140 Grave-Stones of Marble, all sold for 50 l. or thereabouts, by Sir Martin Bowes, Goldsmith, and Alderman of LONDON. After which many others were erected ; as,

A fair Monument in the South Wall of the Choir, thus inscribed :

These two, Sir Christopher Edmonds, and Dame Dorothy his Wife, lived together 44 Yeeres, in perfect Love and Society ; both Servants to one Prince, and in great Credit both in the Court and Country where they lived, both for their Religion, Fidelity to their Sovereigne, and Liberality to the Poore.

This is the Monument of Sir Christopher Edmonds, Knt, who was a Domestical Servant to the most Sacred Queen Elizabeth, both before her Coronation and after, so long as he lived. He was of great Credit and Estimation in his Country, for his Integrity of Life, Uprightness in Justice, and Hospitality ; and gave to this Hospital of Christ's Church, 300 l. towards the Maintenance of the poor Children. He lived 72 Years, and died Anno Domini 1596.

This is the Interment of Dame Dorothy Edmond's, Wife to the said Sir Christopher, and Daughter to Christopher Litcot, Esq; who also served the most gracious Mayden Queene Elizabeth ; being ever since her Coronation, and before, of her most Honourable Privy-Chamber ; who joined with the said Sir Christopher, her Husband, in the said Gift of 300 l. to this Hospital ; being a Legacie only spoken of by him, and performed by her.

ON a fair Monument close by, in the same Wall, was this Inscription :

Time's Triumph on the Death of Master Robert Rogers, who deceased Anno 1601, in the Manner of a Dialogue between Time, Death, and Rogers.

Death. Stand fairely encountred both, Grave, Sovereigne Time ;
Borne of Eternity,
Age's Father :
Prince of all Power ; all
Powers on Earth are thine,
That doest my Ruines
Truest Records gather ; Lend thy Consent, thy Helping Hand to mine ;
And Death will make Time's
Soveraignty as great

As the three Sisters,
Ladies of sterne Fate.
Time. Impartial Death, Honours respectlesse Foe,
Grim, meager Caytiffe, wherefore dost thou come ?
Must Vertue's Children to the Slaughter go,
In thy bloud-yawning
Cell to fill a Rome ?
Can none but they, quench thy bloody Thirst ? Death. No ;
Rogers I come for : Time,
Thou canst not save him ;
This Dart must strike him,
and grim Death will have him ;
Rogers. Death, welcome ; all by thee.
I know must end ;
Nor doe I care for longer Life than this :
I thank thee, thou hast staid so long, (kind Friend.)
Sweet Time, be patient,
pardon mine amisse ;
If I have Time mis-spent ;
alafs ! we all offend.
If, said I ? yes, 'tis certaine, sure I have ;
For which Offence (deare
Time) I Pardon crave.
Time. Death, grant me this (sweet) doe not kill him
Till I returne but from the Destinies.
Dea. I cannot stay a Moment.
Rog. Oh ! will him (Grave Time) to strike me then,
I Death despise.
Dea. There lye thou dead.
Time. Thou canst not spill him :
Time shall erect a Trophée of such Fame,
That while Time lives, dye shall not Rogers's Name.

T I M E's Epitaph.

Give me an Adamantine Pen and Lease of Brasse,
To character his Name, whose Like ne'er was.
A single Life he led,
loving to all,
The poore Man's Succour, the Reliefe of Thrall ; Vertue's Example, guide to eternal Life ;
In Carriage courteous,
all devoid of Strife.
Here lyeth he interred,
Rogers's his Name,
Time's only Sonne, eternized by Fame.
Ongly Detraction, flye, and blacke Oblivion, hence ;
Whilst Rogers's Dust lyes here,
Time will his Fame commence.

UPON a Monument on a Pillar :

Behold the Works of God, done by his Servant
Dame Mary Ramsey.

She hath given a yearly Maintenance for two Fellows, and four Scholars, in Cambridge.
More, two Livings of good Value, when they shall become fit to supply them.
More, towards certain Sermons to be preached in this Church yearly.

More,

More, in Christ's Hospital, a free Writing-School for poor Men's Children.

More, in the Country, a free Grammar-School for the poorer Sort.

ALL which several Gifts, before remember'd, are to continue yearly for ever.

Forma, Decus, Mores, sapientia, Res & Honores; Morte ruunt subita;
vivit post funera Fama.

THE rest of the godly Works done by this good Lady:

She hath given a worthy Maintenance to the Poor of Christ's Hospital.

More, a bountiful Gift for the healing of poor wounded Soldiers.

More, a liberal Maintenance for ten poor aged Widows.

More, a bountiful Gift to release poor Men out of Prison.

More, a bountiful Gift to relieve poor Men in Prison.

More, a yearly Stipend to poor Maids Marriages.

More, to the Relief of the Poor of four several Parishes.

ALL which several Gifts are for ever.

Her Faith hath wrought; her Tree was not barren; and yet an unprofitable Servant, 1596.

ON a fair plated Stone in the Choir:

Gamaliel Pye, under this Stone doth lye in Peace and Rest, Whose Service to his Prince and Realm, well knowne not to be least:
At Bullen, Muttrel, and each Place else, where then the King had Warres,
Not any one that serv'd in Campe, lesse feared Wounds and Scarres.
In Age he lived in Peace and Love,
abhorring World's Inconstancy,
And chosen was eleven Times,
the Warden of his Company.
The Poore, Sicke, Lane, abroad, at Home, his Bounty ever felt,
But chiefly his own Parishioners,
where threescore Yeers he dwelt.
He held Disdaine to brawle, or seeke
what others had to doe;
And with his Wife he lived full forty Yeeres and two.
He liv'd devout, and dy'd devout,
the chiefest Way to Heaven,
The complete Date of this his Life, was fourscore Yeers and seven.

Mole sub hac, si forte roges
quis (Candide Lector)
Vel qualis recubat?
Gamaliel Pius est:
Vita pium; nomenque pium;
mors sancta piumque
Exhibet; & vita est
nomine, morte Pius.

ON a fair Monument in the Wall, at the upper End of the Chancel, was this Inscription:

S. Memoria:

Gualtero Haddono; Equestri loco nato Jurisconsulto, Oratori, Poeta celeberrimo; Græcæ, Latinæque eloquentiæ sui temporis facile prin-

cipi, sapientia & sanctitate vitæ, in id evecto, ut Regina Elizabethæ a supplicum libellis Magister esset: Destinareturque majoribus nisi fato immaturius cessisset: Interim in omni gradu viro longe eminentissimo, Conjugi suo optimo meritissimoque Anna Suttona, uxor ejus. 2. fens, moerens desiderii sui signum posuit. Obiit Anno Salut. hum. 1572. Etatis 56.

ON a plated Stone by the Communion-Table:

Within this Grave enclosed here,
Anne Beaumont now doth rest,
A loving and a faithful Wife,
With many Children blest.
She served God with Zeale of Truth, and learn'd to flee from Sinne;
And as she learn'd his Holy Will,
so liv'd and dy'd therein.
A Friend to such as Virtue sought,
A Foe unto no Wight;
A Helpe to those that feared God, with all her Power and Might.
The Poore shall oft bewailè her Want,
by whom they found Reliefe;
Whose Minde with earnest Care was bent,
to ease them of their Griefe.
Thus happy she, that now is gone
from hence, Reward to finde; Unhappy yet for such her Friends,
as she hath left behinde:
But thrice unhappy for his Losse,
that doth her Praise rehearse;
A woful Praise unto her Sonne, who wrote this doleful Verse.

Anne, Wife unto Nicholas Beaumont, of Coleoverton in Leicestershire, Esq; and Daughter unto William Saunders, of Welford in Northamptonshire, Esq; and half Sister unto Walter Haddon, Master of the Requests, departed this Life the 7th Day of September, Anno Dom. 1581, leaving behind her six Children.

Neere unto this Place lyeth buried the Body of Nicholas Beaumont, of Coleoverton in the County of Leicester, Esq; and Anne his Wife, the Daughter of William Saunders, of Welford, in the County of Northampton, Esq; By whom he had Issue foure Sonnes and two Daughters, viz. Henry, Francis, Thomas, and Hunting; Dorothy and Catharine. The said Nicholas died the 4th of November, 1598. His Wife died the 10th of February, 1591. In Remembrance of whom, this Monument was erected at the Care and Cost of Elizabeth Lady Ashburnham, Widow, late Wife of Sir John Ashburnham, Kt. Daughter to Sir Thomas Beaumont, of Staughton, in the County aforesaid, their third Sonne; at the Appointment of her Uncle, Master Francis Beaumont, Esq; their second Sonne, to whom the Erector hereof was Executrix.

ON another plated Stone on the other Side of the Table:

Hic jacet corpora Wil. Drewe, Armig. filii Johannis Drewe, de Ken, in Comit. Devon. Armigeri, & Elizabethæ uxoris ejus, filia & hæredis Wil. Cecil; ac consanguineæ & hæredis Tho. Cecil, Armig. Quæ quidem Elizab. obiit 10. die Novemb. Anno Dom. 1586. Et prædiæt. Wil. Drewe obiit, &c.

We dye to live, that liv'd to dye,
Through Jesus Christ; and so did I:
Which Christ, as I have loved best,
Among his Saints I trust to rest.

ON a plated Stone in the South Side of the Choir :

Under this Stone lyeth buried the Body of Rob. Smith, Gentleman; who had to his first Wife Elizabeth Rycroft. By whom he had Issue three Daughters; viz. Margaret, Julian, and Joane. And he had to his second Wife, Margaret Larkin, by whom hee had no Issue. The which Robert dyed the 8th Day of December, Anno Domini 1581. Whose Soule resteth with God.

ON a plated Stone in the South Isle :

Here lyeth buried Margaret, the Wife of Lawrence Huffle, Doctor of Law, and Daughter of Sir John White, Knight; for her vertuous Life, worthy of Memory. Who dyed the 3d Day of August, 1569.

To which add these :

John Martin of LONDON, and Margaret, Daughter and Coheir of Robert Smith.

ON the Monument, the Coat impaled Baron and Femme. The former, between two Chevronels, three Cocks Heads erased. The Femme Coat, between a Chevron, three Griffins rampant, on a Chief three Flower de lis.

By stealing Steps of Time from Day, to Month and Year,
My earthly Race is run,
my Body buried here.

John Martin was my Name of Haberdashers free,
Two Wives, and Children four,
The Lord hath lent to me.
My Soul is now with God,
To whom my Corps shall come;
And both shall Sentence have
From Christ, in Day of Doom.
When by his bloody Death,
Who is my Saviour just,
I shall have Life for ay,
Among the Saints, I trust.
Now, of my earthly End,
If thou the Day wilt know,
The Month and Year, are all

Here lye buried the Bodies of Alice and Elizabeth, Wives of John Povey, Citizen and Embroiderer of LONDON. By which Alice he had Issue six Daughters, and dyed the 17th Day of October 1553. And by the said Elizabeth had Issue fourteen Sons and four Daughters; and dyed the 20th of June 1594.

With the Embroiderers Arms upon this Stone.

ANOTHER Grave-stone, with two Coats of Arms on the Top thereof; and underneath, these Rhimes :

Here you may see John Jackson hee
By Death lay'd in his Bower;
He dyed in June twenty and one
Five hundred eighty four.
Whom God in Health endu'd with Wealth,
And Treasure: he hath been
To Infants poor, to save them Store,
That kept are here within.
When he did dye, then Deputy Unto the Alderman,
To end the Brawl of great and small,
As testifie we can.
His Will can tell he lived well,
To feed the Poor with Meat:
His Gifts therein so large have been,
And Legacies so great.
His zealous Heart did never start from preaching of the Word,
Till from this Bell he went to dwell
In glory with the Lord.
Where he in Bliss, undoubted is,
A just Reward of Faith,
To all that grieve, and do believe
As holy Scripture faith.

ROUND about the Stone, on the Side of it, is writ :

Here lyeth buried the Body of John Jackson, Citizen and Founder of LONDON; who departed this Life the 21st of June, in the Year of our Lord 1584. Unto whom the Lord give a joyful Resurrection. Amen.

Henry Smith of Bedfordshire, and Margaret, Daughter of Robert Slough.

Robert Smith of London, and Elizabeth, Daughter - - - Rycroft, of Skipton in Carven.

UPON a fair Stone in the North Isle, was this Inscription:

Spe Resurgendi hic jacet Corpus Joannæ Uxoris Edmundi Philips, Londini, Armigeri. Quæ cum solo & amantissimo marito in dilecto Matrimonio vixit per Annos 48.

Hoc Doloris Amphitheatrum reliquit, Mensis
Aprilis Die 12, Anno Salutis 1632, Ætatis suæ

UPON a fair Stone in the Middle Isle, was this Inscription:

Here lieth buried the Body of Elizabeth Draper, the Wife of Robert Draper, of this Parish, born the 3d Day of December 1581; and died the 3d of December 1613.

All those that knew her,
Lov'd her, for her Life,
Chaste, Pure and Pious,
Was of all approv'd;
(A rich Possession's
Such a Vertuous Wife;)
All Ill she hated,
And all Good she lov'd;
Be this his Comfort then,
Bewails her most,
In Heaven she's found,
That here on Earth is lost.

IN a Table in the Choir, hanging upon the Organ, was this written:

Memorie Sacrum.

Neer this lyeth the Body of Joane, Daughter and sole Heire of Edmund Biggs, Gent. and late Wife to Clement Goldsmith, of Gray's-Inn, Esq; who was in this Church baptized, the 3d of March 1564, and interred the 17th of February, 1631.

Clofe by this small Remembrance,
You may find
That which apparel'd erst,
An honest Mind;
A Body there inurn'd,
Where once did rest
A charitable Soul,
That was its Guest.
But see what Sicknefs, Age,
And Death have done;
These have they parted:
Yet the Day shall come,
When they shall meet,
And re-unite again,
And be assum'd
Above the Heavens to reign.
Until which Time,
May thy poor Monument
To Readers shew,
A sad Son's true Intent.

But if this perish,
Yet her Virtue shall
(She Dead) preserve
Her blest Memorial.

THESE two Stones lie close together, and close to the Communion-Table.

In which Place, lieth buried the Body of that Learned Worthy Divine, Dr. Sampson Price.

Fui Claphamus, Pater istius Johannis nuper defuncti, & hic sepulti. Qui obiit septimo Die Februarii, Anno Dom. 1621.

Here lieth buried the Body of John Clapham, Esq; one of the six Clerks of the Chancery, who died the 6th Day of December, Anno 1618, his Father, Luke Clapham, then living.

It was his Direction to the Person to whose Care he intrusted the Education of his Son, that he

he should be brought up in the Doctrine and Discipline of the Church of England, as by Law established; which Church, he said, he had considered, and believed to be the best in the World. Ætat. suæ 28.

Adorned with an Urn, Fruit, Leaves, &c. and these Arms:

Argent, on a Chief Sable, three Lions Heads erased, Or.

ON a large Grave-Stone in this Chancel, this Inscription:

Captain Valentine Pyne, born at St. Mary Antrey in Devon. In the Year 1691 went to India, where he spent the best Part of his Life in Trade with the Natives; by whom, particularly the King of Bantam, he was highly respected and beloved for his Integrity, Modesty, and other good Qualities.

Being forced to Return, by the Unkindness of some of his Countrymen, he arrived in England in the Year 1688; and after three Years Stay, besides other Compensations, he was by the East-India Company made Commander of one of their best Ships, the New Berkeley Castle. His Ship being ready to sail, he fell sick, and died on Feb. 11, 1691, lamented by all that knew him, aged 43 Years, leaving Issue by his Wife, Ann, only one Daughter, Mary, aged two Years.

Hic jacet ingenti casu Pulcherrima Pinus,
Cujus erat saluber fructus & umbra sacra.

Adam Wood, 1681, Son of Robert and Katharine Wood.

Two Sons and four Daughters of Jarvis and Mary Plumb; as also Anne their eldest Daughter, 1703.

AND to the rest, the Monument of Mr. Firming, in his Time, a Man most remarkable for Charity, and a great Friend to this Hospital, against the South Wall of the Cloisters, with this Inscription:

To the Memory

Of Mr. Thomas Firmin, late Citizen of LONDON, and one of the Governors of this and St. Thomas's Hospital. He was to the Orphans of this, a most tender Father; and for the Sick and Wounded of the other, a careful Provider. He constantly expended the greatest Profits of his Trade, Portions of his Time, and Labour of his Thoughts, in Works of Charity: In providing Work for Thousands of poor People; in visiting and relieving (necessitous Families, and in redeeming Debtors out of Prison. He also gave away, among vast Numbers of Poor, pious Books, writ by Divines of the Church of England. He took indefatigable Pains in succouring the distressed Refugees of France and Ireland. He was a most eminent Example of improving all Opportunities of doing Good, of successfully provoking others to good Works, and of an unfeigned Charity, both as to Places and Parties. He was very faithful and wise in disposing of publick and private Charities, and zealous for promoting of a Reformation of Manners. Yet after all, he ascribed nothing to himself, acknowledging on his Death-bed, that he had been an unprofitable Servant. And he professed, that he hoped for Salvation only from the Mercy of God, through the Mediation of Jesus Christ.

He departed this Life December the 20th, 1679, in the 66th Year of his Age.

THIS Monument was erected by his sorrowful Widow.

He that soweth bountifully, shall reap bountifully, 2 Cor. ix. 6.

THIS Inscription, it is said, was composed by Dr. Fowler, some Time the good Bishop of Glocester, who knew him well; and added the last Clause, which he uttered to him on his Death-Bed, because he had been esteemed to hold some Heterodox Opinions.

The PARISH of ## St. MATTHEW in FRIDAY-STREET.

ST. Matthew (to whom but this one Church in the City is dedicated) called also Levi, was, tho' a Roman Officer, an Hebrew of the Hebrews, and, probably, a Galilean, born at Nazareth, a City in the Tribe of Zebulun. He was the Son of Alpheus, and Mary, Sister or Kinswoman of the Blessed Virgin. His Trade, or Way of Life, was that of a Publican, or Toll-Gatherer, to the Romans; an Office of bad Report among the Jews: But among the Romans it was accounted a Place of Power and Credit, and honourable Reputation, not ordinarily conferred on any but Roman Knights.

OUR Lord having before cured a noted Paralytick, retired out of Capernaum, to walk by the Sea-Side, where he taught the People that flocked after him. Here he espied Matthew sitting in his Custom-Office, whom he called to come and follow him; which he immediately did, notwithstanding he was rich, and had a wealthy and gainful Trade, which he must leave. He entertained our Lord and his Disciples at a great Dinner, at his House; where many Publicans and Sinners sitting at Meat with him, and the Pharisees, thereupon, taking Occasion to snarl at him; asked his Disciples, Why their Master did eat with Publicans and Sinners, Persons infamous to a Proverb? But he presently replied upon them, That they that were whole needed not the Physician; and that he came not to call the Righteous, but Sinners to Repentance.

AFTER St. Matthew's Election to the Apostolate, he continued with the rest 'till our Lord's Ascension; and then, for the first eight Years, at least, preached up and down Judea.

AFTER which, being to betake himself to the Conversion of the Gentile World, he was intreated by the Convert Jews, to commit to Writing the History of our Saviour's Life and Actions, and leave it among them as a standing Record of what he had preached to them; which he did accordingly, and so composed his Gospel.

LITTLE Certainty can be had what Travels he underwent for the Advancement of the Christian Faith. Aethiopia is generally assigned as the Province of his Apostolical Ministry, that is, the Asiatick Aethiopia, lying near Judea; where, most probable it is, (as an antient Writer affirms) that he suffered Martyrdom at Naddaber, a City in that Country. [Dr. Cave's Life of St. Matthew.]

HIS Festival is yearly celebrated on the 21st Day of September.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified at the Cost of the Parishioners, in the Years 1632 and 1633; but sharing the common Calamity by Fire in the Year 1666, it was rebuilt, and opened on the 29th of November 1685.

As to the Building, it has a flat Roof covered with Lead; the Walls of the Church and Tower are Brick, the Window and Door-Cases Stone, as is also the Front towards Friday-street, and the Floor is paved therewith. The Church has but two Isles; but neither Pillar, nor any Part of Entablature, being very plain, and not so pleasant as it would be, were the Houses not built so high on each Side of it.

THE

THE Inside is adorned with a Gallery at the West End, having a neat Front, a Pulpit finely carved, with Enrichments of Arches, Shields, Vases, a Crown, Festoons, &c. and wainscotted 10 Feet high, all fine Oak; and the three Door-Cases, the Pews, and the Altar-Piece, are of the same Species of Timber.

THE last being adorned with two fluted Columns, their Entablature, and Compass Pediment, of the Corinthian Order; the Intercolumns are the Commandments in gilt Frames, and done in gold Letters on Black, under a Cherubim: Without the Columns, are the Lord's Prayer and Creed, done in Black on Gold, each under a small Triangular Pediment, where is placed on two Shields J. R. and the King's Arms (which Arms are also carved, gilt, and painted, being placed on the Front of the Gallery) and the whole Altar-Piece has Enrichments of four Lamps, also Festoons, Fruit, Leaves, &c. all of Oak; from which Altar the Font is placed directly West.

Dimensions are, Length 60 Feet, Breadth 33, Altitude 31; and that of the Tower 74 Feet, wherein is one Bell.

MONUMENTS in the old Church were, for

Thomas Pole, Goldsmith, 1395.

Robert Johnson, Goldsmith, Alderman.

Robert Harding, Goldsmith, one of the Sheriffs, 1478.

John Twisleton, Goldsmith, Alderman, 1525.

Ralph Allen, Grocer, one of the Sheriffs, deceased 1546.

Anthony Gamage, Ironmonger, one of the Sheriffs, deceased 1579.

Anthony Cage.

John Mabbe, Chamberlain of LONDON, &c.

Allen at Condit, and Thomas Warlingworth, founded a Chantry there.

Sir Nicholas Twisford, Goldsmith, Mayor, gave to that Church an House, with the Appurtenances, called The Griffin on the Hope, in the same Street.

ON a comely Monument in the Wall on the Chancel's South Side, was this Inscription:

Anthony Cage entombed

Here, doth rest.

Whose Wisedome still

Prevailed the Commonweale:

A Man with God's good

Gifts so amply blest,

That few, or none,

His doings may impeale.

A Man unto the Widow,

And to the Poore,

A Comfort and

A Succour evermore.

Three Wives he had,

Of Credit and of Fame:

The first of them,

Elizabeth, that light;

Who buried here, brought

To this Cage by Name,

Seventene young Plants,

To give his Table Light.

The second Wife (for her Part) brought him none;

The third and last,

No more but only one.

He deceased the 24th Day of June, Anno Domini, 1583.

ON a fair Monument in the North Wall of the Chancel:

In the midst of this Choir lieth the Body of Gaius Newman, Citizen and Goldsmith of LONDON, of the Age of 66 Yeers. He had Issue by his Wife, Anne, the Daughter of Nicholas Cullum, of LONDON, Merchant-Taylor, seven Sonnes and five Daughters, Gabriel, Gaius, Robert, Nicholas, Francis, Thomas, and Hugh; Elizabeth, Mary, Anne, Sarah, and Judith. He deceased the 3d Day of March, 1613.

ON another Monument in the same Wall.

Here lieth buried the Body of John Perte, Citizen and Fishmonger of LONDON, who took to Wife Elizabeth Eyre, the Daughter of Henry Eyre, Citizen and Skinner of LONDON, by whom he had Issue one only Daughter, named Mary. The said John deceased the tenth Day of October, Anno Domini 1604, being aged 51 Yeeres.

ON a Plate in the South Wall of the Chancel:

As Man liveth, so he dieth;

As Tree falleth, so it lieth:

Anne Middleton, thy Life well past

Doth argue restful Blifs at last.

Obiit Anno a partu Virginis Mariae, 1596, Mens. Januar. Die 2.

Anno Reg. Reginae Elizabethae 39, Aetatis suae 54.

MONUMENTS since the Rebuilding of this Church.

ON a Grave-stone in the South Isle, this Inscription:

Here lies the Body of William Lane, Citizen and Salter of LONDON, and Elizabeth his Wife, Daughter of William Towill, of Bromfield, in the County of Somerset, Gent. which Elizabeth deceased the 12th of March 1679. Her Husband survived only till the 11th of April 1680.

We shall rise again.

Sellers Thornbury, Citizen and Salter, Jan. the 6th, 1680, aged 74.

UPON a Monument in the same Isle:

Here lies the Body of Sir Edward Clark, Knt. Lord Mayor of this City of LONDON, Anno Dom. 1696, died Sept. 1, 1703, in the 76th Year of his Age. By his first Wife, Elizabeth, Daughter of the Reverend Mr. Thomas Gouge, he had Issue Anne and Thomas, that died before him. By his second, Jane, Daughter of Richard Clotterbuck, Esq; he had two Children that survived him. Jane, married to Maynard Colchester, of Westbury in Glocestershire, Esq; and Sir Thomas Clark, of Brickendonbury in Hertfordshire, Knt. who in pious Memory of his dear Parents buried underneath, erected this Monument.

THIS Parish was to have 240*l.* out of the Chamber of LONDON, or Coal-money, for the Use of the Parish or Poor; as a Recompence of a Piece of Ground belonging to the said Parish or Poor thereof, added to the Scite of the late Church, for the enlarging of the Church new built; and whereby the same is enlarged, and made more uniform.

Mrs. Cole left a Legacy of 5*l.* a Year to the Poor.

THERE was a Parsonage-House before the Fire, but consumed. The Ground was leased out for Forty Years, at the Rent of 5*l.* 10*s.* per Ann.

THIS Living is a Rectory in the Gift of his Grace the Duke of Montagu. Value of the united Parishes, per Act of Parliament, 150*l.* St. Matthew is rated in the King's Books at 21*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.* and St. Peter's 26*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

THE Rector is the Reverend Mr. Lee, and the Lecturer is the Reverend Mr. Haywood.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

PART of Cheapside; Part of St. Matthew's-alley, alias Fountain-court; Part of Friday-street, Angel-court, and Blue-boar-court.

NUMBER of Houses 48 and a half.

IN this Parish of Friday-street, were three Houses standing together, all pertaining to Religious Houses. The Middlemost was a Tenement inhabited by Robert Harding, Citizen and Goldsmith of LONDON, and some Time Sheriff; let to him for 30 Years, by the Priores and Convent of St. Helen's, LONDON, for Five Marks Rent yearly, in the 9th Year of King Edward IV, Dame Alice Ashfield the Priores. Another House on the East of it, belonged to the House of St. Mary Overies in Southwark: That on the West, to the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's.

FROM this Friday-street, West to the Old Exchange, a Street so called, from the King's Exchange, once there kept, which was for the Receipt of Bullion, to be coined. For Hen. III, in the 6th Year of his Reign, wrote to the Scabines, and Men of Ipre, that he and his Council had given Prohibition, that none, Englishmen, or other, should make Change of Plate, or other Mass of Silver, but only in his Exchange at LONDON, or at Canterbury. Andrew Bokerell then had to farm the Exchange of England, and was Mayor of LONDON in the Reign of Henry III. John Somercote had the keeping of the King's Exchange over all England. In the 8th of Edward I, Gregory Rokefley was Keeper of the said Exchange for the King. In the 5th of Edward II, William Hausted was Keeper thereof. And in the 18th, Roger de Frowicke, &c.

THESE received the old Stamps, or Coining-Irons, from Time to Time, as the same were worn, and deliver'd new to all the Mints in England, as more at large, in another Place, is noted.

THIS Street begins at Cheapside, in the North, and runs down South to Knight-riders-street, that Part of it which is call'd Old Fish-street: But the very House and Office of the Exchange and Coinage, was about the Middle thereof.

ON the East Side of this Lane, betwixt Cheapside, and the Church of St. Augustine, Henry Walleis, Mayor, by Licence of Edward I, built a Row of Houses, the Profits arising from them to be employed on London-bridge.

The PARISH of St. AUGUSTINE.

IT is confidently believ'd, and not without probable Reason, that the Church of St. Augustine, (vulgarly call'd St. Austin's) near St. Paul's Cathedral in London, was (as likewise divers other Churches in England were) dedicated to the Memory, not of St. Augustine, Bishop of Hippo, in Africa, that great and famous Father, called by some (and not unworthily) Doctor Doctorum; but rather of St. Augustine the Monk, the first Archbishop of Canterbury, in Relation to that peculiar Benefit, which this Nation, by his Means principally, under GOD, received in the first Conversion of the English Saxons to the Christian Faith, which not without great Care and Pains (with GOD's Assistance) he did in a good Measure effect, converting first Ethelbert, King of the Kentish Saxons, and his People; by whose Example, afterwards, divers others also of this Nation were converted; and, therefore, with all reverend Respect, letting pass that antient Holy Father, we shall proceed to speak only in this Place of St. Augustine the Monk, to whom the aforesaid Church of St. Austin is presum'd, solely, to have been dedicated.

THIS Augustine, therefore, (as all Writers agree) was a Roman, and Head of the Monastery of St. Gregory at Rome, and of the Order of St. Benedict, sent into England from Rome by Pope Gregory I, Anno Dom. 596, to convert the English Saxons to the Christian Faith; which great Work he having begun, went out of England the next Year, An. 597, unto Arles in France, and by Eleutherius, Archbishop of that City, he was there ordained Archbishop of the English Nation the 16 Kal. of December; thence he returned into England, where the King confirm'd on him his Royal Palace at Canterbury, for his Episcopal Seat.

THIS Augustine afterwards (with the King's Approbation) removed the Archiepiscopal See, which then was at LONDON, to Canterbury, where he himself was then, by Commission from the Pope, consecrated the first Archbishop of that new See, turning the Archbishoprick of LONDON into a Bishoprick, whereof he consecrated Melitus the first Bishop, Anno Dom. 604.

IN Memory of this Archbishop, the Monastery at Canterbury, erected first by King Ethelbert, and this Archbishop Augustine, under the Name of St. Peter and St. Paul, was afterwards, by Archbishop Dunstan, An. 978, dedicated to the Honour of St. Peter and St. Paul the Apostles, and to St. Augustine; and from thence called by the Name of St. Augustine's Monastery; which continued famous till the Suppression of it by King Henry VIII.

CONCERNING the precise Year when Augustine died, Writers much disagree; for some say he died in the Year 611, others in 608, and others in 614. His Body was buried, first without Doors, near to the Church of his Monastery, because the Church was not finished; but afterwards was removed into the North Porch of the said Church. In which Place all the Bodies of the Archbishops following were laid till Theodore, who was first buried in the Church, because the Porch was full. This Augustine is said to have been a Man of exceeding tall Stature, well favour'd, and of a very amiable Countenance.

THIS Church (which is the only Parochial Church in this City dedicated to that Saint) stands on the West End of Watling-street, on the North Side thereof, and in Records is called, Ecclesia Sancti Augustini ad Portam, because it stood near the Gate that formerly gave Entrance into St. Paul's Church-yard out of Watling-street. It was partly rebuilt, and beautifully adorned, in the Years 1630 & 1631, at the Parish-Charge, which cost 1200 l. but being consumed in the Fire of LONDON, the Parish was united by Act of Parliament to that of St. Faith's, and this Church of St. Augustine new erected Anno Domini 1682. The Steeple was finished 1695.

THE Roof is cambrated, divided into Panels, and adorned with Fret-work, as the Arches are with Cherubims; which Roof is supported with Pillars of the Ionic Order. The Church and Steeple are of Stone, the latter being a Tower with Acroteria, a Cupola, a Lanthorn adorned with Vases, and a Spire, whose lower Part is of a Parabolical Form.

ON the North and West Side of the Church are Wainscot Galleries, with the Ornament of Bolection Pannels, &c.

IT is well pewed and wainscotted round with right Wainscot eight Feet high. The Pulpit is also of the like Wainscot, finely embellished with Enrichments of carved Cherubims, Leaves, Fruit, &c.

THE Altar-piece is spacious and beautiful, consisting of four Columns, with their Entablament of the Corinthian Order; above is a large arching Pediment, upon which is placed the King's Arms, carved, gilt, and painted in their proper Colours.

THE inner Columns are the Commandments, well done in Gold, upon Black, between the Lord's Prayer and the Creed, done in Gold Letters upon Blue; under the Pediment is a large Eleptical Figure or Space, wherein is (dexterously and linically performed) a winged Heart, aspiring and elevating towards a Glory, in Allusion to that in the Holy Communion-Service, where the Minister says, Lift up your Hearts. The Communicants answer, We lift them up unto the Lord. In which Heart, are these Words in large Characters: SURSUM CORDA; all done in Gold on Blue, and adorned with Cherubims, Festoons, Fruit, &c. The Ornament-Enrichments are gilt with Gold, and the Whole enclosed with strong Rail and Ballister, within which the Pavement is white and black Marble.

THE Length of the Church is about 51 Feet, Breadth 45, and Height 30; and that of the Steeple (wherein is one Bell) is 145.

HERE was a Fraternity founded, Anno 1387, called, The Fraternity of St. Austin's in Watling-street, and other good People dwelling in the City. They were, on the Eve of St. Austin, to meet at the said Church, and in the Morning, at High Mass, every Brother to offer a Penny; and, after that, to be ready Al mangier, ou al revele; i. e. To eat, or to revel, according to the Ordinance of the Master and Wardens of the said Fraternity. They set up in the Honour of God, and St. Austin, one Branch of six Tapers, in the said Church, before the Image of St. Austin; and also two Torches; with which, if any of the said Fraternity were commended to God, he might be carried to the Earth. They were to meet at the Vault at St. Paul's, [perhaps St. Faith's] and to go hence to the Church of St. Austin; and the Priests and the Clerks said Placebo and Dilige; and in Mattins, a Mass of Requiem, at the High Altar.

MONUMENTS.

IN this Church (before the Desolation of it by Fire) were Monuments remaining of

The CATHEDRAL CHURCH of St. PAUL.

ST. Paul; to whom the Principal Church of the City of LONDON is dedicated, was descended of the Tribe of Benjamin, born in the City of Tarsus, the Metropolis of Cilicia ; a City rich and populous, an Academy; and Roman Municipium. He came up to Jerusalem; and there became a Disciple of Gamaliel, a famous Pharisee. He was converted to the Faith of Christ, in that miraculous Manner which is set down in the Acts of the Apostles. He afterwards changed his Name of Saul to that of Paul; after he had openly converted and baptized the Proconsul Sergius Paulus; say some ; others, that he assumed that Name at his Conversion; and others, that he had a double Name given him at his Circumcision, Saul; relating to his Jewish Original, and Paul, referring to the Roman Corporation where he was born. The History of his Travels Travels and Preaching, down to his Imprisonment at Rome, is written by St. Luke in the Acts. We do not certainly know what he did after his Enlargement; some of the Antients were of Opinion that he went into Spain, but this is very uncertain, and the contrary seems to be more probable. Be that as it will, 'tis certain that he was beheaded afterwards at Rome, for his Religion, by Nero's Command, towards the 64th Year of the common Computation. He has written 14 Epistles, all which Antiquity has owned to be genuine and canonical, excepting the Epistle to the Hebrews; concerning which, there has been formerly some Doubt, and some Persons have supposed, that it was written in Hebrew.

His Life has been written at large (among the Lives of the other Apostles) by the Reverend and Learned Dr. William Cave, published Anno 1676, who tells us, That the Place of his Execution was the Aquæ Salvæ, three Miles from Rome, where his Head was struck off with a Sword; from which Instrument of his Execution, the Custom, no doubt, first arose of picturing him with a Sword in his Right Hand. He was buried in the Via Ostiensis, about two Miles from Rome, over whose Grave, about the Year 318, Constantine the Great, at the Instance of Pope Sylvester, built a stately Church; which afterwards, as too narrow and little for the Honour of so great an Apostle, Valentinian, or rather Theodosius, the Emperor, caused to be taken down, and a larger and more noble to be built in the Room of it.

As to his Person, we find it thus described: He was little and of low Stature, and somewhat stooping, his Complexion fair, his Countenance grave, his Head small, his Eyes carrying a kind of Beauty and Sweetness in them, his Eyebrows a little hanging over, his Nose long, but gracefully bending, his Beard thick, and like the Hair of his Head, mixt with grey Hairs.

THERE are three Festivals celebrated in Memory of St. Paul. The first is of his Conversion, which is held yearly the 25th of January; and tho' formerly it was not reckon'd among the Holidays observed by the Reformed Church of England, yet Services were appointed to be celebrated in the Church on that Day, and an especial Collect, with an Epistle and Gospel, set down in the Book of Common-Prayer for that Festival. But since the Restoration of King Charles II., viz. in the 14th of his Reign, Anno Dom. 1662, this Festival of St. Paul (with that of St. Barnabas) are required to be celebrated as Holidays, by the Act of Uniformity, which establishes the Book of Common-Prayer, as now used with all its Additions and Alterations.

THE second is that of St. Paul and St. Peter, celebrated June 29, in Memory of both their Passions, which fell on that Day together, and by some is called Bis Festa Dies.

THE third is of the Passion, or Commemoration of St. Paul alone, celebrated on the 30th of June, for this Reason, because the Bishop of Rome was wont, upon one and the same Day, to officiate his Pontifical Offices in both Churches, viz. in that of the Vatican, and that of St. Paul. But when it appeared that this could not well be performed, by reason of the too far Distance of the Places one from the other, without too much, and almost intolerable Labour, it was thought better, that on the first Day the Solemnity of them both should be celebrated in the Vatican Church, and the next Day following the same Duties should be performed in the Church of St. Paul, in which Place might be more fully completed, what in that behalf might fortune to be omitted on the Day before.

THIS stately Church of St. Paul stands in or near the Place where once had been a Temple of Diana, the Goddess, worshipped by the Londoners, as Apollo was by the People of Thorney, or Westminster. This appeared from the Tusks of Boars, Horns of Stags, and of Oxen, and from the Representation of Deer, and even of Diana herself, upon the sacrificing Vessels found in digging the Foundation of it, which was began by Ethelbert, King of Kent, about the Year of Christ 610. He gave thereto Lands, as appears by Records: "Ædelbertus, Rex, Deo inspirante, pro animæ suæ remedio, dedit Episcopo Melito terram quæ appellatur Tillingham, ad Monasterii sui solatium, scilicet, S. Pauli, & ego Rex Ædelbertus ita firmiter concedo tibi præfati Melito potestatem ejus habendi & possidendi, ut in perpetuum in Monasterii utilitate permaneat, &c." Athelstan, Edgar, Edward the Confessor, and others, also gave Lands thereunto.

THE Manor of Tillingham, which King Ethelred gave, was in Essex. Erkenwald, the fourth Bishop of LONDON from Melitus, bestowed great Cost in the building of the Church, and augmented the Revenues much with his own Estate; and besides, procured divers ample Privileges thereto from the Pope, and from the Kings that then reigned. Kenred, King of the Mercians, granted this Church, that it should at all Times be as free as himself desired to be at the Day of Judgment. King Athelstane endowed it with divers Lordships, viz. Sandon, Rode, Luffenhale, Bylcham, Edulesnesse, and Neusdune, in the County of Essex; Erdelyne and Cardingdone, in Hertfordshire; Drayton and Willesdon, in Middlesex, and Barnes in Surry. King Edgar gave Navestocke, in Essex. Queen Egelsede, his Wife, Lagesfare and Cochamstede. King Edward the Confessor, gave the Lordships of Chingford and Barlings, in Essex. Ediva, a Noble Woman, gave Wiggele. And William the Conqueror gave to the Church of St. Paul, and to Mauricius, then Bishop, and his Successors, the Castle of Stortford, with the Appurtenances, &c. He also confirmed the Gifts of his Predecessors, in these Words, "Omne I. Rex Angl. Clamo quietas in perpetuum, 24 Hidas quas Rex Æthelbert dedit S. Paulo juxta murum LONDON. &c."

THE Charter of King William the Conqueror, given to the Church of St. Paul in LONDON, exemplified in the Tower, the Latin thereof Englified thus:

WILLAIM, by the Grace of God, King of Englishmen, to all his well-beloved French and English People, Greeting. Know ye, that I do give unto God, and the Church of Saint Paul of LONDON, and to the Rectors and Servitors of the same, in all their Lands which the Church hath, or shall have, within Borough, and without Sack and Sock, Thole and The, Infangtheefe, and Grithbricke, and all free Ships by Sea, and by Land, on Tide and off Tide, and all the Rights that into them Christendome by rad and more speake, and on Buright hamed, and on Buright worke, afore all the Bishopricks in mine Land, and on each other Man's Land. For I will, that the Church in all Things be as free, as I would my Soule to be in the Day of Judgment.

Witnesses, Osmond, our Chancellor, Lanfrank, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and Thomas Archbishop of York, Roger Earl of Salisbury, Alane, the County, Geffrey de Magna Villa, and Raphe Peverel.

THIS Charter is best understood by Doomsday Book (says Bishop Stillingfleet, some Time Dean

Dean of this Church) wherein a particular Account is given of the Lands then held by the Canons of St. Paul's; which, for the most Part, are the same they enjoy to this Day. See there the particular Lands given by Saxon Kings to St. Paul's.

THAT all might understand the full Proportions of this famous Church, upon a fair Table, which did heretofore hang up on the North Part of the Choir, was written in a fair Character, as followeth :

The Dimensions of this stately Church, as they were taken in the Year 1314.

The Length of the Church, from East to West, 690 Feet.

The Breadth, 130 Feet.

The Height of the Roof of the West Part, from the Floor, 102 Feet.

The Height of the Roof of the new Fabrick, (viz. East from the Steeple) from the Pavement, 88 Feet.

The Height of the Body of the Church, 150 Feet.

The Height of the Tower Steeple, from the level Ground, 260 Feet.

The Height of the Spire of Wood, covered with Lead, 274 Feet.

AND yet the Whole, viz. Tower and Spire, exceeded not 520 Feet; the Reason is, for that the Height of the Stone-work of the Tower, from the Ground, to the Timber upon which the Spire was raised, was not 260 Feet, but 240 Feet; the other 14 Feet being the Wall and Battlements above the Timbers on which the Spire was raised, and so the Height of both together will be but 520 Feet.

THE Ball above the Head of the Spire was so large, that it would contain within it ten Bushels of Corn.

THE Length of the Cross, above the said Ball, was 15 Feet.

THE Traverse of the said Cross, 6 Feet.

THE Quantity of Ground on which the Church stood, contained 3 Acres, 3 Roods, and 26 Poles or Perches, without the Body of the Church. But within the Verge or Precinct of the Church-yard, which Richard Beaumour intended to encompass with a Wall, there were several other Places which related to the Church, as namely these following :

1. The College of Petty Canons.
2. Pardon Church-yard.
3. The Library.
4. Sberington's Chapel.
5. Holmes's College.
6. Jesus Chapel.
7. The Charnel-House.
8. The Cloisters, or Bell-Tower.
9. The Cross.

OF all which Places, Notice shall be taken in due Order.

IN the Year 1087, this Church of St. Paul was burnt with Fire, and therewith the greatest Part of the City. Which Fire began at the Entry of the West Gate, and consumed to the East Gate. Mauricius, then Bishop, began therefore the Foundation of a new Church of St. Paul; a Work, that Men of that Time judged would never have been finished, it was to them so wonderful for Length and Breadth; and also the same was built upon Arches, or Vaults of Stone, for Defence of Fire: Which was a Manner of Work, before that Time, unknown to the People of this Nation, and then brought in by the French; and the Stone was fetched from Cane in Normandy. This Mauricius deceased in the Year 1107.

Richard Beaumour [or Belmeis] succeeded him in the Bishoprick, who did wonderfully increase the said Church, purchasing (of his own Cost) the large Streets and Lanes about it, wherein were wont to dwell many Lay-people: Which Ground he began to encompass about with a strong Wall of Stone, and Gates. King Henry I gave to the said Richard, so much of the Mote, or Wall, of the Castle on the Thames Side, to the South, as should be needful to make the said Wall of, and so much as should suffice to make a Wall without the Way, on the North Side, &c.

THIS Patent of King Henry, (viz. Henry I.) was as followeth :

Henricus Dei Gratia, Rex Anglie, Archiepiscopus & Episcopis & Comitibus Anglie, & Hugoni de Bochalanda, & omnibus Baronibus, & Fidelibus suis Francis & Anglis de London, & de Middlesex, & de tota Anglia salutem. Sciatis, &c. i. e. " Know ye that I have " given to GOD, and the Church of St. Paul's " London, and Richard Bishop of the same, " Church, so much of the Ditch of my Castle " on the Thames Side, Southward, as shall be " needful to make the Wall of the said Church; " and so much of the same Ditch as may suffice " to make a Way without the Wall. And on " the other Part of the Church, Northward, as " the same Bishop hath destroyed of the same " Ditch." Witnesses, Roger Bishop of Salisbury, and Roman Chancellor, and Gislebert de Aquila, at Pordefmund, on the Birth-Day of St. Hippolytus, Martyr. This Letter the Dean and Chapter produced to King Edward I. his Justices, upon a Presentment against them, for appropriating to themselves certain Ground thereabouts. But to this the Commonalty said, " That " the King's Father granted as much as in him " was to the said Dean and Chapter, that they " might inclose their Church-yard, as is afore- " said. But this ought not to prejudice the said " Commonalty in this Behalf. And that be- " cause there was not an Inquisition upon this " made, as the Custom is, Whether this Grant " would not be prejudicial and damageable to " the whole City. For they said, That the " whole Soil, between the Gate called St. Austine's Gate, near the said Church, and the " Gate on the West Part of the said Church, " towards Ludgate, is High-street, and the " King's Highway of the aforesaid City. Where- " of a great Part, by the raising of the Wall of " the East, and the building of the Houses by " the said Dean and Chapter, is now inclosed, " and the King's High-street much streightened, " to the great Damage of the whole City.

TO this must be added, that it is true there was long before Contest between the Church of St. Paul's, and the Lords of Baynard's Castle, about their Bounds here. There was one Eustathius, Earl of Boloign, who became Possessor of Baynard's Castle. Which Earl (as the Dean and Chapter shewed) Anno 1106, permitted and granted Omnes Calumpnias, i. e. all Claims which he had upon the Lands, which one Maurice, Bishop of LONDON, asserted to be of the Church-yard of St. Paul's, LONDON; and upon all other Lands which were within the Walls of the said Church-yard, to be quit to GOD and St. Paul, from the said Earl and his Heirs for ever; and this by a certain Charter, which they produced under the Name of the said Earl.

IT should seem, that this Richard inclosed but two Sides of the said Church or Cemetery of St. Paul, to wit, the South and North Sides :

For King Edward II. in the 10th of his Reign, granted that the said Church-Yard should be inclosed with a Wall, where it wanted, on Account of the Murders and Robberies that were there committed.

BUT the Citizens then claimed the East Part of the Church-Yard, to be the Place of Assembly to their Folk-Motes; and that the great Steeple, there situate, was to that Use, their common Bell, which being there rung, all the Inhabitants of the City might hear and come together. They also claimed the West Side, that they might there assemble themselves together, with the Lord of Baynard's Castle, for View of their Armour, in Defence of the City. This Matter was, in the Tower of LONDON, referred to Harvius de Stanton, and other Justices Itinerantes; but the Decision, or Judgment of that Controversy, is not yet known.

CONCERNING the walling of this Church-Yard round, King Henry III. granted by his Letters Patents, for the King and his Heirs, that the Dean and Chapter might inclose the Church-Yard of the said Cathedral Church, and the Precinct, with a Stone Wall round about; and so inclosed, might hold it to them and their Heirs for ever: Which Grant, the said King's Son, King Edward, confirmed by his Charter, among other Liberties of the said Church.

TRUE it is, that Edward III. in the 17th of his Reign, gave Commandment for the finishing of that Wall, which was then performed. And so continued to Stow's Time, although on both the Sides, (viz. within and without) it was hidden with Dwelling-Houses.

Richard Beaumont, deceased in the Year 1127, and his Successors, (in Process of Time) performed the Work begun.

It had again a great Damage by Fire on December 22, in the 1st of King Stephen, 1135; but Richard Fitzneale, Bishop of LONDON, in the Reign of Richard I. was at vast Charge, and great Care, to restore it.

SOME Years after, they began with the Steeple, which was finished in the Year 1221, or 1222; and then going on with the Choir, it was finished in 1240, as may seem by the new Dedication of it in that very Year, which was done with great Solemnity: Roger, surnamed Niger, then Bishop of LONDON, being the chief Promoter thereof. Matthew Paris will have this Dedication to have been in 1242.

THE most of the Charge of carrying on so great a Work, was by Way of Indulgences; by which Means the Roof also of the old Structure, then in a ruinous Condition, was now made new, or substantially repaired.

THE farther Enlargement of this Church, long before intended, being the whole Extent of that which lately bore the Name of St. Faith's Church, began Anno 1256, (some say, 1251.) and the Cross Isles, was likewise carried on by the Indulgences, and the main of the Work was accomplished about the Year 1283.

Henry de Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, was a great Benefactor to that Part of it then called The new Work, as was also Ralph de Baldock, whilst Dean, and afterwards, when Bishop of LONDON, who was buried there: The first in St. Dunstan's Chapel, which was at the East End of the South Isle; and the latter in that Part of the new Work, which was called our Lady's Chapel.

ABOUT the Year 1312, was the Pavement of the new Work made of good and firm Marble; and within three Years after, a great Part of the Spire (which was Timber covered with Lead) being weak, and in Danger of falling, was taken down, and a new Cross, with a Pomel well gilt, set on the Top thereof. In which Cross the Reliques of divers Saints were put by Gilbert de Segrave, then Bishop of LONDON, with great and solemn Procession, on the 12th of October.

ON Candlemas Eve, in the Year 1444, about two o'Clock in the Afternoon, the Steeple of St. Paul's was fired by Lightning, in the Middle of the Shaft, or Spire, both on the West Side, and on the South; but by Labour of many well disposed People, the same (to Appearance) quenched with Vinegar; so that all Men withdrew themselves to their Houses, praising God: But between eight and nine o'Clock in the same Night, the Fire burst out again, more fervently than before, and did much Hurt to the Lead and Timber; till by the great Labour of the Mayor and People that came thither, it was thoroughly quenched.

THIS Steeple was repaired in the Year 1462, and the Weather-cock again erected; but one Robert Godwin winding it up, the Rope broke, and he was destroyed on the Pinnacles, and the Cock was much bruised; but Burchwood, (the King's Plummer) set it up again. Since which Time, wanting Reparation, it was both taken down and set up in the Year 1553; it then weighed 40 Pounds. At which Time it was found to be of Copper, gilt over; and the Length, from the Tail to the Bill, being four Feet, and the Breadth over the Wings three Feet and a half. The Cross, from the Bole to the Eagle (Cock) was 15 Feet and six Inches of Affize; the Length thereof, overthwart, was five Feet and ten Inches, and the Compass of the Bole was nine Feet and one Inch. The inner Body of this Cross was Oak, the next Cover was Lead, and the outermost was of Copper, red varnished. The Bole and Eagle, or Cock, were of Copper, and gilt also.

SOMEWHAT above the Stone-Work of the Steeple was a fair Dial, for which there was Order taken in the 18th of Edward III. that it should be made with all Splendor imaginable: Which was accordingly done, having the Image of an Angel pointing to the Hour, both of the Day and Night.

IN this Steeple were solemn Anthems sung in former Times; when on some Saints Days, and some special Times of the Year, the Choir went up into the Steeple, and at a great Height chanted forth their Orisons. Which Practice, a Writer in those Times sharply animadverted upon: "For their climbing up to the Top of the Steeple, to sing their Anthems, I demand of them to shew a Reason, if there be any, why it was done there, rather than on the Ground? And why on such Saints Days, rather than on others? And why that Time of the Year, rather than others? When Baal's Priests began to call on their Gods, and he would not hear them; Elias said, Cry louder, peradventure your God is busy; he is chasing his Enemy from home, or asleep. So untill ye find a better Argument, I am content freely to lend you this; that ye may frankly say, ye go up to the Top of the Steeple, to call on your God, that he may the more easily hear you standing so high, &c.

THE College of Petty Canons there, was founded by King Richard II. in Honour of Queen Anne his Wife, and of her Progenitors, in the 17th of his Reign. Their Hall and Lands were then given unto them, as appears by the Patent, Mr. Robert Dakeworth then being Master thereof.

IN the Year 1408, the Petty Canons then building their College, the Mayor and Commonalty granted them their Water-Courses, and other Easements.

THERE was also one great Cloister on the North Side of this Church, invironing a Plat of Ground, of old Time called Pardon Church-yard, whereof Thomas More, Dean of St. Paul's, was either the first Builder, or a most especial Benefactor, and was buried there.

ABOUT this Cloister was artificially and richly painted the Dance of Machabray, or Dance of Death, commonly called the Dance of Paul's; the like whereof was painted about St. Innocent's at Paris in France. The Metres or Poesy of this Dance, were translated out of French into English, by John Lidgate, Monk of Bury; and with the Picture of Death leading all Estates, painted about the Cloister, at the special Request and Expence of Jenken Carpenter, in the Reign of King Henry VI. In this Cloister were buried many Persons of Worship and Honour; the Monuments for whom, in Number and curious Workmanship, surpassed all others in the Church.

OVER the East Quadrant of this Cloister was a handsome Library, built at the Charge of Walter Sherington, Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaster, in the Reign of Henry VI. which was once well furnished with many fair written Books on Vellum; but few of them were remaining in Stow's Time.

IN the Middle of this Pardon Church-yard was also a fair Chapel, first founded by Gilbert Becket, Portgrave, and Principal Magistrate of this City, in the Reign of King Stephen, who was there buried. Thomas More, Dean of St. Paul's before-named, re-edified this Chapel, and founded three Chaplains there, in the Reign of Henry V.

Mr. Strype gives us the following Will of a Person desiring to be buried in this Pardon Church-yard, or Haw.

IN the Name of God the Fader, Sonne, and Holy Gost, three Personys and one God, Amen. I, John Hotersal, Notary and Stationer of LONDON, holle of Mynde, thanked be Almighty God; vandering and labouring in this wretched World, whos end is Deth temporal, the which is very certeyn, and nothing more uncerteyn then is the Owre of Deth. Wylling therefore to dispose suych Goodis, &c. make therefore and ordeyn and constitute this my present Testament, &c. First, I bequeath my Soule unto Almighty God my Creator, Savyour and Redeemer, to his most blessid Moder, St. Mary Virgin, Quene of Heven, Ladye of al the World, and Emprresse of Helle; and to al the Angelis and Saintis of Hevyn: And my Bodie to be buried in Pardon Chirch Hawe, of the Cathedral Church of St. Pawle, LONDON, &c. Also I wil, as soon conveniently as it may be, &c. that there be ordeyned a Marble Stone of two Foot square, or thereabouts, &c. the which Stone I wil that there be graved the Ymages, Signes and Scripturies, drawn and written in Paper, involved and lapped within this my present Testament. Yeven this last Day of Jan. 1492.

Walter Caketon, Citizen and Sector, LONDON, by his Will, dated Decemb. 1, 1429, gives to John Croxton, Chaplain, Richard Pepyn, Chaplain, and John Lombe, Chaplain of the Chantry in the Chapel in the Church-Yard of St. Paul's, called Pardon Church Hawe, in Honour of St. Anne and St. Thomas the Martyr, lately built by Thomas More, Clerk, those his three Tenements, with Shops, &c. in the Parish of St. Martin's Ludgate, &c. to have the three said Tenements, to the three said Chaplains of the aforefaid Chantry, and their Successors for ever, to maintain one other fit Chaplain, viz. a fourth

Chaplain, to celebrate Divine Offices in the said Chapel.

In the Year 1549, on the 10th of April, the said Chapel, by Commandment of the Duke of Somerset, was begun to be pulled down; with the whole Cloister, the Dance of Death, the Tombs and Monuments; so that nothing there was left but the bare Plat of Ground, which was afterwards converted into a Garden of the Petty Canons.

THERE was also a Chapel at the North Door of St. Paul's, founded by the same Walter Sherington, by Licence of Henry VI. for two, three, or four Chaplains; endowed with 40 l. by the Year. This Chapel also was pulled down in the Reign of Edward VI. and in place thereof a fair House built.

WITHIN this Church of St. Paul's were many Chapels dedicated to Saints, both Male and Female; here was a Chapel of the Blessed Virgin St. Mary; and another of St. Catharine, with Guilds founded in them.

William Persfoal, and William Kyrtyn, Ministering-Keepers of the Guild of the Annuntiation of the Blessed Mary, in her Chapel here, came before the Council of their Lord the King, in his Chancery at Westminster, Feb. the 1st, 12 Rich. II. 1389, according to the Form of a certain Proclamation made in the City of LONDON, viz. for all the Guilds to bring into the Chancery, before the King, an Account of their Foundation and Constitution.

Robert de Lynne and John Selbery, Citizens of LONDON, & Custodes servitii ac Fraternitatis S. Catharine ejusdem infra Ecclesiam S. Pauli, LONDON. Virtute, &c. i. e. And Keepers of the Service and Guild of St. Catharine, in her Chapel within the Church of St. Paul; by Virtue of certain Letters of their Lord the King, directed to the Mayor and Sheriffs of LONDON, and proclaimed in the City, &c. they have in Writing this Account of the same, viz. That it was begun An. 1352, to keep up one burning Wax-Light in the said Chapel, to the Honour of St. Mary the Virgin, St. Catharine, and all Saints. And so that Devotion was continued to the 36th of King Edward III. at which Time the Devotion of the said Brothers and Sisters, and others flowing to it, so increased and multiplied, that they ordered among themselves to have one Chaplain, to celebrate Divine Offices for the State, and the Souls afore-said, and of all Faithful deceased, &c.

THERE was furthermore a fair Chapel of the Holy Ghost in St. Paul's Church, on the North Side, founded in the Year 1400, by Roger Holmes, Chancellor and Prebendary of St. Paul's, for Adam Bery, Alderman and Mayor of LONDON, 1364. John Wingham, and others, for seven Chaplains, and called Holmes's College. Their common Hall was in St. Paul's Church-Yard, on the South Side, near unto a Carpenter's Yard. This College was, with others, suppressed in the Reign of Edward VI.

THEN under the Choir of St. Paul's, is a large Chapel, first dedicated to the Name of Jesu; founded, or rather confirmed, the 27th of Henry VI. as appears by his Patent thereof, dated at Crowdowne, to this Effect:

MANY Liege-Men, and Christian People; having begun a Fraternity and Guild to the Honour and most glorious Name of Jesu CHRIST, our Saviour, in a Place called the Crowds, of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul in LONDON; which hath continued long Time peaceably, till now of late. Whereupon they have made Request, and we have taken upon us the Name and Charge of the Foundation, to the Laud of Almighty God, the Father, the Son, and and the Holy Ghost; and especially to the Honour of Jesu, in whose Honour the Fraternity was begun, &c.

THE King ordained William Say, then Dean of St. Paul's, to be the Rector; and Richard Ford, (a Remembrancer in the Exchequer) and Henry Bennis, (Clerk of his Privy Seal) the Guardians of these Brothers and Sisters. They, and their Successors, to have a common Seal, Licence to purchase Lands or Tenements, to the Value of 40 l. by the Year, &c.

THIS Foundation was confirmed by Henry VII. the 22d of his Reign, to Dr. Collet, then Dean of St. Paul's, Rector there, &c. and by Henry VIII. the 27th of his Reign, to Richard Pace, then Dean of St. Paul's, &c.

AT the West End of this Jesus Chapel, under the Choir of St. Paul's, was the Parish-Church of St. Faith, commonly called St. Faith under St. Paul's; of which more hereafter.

THEN was there on the North Side of this Church-yard, a large Charnel-House for the Bones of the Dead; and over it a Chapel of an old Foundation, such as followeth:

IN the Year 1282, the 10th of Edward I. it was agreed, That Henry Walleis, Mayor, and the Citizens, for the Cause of Shops by them built, without the Wall of the Church-yard, should assign to GOD, and to the Church of St. Paul, ten Marks of Rent by the Year, for ever, towards the new building of a Chapel of the Blessed Virgin Mary; and also to assign five Marks of yearly Rent to a Chaplain, to celebrate there.

THERE was also in this Chapel two Brotherhoods.

ONE of them was called, The Fraternity of All Souls, in the Chapel upon the Charnel, founded 1379. This Chapel, in the Reign of Richard II. was gone into great Decay; and from the Time of the Foundation of it, so little had been done in keeping it up, that it became very ruinous, the Windows broken to Pieces, and the Altar full of Filth and Cobwebs. "So that none of the Chaplains of divers Chantries, ordained in the same Chapel by Nobles, and Persons of Quality of the City, could sing there for their Souls for whom they were appointed, and had Charge, to the great Shame of all the City." Whereupon the most excellent and most benign Lord, the Archbishop of Canterbury, in a Sermon made by him at St. Paul's Cross, declared the Ruin and Decay of all the said Chapel; and at the Honour of GOD, and his Mother, and of all Saints of Heaven, and of all Christian Souls, together with a great Pardon to all the Aiders thereof, he occasioned a Fraternity of All Souls, in Relief of the said Chapel. For certain good People of the said City, having Consideration of the said Chapel to the Honour of GOD, &c. ordained a Chaplain to sing for the Souls of all Christians, and repaired the Chapel well and decently, furnishing it with divers Ornaments, Vestments, Chalices, and other Necessaries, to the Honour of GOD and Holy Church: And that the Chaplains which had Chantries in the said Chapel, should return to the said Chapel, and there perform their Service, each one for the Souls for which they were bound; so that three or four Masses might be sung from Day to Day in the said Chapel. And at their Cost the same Chapel was amended and repaired. On these Considerations, this Brotherhood of All Souls petitioned the Lord Chancellor, in Richard the Second's Days, "That it would please his most noble and most sage Reverence, upon the Points before said, and because that for the Sermon made by their most excellent Father in GOD the Archbishop of Canterbury,

"the said Fraternity had been founded, and so to this Day had been continued, and not otherwise, to have Consideration to the Foundation of the said Fraternity; that it might not be abolished, for GOD, and for the Souls of their most noble Progenitors, and in the Work of Charity." The Reason of this Supplication was, because 12 Rich. II. an Account of all the Guilds in LONDON were required to be brought in before the King, at the Chancery.

THIS Fraternity, on the Eve of All Souls, met together in the Chapel over the Charnel-House, and there Placebo and Dirige was said, with the other Orisons, for the Souls of all Faithful departed. On the Day of All Souls, at Morning Prayer, when the Bell rung at Seven o'Clock, they came together to the Church of Holy Trinity, near Aldgate, and so from that Place, with a grave Pace, they walk to the afore-said Chapel, numbering their Prayers as they went along, and their secret Orisons; pouring them out vultu cordiali, with a serious Countenance, for the Living and the Dead. And when they had finished that Journey, they attended one Mass for the Dead, most devoutly. At which Mass, the Brothers and Sisters honourably performed Oblations; and so returned home.

MOREOVER, in the Year 1430, the 8th of Henry VI. Licence was granted to Jenkin Carpenter, (Executor to Richard Whittington) to establish upon the said Charnel, a Chaplain, to have eight Marks by the Year.

IN this Chapel were buried Robert Barton, and Henry Barton, Mayor, and Thomas Mirsin, Mayor, all Skinners, and were intombed with their Images of Alabaster over them, grated or coped about with Iron, before the said Chapel; all which was pulled down in the Year 1549. The Bones of the Dead, couched up in a Charnel under the Chapel, were conveyed from thence into Finsbury Field, (by Report of him who paid for the Carriage) amounting to more than one thousand Cart-loads; and there laid in a moorish Ground, in short Space after raised by Soilage of the City, upon them to bear three Wind-Mills. The Chapel and Charnel were converted into Dwelling-houses, Ware-houses, and Sheds for Stationers, built before it, in the Place of the Tombs.

IN the East Part of this Church-yard, stands Paul's School, which hath been already treated of, Book I. Chap. XIII.

NEAR this School, on the North Side thereof, was (of old Time) a Clochier, or Bell-house, four-square, built of Stone, and in the same, a most strong Frame of Timber, with four Bells. These were called Jesus Bells, and belonged to Jesus Chapel. The same had a great Spire of Timber, covered with Lead, with the Image of St. Paul on the Top; but was pulled down by Sir Miles Partridge, Kt. in the Reign of Henry VIII. The common Report then was, that he did set 100 l. upon a Cast at Dice against it, and so won the said Clochier and Bells of the King. And then causing the Bells to be broken as they hung, the rest was pulled down, and broken also. This Man was afterwards executed on Tower-hill, for Matters concerning the Duke of Somerset, in the Year 1551, the 5th of Edward VI.

IN Place of this Clochier, of old Time, the common Bell of the City was used to be rung, for the Assembly of the Citizens to the Folk-mote, as is before shewn.

ABOUT the Midst of this Church-yard was a Pulpit-cross of Timber, mounted upon Steps of Stone, and covered with Lead; in which were Sermons preached by Learned Divines, every Sunday in the Forenoon. The very Antiquity thereof is unknown.

BUT,

BUT in the Year 1259, King Henry III. commanded a General Assembly to be made at the Cross; where he, in proper Person, commanded the Mayor, that on the next Day following he should cause to be sworn before the Aldermen, every Stripling of 12 Years of Age, or upwards, to be true to the King and his Heirs, Kings of England.

ALSO in the Year 1262, the same King caused to be read at St. Paul's Cross, a Bull obtained from Pope Urban IV. as an Absolution for him, and for all that were sworn to maintain the Articles made in Parliament at Oxford.

ALSO in the Year 1296, the Dean of St. Paul's accursed, at Paul's Cross, all those which had searched in the Church of St. Martin's in the Fields, for an Hord of Gold.

THIS Pulpit-Cross was, by Tempest of Lightning and Thunder, defaced, but rebuilt by Thomas Kempe, Bishop of LONDON.

IN foul and rainy Weather, these solemn Sermons were preached in a Place called The Shrowds. Which was, as it seems, by the Side of the Cathedral Church, where was Covering and Shelter. Long after, both the Cross and Shrowds were disused, and the Sermons preached in the Cathedral itself, called St. Paul's Cross Sermons.

FOR the better Maintenance of these St. Paul's Cross Sermons, whither the Court, as well as the Mayor and Aldermen, and chief Citizens used to resort, many were liberal Benefactors; as Aylmer, Bishop of LONDON, Countess Dowager of Shrewsbury, Thomas Russell, and George Bishop, who gave 10 l. a Year, &c. And for further Encouragement of those Preachers, in the Year 1607, the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen then ordered, that every one that should preach there; (considering the Journies some of them might take, from the Universities, or elsewhere) should, at his Pleasure, be freely entertained for five Days Space, with sweet convenient Lodging, Fire, Candle, and all other Necessaries, viz. from Thursday before their Day of Preaching, to Thursday Morning following. This Provision took good Effect; and this good Custom long continued, and the Bishop of LONDON, or his Chaplain, when he sent to any one to preach, did usually signify the Place whither he might repair at his coming up, and be entertained freely. Towards this Charge of the City, George Palin, a Merchant of LONDON, gave 200 l. that is, towards the bearing of the Charges of such as should from Time to Time, come to preach at the Cross.

IN the Year 1561, the 4th of June, betwixt the Hours of three and four o'Clock in the Afternoon, the great Spire of the Steeple of St. Paul's Church was fired by Lightning. Which broke forth (as it seemed) two or three Yards beneath the Foot of the Cross; and from thence it burnt downwards from the Spire, to the Battlements, Stone-Work, and Bells, so furiously, that within the Space of four Hours the same Steeple, with the Roof of the Church, were consumed. Mr. Fuller relates a Story of the Sexton's burning it wilfully, by his own Confession; but little Credit is due to it, since we see this Steeple was more than once burnt by Lightning, and Authors of more Antiquity and Credit than himself are silent in that Particular.

SOON after this dismal Casualty, the Dean of St. Paul's preached at the Cross, where he seemed to glance at some of the Papists in those Days, who muttered it about, that this was a Judgment for setting up a new Religion at St. Paul's. But these Fryars were no more than were in former Days under Popery. He shewed out of the Records of their Church (of St. Paul's) and the City, that in the Year 1382, May 21, with a great Earthquake through the Realm, the Cross in St. Paul's Church-Yard was overthrown, in the 6th Year of King Richard II. He added, (to shew the Deceits of those Times, and the Guides of the Church then) that to the Building of the Cross again, William, the Bishop of Canterbury, gathered great Sums of Money, and enriched himself. But at length, it seems, (as if they mistrusted) the People's Charity grew cooler. For, because Men should be more liberal and willing to give, he, and the rest of the Bishops, granted many Days Pardon to them that would freely give Money to the Building of that Cross again; Canterbury granted 40 Days; LONDON, Ely, Bath, Chichester, Carlisle, Landaff, Bangor, every one 40 Days; the Number in all 320 Days; but not one Dodkin of Money (says the Dean) came out of their Purfes.

UPON this great Disaster, Queen Elizabeth gave Order for its speedy Reparation; and as an Example to animate and incline others to contribute freely, out of her own Purse gave 1000 Marks in Gold; she also gave 1000 Loads of Timber, to be taken out of her Woods, or elsewhere.

THE Citizens also first gave a great Benevolence, and after that three Fifteens to be speedily paid.

THE Clergy of England likewise, within the Province of Canterbury, granted the 40th Part of the Value of their Benefices, charged with First-Fruits; the 30th Part of such as were not so charged. But the Clergy of LONDON Diocess, granted the 30th Part of all that were in Payment of their First-Fruits, and the 20th Part of such as had paid their Fruits.

SIX Citizens of LONDON, and two Petty Canons of St. Paul's Church, (by Order of the Privy Council) had Charge to further and oversee the Work; wherein such Expedition was used, that within one Month next following the Burning thereof, the Church was covered with Boards and Lead, in Manner of a false Roof, against the Weather; and before the End of the same Year, all the Isles of the Church were framed out of new Timber, covered with Lead and fully finished.

THE same Year also, the great Roofs of the West and East Ends were framed out of great Timber, in Yorkshire, brought thence to LONDON by Sea, and set up, and covered with Lead; the North and South Ends were framed of Timber, and covered with Lead, before April, 1566.

BUT concerning the Steeple, divers Models were devised and made, but little was done, through whose Default God knows. It was said, that the Money appointed for the new Building of the Steeple, was collected and brought to the Hands of Edmond Grindal, then Bishop of LONDON.

IN this Time also, by Reason of the Queen's Majesty's Letters, directed to the Lord Mayor and his Brethren, about the Burning of St. Paul's, there were certain Aldermen and Commoners of the City, named and called together, by the Authority of the said Lord Mayor, to devise some good Order and speedy Remedy for the Relief and Comfort of the said City, whenever any Chance of Fire hereafter should happen, within the said City or Liberties thereof. The Persons so called, after sundry Meetings, and with good Advise and Deliberation, agreed, and penned a certain Order for the speedy Remedy thereof; as well for the ready Knowledge of the Place, wheresoever the same Fire should happen to be, and for the sudden Extinguishing and Suppressing of the same; as also for the safe-keeping of the Goods of such Persons, Person, in whose Houses any such Fire should chance. Which Orders and Rules were so proper and good for the said Purposes, that they were judged to tend to the great Comfort and Safety of the City and Citizens, had they been published and made known in Time, and executed accordingly. But these, as many other such painful and profitable Labours, taken for the good Government of the City, were soon laid aside. And when the talking thereof was done, and the Books framed and delivered, it soon past into Oblivion, and nothing thought on, until an Hour after the Mischief be past; as a Writer in those Times complained. But to return to this dreadful Damage by Fire done to St. Paul's, and the Cares for the getting Supply for the Reparation thereof.

BUT however, with these Monies the Church was repaired, the Steeple was neglected, and left in its Ruins, during the Life of Queen Elizabeth, until the 18th Year of King James I. in which Year, upon the 26th of March, being Sunday, the King, attended by several Noblemen, rode to St. Paul's in great State, on Horseback, where he was met by the Lord Mayor and Aldermen in their Formalities, at the West

Door of St. Paul's. Here the King alighting, went to the Brazen Pillar, where he kneeled down, and prayed for good Success to his pious Intention. Afterwards he went to the Choir, and there heard an Anthem; and from thence went to the Cross, where the Bishop of LONDON, Dr. John King, preached a Sermon upon a Text given him by the King, which was Psalm cii. 13, 14. Thou shalt arise and have Mercy upon Zion, for the Time to favour her, yea, the set Time is come. For thy Servants take Pleasure in her Stones, &c. And when Sermon was ended, he repaired to the Bishop's Palace, where Consultations were taken what was most fit to be done, in order to the Beginning and Carrying on of so pious a Work. At length the King issued out his Royal Commission, dated the 16th of November following, directed to the Nobility and Citizens of LONDON, &c. and the Commissioners, at several Meetings, inquiring into the Matter, at length, upon a serious Deliberation, they concluded, that as antiently it had been, so now a general Benevolence throughout the whole Kingdom, should be attempted. Whereupon, the King, to give Example, began the Subscription, and others of the Nobility followed.

THE then Bishop of LONDON gave 100*l.* and subscribed for so much annually, as long as he should continue in the See.

BUT the Collection of Monies went so slowly forward, as, that though a good Proportion of Stone was brought in by the Bishop, yet the Prosecution of the Work became quite neglected.

NEITHER was there any Thing more done until Dr. Laud became Bishop of this See, which was in the Year 1628.

THIS Bishop, being of a Publick Spirit, cordially undertook the Promoting of this good Work; and, within a few Years after, procured another Commission from King Charles I. for that Purpose.

WHICH Commission bearing Date April the 10th, 1631, was directed to Sir Robert Ducie, Bart. then Lord Mayor of LONDON, to George Archbishop of Canterbury, to the Lord Keeper, to the Lord Treasurer, &c.

BY which Commission, the King took Notice of this Cathedral, as the goodliest Monument, and most eminent Church in his whole Dominions; as also, that it was the principal Ornament of this City, the Imperial Seat of his Realm: And moreover, taking Notice of the Proceedings in a Commission issued out by his Royal Father, to the same Purpose, resolved to go on therewith effectually, declaring as follows:

First, That all Money brought in for the Repair thereof, should be paid into the Chamber of LONDON.

Secondly, That Laud, then Bishop of LONDON, offered to allow 100*l.* per Ann. out of the Revenue of his Bishoprick, during his Continuance therein.

Thirdly, That a Register-Book of all Subscriptions for Contributions thereunto should be made, as in King James's Time.

Fourthly, That the Judges of the Prerogative Court, and all Officials throughout the several Bishopricks, and Wales, upon the Decease of any Person intestate, should be excited to remember this Church, out of what was proper to be given to pious Uses.

Lastly, That there should be Letters Patents issued out for the receiving of Publick Contributions from all People throughout the Kingdom.

AFTER

AFTER which, it was not long but that Monies were brought into the Chamber of LONDON accordingly.

THE Bishop of Norwich, (at that Time Almoner to the King) giving 400 l. the 17th of May next following; Multitudes of others, for 11 Years following, brought in their Monies very plentifully.

ON the 16th of December, 1632, the Commissioners began their Meetings, and concluded of certain Orders for Regulation of all Things touching the said Repair. And in April next ensuing, the Work was begun; there being in ready Money then brought in 5416 l. 13 s. 6 d. And on the 26th of June, was issued out 2000 l. of the said Money, unto Michael Grigg, Esq; Paymaster of the said Work. And soon after, the said Bishop Laud laid the first Stone, at the East End thereof. The second Stone was laid by Sir Francis Windebank, one of his Majesty's Secretaries of State. The third, by Sir Henry Martin, Judge of the Prerogative Court. And the fourth, by Inigo Jones, Surveyor-General of this Work. Neither did this worthy Bishop cease from the carrying on of this Work, after he was translated to Canterbury, which was in September following; but in all Things shewed himself a pious and powerful Furtherer thereof.

NOR was the King himself without an high Sense of the Honour done unto the Christian Religion, and the Fame which would redound to this Nation, by thus restoring so signal a Monument of his renowned Ancestors Piety, (King Ethelbert, and the other Saxon Kings.)

A magnificent and stately Portico, with Corinthian Pillars, he erected at his own Charge, at the West End of this Church; a Draught of which we have given our Readers in a foregoing Sheet, at the Head of the Account of this Cathedral: In the Frieze of the Entablature of this Portico was the following Inscription:

CAROLUS D. G. MAG. BRIT. FRANC.
ETHIB. REX TEMP. D. PAULI VET. CON-
SUMP. RESTIT. PORTICUM ADJECIT.

AND over it he placed the Statues of his Father and himself.

IN this Manner it was carried on for the Space of above nine Years, many Persons contributing very largely unto it. Amongst which, Sir Paul Pinder, Knt. King James I. his Ambassador, Resident at Constantinople many Years, is in an especial Manner to be remembred; who having at his own Charge, first repaired the Decays in the Stone-Work of that goodly Partition made at the West End of the Choir; adorning the Front thereof, outward, with fair polished Pillars of black Marble; and the curious carved Statues of the Saxon Kings and Bishops, which had been the first Founders and Benefactors to the Church, graced the Inside thereof with Figures of Angels, and other Ornaments: Likewise mended and repaired all the Decays and Defects of the Wainscot Work of the Choir; and beautified the same with a fair Rail of Wainscot, and a great Number of Cherubims artificially carved; all which were sumptuously gilded, and painted with rich Colours in Oil. He magnificently clothed the whole Choir, and the Upper Part of the Presbytery, with fair Tapestry Hangings; and afterwards bestowed 4000 l. in the Repairing of the South Cross.

THE Steeple was intended wholly to be taken down, and by stronger Pillars to be supported and built, in Proportion to the Church, with a Spire of Stone suitable thereunto, being ready scaffolded to that End; and the rest of the Repairs were finished, as to the Walls and Cover of Lead.

AND that Posterity may see what open Hearts and Hands our English Nation then had for the Recovery of this ruinous Building to its pristine Splendor, here is added a Brief of the Receiver's Account, as it was cast up the 25th of October, 1639, in the 15th of King Charles I. together with a Scheme of the several Sums of Money, as they were brought into the Chamber of LONDON, for each particular Year.

October the 29th, 1639.

BUT more than the Sum of 35551 l. 2 s. 4 d. ob.
doth not appear by the Books to have been laid out upon this Repair, since the 25th of October, 1639, that the Accounts were so audited: For in October, 1642, the Flames of our Civil Dis-ensions broke violently out; so that there was not only an unhappy Period put to this good and Praise-worthy Work, but by the Votes of Parliament, made September the 10th, Anno 1642, for the abolishing of Bishops, Deans and Chapters (which Votes were confirmed by an Ordinance of that same Parliament, in January following;) the very Foundation of this famous Cathedral was utterly shaken in Pieces. Which consisted of the Bishop, the Dean, Chanter, Chancellor, Treasurer, the five Archdeacons, the 30 Prebendaries, and the six Vicars Choral. So that the next following Years (Isaac Pennington being Lord Mayor) the famous Cross in the Church-Yard, which had been for many Ages the most solemn Place in this Nation for the greatest Divines, and most eminent Scholars to preach at, was (with the rest of the Crosses about LONDON and Westminster) by further Order of the said Parliament, pulled down to the Ground. And in the Month of March ensuing, the Houses and Revenues belonging to the Dean and Chapter of this Cathedral, were seized on by Order likewise of the said Parliament; together with all Money, Goods, or Materials, bought, or given, for Repairing or Finishing of this Church, in whose Hands soever they were, were seized on, and disposed of, by Order of the said Parliament. One Part of it went for Soldiers Pay; 400 l. per Ann. to Cornelius Burges, one of the Assembly of Divines, (who afterwards stiled himself Minister of LON-DON) to preach a weekly Lecture in Part of the Choir. In other Parts of the Church, Saw-Pits were digged, for the sawing out of the Scaffolding Timber, by them sold and given.
Several Places, (even where some Reverend Bishops, and other Persons of Quality lay interred) and afterwards the Body of the Church was converted to a Horse-Guard for Troopers to quarter in.

AND in this deplorable Condition did this near finished sumptuous Structure continue, until the Year 1660, which was the Year of his Majesty, King Charles II's most happy Restauration; who had a pious Intent to set upon the Repairs thereof again; but before such a Work could be brought to Form and Order for Reparation, it was all ruined by the dreadful Conflagration in LONDON, Anno 1666; which yet did not discourage his Majesty, who by an Act of Parliament, appointed a certain Duty upon every Chaldron of Coals, for carrying on and perfecting the Work of St. Paul's.
And in the Year 1673, the thick Walls, with vast Charges being pulled down, that were so shaken by the Fire, and the Foundations cleared, a new Foundation was begun to be laid, of such a Fabrick, as for Amplitude, Splendor, Solidity, Figure, and curious Architecture, the World hath scarce seen the like. The Model whereof was designed by Sir Christopher Wren, Knt. an approved Architect; according to which Model, with some Alterations, it has been since erected.

IN the Year 1678, King Charles gave out his Letters Patents, in Favour of the great and expensive Work. This was backed by Henry, the careful Lord Bishop of LONDON, who by causing an Address to be printed, excited all Persons throughout the Kingdom, to extend their Liberality towards the Building; endeavouring to take off certain Objections that might stick in some Mens Minds against it.
And then shewing how far they had proceeded,
and what Receipts and Disbursements had hitherto been made. It was to this Tenor:

THE Bishop of LONDON's Letter, recommending a Contribution.

YOU perceive by his Majesty's Letters Patents for Rebuilding the Cathedral Church of St. Paul's, how zealously his Majesty is concerned to have this so pious and charitable a Work effectually carried on. And to that End, how earnestly, both in his Royal Grant and Example, he recommends it to all Cities, Towns, and Parishes, throughout his Kingdom of England and Dominion of Wales.

In Pursuance of this his Majesty's pious Intention, and that it may have its desired Effect, it will be requisite not only to vindicate the Piety of this Design, but also the Necessity and Reasonableness of so general a Contribution towards the Accomplishing of it. For, besides the Objections against so good a Work, proceeding from Disaffection to Religion in some, and from a covetous and sordid Disposition of Mind in others, there are likewise two great Prejudices against it, which have too far possessed the Minds of even better disposed Persons.

1. That the Sumptuousness and Magnificence of Churches, is not at all suitable to the Times of the Gospel, nor according to the Simplicity of the primitive Christian Worship.

2. That the Church of St. Paul's, belonging only to the City and Diocese of LONDON, ought to be rebuilt solely at their Charge, without having Recourse to so extraordinary a Way of Supply and Contribution, from others who are no Way concerned in it.

First. It is objected against the Work itself,
That the Sumptuousness and Magnificence of Temples, and so much Splendor in the outward Circumstances of God's Worship, is Jewish and Ceremonial; and not so suitable to the spiritual Nature and Design of the Gospel, and the Worship thereby required, which consists in the inward Purity of our Hearts, and the Devotion of our Minds and Spirits, nor so agreeable to the Simplicity

Simplicity of the primitive Christianity, which in Things of this Nature, contained itself within the Bounds of Necessity and Convenience; and therefore whatever is beyond these, may justly be deemed superfluous, and might much better be employed in Alms, and Works of Charity.

For the Removal of this Prejudice, we may please to consider:

1. That the publick Worship of GOD, is a moral Duty founded in the Light of Nature, and the common Reason of Mankind.

2. That the publick Worship of GOD, though it doth suppose and require inward and spiritual Devotion, yet as publick is necessarily external; and as such, ought to express, in the best Manner we are able, that inward Honour and Reverence which we pay to the Divine Majesty: And therefore, that the Circumstances of it should not only be decent, but very solemn and magnificent, and the Light of Nature seems plainly to require, and the Gospel doth nowhere gainsay. And the Resolution of David, that he would not offer to the Lord his God of that which cost him nothing; and the Declaration which he afterwards made concerning the Building of the Temple, that the House which is to be built to the Lord, must be exceeding magnificent, was not a Piece of ceremonial Piety, but grounded upon a moral and eternal Reason, of equal Force in all Ages and Times; namely, that which Solomon, his Son, gave to King Hiram, why he designed so magnificent a Temple, that it might be, in some Measure, suitable to Greatness and Majesty of that GOD who was to be worshipped in it: The House (says he) which I build is great, for great is our God above all Gods. Christians, indeed, are not tied to one Place of Worship, as the Jews were; but they are obliged to Honour GOD as much as they, and to declare their high Regard and Esteem of so glorious a Majesty, by all outward fitting Testimonies of Respect and Reverence.

3. That the mean Estate and Circumstances of GOD's publick Worship in the Beginning of Christianity, was not the Effect of Choice, but of Necessity; and enforced upon Christians by their Poverty and Persecution. By Reason whereof, their Worship was not only without Splendor and Magnificence, but without ordinary Decency, and the common Conveniencies of Time and Place, being usually performed in the Night, in Chambers and Grotts, and secret Places; not because they thought this best, but because they could then do no better; as they sufficiently testified so soon as they were free from Persecution; when every where, with great Zeal, they raised stately Structures for the publick Worship of GOD, and spared no Cost for that Purpose; believing it to be highly for the Honour of Christ and his Religion, that Men should declare their Regard to Almighty GOD, and Solemnity of his Worship in this Way. And surely they, who from the Obscurity and Meanness of the Places of publick Worship in the primitive Times, would draw a Pattern for Churches in succeeding Ages, may do well to consider, whether they would be willing that the Poverty of the first Christians should be made the Measure and Standard of Mens Estates in all Ages: Because the Force of the Argument from bare primitive Example, is the very same in both Cases. GOD is pleased to accept of that in Case of Necessity, which he will disdain where Men have the Ability and Opportunity to serve him after a better Manner. While the People of Israel were in a persecuted and unsettled Condition, GOD was content that the Ark should be placed in a Tabernacle; but when he had given them Rest on every Side, then David, from the natural Reason and Congruity of the Thing, concluded it fit to build a House of Rest for the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord, and that exceedingly magnificent. And GOD approved of his Intention, telling him, that he did well that it was in his Heart to build such an House to the Name of the Lord.

4. To warn us for ever against grudging at any extraordinary Expence for the Honour of Religion, as needless and superfluous; and especially from cloaking our Covetousness, with a Pretence of Charity to the Poor; we may do well to consider how severely our Saviour reprehends his own Disciples for murmuring at that Cost which the devout Woman bestowed upon the Temple of his Body, in pouring upon it an Ointment of so great Price. To what Purpose (said they) is this Waste? This Ointment might have been sold for much, and given to the Poor. But our Saviour sharply reproveth this sordid Disposition of theirs; and what they called Waste, he called a good Work, such as in its proper Season is no less pleasing to GOD, than Charity to the Poor: And to testify his high Esteem and Acceptance of it, he took particular Care to have it recorded in the History of his own Life; that together with his Doctrine and Miracles, the Memorial of it might be celebrated in all Ages to the End of the World. Hereby teaching us, that we ought, under the Gospel, to honour GOD with our Substance, as well as to relieve the Poor; and that magnificent Acts of Piety have their Place no less in the Christian Religion, than the most liberal Deeds of Charity.

Secondly, It is objected against the general Extent of this Contribution, That the Church of St. Paul's, belonging only to the City and Diocese of LONDON, ought to be rebuilt solely at their Charge, without having Recourse to so extraordinary a Way of Supply from others who are no Ways concerned in it.

In answer to this Objection, be pleased to consider,

1. That the Inhabitants of LONDON were not only exceeding great Sufferers by the late dreadful Fire, but have since been at a vast and incredible Charge in Rebuilding of their own Houses and Parish-Churches, their Hospitals, Hall, and Royal-Exchange; and in several other publick Works, to the great Honour and Advantage of this City, and to the Wonder and Astonishment of the World, that in so short a Space, so great a City should rise so beautiful, and out of such vast and dismal Ruins.

2. That the City of LONDON, and Counties adjoining, having done for several Years, and still do, towards this Work, pay a particular Tax upon all the Coals brought into the Port of LONDON. Besides which, it is not doubted but they will be very exemplary in their voluntary Contributions thereto.

3. That the City of LONDON hath ever been found very charitable and bountiful upon all Occasions, towards the Rebuilding of Churches and Towns in the Country, and the Repairing of the Fortunes of particular Persons, that have been ruined by the like Calamity of Fire. For which Cause, they hope it will not be thought unreasonable in them, for once, to crave and expect the Assistance of the Country, upon so pressing and extraordinary an Occasion; when they are utterly unable, alone, to support the Burden, and to defray the mighty Charge of so great a Work.

4. That the Rebuilding of this Church is of very publick Concernment, and the whole Nation, in some Sort, interested in it. Our Kings have used, upon extraordinary Occasions, to resort to it, there to pay their solemn Acknowledgments to Almighty GOD for publick Blessings sings and Deliverances granted to this Nation. And the Preachers there have always been particularly appointed and chosen from both the Universities of this Realm, and from all Parts of the Kingdom. And the Glory of the Work will also redound to the whole Nation; to which it will not only be a singular Ornament, but likewise a standing Monument of the publick Affection and Zeal of this Protestant Kingdom to Piety and good Works.

Which last Consideration ought to have the greater Force with us; because, at this Time, as much as ever, the Protestant Religion stands upon its Reputation, and stands in Need of it too. And therefore every one ought, with more than ordinary Zeal, to be concerned for the carrying on of this Work; not only for the Honour of our Nation, and the Credit of our common Christianity, but also of our Reformed Religion. That there may be no Pretence to upbraid us, that Error and Superstition could make Men more zealous of good Works, than the Doctrine of the true Religion; and that our Adversaries of Rome may be convinced, that our Piety is as as generous and charitable as theirs, but would not be so arrogant and presumptuous; and that whilst we disclaim the Merit, yet we do most stedfastly believe the Obligation and Necessity of good Works.

The present Building of St. Paul's.

THE old Church being taken down, the first Stone of this present most noble Pile, was laid by Mr. Strong, a Mason; the second by Mr. Longland, June the 21st, 1675, so that it was above 30 Years in Erecting, though upwards of 500 Men have sometimes been at Work at a Time; and the great Sir Christopher Wren, who first prepared the Model, lived to see it finished, and many Years after.

FOR the Building, Finishing, and Adorning the same, there was given by Act of Parliament an Imposition charged on Sea-Coal, imported at the Port of LONDON, viz. of 2 s. per Chaldron, or Ton, from the 1st of May, 1670, to the 24th of June, 1677; and 3 s. per Chaldron, from the 24th of June, 1677, to the 29th of Sept. 1687, and three 4ths of the Money raised by the former, and one half of the Money raised by the latter Act, was to be employed towards the Rebuilding of 52 Parish-Churches. One 4th of the Sum appropriated for the Parish-Churches was to be applied towards the Rebuilding of St. Paul's.

AGAIN, by another Act of Parliament, 1 James II. Chap. 15. an Imposition on Coals of 18 d. per Chaldron was granted to continue from the 29th of Sept. 1687, to the 29th of Sept. 1700; two 3ds whereof was applied towards the carrying on the Building of this Church.

AGAIN, by another Statute, 8 William III. an Imposition of 12 d. per Chaldron, or Ton, was laid on Coals imported at LONDON, to continue from Michaelmas, 1700, to Michaelmas, 1708, and two 3ds of the Money raised thereby has been applied towards the Finishing of this Structure.

LASTLY, by an Act of Parliament made the 1st of Queen Anne, Seff. 2. 2 s. per Chaldron more for all Coals imported, as aforesaid, was given to commence at Michaelmas, 1708, and to continue for eight Years, for the Finishing, Adorning, and Securing of this Building. And the Archbishop, Bishop of LONDON, and the Lord Mayor, for the Time being, might appropriate Money arising by this Act, for the Purchasing and Demolishing (at such Time as they shall appoint) all the Houses and Buildings between the North Side of the Cathedral, and the Alleys called New Jewry and Pissing-alley, and the Ground never to be built on for the future; and also may agree with the Vestry of St. Gregory and Faith, for exchanging their Place of Burial in the Church-yard, and in the Vault, for other Ground. And, as in the others, there are Clauses empowering the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of LONDON, and the Lord Mayor of LONDON, to borrow Money on the Credit of the said Acts, and to sign Indentures accordingly.

HERE we must relate another Accident by Fire in this Church, which had like to have been very dismal: For on the 27th Day of February, 1698-9, a Fire broke out at the West End of the North Isle of the Choir, in a little Room prepared for the Organ-builder to work in, when the Choir was newly finished; and had not the Communication between the said Work-room and Organ Gallery been broke down, the Consequence would probably have been most fatal, but that being done, and all imaginable Means used by those employed to extinguish Fires and others, the Flames were happily got under, doing no Damage but to two Pillars and an Arch with Enrichments, which were very artificially repaired, and no Sign of the Fire left, except that the Lustre of the Gilding was thereby a little abated.

WE come next to describe the Nature and Ornament of this most stately Fabrick: The Walls are very well built of fine Portland Stone, Rustick Work: There are two Ranges of Pilasters that adorn the Outside, one above another; the lower consists of about 120 Pilasters, with their Entablature of the Corinthian Order, and the Upper of as many, with Entablature of the Composite Order, besides twenty Columns at the West, and four at the East End, and those of the Portico's, and Spaces between the Arches of the Windows, and the Architrave of the Lower Order, &c. are filled with great Variety of curious Enrichments, consisting of Cherubims, Festoons, Voluta's, Fruit, Leaves, Cartouches, Ensigns of Fame, as Swords and Trumpets in Saltier Crosses, with Chaplets of Laurel; also Books display'd, Bishops Caps, the Dean's Arms, and at the East End the Cypher of W. R. within a Garter, on which is its Motto, Hony Soit qui Mal y Pense; and this within a fine Compartment of Palm-Branches, and placed under an Imperial Crown, &c. all finely carved in Stone.

THE Intercolumns of the lower Range of Pilasters, are 33 ornamental Windows, and six Niches, and of the upper Range 37 Windows, and about 30 Niches, many whereof are adorned with Columns, Entablature, and Pediments: And at the East End is a Sweep, or circular Space, adorned with Columns and Pilasters, and enriched with Festoons, Fruit, Incense-Pots, &c. and at the upper Part, is a Window between four Pied-droits, and a single Cornice, and these between two large Cartouches.

Of the Portico's, Portals, and Pediments.

1. THE Ascent to the North Portico is by 17 Steps of black Marble; the Dome of the Portico is supported and adorned with six very spacious Columns (48 Inches Diameter) of the Corinthian Order; above the Door-case is a large Urn with Festoons, &c. Over this, belonging to the upper Range of Pilasters, is a spacious Pediment, where are the King's Arms, with the Regalia, supported by two Angels, with each a Palm-branch in their Hands; under whose Feet appear the Figures of the Lion and Unicorn.

YOU ascend to the South Portico (the Ground here being lower) by 25 Steps. It is in all other Respects like the North, and above this a Pediment (as the other) belonging to the upper Order, where is a proper Emblem of this incomparable parable Structure, raised (as it were) out of the Ruins of the old Church, viz. a Phoenix with her Wings expanded in Flames, under which is the Word RESURGAM, insculped in Capital Characters.

THE West Portico is adorned and supported with 12 Columns below, and eight above, fluted of the respective Orders as the two Ranges; the 12 lower adorned with Architrave, Marble Frieze, and a Cornice; and the eight upper with Entablature, and a spacious Triangular Pediment, where the History of St. Paul's Conversion is represented, with the Rays of a Glory, and the Figures of several Men and Horses boldly carved in Relievo, by the ingenious Hand of Mr. Bird, The Door-case is white Marble, and over the Entrance is cut in Relievo, the History of St. Paul's Preaching to the Bereans (as in Acts xvii. 2.) it consists of a Gruppo of nine Figures (besides that of St. Paul) with Books, &c. lively represented, by the same Hand as the Conversion.

ON the South Side of the Church, near the West End, is a Forum, or Portal, the Door-case being enriched with Cartouches, Voluta's, and Fruit, very exquisitely carved, under a Pediment; and opposite to this, on the North Side, is the like Door-case. And in brief, all the Apertures are not only judiciously disposed for Commodiousness, Illumination of the Fabrick, &c. but are very Ornamental.

AT the West End is an Acroteria of the Figures of the Twelve Apostles, each about Eleven Feet high, with that of St. Paul on the Angle of the Pediment; and those of the four Evangelists cumbant; a circular Pediment over the Dial of the Clock; also an Entablature and Circles of Enrichment, where twelve Stones compose the Aperture, answering the twelve Hours.

THE two Towers; each adorned with circular Ranges of Columns, of the Corinthian Order, with Domes on the upper Part, and at the Vertex of each a gilded Pine Apple.

THE Choir has its Roof supported with six spacious Pillars, and the Church with six more; besides which, there are eight that support the Cupola, and two very spacious ones at the West End; all which Pillars are adorned with Pilasters of the Corinthian and Composite Orders; and also with Columns fronting the Cross Isle or Ambulatory, between the Consistory and Morning-Prayer Chapel, which have each a very beautiful Screen of curious Wainscot, and adorned each with 12 Columns, their Entablatures, arched Pediments, and the King's Arms enriched with Cherubims, and each Pediment between four Vases, all curiously carved; and these Screens are fenced with Iron-work; as is also the Cornice at the West End of the Church, and so Eastward beyond the first Arch.

THE Pillars of the Church that support the Roof, are two Ranges, with their Entablature and beautiful Arches, whereby the Body of the Church and Choir are divided into three Parts, or Isles; the Roof of each is adorned with Arches, and spacious Peripheries of Enrichments; as, Shields, Leaves, Chaplets, &c. (the Spaces included being somewhat concave) admirably carved in Stone; and there is a large Cross like between the North and South Portico's, and two Ambulatories, the one a little Eastward, the other Westward from the said Cross Isle, and running parallel therewith: The Floor of the Choir and Church is paved with Marble, but within the Rail of the Altar, with fine Porphyry, polish'd, and laid in several Geometrical Figures; the Anabathrum, whereon the Communion-Table is placed, is five Steps higher than that of the Choir's Isles.

THE Altar-piece is adorned with four noble fluted Pilasters, finely painted and veined with Gold, in Imitation of Lapis Lazuli, with their Entablature; where the Enrichments, and also the Capitals of the Pilasters are double gilt with Gold: These Intercolumns are 9 Pannels of white Marble border'd with grey, and above them six Windows, viz. in each Intercolumn three Pannels, and two Windows one above the other; at the greatest Altitude above all which, is a Glory finely done. The Aperture Northward and Southward into the Choir, are (ascending up three Steps of black Marble) by two Iron folding Doors, being (as that under the Organ Gallery, &c.) exquisitely wrought into divers Figures, spiral Branches, and other Flourishes; and there are two others at the West End of the Choir, the one opening into the South Isle, the other into the North; done by the celebrated Artist in this Way, Monsieur Tiquau.

IN this Choir are the Galleries, the Bishops Throne, Lord Mayor's Seat, with the Stalls, all which being contiguous, compose one vast Body of curious carved Work of the finest Wainscot, constituting three Sides of a Quadrangle.

THE Organ Gallery (with four Stalls, two Northward, and two Southward therefrom) compose the West End. The Organ-Case is magnificent and very ornamental, enrich'd with the carved Figures of Cupids (under Mantling) Terms, and eight Fames standing at the Top of this Case, four looking Eastward, and as many Westward, each appearing near six Foot high: It is also enrich'd with Cherubims, Fruit, Leaves, &c. very lively represented, by that excellent Artist Mr. Gibon; all which is elevated on eight beautiful fluted Columns of the Corinthian Order, of polish'd Marble, white, vein'd with blue, and the Organ-Pipes are very spacious and gilt with Gold, preserved from Dust, &c. with fine Sashes. The North and South Sides of this Choir have each 30 Stalls, besides the Bishops Throne and Seat on the South Side, and the Lord Mayors on the North.

THE Stalls, &c. are in the following Order, beginning at the West End, and proceeding Eastward, and thus distinguished; the Prebendaries by the Titles of the Prebend; the rest by their Dignity and Office; under the Title of the Prebend, is that of a Psalm, which every Prebendary is in Duty bound to repeat daily in private to the Glory of GOD, and for the more fully answering the Intent of the Founders and Benefactors hereunto.

THE next here is the Bishop's Throne, adorned with two Columns finely carved, of the Corinthian Order, and various Enrichments.

THE Bishops Seat is adorned with a Nich, and above that, Doves, Palm-branches, two Cupids sustaining a Mitre, &c. and the Lord Mayor's with a Nich, and above that are Flowers, and other Leaves, Palm-branches, and a Mace sustained by two Cupids; and the Dean's with a Book displayed between three Cherubims, &c.

BACKWARD from these Stalls, and a little higher, is a Gallery where Ladies are commonly seated, particularly the Lord Mayor's and Aldermen's Ladies, on the North Side; above this Gallery the Front is curiously enriched with Terms, Helix Cartoufes, two Arches thereof over every Stall, and between them a Cherub; above which is the upper Gallery, and the Whole is adorned with 12 Columns, fronting Northward, 12 Southward, and 12 Pilasters Westward.

ward, with Enrichments of Chaplets, Cherubims, and innumerable Fruit, Leaves, &c. the three latter Species is, for the most Part, curiously carved out of the Lime-Tree, the rest Wainscot. Between the inner Roof of the Church and the outer, which is covered with Lead, is a considerable Space, wherein at the East End, round the Circular Sweep, is a whispering Place, where Words spoken auricularly, or the Motion of a Watch, &c. may be heard at 110 Feet Distance; this happened not by Design, but accidentally; and to this Church are eight Stair-Cases. This noble Choir was finished and opened on the 2d Day of December, 1697, being that remarkable Day of Thanksgiving for the Peace at Ryfwick, after nine Years War with France.

Of the DOME.

THE Cupola within the Church appears erected and elevated on eight Pillars of a large Magnitude, adorned with Pilasters, Entablature, Circular Pediments, and Arches of the Corinthian Order, and each Pillar enriched with a spacious Festoon. Here are also as many Alcoves fronted with curious Iron-Work; and over the Arches at a great Height from the Ground, is an Entablature, and on the Cornice an Ambulatory fronted, or fenced in with handsome Iron-Work, extending round the Inside of the Cupola, above which is a Range of 32 Pilasters of the Corinthian Order; the Inter columns are Paintings in Fresco, representing the History of St. Paul, done by the masterly Hand of Sir James Thornhill, and finished in the Year 1720. It is said, that in every Foot of Altitude the Diameter decreases one Inch.

AND on the Outside of the Dome, at about 20 Feet above the outer Roof of the Church, is a Range of 32 Columns, with Niches of the same Altitude, and directly counter to those aforesaid within the Cupola: To these Columns there is an Entablament, and above that a Gallery with Acroteria, where are placed very spacious and ornamental Vases, all round the Cupola. At 12 Feet above the Tops of these Vases (which Space is adorned with Pilasters and Entablament, and the Inter columns are Windows,) the Diameter is taken in (as appears outwardly) five Feet, and two Feet higher it decreases five Feet, and two Feet above, that it is still five Feet less, where the Dome outwardly begins to arch, which Arches meet about 52 Feet higher, in perpendicular Altitude; on the Vertex of which Dome is a great Balcony, which is gilt at the Expence of a particular Nobleman, (the Lord Landsborough) who having a Prospect of this Church from his House near Hide-Park, resolved to add this Ornament to it; and above this is a large and beautiful Lantern, adorned with Columns of the Corinthian Order, with a Ball and a Cross at the Top, whose Dimensions are shewn in the next Page:

THIS Dome consists of a Crown, or Cap, which is the Segment of a Globe; and what you behold from the Center of the Area under it, this being the Interior Part.

THE Arch of the Dome, extending from the Base of the aforesaid Part, in a Hyperbolick Curve, to the Base of the Lantern; these two inner Parts are Brick.

THE Roof of the Dome being Elliptical, extends from the Steps (which is a little above the Rail and Ballister) to the Lantern, a little above the Arch of the Dome; this being the outward Part, and is Timber: So that within there is a vast void Space between the Crown, or Cap, and the Arch (or Middle Wall) and also between the Arch and the Roof of this noble Dome. The Roof is covered with Lead.

18-Feet

18 Feet eight Inches the Circumference.
 113 Feet the Solidity.
 90 Bushels, the Capacity at 2150. Inches per Bushel.

WE shall conclude our Account of this Building with a Quotation from a late Author, whom we have taken the Liberty to mention two or three Times already, as a Person of Taste and Judgment.

“THE Grand Cathedral of St. Paul’s, says he, is undoubtedly one of the most magnificent modern Buildings in Europe; all the Parts of which it is composed, are superlatively beautiful and noble; the North and South Fronts, in particular, are very perfect Pieces of Architecture, neither ought the East to go without due Applause. The two Spires at the West End are in a finished Taste, and the Portico with the Ascent, and the Dome that rises in the Centre of the Whole, afford a very august and surprizing Prospect; but still, with all these Beauties, it has certainly yet more Defects; and the Pleasure we receive from the first is so much qualified and tamed by the last, that we rather wonder how we can be pleased so much, than why we are displeased at all. But, not to condemn in the Gross, I’ll take the Liberty to touch upon a few Particulars, and lay myself justly open to Censure, in Case I mistake, or blame in the wrong Place.

“IN the first Place, therefore, there is a most notorious Deficiency in Point of View; such a huge Fabrick as St. Paul’s ought, at least, to be surveyed at the Distance of Temple-Bar, and the Vista ought to be considerably wider than the Front of the Building. But this is so far from the Case here, that we cannot see it till we are upon it, and this Defect is made still worse, by turning the Edifice from the Eye, even where it can be viewed, for the Sake of that ridiculous Superstition of erecting it due East and West. In the next Place, the dividing the Portico, and indeed the whole Structure into two Stories on the Out-side certainly indicates at first Sight a like Division within. A Circumstance abounding with Absurdities, and defeating even the very End of erecting it at all. It indeed the Architect had been embarrassed to reconcile the Distance and Height of his Columns, I am humbly of Opinion, that a light and proper Attick Story had answered all Ends, both of Use and Beauty, and left him Room to have enlarged his Imagination, and have given an Air of Majesty to the Whole: Let me add, that I apprehend the Portico should have been farther projected on the Eye, instead of retreating from it, in order to have given a grand Contrast to the whole Front, and aided the Perspective within.

“I shall say no more on the Out-side than this, that, according to my best Notions of Regularity and Order, the Dome should have been raised exactly in the Centre of the Whole, and that there should have been two corresponding Steeples at the East, as well as at the West End, with all other suitable Decorations: If a View of the whole Length of the Building too could have been opened down to the Water-Side, it would have added greatly to its Grandeur and Magnificence, and have afforded a most noble Prospect from off the River into the Bargain. However odd or new the first of these Positions may seem, let any Body take a View of St. Paul’s from any of the neighbouring Hills, and they will instantly discern, that the Building is defective, and that the Form of a Cross is more favourable to Superstition, than Beauty: In a Word, they will easily see, at least, that the Dome, in its present Circumstance, is abundantly too big for the rest of the Pile, and that the West End has no rational Pretence to finer and more splendid Decorations than the East.

THE Statutes and Customs of this Church of St. Paul having laid scatteringly in many old Books and Monuments, in the Archives of the said Church, and continued in them confusedly, without any certain Order, Radulph de Baldock, some Time Dean of the Church, with the Chapter, did reduce them methodically into a Register; together with certain Injunctions and Declarations afterwards following.

AFTER that, Thomas Lyseaux, Dean of the said Church, Anno Dom. 1450, in the ninth of his Deanery, and in the first of the Consecration of Bishop Kemp, caused a Book of Statutes, (called Liber Statutorum) of the Cathedral Church of LONDON, to be written; wherein was contained, among other Things, the abovesaid Register of the Statutes by Dean Baldock.

ALSO in that Book was transcribed the Charta Libertatum, i. e. the Charter of the Liberties of that Church, being the Confirmation of them by King Henry VI. An. Regn. 20. It consists of several Inspecimus’s, and mentions the Gifts to the Church by several Kings.

THIS Book sets down also the Order and Prayers for a new Bishop, which was after this Manner: They received him at the West-Door, and there sprinkled him with Holy Water; and being incensed, he was brought with Procession to the Great Altar: and being there prostrate, the Major of the Church said, Salvum fac Servum tuum Episcopum nostrum, &c. i. e. Save thy Servant our Bishop. Send him Help from thy Holy Place. Lord hear my Prayer. The Lord be with you. Let us pray:

Grant, we pray thee, O Lord, to thy Servant M. our Bishop, that by Preaching and Exercising those Things which are right, by the Example of good Works, he may save the Souls of those that are set under him; and that he may receive the Reward of eternal Recompence, by, &c. as it is written in the Manual of the Church.

THERE is also set down in the said Book of Statutes, the Churches antiently belonging to the Patronage of the Dean and Chapter, with this Title, viz.

Ecclesiæ spectantes ad Patronatum Decani & Cap. S. Pauli LONDON. per quoddam antiquum Registrum.

THERE was an Eleemosynarius Sancti Pauli LONDON. (i. e. an Almoner of St. Paul's) tum ad sustentationem puerorum, cum ad Eleemosynam faciend. (i. e. both for the maintaining of Children, and doing of Alms.) This Almoner had particular Rents appropriated for these Uses.

THERE were also many Payments from divers Churches and Persons, to pray for the Souls of several. All these Rents and Payments are particularly set down in the aforesaid Book of Statutes.

THE Dean and Chapter had an ancient Privilege granted them by King Edward II., which was to enjoy the Temporalities of the Bishoprick of LONDON, paying after the Rate of 1000*l.* a Year, while it remains thus vacant in their Hands. In the Year 1594, Bishop Elmer dying, Noel the Dean, and the rest of the Chapter, made Suit to the Lord Treasurer Burghley, That they might have and enjoy the Temporalities according to the Chapter made to their Predecessors in that Behalf, as aforesaid. The Treasurer, upon this, order'd Sir Thomas Fanshawe, Clerk of the Crown, to see the Grant, and what Allowance it had received in Times past, and thereof to make a Certificate; which accordingly he did, and gave this Account thereof.

" I have seen the Charter, and find it to be " of the Effect aforesaid. And I have seen among the Records of the Exchequer, by the " Inrollment of Letters Patents of K. Hen. VIII.,
" made in the 24th Year of his Reign, enter'd
" upon Record in the Treasurer's Remembrancer's Office, Term. Pasche, Anno predicti.
" Regis xxiii., and of a Writ of Allocate thereupon made and enrolled in the King's Remembrancer's Office, Inter Bria. circa Baronibus de Term. Michs. Anno xxvto. By " which the King did recite not only the Grant
" above-mention'd, but also that the Dean and
" Chapter then had in their Hands, by the said
" Charter, the Custody of the said Bishoprick,
" and the Temporalities of the same, being void

" by the Translation of Cuthbert, late Bishop:
" And thereupon the King did grant unto his " Counsellor John Stokesley, Clerk, the Bishop
" elect, all the Right and Interest he then had
" in the said Temporalities and Rents, to be " had and taken, as well by the Hands of the " Dean and Chapter, as of the Farmers, Bailiffs,
" &c. and did discharge the Dean and Chapter, &c.

" Wherefore, in my Opinion, the Dean and " Chapter ought to have the Custody of the said
" Bishoprick, during the present Vacation, by " Virtue of their Charter, unless some Alteration hath been made since vicefimo quinto Reg. Henrici octavi.

Dated the 7th of

Tho. Fanshawe.

ACCORDINGLY the Dean and Chapter did enjoy the Temporalities, till Fletcher, the next Bishop, was placed, which was from June the 5th, to January the 24th following, which was 134 Days; and paid into the Treasury, for the Time, after the Rate of 1000*l.* per Annum, 320*l.* 11*s.*

MONUMENTS.

MONUMENTS in the old Church were these:

First of Erkenwalde, Bishop of LONDON, buried in the old Church, about the Year of CHRIST 700. Whose Body was translated into the new Work, in the Year 1140, being richly thrined above the Choir, behind the High Altar.

Sebba or Seba, King of the East Saxons, was first buried in the old Church, and after that removed into the new, and laid in a Coffin of Stone, or grey Marble, on the North Side, without the Choir, having this Inscription hanging by it:

Hic jacet Sebba, Rex orientalium Saxonii, qui conversus fuit ad fidem per S. Erkenwaldum, Londinens. Episcopum, Anno Christi 677. Vir multum Deo devotus, actibus religiosis, crebris precibus, & piis Eleemosynarum fructibus plurimum intentus, vitam privatam & monasticam cunctis Regni divitiis & honoribus præferens. Qui cum regnasset An. 30. habitum Religiosum accepit, per benedictionem Waltheri, Londinens. antistitis, qui præfato Erkenwaldo successit. De quo venerabilis Beda in Historia Gentis Anglorum, &c.

Etheldred, King of the West Saxons, was likewise buried, and removed, (lying next unto King Sebba) and this Inscription fastened by him:

Hic jacet Ethelredus Anglorum Rex, filius Edgari Regis, cui in die consecrationis post impositam Coronam, fertur S. Dunstanus Cantuar. Archiepiscopus dira prædixisse his verbis. Quoniam aspirasti ad Regnum per mortem fratris tui, in cujus sanguine conspiraverunt Angli, cum ignominiosa Matre tui; non deficiet gladius de doma tua, sapiens in te omnibus diebus vitæ tuæ, interficiens de semine tuo, quousque Regnum tuum transferatur in Regnum alienum, cujus ritum & linguam, gens cui præfides non novit; nec expiabitur, nisi longa vindicta peccatum tuum, & peccatum Matris tuæ, & peccata viro- rum, qui interfuere consilio illius nequam. Quæ sicut a viro sancto prædicta erant, evenerunt: Nam Ethelredus variis præliis per Suanum Danorum Regem, filiumq; suum Canutum fatigatus & fugatus, ac tandem Londini arcta obsidione conclusus, misere diem obiit, Anno Dominicæ Incarnationis carnationis, 1017, postquam. Annis 36. in magna tribulatione regnasset.

William Norman, Bishop of LONDON, in the Reigns of Edward the Confessor, and William the Conqueror, deceased Anno 1070, and is buried in the West Isle, with this Epitaph:

Gulielmo, viro sapientia & vitæ sanctitate claro, qui primum Edwardo Regi & Confessori familiaris; nuper in Episcopum Londinensem erectus; nec multo post apud invictissimum Principem Gulielmum Angliæ Regem ejus nominis primum; ob. prudentiam, fidemq; singularem, in consilium adhibitus; amplissima tunc urbi celeberrimæ privilegia ab eodem impetravit: Senatus populufq; Londinensis bene merenti posuit. Seddit Episcopus Annos 20 Decessit Anno a Christo nato, 1070.

Hac tua sed pietas
Et benefacta manent.

To William, a Man famous in Wisedome and Holinesse of Life; who first with St. Edward the King and Confessor being familiar, of late preferred to be Bishop of LONDON, and not long after (for his Prudencie and sincere Fidelity) admitted to be of Councell with the most Victorious Prince William, King of England; of that Name the First. Who obtained of the same great and large Privileges to this famous Citie. The Senate and Citizens of LONDON, to him, having well deserved, have made this. Hee continued Bishop twenty Yeeres, and dyed in the Yeere after Christ's Nativity, 1070.

These Marble Monuments to Thee
Thy Citizens assigne
Rewards (O Father) far unfit
To those Deserts of thine.
Thee unto them a faithful Friend
Thy LONDON People found;
And to this Towne, of no small Weight,
A Stay both sure and found.
Their Liberties restored to them,
by meanes of Thee have beene,
Their Publicke Weale by meanes of Thee,
Large Gifts have felt and found.
Thy Riches, Stocke, and Beauty brave,
One Houre hath them supprest;
Yet these thy Vertues and good Deeds, with us (for ever) rest.

THE Lord Mayor of LONDON, and the Aldermen his Brethren, upon those solemn Days of their Resort to St. Paul's, used for a long Time to walk to the Grave-stone, where this Bishop lay buried, in Remembrance of their former Privileges by him obtained.

IN the Year 1622, there was an Inscription fastened to that Pillar which is next his Grave, termed, The Revival of a most worthy Prelate's Remembrance, there erected, at the sole Cost and Charges of the right honourable and worthily affected Sir Edward Barkham, Kt. Lord

Eustachius de Fauconbridg, Bishop of LONDON, 1228, buried in the South Isle above the Choir.

Martin Patesbul, Dean of Paul's, 1239. Will. Haverbul, Canon, the King's Treasurer. Hugh Patesbul, 1240. Geffrey de Acra, Chaplain in the Chapel of St. James under the Rood at the North Door, 1244. Alexander de Swarford, 1273. John Grantham, 1273. John Braynford and Rich. Umframville, 1275. Roger de la Le, Archdeacon of Essex, 1280. Ralph Donion. Canon, 1382. Godfrey S. Dunstan, 1274. Will. Harworth, Clerk, 1302. Reginald Boandon, in the new Lady Chapel, 1305. Rich. Newporte, Archdeacon of Middlesex, 1309.

Henry Bingham, Bishop, 1262.

Henry Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, in the new Work of Paul's, betwixt our Lady Chapel and St. Dunstan's Chapel. Where a fair Monument was raised for him, with his Picture in Armour, cross-legg'd, as one professed for Defence of the Holy Land against the Infidels. Buried Anno 1310.

Ralph Baldock, Bishop of LONDON, 1313, in our Lady Chapel, whereof he was the Founder.

Hic jacet Magister Fulco Lovell, quondam Archidiaconus Colcestrie. Floruit sub Henrico 3 Rege.

IN the Middle of the Choir was a Monument for Roger Niger, the Learned and Pious Bishop of LONDON, with this Inscription:

Hic requiescit in Domino Rogerus, Cognomento Niger, quondam Canonicus hujus Ecclesiæ S. Pauli: Ac deinde in Londinens. Episcopum Confecratus Anno Salutis, 1228. vir in literatura profundus, moribus honestus ac per omnia laudabilis, Christianæ Religionis amator, ac defensor. strenuus. Qui cum pastorale Officium vigilanter & studiose rexisset Annis 14. diem suum clausit extremum, apud Manerium suum de Stebunheath, 3 Calend. Octob. An. Christi, 1241. Regnante Rege Henrico 3.

Contigit his diebus, dum Episcopus iste Rogerus in hac Ecclesia ante majus Altare staret infulatus ad celebrandum divina, quod tanta in aere facta est nubium densitas, ut vix alter alterum discernere possit, quam confestim secuta est tonitruum horribilis concussio, cum tanta fulminis coruscatione, ac foetore intolerabili, ut omnes qui aderant rapide fugientes, nihil verius quam mortem expectarent.

pectarent, Solus Episcopus cum uno Diacono remansit intrepidus. Aere tandem purgato, Episcopus residuum rei divinæ explevit.

AT the Entering the Middle Door of the Choir, on a fair plated Stone :

Hic infra jacet corpus Magistri Thomæ de Eure, Legum Doctoris, istius Ecclesiæ S. Pauli quondam Decani, qui die nono Mensis Octobris, Anno Domino Millesimo, quadringentissimo, & sui Decanatus Anno 12. diem suum clausit extremum. Cujus Animæ propitiatur Deus. Amen.

John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, 1399, buried on the North Side of the Choir, by Blanch, his first Wife, who deceased in the Year 1368.

ON a very good Tomb, curiously framed of White Stone, having his Lance and Target hanging by it, was this Inscription :

Hic in Domino obdormivit Johannes Gandavensis, vulgo de Gaunt, a Gandavo Flandriæ urbe, loco natali, ita denominatus Edwardi III. Regis Angliæ filius a patre Comitis Richmondia titulo ornatus. Tres sibi Uxores in matrimonio duxit : Primum Blancham, filiam & hæredem Henrici Ducis Lancastriæ, per quam amplissimam adiit hæreditatem : Nec solum Dux Lancastriæ, sed etiam Leicestriæ, Lincolnia & Derbiæ Comes effectus, e cujus sobole Imperatores, Reges, Principes & Proceres propagati sunt plurimi. Alteram habuit uxorem Constantiam (quæ hic contumelatur) filiam & hæredem Petri, Regis Castiliæ & Legionis : Cujus jure optimo titulo Regis Castiliæ & Legionis usus est. Hæc unicam illi peperit filiam Katharinam, ex qua ab Henrico, Reges Hispaniæ, sunt propagati. Tertiam vero uxorem duxit Katharinam, ex Equestri familia & eximia pulchritudine fœminam, ex qua numerosam suscepit prolem : Unde genus ex matre duxit Henricus VII. Rex Angliæ prudentissimus, cujus fœlicissimo conjugio cum Edwardi IV. filia, e stirpe Eboracensi, Regiæ illæ Lancastriensium & Eboracensium Familiæ ad exoptatissimam Angliæ pacem coaluerunt.

Illustrissimus hic Princeps, cognomento Plantagenet, Rex Castiliæ & Legionis, Dux Lancastriæ, Comes Richmondia, Leicestriæ, Lincolnia & Derbiæ, Locumtenens Aquitaniæ, magnus Senescallus Angliæ ; obiit Anno 22 Regni Regis Richardi II. Annoq; Domini 1399.

Blanch, his first Wife, died 1359, (according to Fabian's Chronicle) she ordained for the said Duke her Husband, and for herself, four Chanters for ever, and an Anniversary yearly ; at which, (besides other great Things given to the Dean and Chapter of the Church) she appointed, that the Mayor, being present at the Mass, should offer a Penny, and take up 20 s. the Sheriffs, either of them, a Penny, and receive, either of them, a Mark ; the Chamberlain of the City 10 s. the Sword-Bearer 6 s. 8 d. every Officer of the Mayor, there present, 1 s. 10 d. to every Officer, to the Number of eight, admitted for the Sheriffs, to each of them 8 d. The which Obit is at this Day holden (that is, in Fabian's Time, that relates this.) But by reason the Land was then decayed, these forenamed Sums were greatly diminished ; so that the Mayor had but 6 s. 8 d. and both the Sheriffs between them, 6 s. 8 d. and the others after that Rate.

Sir Simon Burley, Constable of Dover, and Chamberlain to King Richard II. Knight of the Garter, beheaded, lies buried in the North Walk against the Choir, and this Inscription :

UNDER a fair Monument in the North Walk against the Choir :

Hic requiescit Simon Burley, Banerettus, quinque Portuum Præfectus, Ordinis Garterii Miles, & Richardo II. Consiliarius longe charissimus. Connubio sibi conjunctas habuit ex amplissimis Familiis duas uxores : Alteram Staffordia, alteram Baronis de Roos filiam. Verum difficillimo illo tempore, cum inter Angliæ proceres omnia sub juvene Principe simultatibus agitarentur, in tantum nonnullorum odium incurrit, ut Parliamentaria autoritate capite plecteretur, Anno Domini 1388. Posterius autem eadem postea autoritate sub Rege Henrico quarto sunt restituti. Obiit Anno salutis, 1388.

Sir Ralph de Hingham, Chief Justice of both Benches successively, buried in the Side of the North Walk against the Choir, 1308.

Per versus patet hos,
Anglorum qui jacet hic Flos, Legum qui tuta
dictavit vera statuta :
Ex Henham dictus,
Redulphus vir benedictus.
Anno 1308.

IN the North Walk, against the Choir, lie all these buried :

Sir John Poultney, Citizen, Draper, and Lord Mayor of LONDON, in the Year 1348, lies buried in a fair Chapel, built by himself, on the North Side of St. Paul's Choir, wherein he founded three Chaplains.

Hamond Chickwell, six times Lord Mayor of LONDON, 1328.

Henry Guilford, Clark, at the Altar of the Apostles, 1313.

Richard Newport, Bishop of LONDON, 1318.

William Chatesleghunt, Canon, in the new Work, who had a Chantry there.

Sir Nicholas Wokendon, Knt. at the Altar of St. Thomas, in the new Work, 1323.

John Cheskul, Bishop of LONDON, 1279.

Robert Monden, and John Monden, his Brother, both Canons, in the new Work, 1332.

Richard de Plesseys lies in the North Walk, before St. George's Chapel, Anno 1361.

Pilliam Melford, and Richard de Placito, both Archdeacons of Colchester, 1345, lie buried before St. Thomas's Chapel.

Adam de Burie, Lord Mayor of LONDON in the Year 1364, lies buried in a Chapel of St. Mary Magdalen, or the Holy Ghost, called Holmes's College, because Roger Holmes, Chancellor and Prebend of St. Paul's, was there buried, ried, in the Year 1400. This was called Holmes's College,

The Dutchess of Bedford, Sister to Philip Duke of Burgundy, Anno Dom. 1433.

Robert de Fitz-Hugh, Bishop of LONDON, in the Choir, Anno 1435.

Thomas Kemp, Bishop of LONDON, in a proper Chapel of the Trinity, by him founded in the Body of the Church, on the North Side, 1489.

John Collet, Dean of St. Paul's, on the South Side without the Choir, 1519.

Richard Fitz-James, Bishop of LONDON, lies beneath the North West Pillar of St. Paul's Steeple, under a fair Tomb, and a Chapel of Timber, with Stairs mounting thereunto, over his Tomb, 1521. His Chapel was burnt by Fire falling from the Steeple.

John Dowman, Doctor, Archdeacon of Sussex, bequeathed his Body to be buried within the Chapel of St. Catharine, on the South Side of the Cathedral of St. Paul's, under the Altar there by him made. His Will was proved 1526.

John Stokesley, Bishop of LONDON, in our Lady's Chapel, 1539.

John Nevel, Lord Latimer, in a Chapel by the North-Door of St. Paul's, about the Year 1542.

Sir John Mason, Knt. in the North Wall against the Choir, 1566.

William Herbert, Earl of Pembroke, Knight of the Garter, on the North Side of the Choir, 1569.

Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, on the South Side of the Choir, 1578.

Sir Philip Sydney, above the Choir, 1586.

Sir Francis Walsingham, Knt. that ingenious and learned Statesman, 1590. In Memory of whom, with another Inscription in Prose, was the following Acrostick :

S hall Honour, Fame, and Titles of Renown,
I n Clods of Clay, be thus inclosed still;

Sir Christopher Hatton, Lord Chancellor of England, Knight of the Garter, above the Choir, 1591, under a most sumptuous Monument, whereof a merry Poet wrote thus :

Philip and Francis have no Tomb,
For great Christopher takes all the Room.

John Elmare, Bishop of LONDON, before St. George's Chapel, 1594.

The Lady Heneage, and her Husband Sir Thomas Heneage, Chancellor of the Dutchy, 1595.

Richard Fletcher, Bishop of LONDON, 1596. These, as the Chief, I have noted.

ON a beautiful Tomb, wherein he lay buried with his Lady, was this Inscription :

Perpetuæ pietati Sacrum.

Gulielmo Herberto, Pembrochiæ Comiti, Equiti Aurato, prænobilis ordinis Anglici. Henrici 8. a Cubiculis: Edwardi 6. Electus Anno Christi 1259, Wintoniensis Episcopus, consentire noluit. Tandem, post mortem Fulconis Basset, hujus Ecclesiæ Pontificis, eodem anno in Episcopum Londinensem consecratus fuit, sed vix tribus annis sedet. Ob. Anno Salutis 1262.

AT the East, behind the High Altar:

Hoc in loco requiescit in Domino Erkenwaldus 3. post Anglo-Saxonum in Britannia ingressum Episcopus Londinensis. Cujus in Episcopatu, & ante Episcopatum, vita & conversatio fuit sanctissima; ex Nobili Prosapia oriundus. Offæ, Orientalium Saxonum Regis erat filius, ad fidem Christianam a Mellito primo London. Episcopo, Anno Domini 642. conversus.

Is priusquam Episcopus factus esset, duo præclara construxit Monasteria sumptibus suis, de bonis quæ jure hæreditario sibi obvenierunt; unum sibi in finibus Australium Saxonum loco, qui Certesey vocatur. Alterum Edelburgæ Sorori suæ feminae laudatissimæ, ad Berching in ditone Orientalium Saxonum.

In Episcopatum vero Anno Salutis, 675, a Theodoro, Dorobernensium sive Cantuariæ Archiepiscopo sacratu est. Sebbam, Orientalium Saxonum Regem ad Christi fidem convertit, & salutari Baptismatis unda suis manibus perfudit; qui statim mundo renunciavit, se totum Deo addixit, & in hac ipsa Ecclesia Arca Marmorea (quæ ad nostra usque tempora permanet) sepultus est. Idem Erkenwaldus celeberrimum hoc S. Pauli Templum novis ædificiis auxit, proventus locupletavit, & eidem immunitates nonnullas a Regibus impetravit. Tandem, circiter Annum Domini 683. spiritum Deo reddidit, postquam Annis 11. in Pontificatu sedisset, & magnifico Sepulchro hic conditus est, quod nostra memoria circiter Annum Domini 1533. hoc loco visebatur.

IN the new Works of St. Dunstan's Chapel:

Michael Norborow, Bishop of London; 1361.

Robert Brewer, Dean of St. Paul's, 1366.

Robert Breybrooke, Canon of Litchfield, Bishop of LONDON, and made Lord Chancellor in the 6th Year of King Rich. II. He sat Bishop 20 Years, and deceased An. 1404.

SOME have noted, says Munday; that in digging the Foundation of this new Work of St. Paul's, namely, of a Chapel on the South Side, there were found more than 100 Scalps of Oxen, or Kine, in the Year 1316.

BUT here Mr. Strype, says Anthony Munday, makes a double Mistake; for neither was it of a Chapel only, but rather of the whole Church. Neither were these Scalps found in the Year 1316, since (as Stow here asserts) they were found in digging the Foundation of this new Work, which was 200 Years before. For Erkenwald's Body was removed into the new Work, 1140.

WHICH Thing, (say they) confirms greatly the Opinion of those which have reported, that (of old Time) there had been a Temple of Jupiter; and that there was daily Sacrifice of Beasts.

AND of this Judgment was Bishop Stillingfleet, some Time Dean of this Church, who supposed that here stood a Capitol, rather than Diana's Temple. Because most of the Colonies had Capitols erected in them, in Imitation of Rome. And that the Situation of the Place made it probable, being the highest Place in the City. And Vitruvius's Rule was, Capitols were to be erected in the highest and most conspicuous Place of the City. And the Sacrifice of Oxen was most proper for the Worship performed in the Capitol; being accounted the most noble Sacrifices. And Servius observed, those that went up to the Capitol in Triumph, sacrificed white Oxen: So that it seemed to him rather to have been a Temple to Jupiter.

OTHERS; both wise and learned, have thought that the Buck's Head, formerly born before the Procession of St. Paul, on St. Paul's Day, did signify the like. But of this Stow gives the following Account from an antient Deed he had read to this Effect, viz:

SIR William Baud, Knt. the 3d of Edward I. in the Year 1274, on Candlemas-day, granted to Harvey de Borham, Dean of St. Paul's, and to the Chapter there, that in Consideration of 22 Acres of Ground, or Land, by them granted, within their Manor of Westley in Essex, to be inclosed into his Park at Curingham; he would (for ever) upon the Feast-Day of the Conversion of St. Paul, in Winter, give to them a good Doe, seasonable and sweet: And upon the Feast of the Commemoration of St. Paul, in Summer, a good Buck, and offer the same at the high Altar; the same to be spent amongst the Canons Residents. The Doe to be brought by one Man, at the Hour of Procession, and through the Procession to the high Altar; and the Bringer to have nothing. The Buck to be brought by all his Meyney in like manner, and they to have paid unto them by the Church, 12 d. only, and no more to be required.

THIS Grant he made, and for Performance bound the Lands of him and his Heirs to be distrained on; and if the Lands should be evicted, that yet he and his Heirs should accomplish the Gift. Witnesses, Richard Tilbery, William de Wockendon, Richard de Harlowe, Knt. Peter of Stanford, Thomas of Waldon, and some others.

Sir Walter Baude, Son to William, confirmed this Gift in the 30th of the said King; and the Witnesses thereunto were Nicholas de Wockendon, Rich. de Rokeley, Thomas de Mandevile, John de Rochford, Knights, Richard de Broniford, William de Markes, William de Fulham, and others. Thus much for the Grant.

Now, what follows, Stow had heard by Report, and partly seen:

ON the Feast Day of the Commemoration of St. Paul, the Buck being brought up to the Steps of the High Altar in St. Paul's Church, at the Hour of Procession, the Dean and Chapter apparelled in Coats and Vestments, with Garlands of Roses on their Heads, they sent the Body of the Buck to baking, and had the Head fixed on a Pole, before the Cross in their Procession, until they issued out of the West-Door; where the Keeper that brought it blowed the Death of the Buck, and then the Horners that were about the City, presently answered him in like Manner: For which Pains, they had each Man of the Dean and Chapter 4*d.* in Money, and their Dinner; and the Keeper that brought it, during his Abode there (for that Service) Meat, Drink, and Lodging, at the Dean and Chapter's Charges, and 5*s.* in Money at his going away; together with a Loaf of Bread, having the Picture of St. Paul upon it, &c.

THERE was belonging to the Church of St. Paul, for both the Days, two special Suits of Vestments, the one embroidered with Bucks, the other with Does, both given by the said Baudes. Thus much for that Matter.

Mr. Strype says, the finding of Scalps of Oxen and Kine near this Church of St. Paul, mentioned before, may move a Question, Whether it denoted not a Religious Place of the Heathen Saxons? Since they, at their Festivals, sacrificed Oxen, and perhaps, after they became Christians too. Which appears from the Direction that Pope Gregory gave to St. Austin, the Monk, for propagating Christian Religion among them: Where he speaks of their sacrificing abundance of Oxen to Devils. But he (Austin) should not abolish that Custom, but appointed new Festivals, either in Honour of the Saints to whom their Churches were dedicated, or whose Relicks were deposited therein; and that making Arbours with Branches of Trees, round their Churches, (according as those Pagan Saxons used in their Religious Worship) they should be allowed to kill their Oxen, and feast and enjoy themselves as they did before in their former Pagan State, only they should offer their Thanks and Praises unto God.

BUT the late very Learned Prelate, Bishop Stillingfleet, (in a Tract he wrote of the true Antiquity of LONDON, and its State in the Roman Times) confutes the Assertion, that any Temple of Diana stood here, from the Consideration by whom she should be worshipped: Since neither Britons, Romans, nor Saxons did; or if either of them did, Would they have worshipped her in that Manner? Britons and Saxons had no such Deity. Cæsar mentioning the Gods that were worshipped both by the Gauls, and the Germans, made no Mention of Diana; or if they had worshipped her, How came a Temple to be built her, when the Druids, their Priests, performed all their Superstitious Worship in Groves; which were all the Temples in use among them? That it is true among the Romans Diana was in great Request: But Stags were proper Sacrifices to her, or Sheep were allowed; but not Oxen. And whereas Cambden said Tauropolia were kept in Honour to Diana, these had no Relation to Oxen, (as the Word seems to signify) but to the Worship of Diana, who was called Taurica, as Mr. Selden has learnedly observed: And that she was a Scythian Deity, and worshipped with Human Sacrifices: So that learned Man. Yet others say, it is very certain she was worshipped in Britain, as appears by an Image of her, digged out of the Ground in Monmouthshire, An. 1602, girt about, and short trussed, bearing a Quiver.

Now to the Residue of Monuments which were beneath the Stairs, in the Sides and Body of the Church:

Henry Guildford, Lord Marshal, was buried in the Apostle's Chapel, 1313.

Richard Newport, Bishop, 1318.

Sir John Beauchamp, Constable of Dover, Warden of the Ports, Knight of the Garter, the Son of Sir Guy Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, and Brother to Thomas Earl of Warwick, lies buried in the Body of the Church, on the South Side, 1358, within a proper Chapel purposely made for him.

SOME ignorant Persons mistook this for the Tomb of Humphry, Duke of Gloucester, who lay buried at St. Alban's, and used to hold solemn Meetings here, on St. Andrew's Day in the Morning, and concluded on a Breakfast or Dinner, as being his Servants, and holding several Offices under him.

LIKEWISE on May Day, Tankard-Bearers, Waiters, and some other of like Quality beside, would use to come to the same Tomb early in the Morning, and (according as the other) have delivered serviceable Presentation at the same Monument, by strewing Herbs, and sprinkling fair Water on it; as in the Duty of Servants, and according to their Degrees and Charges in Office. But Stow discreetly advised such as were so merrily disposed, or simply professed themselves to serve Duke Humphry in St. Paul's; if Punishment of losing their Dinners daily there, were not sufficient for them, they should be sent to St. Alban's, to answer there for their Disobedience, and long Absence from their so highly well-deserving Lord and Master, because in their merry Disposition they pleased so to call him.

Margaret, Countess of Shrewsbury, in the Crowds, or Jesus Chapel, as appears by an Inscription on a Pillar there:

Here, before the Image of JESUS, lyeth the Worshipfull and Right Noble Countess of Shrewsbury, late Wife of the true and victorious Knight, and redoubtable Warriour, J. Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury; which Worshipfull Man dyed in Guien, for the Right of this Land. Shee was the first Daughter, and one of the Heyres of the right famous and renowned Knight, Richard Beauchamp, late Earl of Warwicke, (which dyed in Roane) and of Dame Elizabeth, his Wife: The which Elizabeth was Daughter and Heyre to Thomas, late Lord Berkly, on his Side; and on her Mother's Side, Lady Lisle and Tyes: Which Countesse passed from this World the 14th Day of June, in the Yeere of our Lord 1468; on whose Soul JESUS have Mercy. Amen.

Wenlocke, by his last Will, dated 1477, appointed that there should be expended upon a Monument over the Lady of Shrewsbury, where she is buried, before Jesus, 100*l.* He left Sir Humphry Talbot his Supervisor. This Sir Humphry Talbot, Knt. Lord Marshal of the Town of Calais, made his Will the Year 1492. He was was the younger Son of John Earl of Shrewsbury, and Margaret, his Wife. He appointed a Stone to be put into a Pillar before the Grave of his Lady Mother in St. Paul's, of his Portraiture and Arms, according to the Will of John Wenlock. But for want of Room and Lightfomness in that Place, it was concluded, that the Image of Jesus should be curiously painted on the Wall in St. Paul's Church, over the Door that enters into the said Chapel of Jesus, and the Portraiture also of the said Lady Margaret, Countess of Shrewsbury, kneeling in her Mantle of Arms, with other of her Progeny: All which was so performed accordingly.

In the Chapel of Jesus, Thomas Dowroy, William Lambe, 1578, and many others have been interred.

John of LONDON, under the North Rood, 1266.

John Lovell; Clerk.

John Romane.

John of St. Olave.

Walter Bloxley.

Sir Allen Boxhul, Knight of the Garter, Constable of the Tower; Custos of the Forest and Park of Clarendon, the Forest of Brokholt, Grovel, and Melchet, buried beside St. Erkenwald's Shrine.

THE following Inscription is in Brass by Sir John Beauchamp's Tomb:

Hic jacet Dominus Richardus de Pirton, quondam Archidiaconus Colcestriae, Canonicus & Stagiarius hujus Ecclesiae. Qui obiit 26 die Augusti, Anno Domini 1387. Cujus animae propitiatur Deus.

In St. Thomas's Chapel, near the North-Door:

John Nevil, Lord Latimer, in Anno 1542, whose Widow was the last Wife to King Henry VIII. lies there interred; but his Tomb was very much wronged and defaced, in Stow's Time.

A Brass Plate above in the Wall, near the North Door:

Thomas Lynacrus Regis Henrici 8. Medicus, Vir & Graece & Latine atque in re Medica longe eruditissimus. Multos aetate suae languentes, & qui jam animam desponderant, vitae restituit: Multa Galenii opera Latina lingua mira & singulari facundia, vertit. Egregium opus de emendata structura Latini sermonis, amicorum rogatu, paulo ante mortem edidit. Medicinae studiosis Oxoniae publicas lectiones duas, Cantabrigiae unam in perpetuum stabilivit. In hac urbe Collegium medicorum fieri sua industria curavit, cujus & Praesidens proximus electus est: Fraudes dolosque mire perosus, fidus amicis, omnibus ordinibus iuxta charus: Aliquot annis antequam obierit Presbyter factus. Plenus annis, ex hac vita migravit multum desideratus, Anno Domini 1524, die 7 Octob.

Vivat post Funera Virtus,

Thomae Lynacro clarissimo Medico, Joannes

Cajus posuit, Anno 1557.

ON a Monument erected in the Wall, near the Stairs going up into the North Choir:

Memoriae Sacrum,

Edwardo Stanhopo, Michaelis Stanhopi ex ordine Equestri filio, Equiti Aurato, Legum Doctori, Episcopi Londinensis Cancellario, Archiepiscopi Cantuariensis Vicario Generali, in publicis Ecclesiae & Reipublicae negotiis versatissimo. Qui certa spe in Christo resurgendi, pie placideque animam Deo reddidit, die 16 Martii, 1608.

Joannes, Baro Stanhopus de Harington, & Michael Stanhopus, Eques Auratus, fratres mestissimi, Officiorum Pietatis ergo P. P.

Thomas Kempe, Bishop of LONDON, in a proper Chapel, termed of the Trinity, lies there buried, in Anno 1489, as appears, not only by his Name and Arms thereon, in several Places, but likewise by this ensuing Inscription, engraven on a Plate, and fixed in the same Chapel:

Infra Capellam istam requiescit corpus D. Thomae Kempe, quondam Episcopi LONDON. fundatoris ejusdem, & unius Cantariae perpetuae in eadem. Qui multa bona tempore vitae suae Ecclesiae Sancti Pauli dedit, & stetit 39 Annis, 84 diebus Episcopus LONDON. Ac obiit 28 die Mensis Martii, An. Domini 1489. Cujus animae propitiatur Deus. Amen.

Richard Vaughan, likewise Bishop of LONDON, lies buried in the said Chapel, 1607.

ON a Brass Plate fixed in the Wall, near the great North Door:

Gulielmo Lilio, Paulinae Scholae olim Praeceptoris Primario, & Agnetae Conjugi, in sacratissimo hujus Templi Coemiterio hinc a tergo nunc destructo confepultis: Georgius Lilius, hujus Ecclesiae Canonicus, parentum memoriae pie consulens, Tabellam hanc ab amicis conservatam, hic reponendam curavit.

Obiit ille G. L. An. Dom. 1522. Calend. Mart. Vixit An 54.

Memoriae Sacrum,

Thomas Ravis, claris natalibus Mauldenae in Suthreia natus, Regius Alumnus in Schola Westmonasteriensi educatus, in Academiam Oxoniensem adscitus, omnes Academicos honores consequutus, & Magistratibus perfunctus, Decanus Ecclesiae Christi ibidem constitutus, & bis Academiae Pro-Cancellarius. Unde ob doctrinam, gravitatem, & spectatam prudentiam, a Rege Jacobo, primum ad Episcopatum Glocestrensem provectus, deinde ad Londinensem translatus, & demum a Christo, dum Ecclesiae, Patriae, Principi vigilaret, in Coelestem Patriam evocatus placide pieque emigravit, & quod mortale fuit, certa spe resurgendi, hic deposuit, die 14 Decembris, An. Salutis, 1609.

Gulielmus Harington, Jurisconsultus, Protontarius Apostolicus, D. Pauli Canonicus, ex illis quos Residentiarios dicunt: Patria Eboracensis natus in pago qui Estrynton vocitatur, Patre Gulielmo Haringtono, viro claro, genere orto in pago Commerlandiae non ignobili, qui Neubysing nuncupatur; & Matre Joanna, Filia Gulielmi Haskae, aliter Balivi dicti, viri Generosi in eodem pago Estryngton nata: memor exitus vitae, qui omnibus horis impendat, hoc sibi sepulchrum posuit. Anno Salutis humanae, 1523.

ON a Table hanging on a Pillar, in the South Isle :

Six Lines this Image shall delineate, Hight Croft high born,
in Spirit and Virtue high ;
Approv'd, beloved, a Knight,
flout Mars his Mate, Loves Fire, Warres Flame,
in Heart, Head, Hand, and Eie :
Which Flame, Warres Comet,
Grace now so resignes,
That fixt in Heaven, in Heaven and Earth it shines.

PROSOPOPEIA.

The Wombe and Tombe
in Name be not so neere,
As Life to Death
and Birth is to the Beere.
Oh! then how soon to Beere are Captaines brought,
That now doe live, and dye
now with a Thought.
Then, Captaines, stay and reade, still think on me,
For with a Thought,
what I am, you may be.

As Mars neere Mors doth sound,
So Mors neere Mars is found.

SOMEWHAT near to the Convocation-Stairs,
a fair plated Stone on the Ground :

Hoc Saxo tegitur corpus Thomæ Creke, L.
Doctoris, & Almæ Curia Cantuar. de Arcubus Londini Advocatorum unius, viri utriusque Juris tam Canonici quam Civilis scientia non modo pe-ritissimi, sed & eorundem usu & praxi longo tempore exercitatissimi. Cujus in Clientum causas defendendo, industria quanta fuit, quanta inte-gritas, quanta fides, quanta denique si quid contra votum, & (ut sibi videbatur) æquitatem accidebat sollicitudo, & ii qui ejus usi sunt patro-cinio optime prædicare possunt ; & celebris il-lius famæ memoria nunquam moritura verissime prædicavit.

Honeste vixit,
Neminem læsit,
Suum cuique tribuit.

IN the Body of the Church, on the South
Side, a fair Stone thus inscribed :

Hic requiescit in Domino Gulielmus Dethick,
Eques Auratus, filius & hæres Gilberti Dethick, Equitis Aurati. Qui ambo fuerunt Garterii Principales Reges Armorum Angliæ. Quorum hic
An. 1584. Ætatis suæ 48. Ille Anno 1612.
Ætatis suæ 70, in Domino obdormierunt, expectantes resurrectionem per Jesum Christum sal-vatores nostrum.

Domina Thomasina super 40. Annos uxor præ-dicti Williel. & filii Georgius, Gilbertus & Henericus pietatis ergo posuerunt.

ON a fair plated Stone, in the West End of the Middle Isle :

Hic jacet Robertus Hare, quondam Clericus
Thesauri & Scriptor Rotulorum de Receptione
& exitu Thesauri scaccarii. Qui obiit senex die
2 Novemb. An. 1611.

John King, Bishop of LONDON, descended from the antient Kings of Devonshire, by his Father ; and from the Conquests of Houghton Conquest, in Bedfordshire, by his Mother, lies buried in the South Isle of St. Paul's, behind the Bishop's Seat ; having only a plain Marble over him, and the Resurgam written on it for his Epitaph, as he himself directed in his Will.

BUT there was a very long Copy of Latin
Verfes hung on a Table by it.

Valentine Carey, some Time Dean of St. Paul's Church, and afterwards Bishop of Exeter, lay buried on the South Side of the Choir, under a plain Stone, with this Inscription about it :

Hic jacet Valentinus Carey, Sacræ Theologiæ
Doctor, olim Decanus hujus Ecclesiæ, qui obiit Episcopus Exon. Cujus Monumentum ibidem erectum patet. 1626.

IN the South Side of the Choir of St. Paul's Church, stood a white Marble Statue on an Urn, with this Inscription over it :

Joannes Donne
Sac. Theolog. profess.
Post varia studia, quibus ab Annis tenerrimis Fideliter, nec infelicitè incubuit,
Instinctu, & Impulsu Spir. Sancti,
Monitu, & Hortatu Regis Jacobi.
Anno sui Jesu 1614. & suæ Ætat. 42.
Decanatu hujus Ecclesiæ indutus
27. Novemb. 1621.
Exutus morte ultimo die
Martii, An. 1631.
Hic licet in Occiduo Cinere,
Aspicit eum
Cujus Nomen, est Oriens.

THE Stone bearing this Inscription, was in the Middle Isle of this Church, not far from the Steps to the Chancel :

Spe Resurgendi
Hic jacet
Thomas Raymond
Sacræ Theologiæ
Professor,
Sancti Albani
Archidiaconus,
Hujusque Ecclesiæ
Canonicus,
Obiit 4 die Novembris,
Anno { Ætatis 47.
{ Salutis 1631.

NOT far from this, a Stone with these Words
about it :

Hic jacet Gulielmus Bonham, nuper Civis, & Vinitarius LONDON. Filius Thomæ Bonham, de Stanway, in Comitatu Essex, Arm. Qui obiit duodecimo Februarii, Anno Dom. 1628.

NOT far from the other, over-against the little North Door, in the same Isle, under a fair Marble Stone, without any Inscription upon it, lay buried the Body of Dr. Houson, Bishop of Durham.

Here was also interred Sir Anthony Van Dyke, a most noble and natural Face Painter ; wherein he far excelled his Master, Sir P. P. Rubens ; and for Delicacy of Colours almost equalled Titian himself. Ob. Anno 1641, aged 42.

IN the Vault (where, before the Fire,) was the Parish-Church of St. Faith, under the present Choir of St. Paul's) which is 39 Steps, or about 17 Feet below the Area, or Floor of the Church ;

Church; and probably one of the most capacious, and every Way curious Vaults in the World, and where the Coffins are buried in the Ground, and lie not on the Surface, as in other Vaults, are these Monuments, Inscriptions, and Arms following:

A very neat white Marble Monument, with the Figures of the Party playing on a Spinnet, Harp, and an Organ, with Musick Books sustained by a Cupid (as it were attending) and higher is a Gruppa of Cherubims appearing above the Clouds, all curiously carved in Relievo, by Mr. Bird, and this Inscription:

M. S.

Desideratissimæ Virginis Janæ Wren, Clariss. Dom. Christopheri Wren Filiæ unicæ, Paternæ indolis literis deditæ, Piæ, Benevolæ, Domisæ, arte musica Peritissimæ.

Here lies the Body of Mrs. Jane Wren, only Daughter of Sir Christopher Wren, Knt. by Dame Jane, his Wife, Daughter of William Lord Fitz-William, Baron of Lifford, in the Kingdom of Ireland, ob. 29 Decemb. Anno 1702. Ætat. 26. The Arms; see those impaled in the next Monument with Holder.

A handsome Marble Monument, enriched with Festoons, and Mantling elevated by two Cupids, with this Inscription in two Tables:

H. S. E.

Gulielmus Holder, S. T. P. sacelli Regalis Subdecanus Sereniss. Regiæ Majestati subelemosinarius Ecclesiæ Sti. Pauli & Eliens. Canonicus, Societatis Regiæ LOND. Sodalis, &c. Amplis quidem Titulis donatus amplissimis dignus. Vir perelegantis & amæni ingenii scientias Industria sua Illustravit liberalitate promovit, Egregii Eruditus Theologicis, Mathematicis, & Arte Musica, Memoriam Excolite Posteris & a Lucubrationibus suis Editis Loquela Principia agnoscite & Harmoniæ. Obiit 24 Jan. 1697. 82.

ON the second Table these Words:

Susanna Holder, late Wife of William Holder, D. D. Residentiary of this Church, Daughter of Dr. Christopher Wren, late Dean of Windsor, and Sister of Sir Christopher Wren, Knt.

Among other her excellent Endowments of Prudence, Virtue and Piety, her Charity was no small Blessing to the Neighbourhood wherever she resided; having, in Compassion to the Poor, applied herself to the Knowledge of Medicinal Remedies, wherein God so gave a great Blessing, that Thousands were happily healed by her, and no one ever miscarried. King Charles II. Queen Catharine, and very many of the Court, had also Experience of her successful Hand. After 45 Years happily and honourably passed in Conjugal State and Cares, at the Age of 61, she piously rendered her Soul to God the last Day of June, Anno Dom. 1688.

ARMS of Holder: Sable, a Chevron between three Anchors Argent, impaled with her Paternal Coat, viz. Argent, a Chevron between three Lions Heads erased, Sable, on a Chief, Gules, three Cross Croquets, Or.

NEAR the last mentioned Monument is another on the same Pillar of White Marble, with Enrichments of Cherubims, divers Kinds of Flowers, Fruits, Leaves, Skeletons Heads, and within an Elipsis this Inscription:

Siste gradum, Peripatetice, Edmundi Wiseman, ordinis Equestri, viri Ingenio, divitiis, virtutibus divitioris, octavo Iduum Maii, Anno Dom. 1704. Ætat. 71.

Vitam Mortalem pro Immortali feliciter uti spes est commutans, necnon Elizæ, Conjugis, Faminæ an mores sanctos Castosve species, nequaquam tanto imparis viro, unius nati Natarum quatuor parentis, Idus Decemb. 8vo. Anno Dom. 1694. Ætat. 52.

E Domo Terrestri in Cœlestem spem juxta Christianam translata, residua haud procul reconducuntur, ARMS: Sable, a Chevron, Ermin between three Cronels of a Tilt Spear, Argent, impaled with Or, a Bend, Sable between three Leopards Heads, Gules, and the Crest an armed Man, with Shield and Spear standing on a Tower, Proper.

A spacious Black and White Marble Monument, in Memory of Mr. Robert Martin, an Eminent Bookseller, and Printer to the Royal Society. 'Tis adorned with the Figures of himself and Wife, in a kneeling Posture: Also two Children between three Cherubims, enriched with Laurel-Branches, Books, Mantling, and these Arms:

Two Bars impaled with on a Chev. five Roundles.
All inclosed with strong Rail and Ballister.

IN the same Vault is a Monument with this Inscription:

Here lyeth the Body of Mr. Thomas Bennet, Citizen and Stationer of LONDON, who married Mrs. Elizabeth Whitewrong, eldest Daughter of James Whitewrong of Rothamstead, in the County of Hertford, Esq; by whom he had one Son and two Daughters, and departed this Life August the 26th, in the Year of our Lord 1706, and in the 42d Year of his Age.

AND not far from the Monuments erected for his Daughter and Sister, lies interred the Body of Sir Christopher Wren. Here is only a plain Stone set up against the Wall, with the following Inscription; nor was there need of more, this Church itself, and many others in LONDON, being sufficient Monuments to his Memory:

Subtus conditur
Hujus Ecclesiæ & urbis Conditor, CHRISTOPHORUS WREN,
Qui vixit annos ultro Nonaginta,
Non sibi sed Bono Publico.
Lector, si Monumentum requiris, Circumspice.
Obiit 25 Feb. anno 1723.
Ætat. 93.

IN this Cathedral Church, besides these Monuments erected to eminent Men, deceased, were, in former Times, Sculptures, Statues, and Images of worthy Men, set up in Tables. Among such, was that of Thomas Earl of Lancaster, a Plantagenet, Grandson of K. Henry III. He was one of the Chief of the Barons and Nobility that opposed King Edward II. in his Misgovernment, by Reason of Gaveston, and the Spencers. But afterwards he was overthrown by the King's Party, and Beheaded at Pomfret. But so beloved he was of the Citizens, that they had his Effigies set up in St. Paul's; which they offered Prayers and Oblations to, and supposed that he did Miracles: And

And this, notwithstanding the King's Hatred of him, who hearing of this, was exceeding angry, and wrote a Letter from York, to Stephen Bishop of LONDON, declaring his Resentment of it, and commanding him to restrain the People from doing this any more; considering, not only that he was his Rebel, but that it was done without Authority of the Church of Rome. The King's Letter, which is among the Records of the Tower, has several Things in it worth noting.

REX Venerabil. patri Stephano, &c. The King, &c. to the venerable Father Stephen, by the same Grace Bishop of LONDON, Greeting. It hath come to our Ears, which we learn heavily, that very many of the People committed to your Charge, by a diabolical Fraud deceived, foolishly repairing to a certain Table being in the Church of St. Paul, LONDON, in which are painted the Statues, Sculptures, or Resemblances of divers Persons, and among the rest, the Effigies of Thomas, some Time Earl of Lancaster, our Enemy and Rebel; and do worship and adore it as some sanctified Thing, without the Authority of the Church of Rome, asserting Miracles to be done there; to the Disgrace of the whole Church, the Dishonour of Us and You, and the manifest Danger of the Souls of the People before said, and the pernicious Example of others, which you knowing such Abuses to prevail in the People to you committed, by winking at them, have permitted to be done; or rather for Profit and filthy Lucre sake, have dissembled; about which we are not a little troubled.

Therefore We command you, firmly enjoyning, that the Premises, with a provident Deliberation weighed; and considering that the said Church is of our Patronage, and that you, on Account of the Fealty to us given, are bound to consult for the preserving our Honour, and to decline our Disgrace, by all Means restrain the said People, that they do not presume to come to the said Table, and there to make Prayers, Offerings, or other Things tending to Divine Worship, without the Authority of the Church of Rome; as ye know, by Vertue of your Duty, belongeth to you, according to Canonical Sanctions. And that ye so carry yourself in this Behalf, that ye may avoid God's and our Indignation. And that the People before said, being by the Prudence of your Doctrine wholesomely instructed, may wholly desist from the said Abuses; and that the setting forth of your Praise may spread among the same People; and that we may deservedly continue our Benevolence conceived towards you, and the Church aforesaid. And what ye resolve to do upon these Things, write back to us by your Letter, without Loss of Time. Witness, the King at York, the 28th Day of June.

August the 1st, Anno the 1st and 2d of Philip and Mary, the following Act of Common-Council was made, For the preventing of Prophanation and Abuses offered to St. Paul's:

FOrasmuch as the material Temples of God were first ordained for the lawful and devout Assembly of People, there to lift up their Hearts, and to laud and praise Almighty God; and to hear his Divine Service, and most Holy Word and Gospel, sincerely said, sung, and taught; and not to be used as Markets, or other prophane Places or Thorow-fares, with Carriage of Things: And for that (now of late Years) many of the Inhabitants of the City of LONDON, and other People repairing thither, have (and yet do) commonly use and accustom themselves very unseemly and unreverently (the more the Pity) to make their common Carriage of great Vessels full of Ale and Beer, great Baskets full of Bread, Fish, Flesh, and Fruit, and such other Things; Fardels of Stuff, and other gross Wares and Things, thorow the Cathedral Church of St. Paul's. And some, in leading Moyles, Horses, and other Beasts through the same unreverently; to the great Dishonour and Displeasure of Almighty God, and the great Grief also and Offence of all good People: Be it therefore, for Remedy and Reformation thereof, ordained, enacted, and established, &c. That no Person, either Free or Foreign, of what Estate or Condition soever, do at any Time, from henceforth, carry or convey, or cause to be carried through the said Cathedral, any Manner of great Vessel, or Basket, with Bread, Ale, Beer, Fish, Flesh, &c. or any other like Thing, or Things, upon Pain of Forfeiture, or losing for every such his or their first Offence, 3 s. 4 d. for the second, 6 s. 8 d. for the third, 10 s. and for every other Offence, after such third Time, to forfeit 10 s. and to suffer two Days and two Nights Imprisonment, without Bail or Mainprise. The one Moiety of all which Pains and Penalties, shall be to Christ's Hospital within Newgate, and the other Half to him that will sue for the same in any Court of Record within the City; by Bill, original Plaint, or Information, to be commenced, or sued, in the Name of the Chamberlain of the said City, for the Time being; wherein none Essoine, or Wager of Law for the Defendant, shall be admitted, or allowed.

To this Grand Cathedral belong the following Dignitaries:

DEAN,

The Right Reverend Father in God, Francis Hare, Lord Bishop of Chichester.

Archdeacon of LONDON, Dr. Tyrwhit.

Archdeacon of Essex, Dr. Gooch.

Precentor, Dr. Dilbyn.

Treasurer, Dr. Astry.

Chancellor, Dr. Booth, Dean of Windsor.

PREBENDARIES 30.

The three first are Residentiaries.

12 Minor (or Petty) Canons.

6 Vicars Choral.

1 Subdean, } The three first Minor Canons.
2 Cardinals, }

THE Chapter consists of the Dean and the three Residentiaries; the Dean has two Votes, so that he and one of the Residentiaries are a Majority in all Debates. The Antiquity of the Bishoprick and Deanary, may be judged by the following Catalogues of the Bishops and Deans.

THERE are Prayers in this Cathedral at 10 and three daily; and in the Chapel at 6 in the Morning.

THE Sermon every Sunday Morning is preached by Appointment of the Lord Mayor of LONDON, for which the Minister has 40 s. paid him immediately. This was left by several Persons, and Issues out of the Chamber of LONDON. And on Sunday in the Afternoon, the Residentiaries preach in their Turns.

THIS Dean and Chapter have the Presentation to several Livings. The Deanary is said, by some, to be worth upwards of 1000 l. and the Residentiaries 300 l. per Annum; but the Rates in the King's Books are as follow:

THE Great Bell in this Cathedral is said to weigh four Ton, four C. and 4 lb. Round the Cemetary is a most magnificent and expensive Iron Ballustrade; and, in the Middle of that Part fronting the West Entrance, is a Marble Statue of the late Queen Anne, with four Figures round the Pedestal, which seem to be much better executed than the principal Figure, the Habit and Altitude of which are very stiff and formal.

UPON great Festivals, and solemn Occasions, to this Cathedral Church repair in great Grandeur not only the Mayor and Aldermen, and Companies of the City, but also the Kings and Princes, attended with their Nobility and Court. In the remarkable Year 1588, Nov. 18, when Queen Elizabeth had got the Victory of the great threatening Armada of Spain, and had now began the 30th Year of her Reign, she repaired thither to thank God, with her Officers and Court attending, in the following Order :

Messengers of the Chamber.
Gentlemen Harbingers.
Gentlemen.
Esquires.
Sewers of the Chamber.
Six Clerks of the Chancery.

	The Marshal of England.	The Great Chamber- lain of England.
Serj. at Arms. Pensioners. Equerries. Footmen.	The Sword born by the Lord Cham- berlain.	Equerries. Footmen.	Serj. at Arms. Pensioners.
	The QUEEN'S Majesty.
	The Palfry of Honour led by the Master of the Horse.	The Chief Ladies of Honour.
	The Vice Chamberlain. All other Ladies of Honour. The Captain of the Guard. The Guards.

UPON a like Occasion of Solemn Thank-giving, viz. for the mighty Victory gain'd over the French and Bavarians, in the Battle of Blenheim, under the Conduct of the Great Duke of Marlborough, Queen Anne came triumphantly to St. Paul's, September 7, 1704. The Cavalcade was in the Order following:

All the Lords and Privy Counsellors that were in and about the Town, met about Eight in the Morning in the Council-Chamber at St. James's; the Knights of the most Noble Order of the Garter, wearing the Collars of the said Order:
And having been marshalled by the Officers of Arms, proceeded about Ten o'Clock, in their Coaches with Six Horses each, towards St. Paul's Church.

Her Majesty came afterwards, attended in the following Manner:

First, The Knight Marshal, with his Men on Horseback.

Then the Equerries, and Gentlemen-Ushers to his Royal Highness Prince George of Denmark, in his Leading Coach.

One Equerry, two Pages of Honour, and the Gentlemen-Ushers in waiting, in her Majesty's Leading Coach.

Then the Women of the Bed-Chamber to her Majesty, in another of her Majesty's Coaches.

The Maids of Honour in another.

The Lords of his Royal Highness's Bed-Chamber, in his Body Coach.

Four Ladies of her Majesty's Bed-chamber, viz. the Dutchess of Somerset, the Marchioness of Hartington, the Lady Henrietta Godolphin, and the Countess of Abingdon, in the travelling Body Coach.

The Duke of Somerset, Master of the Horse, with the Duke of Ormond, the Captain of the Guards in waiting, in her Majesty's Body Chariot; each drawn by Six Horses.

A Detachment of the Horse Grenadiers.

Her Majesty's Footmen.

After them, the Yeomen of the Guard, on Foot; some before, and some on each Side of her Majesty's Coach.

Then her MAJESTY, with his Royal Highness, the Dutchess of Marlborough, Groom of the Stole, and the Lady Fretcheville, being the Lady of the Bed-chamber in waiting, in the Coach of State, drawn by Eight Horses.

Her Majesty's First Troop of Horse Guards closed the Procession.

THE Streets, thro' which her Majesty passed;
were lined from St. James's as far as Temple-Bar, by the Militia of Westminster. From thence to St. Paul's, they were railed and hung with Blue Cloth, the City Trained Bands lining both Sides.
And upon Scaffolds, erected for that Purpose, were placed the several Companies in their Gowns, with their respective Flags, Streamers, and Musick. A Battalion of each of her Majesty's Regiments of Foot Guards made a Lane from the West Entrance into the Church to the Door of the Choir. The Balconies, and the Windows of the Houses, were hung with Carpets, and rich Tapestry, and crowded with great Numbers of Spectators.

AT Temple-Bar her Majesty was met by the Lord Mayor, in a Gown of Crimson Velvet, and the Aldermen and Sheriffs in their Scarlet Gowns, being all on Horseback. The Lord Mayor alighted, made a short Speech to her Majesty, and surrender'd to her the City Sword. Which she was pleased to return to him again. And he carry'd it before her Majesty to the Church, the Aldermen and Sheriffs riding before him.

HER Majesty being come to St. Paul's, was met at the West Door, at her alighting out of the Coach, by the great Officers of State, the Nobility and Privy Counsellors: Who from thence proceeded to the Choir in the following Order:

First, Two Officers at Arms.

Then the Privy Counsellors who were not Peers; two and two.

Five Officers at Arms.

The Peers, Temporal and Spiritual; two and two.

Norroy, King at Arms.

The great Officers of State, viz. the Lord
Privy Seal, Lord President, Lord Treasurer, Lord Keeper, and Lord Archbishop of Canterbury.

The Serjeants at Arms, with their Maces, and Garter King at Arms.

The Duke of Richmond, with the Sword of State.

Her Majesty, led by his Royal Highness; and follow'd by the Dutchess of Marlborough, and the Lady Fretcheville.

The Earl of Kent, Lord Chamberlain of her Majesty's Household, and the Right Honourable the Vice Chamberlain, attending near her Majesty's Person.

The Duke of Ormond, Captain of the Guard, and the Duke of St. Albans, at the Head of the Band of Gentlemen-Pensioners, closed the Procession.

Her Majesty and his Royal Highness being enter'd into the Choir, seated themselves in two Armed Chairs, on a Throne, without a Canopy, erected at the West End thereof, opposite to the Altar.

Behind her Majesty, were Stools for two of the Ladies of the Bed-chamber, and the great Officers in waiting, attending her Majesty and his Royal Highness.

The Peers and Privy Counsellors were placed on the North Side of the Choir.

The Ladies of the Bed-chamber, in the Stalls on the South Side.

The Maids of Honour, and her Majesty's
Bed-chamber-women, below them.

The Peereesses were placed at the West End of the middle Gallery.

The Foreign Ministers, with their Ladies, filled the Places prepared for them in the middle Gallery, on the same Side with the Peers.

The Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Sheriffs
Ladies, were seated at the East End of that Gallery.

The Lord Mayor and Aldermen, at the East End of the South Side.

The Members of the Honourable House of Commons that were in Town, filled the Upper Gallery on the North Side.

The Ladies and other Persons of Quality, that attended at this Solemnity, filled the rest of the Galleries.

The

The Dean and Prebendaries sat within the Rails of the Altar, except such as officiated in reading of Prayers.

The Reverend Dr. Sherlock, Dean of the Church, preached.

The Lord Mayor and Aldermen, understanding some Days before that they were not to sit in the Places where they were accustomed to sit, were disgusted, till they were informed, that whatsoever Church the Queen resorted to, it was her Chapel; and her Great Officers were first to be provided of convenient Places, proper to their Quality and Dignity, before all others.

IN the like Manner her Majesty went to St. Paul's on the 23d of August 1705, being a Day of Publick Thanksgiving for the Success of her Arms under the Duke of Marlborough, in forcing the French Lines in Flanders, and afterwards fighting and beating them within those Lines.

ON the 26th of June 1706, the said Queen came again in State to St. Paul's, on the Publick Thanksgiving for a third great Victory obtained over the French at Ramellies in Brabant, and the Successes in Spain.

ON Thursday May the 1st, 1707, being a Day of Publick Thanksgiving, appointed for the UNION of the two Kingdoms of England and Scotland, the Queen came to St. Paul's, attended by a great Number of English and Scottish Nobility.

AND in the Year 1708, two Publick Mercies brought her hither again, the first solemnly to sing Te Deum for the Deliverance from the French King's intended Invasion of the North Part of Great Britain; and the other for the Victory obtain'd in the Battle of Audenard in Flanders.

The PARISH of St. FAITH.

UNDER St. Paul's was antiently the Church of St. Faith. Of which it was used to be said:

*This Church needs no Repair at all;
For Faith's defended by St. Paul.*

AFTER the Fire of LONDON, this Parish was united, by Act of Parliament, to that of St. Augustine.

MONUMENTS in the old Church were these:

ON a fair plated Stone over a Vault in the East End of the Church.

Here buried is Elizabeth,
of Honour worthy Dame,
Her Husband erst Lord Shandoys was her Sonne hath now like Name:
Her Father was of Wilton Lord,
a Gray of puissant Fame,
Her Brother left with us behinde,
now Lord is of the same.
Her vertuous Life yet still doth live,
her Honour shall remaine;
Her Corps, though it be growne to Dust,
her Soule the Heavens containe.

Quæ obiit 29 die Decembris, Anno Domini 1559.

This Lady Shandois was, on the 3d of January 1559, carried from her Place in Knight-riders-street, to Jesus Chapel, with Priests and Clerks singing, attended with Heralds at Arms;

and five Banners of Arms, of her's and her Husband's, and of her Pedigree; the Church hung with Black, and Escutcheons of Arms. A Sermon preached, and afterwards all the Company retired to her Place to Dinner, according to the Custom of Funerals in those Times.

ON a fair plated Stone near the former,

Lo! Thomas Mond, Esquire by Birth,
doth under buried lye,

To shew that Men (by Nature's Law)
are borne to live and dye:

In Shropshire at the Mindtowne borne,
the Time we here prefixe,

And dyed the Seventh of February,
in Anno Seventy Sixe.

Threescore and seven Yeeres he saw,
though Body lye in Tombe:

His Soule (immortall) lives in Heaven;
by God's eternal Doome.

Natus Octavo Mensis Julii, 1510.

Obiit Septimo Februarii 1576.

ANOTHER Stone close adjoining:

Here under this Stone resteth, in the Mercy of God, the Body of M. Thomas Dockwray, Notary, late one of the Protectors of the Arches, Citizen and Stationer of LONDON, and Anne his Wife. The which Thomas deceased the 23d Day of June, Anno Dom. 1559, &c.

ON a plated Stone in the Middie Isle:

William Babham, and Alice Button his Wife,
An. Dom. 1577.

Lo here the certain End of every mortal One;
Behold! alive to Day,
to morrow dead and gone.
Live well, so endless Life
(by Death) you shall obtaine;
Nought lose the Good by Death,
since Life thereby they gaine.

Dum mihi persuasi
me quævisq; salutem;
En morior dixit,
nam Deus esse diem:
Non equidem invideo,
peccati debita merces;
Cum sit mors nostri,
cum reus omnis homo;
Cumq; operum requies,
& sit mihi vita perennis;
In Christo morior,
mors mihi gratus adest;
Quem mors sic rapuit;
Cujus sunt ista sepulchra
Si quæras, subsunt
quæ tibi cuncta notant.

Ludovicus Nicols, Civis LONDON. filius tertius Thomæ Nicols, Northamptoniensis, hic sepelitur. Obiit 22 Aprilis, 1592. Anno Ætatis suæ, 28.

Ad vocem Tubæ resurgent mortui.

Here lyeth the Body of George Whitgift, Esquire, one of the natural Brothers of John Whitgift, late Lord Archbishop of Canterbury. Which George deceased the 19th Day of April, Anno Domini 1611.

UPON a Brass Plate fixed on a Pillar by the Tomb in the open Church, beneath:

William Lambe,
so sometime was my Name;

Whiles

Whiles I alive
And run my mortall Race;
Serving a Prince
of most immortal Fame,
Henry the Eighth,
who of his Princely Grace;
In his Chappell allowed me a Place.
By whose Favour,
from Gentleman t'Esquire;
I was prefer'd,
with Worship for my Hire.
With Wives three
I joyned Wedlocke Band,
Which (all alive)
true Lovers were to me:
Joane, Alice, and Joane,
for so they came to hand;
What needeth Praise,
regarding their Degrees?
In Wively Truth
none stedfast more could be;
Who though in Earth
Death's Force did once dislever, Heaven yet (I trust)
shall joyne us all together.
O Lambe of God,
which Sinne didst take away,
And (as a Lambe)
was offered up for Sinne;
Where I (poor Lambe) went from thy Flocke astray, Yet thou (good Lord)
vouchsafe thy Lambe to winne Home to thy Fold,
and holde thy Lambe therein:
That at the Day, when Lambes and Goats shall sever,
Of thy choice Lambes,
Lambe may be one for ever.

UNDER which Remembrance there are two Verses more added, containing both a Petition, and an Injunction of Duty to the Poor, who Weekly receive their Allowance at the Hands or Appointment of the Worshipful Company of Stationers. To whom he bearing great Affection, and having also no small Affiance in them, made them his Disposers and Stewards in that Behalf. The Verses are these:

I pray you all that receive Bread and Pence,
To say the Lord's Prayer
before you go hence.

As for the Verses engraven upon the upper Stone of the Tomb, they are these:

As I was, so are ye,
As I am, you shall be.
That I had, that I gave,
That I gave, that I have.
Thus I end all my Cost,
That I left, that I lost.

A very fair Marble Stone in the Chancel under the Communion-Table, with these Words about it:

Under this Stone lie buried the Bodies of John and Francis Astley, the Sonnes of Sir John Astley of Allington Castle in the County of Kent, Master of the Revels, and a Gentleman of the Privy Chamber in Ordinary to Charles the First.

Upon it:

In obitum immaturum Johannis & Francisci Astley, Filiorum Domini Joh. Astley, Equitis
VOL. I.

Aurati. Quorum hic undecim, alter Duo de viginti Annos Natus, ad Superos migravit. Utrique vero sub eodem Marmore tumulantur.

A fair Monument on the North Side of the Chancel, with this Inscription:

M. S.

Hic juxta situs est Richardus Ironside, vir summa prudentia, industria, vitæque integritate, una cum duabus Lectiss. uxoribus. Quarum posteriorem, morum suavitate, Elegantia, & Amore Conjunctam, Fato sibi Raptam, non ita multo post sequutus est. Quibus hoc Monumentum in opprobrium mortis, quæ has tam piæ animas eripuit a 13 liberis, qui se ipsos pæne quærunt in illarum desiderio, Consecravit.

E. I. Filius & Hæres.

A fair Monument at the upper End of the Chancel, with this Inscription:

Here lieth buried the Body of Catharine, (third Daughter of Edward Lord Nevil, Baron of Abergavenny) Wife of Sir Stephen Lessieur, of Chiswicke in the County of Middlesex, Knight. She was brought from her said House to this Parish, in Hope to recover her bodily Health, by the Help of God and Physicians. But the same God knowing, and having ordained that which was best for her pious Soul, hath been pleased to take her from the Miseries of this vain World, and to receive her Soul with his Saints in Heaven. As she did profess in all the Time that she lived in the State of a Maid, and of a Wife, to be a true and obedient Child of God; even so she did behave herself in her Sickness, bearing her Affliction with a true Christian Patience; much delighting to read, or to hear the Word of God read unto her, hoping and trusting to be saved by the only Merits and Passion of Jesus Christ. And recommending her Spirit into the Hands of Almighty God, she exchanged her mortal Life for the immortal, the 4th of August, 1630.

Revel. xiv. 13.

Blessed are the Dead that die in the Lord, yea, saith the Spirit, that they rest from their Labours, and their Works follow them.

Quid aliud est Mors vitæ hujus mortalis, quam finis mortis hujus vitalis, & Janua vitæ immortalis.

Ergo.

Vive diu, sed vive Deo, nam vivere Mundo Mortis opus; viva est vivere vita Deo.

IN Castle Baynard Ward.

PART of Warwick-lane, and White Hart-street.

NUMBER of Houses 118.

THE Street on the North Side of St. Paul's Church-yard was originally called Pater-noster-row, because of Stationers or Text-writers, that dwelled there; who wrote and sold all Sorts of Books then in use, namely, A, B, C, or Abcs, with the Pater noster, Ave, Creed, Graces, &c.

THERE dwelled also Turners of Beads, and they were called Pater-noster-makers; as one Robert Nikke and others are called in an antient Record, Paster-noster-makers, in the Reign of Henry IV.

At the End of this Pater-noster-row, is Ave-mary-lane, so called upon the like Occasion of Text-writers and Bead-makers then dwelling there.

At the End of that Lane is likewise Creed-lane, some Time called Spurrier-row, of Spurriers dwelling there. And Amen-lane was added thereunto, betwixt the South End of Warwick-lane, and the North End of Ave-mary-lane, where was one great House, built of Stone and Timber, of old Time appertaining to John, Duke of Britain, Earl of Richmond, as appeareth by the Records of Edward II. Since that, it was called Pembroke's Inn, near unto Ludgate, as belonging to the Earls of Pembroke, in the Time of Richard II, the 18th Year; and of Henry VI, in the 14th Year. It was after called Burgaveny-house, and belonged to Henry late Lord of Burgaveny.

BUT the worshipful Company of Stationers afterwards purchased it, and made it their Hall.

The PARISH of St. MARTIN LUDGATE.

ON the North Side of Ludgate-street is the Church of St. Martin.

THE Saint to whom this Church is dedicated was born in Sabaria, a Town in Hungary. His first Education was at Ticinum, or Pavia, in Italy, under his Parents, who were Pagans. From his Infancy he affected the Christian Religion, which his Father, being a Soldier, perceiving, sent him into the Wars, first under Constantius, and then into France under Julian; following this Course about three Years, on a Time, he met at the Gate of the City of Amiens, a poor naked Man, and Martin having nothing about him but his Cloak, which he wore (for he had bestowed the rest to like Uses) he cut off one half of it with his Sword, and gave it to the poor Man, keeping the other half to himself. He was afterwards baptized, and going to St. Hillary, Bishop of Poitiers, he abode a while with him, being first made an Exorcist, or, as others say, a Reader. He publickly opposed the Arians, whereupon he was openly scourged, and driven out of the City in Illyricum. He returned again into France, and was afterwards made Bishop of Tours, Anno Christi 376, where he had terrible Conflicts with the Arians, not without Peril of his Life and Fortune; when he had governed the Church of Tours 26 Years (others say 36) in the 81st Year of his Age, Arcadius and Honorius being Emperors, he fell sick of a Fever, whereof he died Anno Christi 399, or as others write, 404.

HIS Festival was instituted by Pope Martin I. about the Year 650, and is yearly celebrated on the 11th of November.

THE old Church in this Place was built about the Year 1437, when Sir John Michael, Fishmonger, Lord Mayor, and the Commonalty, granted to Mr. Down, then Rector, a Parcel of Ground, containing in Length 28, and in Breadth 24 Feet, to build their Steeple on. It was repaired and beautified at the Parish Charge (says Mr. Stow) in the Year 1623; and having had its unfortunate Share of the Calamitous Conflagration in 1666, was again rebuilt, and finished, with the Steeple, in Anno 1684.

As to the Nature and Order of the Building, the Roof is cambered, and (being not much exposed to view) is only covered with Tile; but the Walls and Pillars, that support the Roof, are Stone, of the Composite Order; the Floor of the Church is raised about three Feet above the Street, and the Plat of Ground within the Church is broader than long. The Steeple consists of a handsome Tower, Cupola, and Spire, of the Tuscan Order; above which Cupola is a Balcony.

THE Church is adorned with four Columns, near the four Angles of the Church, and an Entablament constituting four Quadrangles, where the Roof is lower than in the Middle of the Church; also several Pilasters.

It has a Gallery of Wainscot, with Bolection-Work front on the South Side of the Church, and the Organ-Gallery at the West End. It is also well pewed, and wainscotted with Oak about nine Feet high.

HERE are on the South-Side two fine Wainscot Inner Door-cases; the more Eastwardly is of the Ionick Order, adorned with Columns, Entablature, and Pediment, with Enrichments of two Cupids holding a Chaplet and Crown; also Fruit, Leaves, &c. and the Westwardly Door-case is of the Corinthian Order, with Pilasters and Enrichments of Festoons, Cherubims, &c. curiously carved.

THE Altar-piece is ornamental and spacious, with two Pilasters of Blue veined with Gold, in Imitation of Lapis Lazula, between these are the Commandments, Lord's Prayer, and Creed, done in Black Letters upon Gold, over which is this Motto, Lift up your Hearts, and above that a Shield with the Name of GOD in Hebrew, Greek and Latin; and here are other Enrichments of Cartouches, Palm-Branches, &c. The Footpace under the Communion-Table is Black and White Marble, inclosed with Rail and Ballister.

THE Pulpit is finiered and enriched with Cherubims, Cupids, Book displayed, &c. And the Steeple is adorn'd with Cartouches, Pine-Apples, Festoons, &c.

DIMENSIONS of this Church, are Length 57 Feet, Breadth 66, Height 59 Feet, and the Altitude of the Steeple, to the Top of the Spire, which is exceeding beautiful, is 168 Feet,

LUDGATE PRISON.

IN this Pariſh ſtands the Priſon of Ludgate; between which Priſon, and the Miniſter of St. Martin's formerly happened a Conteſt concerning Payment of Tithes; which was adjudged by the Common-Council, March the 21ſt in the 2d Year of Queen Elizabeth; namely, that Ludgate Priſon ſhould pay Tithes, Clerks Wages, and Church Duties, to St. Martin's Church within Ludgate.

FORMERLY Debtors that were not able to ſatisfy their Debts, put themſelves into this Priſon of Ludgate, for Shelter from their Creditors; and theſe were Merchants and Tradeſmen that had been driven to Want by Loſſes at Sea. When King Philip, in the Month of Auguſt, 1554, came firſt through LONDON, theſe Priſoners were 30 in Number; and owed 10000 l. but compounded for 2000 l. who preſented a well penned Latin Speech to that Prince, to redreſs their Miſeries, and by his Royal Generoſity to free them; " And the rather, for that that Place " was not Sceleratorum Carcer, ſed miferorum " Custodia, i. e. a Jail for Villains, but a Place " of Reſtraint for poor unfortunate Men: And " that they were put in there, not by others, " but themſelves fled thither, and that not out " of Fear of Punishment, but in Hope of better Fortune." The whole Letter was drawn by the curious Pen of Roger Aſcham, and is extant among his Epistles, Lib. 3.

If a Freeman, or a Freewoman of LONDON be committed to Ludgate, they are to be excuſed from the Ignominy of Irons, if they can find Sureties to be true Priſoners, and if the Sum be not above 100 l. There is another Cuſtom for the liberal and mild Imprisonment of the Citizens in Ludgate, whereby they have Indulgence and Favour to go abroad into any Place, by Baſton, as they term it, under the Guard and Superintendency of the Keeper; with whom they muſt return again to the Priſon at Night.

THIS Cuſtom is not to hinder and delay Juſtice, nor to defraud Men of their Debts and Executions, (as it is quarrelled againſt by ſome) but ſerves for a Mitigation of their Punishment, and tends rather for the Expedition of their Diſcharge, and ſpeedy Satisfaction of their Creditors.

ditors. While they may go and inform themselves, upon their mutual Reckonings, both what they owe, and what is due to them: Here follows

A Table of Fees to be taken by the Keeper of Ludgate, and the Turnkeys under him; allowed of and confirmed at a Court of Aldermen, holden on Tuesday the 19th Day of January, 1684-5, in the Time of the Mayoralty of Sir Robert Geffery, Knt. Lord Mayor of the City of LONDON, as it was communicated to Strype by Mr. Stracy, then Comptroller.

Imprimis , At the Coming in of every Prisoner, to the Turnkey	00	01	00
To the Officer that goes with him thither	00	00	02
To the Keeper, for every Prisoner's Discharge, 2 s. and no more
For all Actions or Writs against any Prisoner, 12 d. only; and not 12 d. for every Action; or 2 s. 6 d. for every Writ, as formerly he took	00	01	00
Item , That the Keeper finding and providing clean Sheets every Month, for every Bed, such Prisoners that lie therein, are to pay to the Chamberlain for washing them every Month, between them 8 d. per Month, and no more; and not each Prisoner that lies therein to pay 8 d.	00	00	08
The Keeper finding and providing Beds, Bedding, Mats and Cords, Sheets, Blankets, and Coverlets, the Prisoners are to pay him for the best Lodging, per Night	00	00	03
For the second Lodging, per Night	00	00	02
For the third or meanest Lodging, per Night	00	00	01
But when the Prisoners find their own Beds and Bedding, which the Keeper is in no Sort to hinder, the Prisoner is only to pay per Week, for Bed-Room, 3 d. and no more
Or for Chamber-Room, 4 d. at the most, per Week, and not above two to lie in a Bed
If the Prisoner, by his Inability, can go no further than a Couch, he is to pay only 1 d. per Week, for Chamber-Room, and no more
And the like for Lamps and Candles, which the Keeper is to provide, 1 d. per Week, and no more

The Keeper shall not presume to take any other Fees, upon any Pretence, Demand, or Allowance whatsoever, for Execution-Money, Action-Money, or Writ-Money.

At which said Court it was further ordered, that the present Keeper, and the Keeper of the said Jail for the Time being, should keep the said Prison of Ludgate in good Repair, at his own Charge.

WAGSTAFFE.

THE present Keeper of this Prison is Henry Vanderefsch, Esq; of whom we heard a Character greatly to be esteemed, as that he bought this Post with a View only of making a very moderate Interest of his Money, and to have it in his Power to preserve the unfortunate Prisoners from Oppression.

The PARISH of ### St. ANNE BLACK-FRYARS.

ON the South Side of Ludgate-street is the Turning into Black-fryars; which Order some Time had their House in Holbourn, or Old-borne, as it was then called, where they remained for the Space of 45 Years; and then, in the Year 1276, Gregory Rockesley, Mayor, and the Barons of this City, granted and gave to Robert Kilwarby, Archbishop of Canterbury, two Lanes or Ways next the Street of Baynard's Castle, and also the Tower of Mount-fitchit, to be destroyed: In Place of which the said Robert built the Church of the Black-fryars, and placed them therein. King Edward I. and Eleanor his Wife, were great Benefactors thereunto. This was a large Church, and richly furnished with Ornaments; wherein divers Parliaments, and other great Meetings, have been holden. Namely, in the Year 1450, the 28th of Henry VI. a Parliament was begun at Westminster, and adjourned to Black-fryars in LONDON, and from thence to Leicester.

IN the Year 1522, the Emperor Charles V. was lodged there.

IN the Year 1524, the 15th of April, a Parliament was begun at the Black-fryars, wherein was demanded a Subsidy of 800,000 l. to be raised of Goods and Lands, 4 s. in every Pound; and in the End was granted 2 s. of the Pound, of their Goods and Lands, that were worth 20 l. or might expend 20 l. by the Year; and so upwards, to be paid in two Years.

THIS Parliament was adjourned to Westminster, amongst the Black Monks, and ended in the King's Palace there the 14th of August, at nine o'Clock in the Night; and was therefore called the Black Parliament.

IN the Year 1529, Cardinal Campeius, the Legate, with Cardinal Wolfey, fate at the said Black-fryars; where, before them, as Legates and Judges, was brought in question the King's Marriage with Queen Katharine.

THE same Year, in the Month of October, began a Parliament in the Black-fryars, in which Cardinal Wolfey was condemned in the Premunire.

THIS House, valued at 104 l. 15 s. 5 d. was surrendered the 12th of November, the 30th of Henry VIII.

KING Edward VI. in the 4th of his Reign, of his special Favour, granted to Sir Thomas Cawarden, Knt. the whole House, Scite or Circuit, Compass and Precinct, of the late Fryar-Preachers within the City of LONDON; and divers other Lands and Tenements in LONDON. The Patent dated March the 12th, the yearly Value being reckoned at 19 l. But the Hall, and the Scite of the Prior's Lodgings, within the Precinct of Black-fryars, were sold in the 1st of King Edward VI. to Sir Francis Brian, Knt. being valued at 40 s. per Ann.

IN this House of the Friar-Preachers of LONDON, the antient Kings of this Land had their Records and Charter kept, as well as at the Tower of LONDON, and other Castles in England.

IN Queen Elizabeth's Time, this Black-fryars was much inhabited by Noblemen and Gentlemen, as before: For the Spaciousness of it, Parliaments often sat there, and Noble Personages were there harboured.

IN the Year 1586, the City and the Owners of Black and White-fryars in LONDON, had a great Contest: The Cause was tried before fore the Lords Chief Justices. The City claimed the Liberties of both these Fryars, upon such Arguments as these, which their Counsel urged: That the Precinct of the said Fryars were in LONDON, and therefore claimed the like Liberty in them as in the rest of the City. And that divers Felons, for Felonies within the two Precincts, were in the Fryars Times indicted, arraigned and tried in LONDON. They claimed now to have from her Majesty all Waifes, Strays, Felons Goods, Amerciaments, Escheats, &c. the Execution of all Proccesses; the Expulsion of all the Foreigners; the Assize of Bread, Beer, Ale, and Wine; the Wardmote Quest, and such other Jurisdictions as they had within the rest of the City. But the Counsel against the City answered these Allegations, and produced some other Proofs for the better Confirmation of the said Liberties. They denied not the Fryars to be in LONDON, but they affirmed them not to be of LONDON, no more than St. Martin's le Grand, Creechurch, St. Bartholomew, &c.

THE Citizens struggled long with Black-fryars, moved by the many Inconveniences they suffer'd by the pretended Freedom of the Place, injuring such as had served their Times to Trades, by being under-sold by these Tradesmen that here inhabited, and injuring Buyers by selling bad Commodities; whereof there was no Remedy, no City-Searchers, whether the Commodities made and sold here were good, being admitted within the Liberties of the Fryars. Here also, oftentimes, Harbour was given to Felons, and Malefactors took Shelter here. So that an Order was moved and began, Purchase being Mayor, about the Year 1497, for Remedy of this. And no Good coming of it, the Commons, in a Common-Council, petitioned the Mayor, Sir John Percival, the next Year, for encouraging the said Order, and calling into Question such as opposed it.

WHICH Petition ran in these Words:

" Also, for the Reformacyon of the Myschef
" growyng to the Cyte, by going to Fryars,
" please that my Lord Mayr, Aldirmen, and " Common Counsaile to provyde, that the
" Ordre moved and begonne before M. Purchase,
" late Mayr, and other of his predeces" sours, may be put in effecte. That such Per" sons which were dysficulte against the said
" Ordere, be callyd afore my Lorde Mayr and
" Aldyrmen, to be reformed by theyr wyse Ex-
" hortacyons; under such Fourme, as such ob-
" stynate Persones be not noted above al other,
" as Brokers and Destroyers of the Common
" Wele. And yf the sayd Persones wyl not be " conformable in thys Partye to leve the Fryars,
" that then that may please my Lorde Mayr and " Aldyrmen to cal a Common Counsaile; and
" by their Autorite, to appoynte certayne Per" sons, with the Counsaile, to sue to the " Kyngys Grace for a Dyspensacyon of the Act
" of Parliament, lately made to the contrarye.

AMONG other Privileges, Black-fryars, and the other exempt Places claimed, one, among the rest was, That they would not contribute to the Musters, when the Militia was raised in the City, as it was in the Year 1585, Sir Thomas Pullison, Mayor. Who was therefore fain to make a Complaint to the Court thereof, praying, That by their Authority, Black-fryars, and the other privileged Places, might also bear their Burthen in Musters, as well as other Inhabitants of the City. Advertising the Lord Treasurer, " That where the Black-fryars, St. Martin's
" White-fryars, and other exempt Places, were " appointed to be contributory to this Charge,

" they refused to be taxed, and would not yield
" to pay any Thing, unless they had Direction
" from the Lord Treasurer, or other the Lords
" of her Majesty's Privy Council, for the doing " thereof. Wherefore, and for that the Service " fell out to be of so far greater Charge than was " expected; we humbly besought his Lordship's " Order and Commandment to those exempt
" Places, for Contribution.

THE antient Church belonging to the Black-fryars Black-fryars fryars, LONDON, was (before the Dissolu- Church.
tion of Religious Houses by King Henry VIII.) one of the most spacious and fairest Churches in LONDON. But the Fryars being put out, the Church (together with other Buildings) was utterly demolished. Therefore the Inhabitants of the said Black-fryars, LONDON, fitted an upper Room, of fifty Feet in Length, and thirty Feet in Breadth, for a publick Place of Divine Worship. The Charges of purchasing and fitting the said Room for a Church, appeareth not in any Record that we can find.

Anno 1597, when the Church was empty, and no Body in it, a great Part of the Roof thereof fell down; whereupon, the then Inhabitants being about to repair their said Church, obtained of Sir George Moore, Kt. so much Ground as enlarged their Church with an Isle on the West, fifty Feet in Length, and fifteen Feet in Breadth. For which Ground, they built at their own Cost, a Warehouse under the said Isle, for the Use of Sir Jerome Bows, Kt. who then had the said Ground in Lease; and also gave him 133 l. The new building of their said Church and Isle (beside the foresaid 133 l. given to Sir Jerome Bows) cost 300 l. 18 s.

IN June 1607, the Inhabitants of the said Black-fryars paid 120 l. to Sir George Moore, for the Purchase of their Preachers House, their Church-yard, their Church, and the Porch appertaining thereunto, together with the Right of Patronage of, in, and to the said Church.

Anno 1613, the Inhabitants of the said Black-fryars, purchased on the South of their Church, so much Housing, as enlarged their Church aforesaid 36 Feet in Length, and 54 in Breadth. The Purchase whereof, together with the Vault for burying, and other Rooms under that Part of the Church, and the new building of all, and making new Pews and Pulpit, cost 1546 l. 6 s.

Anno 1632, the Inhabitants of the said Black-fryars, purchased the Rooms directly under the above-mentioned upper Room converted to a Church; which said under Rooms, they purchased to repair the Foundation and Walls whereon the Church stood; which Walls were very much decayed. The Purchase whereof, and the Repair of Decays, cost 500 l.

THE Sum of all bestowed upon Black-fryars Church, since the Reformation of Religion in England, amounted to 2600 l. 4 s.

William Courtney, Earl of Devonshire, nominate, but not created, the 3d of Hen. VIII, &c.

Elizabeth Lady Scrope, of Upsal and Marsham, Widow, who by her Will bequeathed her Body to be buried in the Black-fryars, LONDON, beside her Husband Lord Thomas Scrope, of Upsal and Marsham. By which Will, dated the 7th of March, the 5th of Henry VIII, she appointed the Trentals to be sung in the Church of Black-fryars, for the Soul of the said Lord her Husband, and Alice their Daughter; for Sir Henry Wentworth's Soul, and for the Soul of her Lord her Father, John Marquis Mountague; and her Mother, the Lady Isabel his Wife. She willed also, that a Stone should be prepared with three Images, one of her Husband, another of herself, and the third of their said Daughter; and their Arms upon the said Stone, and Scripture, making Mention what they were, to the Value of 10 l. She willed moreover a Tomb to be made over Sir Henry Wentworth, Kt. late her Husband, lying in Newton Abbey, in Lincolnshire, to the Value of 20 l. Sterling. And a Tomb likewise to be made over her Lord her Father, and her Lady Mother, lying buried in Bisham Abbey in Berkshire, to the Value of 20 l.

Sir Thomas Par seems also to be buried here, according to his Will dated Nov. 9. the 9th of Henry VIII, bequeathing his Body to lie in Black-fryars, LONDON, if he chanced to die within twenty Miles thereof. He willed, that all his Lands that descended to him, as Heir to Sir William Par, his Father, should remain to Maud his Wife, for her Jointure. He willed his Daughters, Catharine and Anne, to have 800 l. between them, except they proved to be his Heirs, or his Son's Heirs, and then they should not. But willed the said Monies to be laid out for Copes and Vestments, to be given to the House of Clervaux, &c. and 100 l. to be bestowed upon the Country of Kendal. He willed his Son William to have his great Chain, worth 140 l. which the King's Grace gave him. He made Maud his Wife, and Dr. Tunstal, Master of the Rolls, his Executors. This Will was proved in the Year 1517. This Man was Father to Catharine Par, King Henry's last Wife.

Dame Maud Par, Widow to the above-named Sir Thomas, and Mother to Queen Catharine, by her Will bearing Date May 20, the 21st of Henry VIII, bequeathed her Body to be buried in this Church. In this Will she mentioned her Son and Heir William Par; for whose Preferment, she had indebted herself, as she said, both to the King for his Marriage, and to the Earl of Essex, for the matching with the Lady Boucher, Daughter and Heir apparent to the said Earl. She mentioned also Anne her Daughter, and Catharine Borough her Daughter, and Sir William Par her Brother, and Thomas Pickering, Esq; her Cousin, Steward of her House. This Will was proved Dec. 14, 1531.

Roger de Swillington, Kt. willed (whose Will was proved 1417) that the Fryars Preachers at Ludgate, LONDON, should have 40 l. pro anniversariis diebus annuatim tenend. of him the said Roger and Joan his Wife, for one Time, when when it happened to pray for their Souls, and for Robert Swillington his Father. And that two Nuns, Sisters of Thomas de Swillington, should have 13 s. 4 d.

Queen Elizabeth's Monument.

Sacred unto Memory :

Religion to its primitive Sincerity restored, Peace thoroughly settled, Coine to the true Value refined, Rebellion at home extinguished, France neere Ruine by intestine Mischiefs, relieved, Netherland supported, Spaine's Armada vanquished, Ireland, with Spaniard's Expulsion, and Traitors Correction, quieted; both Universities Revenues, by a Law of Provision, exceedingly augmented; Finally, all England enriched, and 45 Yeeres prudently governed.

ELIZABETH, a Queen, a Conqueress, Triumpher, the most devoted to Piety, the most happy, after 70 Years of her Life, quietly by Death departed.

ON the other Side of the Monument.

For an eternal Memorial :

Unto ELIZABETH Queen of England, France, and Ireland, Daughter of King Henry VIII, Grandchild to King Henry VII, Great Grandchild to King Edward IV. The Mother of this her Country, the Nurse of Religion and Learning. For perfect Skill in very many Languages, for glorious Endowments, as well of Mind as Body, and for Regal Vertues, beyond her Sex.

IN this Church was an Image of St. Erasmus, before which one Rich. Billesden thought it, perhaps, some Benefit to his Soul to be buried. In whose last Will, made Febr. 16, 1492, he willed to be buried in the Body of the Chirch of the Freris Prechours of LONDON, before the Image of St. Erasmus, that on the North Side of the Chirch, as nigh unto the Wall there as may be, &c. "That mine Executors provyde and ordeyne for a clenly Tombe of Marbil to be made and set in the Wal therein, — — — where my Body shal be buried — — — if it may be conveniently suffered to be done by the Assent to the Priour of the said Place, &c.

HERE was also the Image of St. Thomas Aquinus, before which Elizabeth Denton, Widow, willed (her Will bearing Date April 26, 1518,) to be buried. And she bequeathed (for this Privilege) to the Prior 20 s. to the Sub-Prior 10 s. to Frier Simon 20 s. to Frier De la Hay, 10 s. to every other Frier of the said Place.

Place, that is a Priest, and shall be within the said Place at the Time of my Burying, 2 s. To every of the Novices of the same Place, 12 d. to the Intent that the same Prior, &c. shall pray for the Soul of my late Husband, my Soul, and all Christen Souls.

SOME Years ago, an antient worthy Citizen and Merchant founded a Free-School in Black-fryars, in Gratitude to that Place where he was born, and out of a compassionate Sense of the Numbers of poor People inhabiting there, for 40 Boys, and 30 Girls, to be taught to read and write, and the Girls some useful Work besides: All to be clothed once a Year, and two of them to be put out Apprentices yearly. He likewise endowed the said School with 150 l. a Year, of Fee-Farm, and other Ground-Rents, with sufficient Salaries for the Teachers. And confiding in the Integrity of the City Clergy, ordained the Members of Sion College, in LONDON, to be Trustees of his said Charity-School. And in this Foundation, there being divers of the Occupation of Taylors inhabiting in Black-fryars, he hath appointed to the Children of such to have the Preference in their Admission there. This brief Account of the said School, Mr. Stripe had from the Gentleman's own Mouth, but suffered by no Means to reveal his Name.

NUMBER of Houses 384.

THIS Parish-Church of St. Anne, within the Precinct of the Black-fryars, was pulled down with the Fryars Church, by Sir Thomas Cardin, alias Carden. But in the Reign of Queen Mary, he being forced to find a Church to the Inhabitants, allowed them a Lodging-Chamber above Stairs, which since that Time, to wit, in the Year 1597, fell down, (as was shewn before,) and was again (by Collection thereof made) new built and enlarged in the same Year; and was dedicated on the 11th of December.

IN this Place Anthony Munday, in his Edition of Stow, inserts the Copy of an antient Record, concerning the Privileges and Liberties granted to the Black-fryars, which is as follows:

Notes and Articles for Maintenance of the antient Liberties and Privileges of the late dissolved Black-Fryars, near Ludgate, in LONDON.

FIRST, It appeareth, that on the 25th Day of November, 1484, John Alforde, Shoemaker, dwelling within the Black-Fryars, in LONDON, was apprehended and put to Death at Tyburn; for Felony; Thomas Newland, alias Norland; and William Martin, then being Sheriffs of LONDON; who sought to have had the Goods of the said Felon; but the Prior of the said Black-Fryars withstood them; and possessed the same Goods, to the Use of the Lord of St. John's, of whom the same Fryars was then holden.
VOL. I.

II. Item, The Lord of St. John's hath usually made the Bridge at the Thames; adjoining to the said Fryars, and not the City of LONDON, &c.

III. Item, The Prior and Convent were incorporated by Act of Parliament, in the Time of Henry VI. whereby they might prescribe, and did always use and keep the Liberty inviolately, and clearly exempted from the Citizens.

IV. Item, The Precinct hath always been of such Liberties, as that no Man hath been arrested within the same, by any of the Sheriffs Officers. And if at any Time any Officer of the City hath taken upon him to execute within the four Gates; he was rescued by the Fryars and Inhabitants of Antiquity.

V. Item, At all Times there hath dwelt within the Precinct, divers, and many Persons, not free; and yet they have used their Occupations there, without Comptrollment of the City and Citizens.

VI. Item, Always at fundry Times (of long Continuance) divers and many Carpenters, Masons, and such like, have been sent out of the Country, and have wrought within the Precinct afore said; which is not sufferable within the Liberties of the City, by their own Customs and Ordinances.

VII. Item, Upon the View of any Person slain, the Coroner of the Verge did always make Enquiry thereof; and the Deodand is due to the Lord of St. John's, and not to the City. But now the Queen's Highness due by Law, Equity and good Conscience, whose right and lawful Title, the Owners and Inhabitants of the said exempted Place and Precinct, do seek with their Bodies and Goods to defend and maintain, against all pretended Title and Claim of the Citizens, notwithstanding divers of the Precinct and Liberty, have been greatly vexed and troubled with often Imprisonments within the Compters of the City.

VIII. Item, The Inhabitants within the said Precinct, were never charged to watch or ward, or to be within the Compass of any Imposition, such as the Citizens are used and accustomed by their Laws.

IX. Item, In the Time of King Edward VI. Sir Andrew Jude, then being Mayor, there was a Riot committed in the Black-Fryars, in the House of one Master Lucas, by one Crouchman, of the City, and other Persons with him. The Force whereof was soon overwayed by Sir Tho. Saunders, and Sir Henry Fermingham, Knights; William Moore, Esq; with other Gentlemen inhabiting in the said Fryars; and the Parties, by Pursuit, were twice indicted in the Marshall's Court, holden in Southwark, Sir Nicholas Hare, then being Steward, and sitting at the Doing thereof. After which Time, the said Crouchman (with other Confederates with him) sought to indict the said Gentlemen, by an especial Sessions in the said City; for Stay whereof, the Lords of the King's Privy Council, understanding the lewd Practices of the said Crouchman, and others, and that the Lord Mayor had nothing to do within the Precinct, wrote their Letters unto the said Andrew Jude, then Mayor, willing him not to disturb the said Gentlemen for the said Fact, to the infringing of the Liberties of the said Fryars. The said Sir Thomas Saunders, and 8 N Master

Master William Moore, being Bearers of the said Letters to the said Lord Mayor: Who upon Deliberation, made Answer to the said Bearers by Word of Mouth: "That for as much as there was a Complaint made to him, of a Riot committed within the City, he must needs (within one Month after) inquire by Sessions of the same; which, he said, could not be prejudicial to them, being out of the Jurisdiction of the City: For that the same should be non coram judice; and yet they discharged of the Peril of the Statute." And so they proceeded with the said Letters. Whereupon, the said Thomas, and Master William Moore, making Report of their Success with the Mayor, to the Lords of the Council, they wrote estfoones, other Letters to the said Mayor, but of such Force touching the Premises, which were also carried by the said Sir Thomas, and Mr. Moore. Whereupon, the said Mayor stayed from any further Proceeding therein, or any other, &c.

X. Item, IN Queen Mary's Time, the Counsel of the City put a Bill into the Parliament-House, seeking by the same to have the Liberties of the said Fryars: Which Bill, with all the Surmises, were so utterly rejected, that their Bill never came to the Question; but was so suppressed, by Argument openly in the same House.

XI. Item, THE Liberties granted to Master Carwarden, by Letters Patent of King Edw. VI., the Goods of Felons therein not granted, and so due to the Queen's Majesty. Whose Right and Title the City hath not had, nor can be suffered to enjoy, according to their seeking; by the only Resistance of the said Owners and Inhabitants within the Liberty and Precinct, clearly exempted from the City, by Metes and Bounds on every Side.

XII. Item, THE said Precinct hath always been shut up and kept by Walls and Gates: So as there was no Egress that Way, but by Licence of the Porters, who were maintained and placed by the Owners of the said Fryars, and Liberties of the same, by especial and general Words, granted by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of England, to divers Owners and Freeholders there of the Queen's Majesty. And especially, above all other, to Sir Thomas Carwarden, Kt. deceased, in his Letters Patent dated the 12th Day of May, in the fourth Year of King Edward VI., in as large, ample and full Manner, and with as many pithy and effectual Words, as ever was read or seen in any Patent, made for Grant of Liberties of any Place exempted, as by the same Patent more largely appears. The true Copy whereof is annexed to these Articles, by the Delivery of Master Moore, true Owner of the most Part of the said Liberties.

XIII. Item, THAT James Norrice, Curate of St. Peter's in Cornhill, being some Time one of the Fryars, and Brethren of the Black-Fryars aforesaid, near Ludgate, LONDON, saith and affirmeth, That one Robert Struddell, late Prior of the said Fryars, was, by Order of Law, constrained to pave the High Street adjoining round about the Channel-Walls, from the Fleur de Liz, towards the Hill at Creed-lane End. And a Cage at that Time standing on that Side the Street, adjoining to the aforesaid Wall, within the Parish of St. Andrew; which Cage was pulled down by the said Prior, and not since set up again, the Prior aforesaid saying: "Seeing they of the City cause me to pave all this Side of the Street next my Wall, they shall have no Cage of others standing on my Ground, against mine own Wall." And so the City never builded a Cage on that Side after.

XIV. Item, MOREOVER, the said Master Norrice saith, That the Liberties of the Black-

Fryars in the said Prior's Days, were such, that the Lord Mayor of the City of LONDON, nor the Sheriffs, did arrest any Man within the said Liberty for any Thing, as free, as he well remembers, in all his Time.

XV. Item, HE remembers, that four Gates were shut in, during the Fryars Time, by the Commandment of the Prior. And one Father Seagar being then Porter, appointed by the said late Prior, Robert Struddell, with others after him, at the Appointment of other Priors then succeeding; and not by the Mayor of LONDON, nor any other.

The Saying of Thomas Ulverston, alias Wolverston, of Garlick Hithe, Officer to the Vintners of LONDON, and some Time a Fryar of the Black-Fryars. Taken before me, Sir Thomas Saunders, Kt. the 30th Day of May, Anno Domini 1562.

XVI. Item, HE saith, He hath heard say many Times among the Fryars and others, that Master Peacocke of LONDON, and his Predecessors, had never a Door into the Black-Fryars out of his House; but by Fine and Agreement made for the same, long before his Time of Remembrance.

XVII. Item, He saith, That the Porters of the Fryars always kept their four Gates, Time out of Mind, by the Appointment of the Prior and Convent, clear exempted from the City. And when the Porters perceived any suspected Persons or Malefactors, within the Limits of the Fryars, they declared it to the Prior, who forthwith commanded them to take the Aid of the honest Inhabitants within the Fryars, to make Search and Watch for the Apprehension of such lewd Persons. Which so found, were always examined by Sir William Kingston, Kt. and other good Men there inhabiting within the Fryars, at the Porter's Desire, and not otherwise.

XVIII. Item, HE never heard, nor did know in all his Time, any Search or Watch to be made within the Precinct of the Fryars, by any Watchman or Constable of the City, who could never come within any of the Fryars Gates, but by the Porter's Licence of the same Fryars.

XIX. Item, He saith, That the Prior and Convent did once pave the Streets (by his Time) from the Fryars Turngate, unto the Flower de liz, along by the Wall, to the Channel of the same Street.

XX. Item, He saith, If any Vagabond, or any Drunkard, or misordered Person, were taken culpable within the Precinct of the Fryars, they were always punished in the Fryars Stocks against the Church Door, by the Prior's Commandment, and not by the Lord Mayor's, or Sheriffs of LONDON.

XXI. Item, Sir John Portenary, Kt. inhabiting within the late Black-fryars, near Ludgate, LONDON, about thirty Years past, doth well remember, that after the Suppression of the said Black-fryars, the Lord Mayor of LONDON would have enter'd into the said Black-fryars, and claimed the Liberties of the same. For which, the Lord Cobham, the Lord Zanche, Sir Thomas Cheiney, Sir William Kingston, Sir Francis Brian, Knights, with many other Worshipful Gentlemen, then being Inhabitants within the Liberties and Precinct of the said late Black-fryars, denied the Lord Mayor and Citizens Entrance, and would not permit, nor suffer them, or any of them, to enter within the same. And shortly after, Sir Francis Brian, and Sir Thomas Cheiney, moved the King's Majesty, then being King Henry VIII., how the said Mayor and Citizens would have enter'd into the said said Fryars. And then the King's Majesty said unto them these Words following: Are not We as-able to keep our Privileges and Liberties, as the Fryars did keep their Privileges always before time, free from the City? Whereupon, they all (by one Consent and Agreement) sent the said Lord Mayor Word of the King's Majesty's Answer and Pleasure therein. Whereupon the Lord Mayor and Aldermen were satisfied, and would no further proceed upon the King's Right and Title of Liberties; as then they promised and affirmed by the Mouth of the Recorder, being sent by the Mayor to the Worshipful of the said Fryars. And the said Sir John Portenary further saith, That after the said Fryars were suppress'd, the Lord Cromwell, Vicar-General, caused to be delivered unto the said Sir John Portenary, the Keys of all the said Fryars, safely to keep them from the said City; and to provide, that all within the said Liberty, should be in Safety and Safeguard. The which Keys were afterwards delivered by the said Sir John Portenary, to the Hands of Dr. Layton, and Dr. Wendic, they being Visitors there. For the which, the said Sir John Portenary had a certain Reward paid unto him by the Lord North, then being Chancellor of the Augmentation Court. All which Matter, the said Sir John Portenary will depose to be most certain and true, as he will answer at the dreadful Day of Judgment upon his Soul.

XXII. Be it in Remembrance perpetual, for infallible Truth, that one Alexander Avenon, being Sheriff of LONDON, and one other, being Alderman of the Ward of Farindon infra, came and entered very stoutly into the Liberty of the Black-fryars near Ludgate, the 15th Day of May 1562, to carry away all the Hosiers and Taylors; to come to the Guildhall in LONDON, according to the Queen's new Proclamation: Which Hosiers and Taylors denied to go with the said Sheriff, affirming and saying, That they had put in Bonds (before their coming) to the Lord Cobham, and to Sir Thomas Saunders, Knt. two of the Queen's Justices of the Peace within the said Liberty (being within the Verge, and exempted from the City of LONDON) according to the Queen's Proclamation. And thereupon, one John Bradford, being Constable of the same exempted Place, and within the Liberty of the said Queen's Verge, caused the four Porters of the said Fryars to shut all the Gates; which being perceived by the said Sheriff and Aldermen, the said Sheriff commanded the Gates to be opened; whereunto the said Constable of the Fryars said, That they should not be opened, before the Justices Pleasure of the Fryars were known. And then the Sheriff of LONDON said, That he was of greater Authority than the Justices were. The Constable affirming him so to be within the City of LONDON, but not within the Precinct of the Liberty of the Black-fryars. For the Constable said, that he had greater Power and Authority there than the Sheriff had. Which being heard, and scant well digested by them; fearing further Inconvenience to arise thereupon (as by sudden changing of their grieved Countenance was plainly declared) the said Sheriff and Alderman (with gentle Language) desired the Constable to open the Gates quietly, and suffer them to pass thence, which he did at their gentle Request and Intreaty. And so they departed out of the Liberty of the Black-fryars, by the Porters Commandment, and gave to the Porters for opening the Gates, Money.

PEOPLE of St. Martin's, as well Strangers as others, (in the open high Street) marvelling and wondering at the said Sheriff's and Alderman's Inclosure within the said Fryars Gates: On the Morrow after, being the 16th Day of May, 1562, one Harford being Constable of St. Martin's Parish within Ludgate, in the High Street there, took one (Gilbert) Trethern, a Hosier and Taylor, dwelling in the said Fryars, and carried him to the Lord Mayor of LONDON; who by and by (without Delay, or any further Speech) commanded the said Gilbert to the Compter in LONDON. Whereupon, the said Sir Thomas Saunders, as one of the Justices of the said Liberty, went to the Earl of Arundel, Lord Steward to the Queen's most Honourable Household, declaring the whole Circumstance of the said Sheriff and Alderman's Enterprize. And obtained a Token to the Lord Mayor, no further to enter the said Liberty within the Verge; until, by Law, or the Privy Council's Judgment, the Question moved were determined, concerning the infringing of the said antient Liberty. All this was spoken in the Presence of Peter Baugh, Lewes Rawbone, and divers other Strangers. In Witness and Probation whereof, the said Sir Thomas hath subscribed his Name, with divers others hereunder written, which were present.

XXIII. Be it had in perpetual Memory, for a continual perfect Declaration of the Truth, whereunto all Matters of Variance and Controversy should be referred and advanced; and not the Sparks of Truth to be hidden (as a Candle bearing perfect Light, under a Bushel) and so washed away in the flowing Waters of unmindful Oblivion; which (amongst all good Christian Men) is at all Times, and in all Ages, to be rejected, and not to be embaced; but rather to be buried in the Bottom of the Earth, never to rise again.

IN Consideration whereof, by these Presents, it is for an infallible Truth, to be holden with all Men, which shall hear or see this present Writing, That Robert Flower, Taylor and Hosier, dwelling within the Precinct and Liberties of the late Black-fryars, near Ludgate, in LONDON, was by Commandment of the whole Bench of Aldermen, committed into one of the Compters of LONDON, the 20th Day of May, 1582. For that the same Robert Flower refused to be bound (according to Order taken) from the making of monstrous great Hosens, according to the Queen's Proclamation in that Behalf. Because the said Robert Flower had (amongst other Persons) put in Bonds before the Honourable Warden of the five Ports, and Sir Thomas Saunders, Knt. Justices within the Liberty of the Queen's Verge. After which revealed and known to the Honourable Earl of Arundel, Lord Steward of the Queen's most Honourable Household; who caused the Knight Marshal to go to the said Lord Mayor, requiring the Deliverance of the said Prisoner. The Lord Mayor (being sickly) made Answer, That he knew nothing thereof; but desired him to speak with Mr. Recorder. Who made Answer, That the said Imprisonment was done by the whole Bench of Aldermen, and he (as one particular Person) could not deliver the Prisoner until the next Court-Day, which could not be till two Days after, to the great Charges and Hindrance of the said Prisoner.

WHEREUPON the Lord Steward sent to Master Cholmely, he being Recorder of LONDON, and commanded him to deliver the Prisoner; or else he would imprison the Mayor of LONDON, and the said Recorder, and the fattest Alderman in the City, which he could get within the Verge. And declared, that the Queen's Liberties and Franchises should not be overcome by the Lord Mayor and Bench of Aldermen, so long as he was Officer; with many other Words against the Citizens, which were too long to write. Adding further, that the Mayor did not meddle with St. Martin's, being within the City, and a Parcel of Westminster Deanary: Much less should he meddle with the said Liberty of the Fryars, bounded out by Walls and Gates from the City; being being in the County of Middlesex, and not within the City. And so commanded the Recorder to send home the Prisoner into the Liberty presently; which was so done accordingly. Promising, that if the Lord Mayor could declare or shew any good Title, whereby to break the Liberty, the Queen's learned Counsel should answer him and them therein. And then the Recorder said, He never heard before that Time, that the Lord Steward did claim the Precinct of the Black-fryars, to be within the Liberty of the Queen's Verge. Out of which Jurisdiction the City of LONDON is exempted by the Statute of 32 Henry VIII. Cap. 2. under Colour of which Statute, the Mayor would bring the said Fryars to be in LONDON, which in all the Fryars Time was freely exempted.

ALL which Matter was debated in the Presence of Sir Thomas Saunders, Knt. Master Robert Hopton, one of the Knight Marshals, and Mr. Bromeley, Under Steward of the Marshalsea, the Day and Year abovementioned.

XXIV. Item, That in Queen Mary's Time, or King Edward's Time, her Brother, there was a Man slain within the said Precinct of the Black-fryars. And the Goods of him that was supposed to do the Deed, were stayed within the said Fryars, and an Inventory taken by the next Justice of Peace within the Verge, Roger Cholmeley, Kt. by the Commandment of Sir Thomas Cheney, Kt. And afterwards one Master Garrard, and the Recorder of LONDON, came unto the said Sir Thomas Cheney's House, within the same Precinct, and would have made an Inventory of the Goods of the Party Offender aforesaid, now deceased. But the said Sir Thomas Cheney would not permit nor suffer them so to do; for that he had made Stay of the same Goods for the Queen before, if it were lawfully found that the said Party had slain the Man dead. Which afterwards was otherwise found by a Quest of Twelve Men, sitting super visum corporis of the Dead, by the Coroner of the Verge, within the said Liberty; where the Mayor of LONDON and Bench of Aldermen have not to do, nor intermit with the Inhabitants thereof. Because the whole Fryars Liberties, and Franchises of the same, were freely given unto King Henry VIII. by Act of Parliament. Whereby the Lord Mayor of LONDON, and Bench of Aldermen, are clearly barred and secluded from the Fryars Liberties, and the Inhabitants thereof franchised, and clean exempted from all the Citizens, and their Impositions or other Taxations.

ADD to the rest, this Testimony following.

The true Copy of the Vicar of Bromley's LETTER, in Kent, sent to Master Thomas Walsingham, of Scadborough, in the said County, Esq; who sent the same Letter to Sir Tho. Saunders, Kt. he being also one of the Queen's Justices of the Peace in the said County; to examine the several Particulars therein, concerning the Liberties of the said Fryars, &c.

RIGHT WORSHIPFUL, You shall understand that I have received your kind Letter; according whereunto, these are to satisfy your Mind, that I was dwelling in the Black-fryars four or five Years; and came thither from Oxford, where I had been a Student of Divinity. I was also Curate of the Parish within the Black-fryars, called St. Agnes. We had within us a Porter, who did shut all the Gates every Night; at nine o'Clock in the Winter, and at 10 o'Clock in the Summer. No Sheriff, Bailiff, or Constable, nor yet the Mayor of LONDON, took Interest there at any Time; nor Foreign Porters had to do within our Privilege. And the Fryars did pave both within the Turn-gate and without, unto St. Andrew's Church, down by the Great Garden Wall: And without the Turn-gate there was a Cage, pulled down in my Time, which was set up by the Lord Mayor of LONDON. The Inhabitants within the Fryars never watched; neither the Constable of St. Martin's Parish warned any Watch there, neither came within the Gates after the Hour appointed, at any Time. The Sheriffs of LONDON had no Felons Goods there, neither did Arrest any Person within the Precinct of the House. As for Bakers and Brewers that belonged to the House, they are dead.

THERE is one James Norrice, Curate, alive; who was brought up in the House, and dwelling at St. Michael's in Cornhill, he can give you further Instructions. Whether there be any more living, I know not.

The following is the Relation of a dismal Accident in Black-fryars, which happening at the Time of Evening Service was called afterwards, The Fatal Vesper.

The Fatal Vesper.

ON the Lord's Day, October 26, it went far and near, that one Drury, a Romish Priest (a Man of Parts, and eminent Gifts) would preach that Day in the Afternoon in a House in Black-fryars, LONDON, whither all that would might freely come and hear him.

UPON this Report very many, Protestants as well as Papists, Scholars as well as others, assembled about Three o'Clock in the Afternoon. That Mansion-House was inhabited by the French Ambassador; and the Sermon was to be in a Garret; into which there were two Passages: One out of the Ambassador's Withdrawing-Room, which was private, the other more common without the great Gate of the said Mansion-House.

UNDER this Garret was another large Chamber which one Rediate, another Romish Priest, had hired for himself: Unto whom Papists frequently repaired to hear Mass, and make Confessions. Under this Room was the aforesaid Withdrawing-Chamber of the Ambassador, supported with strong Arches of Stone, being immediately over the Entrance into the great House: And at the South-End of the Garret, and on the West-Side thereof, there were Bed-Chambers, and Closets, which other Priests had hired for themselves: The Bed-Chamber at the South-End, was severed from the Garret only by a Partition of Wainscot which was taken down for the Sermon-time: The Length of the Garret from North to South was almost 40 Feet, the Breadth about 16 Feet: The two aforesaid Passages met on one Pair of Stairs leading to the Garret which had only that one Door leading into it.

MORE came to this Place than possibly it could hold, so that many for Want of Room returned back again: Others went into the aforesaid Rediate's Chamber, and tarried with him. The whole Garret, Rooms adjoining, Door, and Top of the Stairs were as full as they could hold. In the Garret were set Chairs and Stools for the better Sort: Most of the Women sate on the Floor, but most of the Men stood thronged together: In all, about 200, were there assembled. In the midst was a Table and a Chair for the Preacher.

ALL Things thus prepared, and the Multitude assembled, about Three o'Clock the expected Preacher, having on a Surplice girt about his Middle with a Linen Girdle, and a Tippet of Scarlet on both his Shoulders, came in, being attended by a Man that brought him his Book, and Hour-glass.

As soon as he came to the Table, he kneeled down with a Shew of private Devotion for a little while:

while : Then rising up, and turning himself to the People, he crossed himself, took the Book (which was said to be a Rhemist Testament) out of his Man's Hands, and the Hour-glass being set on the Table, he opened the Book, read the Gospel appointed by the Romish Calendar for that Day, being the twenty first Sunday after Pentecost : The Gospel was in Mat. xviii, 23, &c. The Text being read, he sat down, put on a red Cap over a white Linen one turned up about the Brims : He made no audible Prayer, but having read his Text, which was the Parable of forgiving Debts, he spake something of the Occasion of it, and then propounded these three special Points to be handled.

1. The Debt we owe to God.
2. The Mercy of God in forgiving it.
3. Man's Unmercifulness to his Brother.

HAVING insisted some while on the Misery of Man, by reason of the Debt wherein he stands bound to God, he passed on to declare the rich Mercy of God, and the Means which God hath afforded to his Church, for partaking thereof : Amongst which he reckoned up the Sacraments, and especially pressed the Sacrament of Penance, as they call it.

WHEN he had discoursed on these Points about half an Hour, on a sudden the Floor whereon the Preacher and the greatest Part of his Auditory were, fell down with such Violence, as therewith the Floor of the Chamber under it, where Rediate and his Company were, was broken down with it, so that both the Floors, with the Beams, Girders, Joists, Boards, and Cielings, with all the People on them, fell down together upon the third Floor, which was the Floor of the French Ambassador's withdrawing Chamber, supported with strong Arches as aforesaid.

THERE being a Partition on the South-Side of the Middle Chamber which reached up to the Floor of the Garret, which was at the North-West Corner. Hereupon some through Amazement, would have leaped out of a Window almost forty Feet from the Ground ; but the People without, telling them of the certain Danger if they leaped down, kept them from that desperate Attempt : At length by breaking a Wall on the West-Side they discerned Chambers adjoining thereto, and so by creeping through that Hole into the Chambers, they were saved : So were all they that stood on the Stair-Head at the Door leading into the Garret : For the Stairs were without the Room, and nothing fell but the Floors, neither Walls nor Roof.

ALSO amongst those that fell, many escaped ; for some of the Timber rested with one End on the Walls, and with the other on the third Floor that yielded not, and so both such as abode on those Pieces, and such as were directly under them, were thereby preserved. Amongst the Multitude that fell, there was a Minister who (through God's Providence) fell so between two Pieces of Timber, as that the Timber kept his upper Parts from crushing ; and helped him by his clasping about the Timber to pull out his Feet from amongst the dead Corpses.

AMONGST others, the present Preservation and future Destruction of one Parker was very remarkable. This Parker was a Factor for the English Seminaries, and Nuns beyond Sea, especially at Cambre ; and he had so dealt with two of his Brothers here, that he had got from one of them a Son, and from the other a Daughter, to send them to religious Houses (as they falsely call them) beyond Sea : This Parker at this Time took his Nephew, a Youth about sixteen Years old, to the aforementioned fatal Conventicle where Drury preached ; and both Parker and his Nephew fell with the rest : The Youth there lost his Life, but Parker himself escaped with a bruised Body, being a corpulent Man : But about ten Days after, as this Parker was shooting London Bridge, with his aforesaid Niece, whom he was conveying beyond Sea, they were cast away, and drowned in the Thames.

OTHERS there were that were pulled out alive, but so bruised, or so spent for want of Breath, that some lived not many Hours, others died not many Days after.

THE Floor of the Chamber immediately over this, where the Corpses lay, being fallen, there was no Entrance into it but through the Ambassador's Bed-chamber, the Door whereof was closed up with the Timber of the Floors that fell down ; and the Walls of this Room were of Stone, only there was one Window in it with extraordinary strong cross Bars of Iron, so that though Smiths and other Workmen were immediately sent for, yet it was more than an Hour before Succour could be afforded to them that were fallen down.

PASSAGE at length being made, I had Access into the Room (saith Doctor Gouge, the Relater of this Story) and viewing the Bodies, observed some (yet but few) to be mortally wounded, or crushed by the Timber : Others to be apparently stifled, partly with their thick lying one upon another, and partly with the Dust that came from the Cieling which fell down.

ON the Lord's Day at Night, when they fell, they were numbered ninety one dead Bodies : But many of them were secretly conveyed away in the Night, there being a Pair of Water Stairs, leading from the Garden appertaining to the House, into the Thames. On the Morrow the Coroner and his Inquest coming to view the Bodies, found remaining but sixty three.

OF those that were carried away some were buried in a Burying Place within the Spanish Ambassador's House in Holborn, amongst whom the Lady Web was one, the Lady Blackstone's Daughter another, and one Mistress Udal a third : Master Stoker, and Master Bartholomew Bavin were buried in Brides Parish. Robert Sutton, John Locckam, and Abigail Holford in Andrews Holborn. Captain Summer's Wife in the Vault under Black-fryars Church, and her Woman in the Church-yard. For the Corpses remaining, two great Pits were digged, one in the fore Court of the said French Ambassador's House, eighteen Feet long, and 12 Feet broad : The other, in the Garden behind his House, twelve Feet long, and eight Feet broad. In the former Pit were laid forty four Corpses, whereof the Bodies of the aforesaid Drury and Rediate were two. These two wound up in Sheets, were first laid into the Pit, with a Partition of loose Earth to sever them from the rest. Then were others brought, some in somewhat a decent Manner wound up in Sheets, but the most in a lamentable Plight, the Shirts only of the Men tied under the Twists, and some Linen tied about the Middle of the Women, the rest of their Bodies naked, and one poor Man, or Woman, taking a Corpse by the Head, another by the Feet, tumbled them in, and so piled them up almost to the Top of the Pit. The rest were put into the other Pit in the Garden.

THEIR Manner of Burial seemed almost as dismal, as the Heap of them, when they lay upon the Floor where they last fell. No Obsequies of Funeral Rites were used at their Burial. Only the Day after, a black Cross of Wood was set upon each Grave, but was soon by Authority commanded to be taken down.

WHEN they were thus interred, thorough Search was made about the Cause of the falling of the Timber : The Timber of each Floor was laid together, and the Measure of the Summers that brake was taken. The main Summer which crossed the Garret was ten Inches square: Two Girders were by Tenents, and Mortaises let into the midst of it, one just against another: The Summer was knotty where the Mortaises were made, whereupon being over-burdened, it snapped suddenly asunder in the midst.

The main Summer of the other Floor that fell was much stronger, being thirteen Inches square, strong and sound every where, neither did the Girders meet so just one against another; yet that also failed, not in the midst as the Uppermost, but within five Feet of one End, and that more shiveringly, and with a longer Rent in the Timber than the other; for this Chamber was almost full with such Persons as coming too late, went into Rediate's Chamber: Besides, it did not only bear the Weight which lay on the upper Floor, but received it with a sudden Knock, and so the massy Timber shivered in two, and the People were irrecoverably, before they could fear any such Thing, beaten down into the third Floor, which was above twenty Feet from the first.

DOCTOR Gouge, who relates this Story in his Extent of God's Providence, thus writeth.

“ I do the more confidently publish this History, because I was an Eye-Witness of many of the Things therein related, and heard from the Mouths of such as were present at the Sermon the next. For upon the first hearing of the Destruction of so many Persons as by that Downfall lost their Lives, our Constable presently caused the Gates of our Precinct (it being surrounded with Walls and Gates) to be shut, and raised a strong Guard from amongst the Inhabitants, to keep the House where this Accident fell out, and to prevent Tumults about it. Thus through the Favour of the Constables, and Watch, who were all my Neighbours, I had the more free and quiet Access to view the dead Bodies, and to inform myself of all the material Circumstances about that Accident: Which I did the rather because the Bishop of LONDON that then was, sent to me to inform myself thoroughly of all the Business, and to send him a Narration thereof under my Hand; whereupon I did not only view Matters myself, but caused Carpenters to search the Timber, to take the Measures both of the Timber and Rooms. I was also present with the Coroner and his Inquest at their examining of all Circumstances about the Business. And the Archbishop of Canterbury sending to me to come to him, and to bring with me the best Evidence I could, I got the Foreman of the Jury, and four Persons that were present at the Sermon, and fell down with the rest, but by God's Providence escaped Death, and one that stood without the Door, within hearing, but fell not, all these I got to go along with me to Lambeth, where I heard the Witnesses which they gave to the Archbishop about this Matter: One that fell with the rest, and escaped Death, was Master Gee, a Preacher in Lancashire: Two others were a Son and Servant to a Citizen in Pater-noster-row: The rest were Men of good Understanding, able to apprehend what they saw and heard, and to relate what they conceived.

IN King Edward III. his Reign, a House being newly built in the Black-fryars, near the Wall of the City, to the Annoyance of the said Fryars and the City, and built without Licence, in a Perambulation was solemnly viewed by the Lord Mayor, with many of the Aldermen his Brethren; and was ordered to be pulled down within forty Days: otherwise the Sheriff was appointed to do it, and to Fine the Builder besides forty Shillings. For which an antient Record of the City ran to this Tenor.

BEFORE we take our Leave of Black-fryars, faith Mr. Strype, I must mention a memorable Passage that happened after the Fire of LONDON. “ Some Workmen digging in a Place there where the Convent was, to clear it from the Rubbish, by the Appointment of Mr. William Bradford, in order to build, they came to an old Wall in a Cellar, of great Thickness; where appeared a kind of Cupboard, which being opened, there were found in it four Pots or Cases of fine Pewter, thick, with Covers of the same; and Rings fastened on the Top, to take up or put down at Pleasure. The Cases were flat before, and rounding behind. And in them were reposed four human Heads, unconsumed, reserved, as it seems, by Art; with their Teeth and Hair, the Flesh of a tawny Colour, wrapped up in black Silk, almost consumed. And a certain Substance, of a blackish Colour, crumbled into Dust, lying at the Bottom of the Pots.

“ One of these Pots, with the Head in it, I saw in October, 1703, being in the Custody of Mr. Presbury, Soap-maker in Smithfield: Which Pot had inscribed in the Inside of the Cover, in a scrawling Character, (which might be used in the Times of King Henry VIII.) T. CORNELIUS. This Head was without any Neck, having short red Hair upon it, thick, and that would not be pulled off; and yellow Hair upon the Temples; a little bald on the Top, (perhaps a Tonsure) the Fore-part of the Nose sunk, the Mouth gaping, ten sound Teeth, others had been plucked out; the Skin like tanned Leather, the Features of the Face visible. There was one Body found near it buried, and without an Head; but no other Bodies found. The other three Heads had some of the Necks joined to them, and had a broader and plainer Razure; which shewed them Priests. These three Heads are now dispersed. One was given to an Apothecary: Another was intrusted with the Parish Clerk; who it is thought got Money by shewing of it. It is probable they were at last privately procured, and conveyed abroad, and now become Holy Relicks.

Who

Who these were, there is no Record of, nor had any the Name inscribed but one; they seem to have been some zealous Priests or Fryars, executed for Treason; whereof there were many in the Rebellion in Lincolnshire, An. 1538, or for denying the King's Supremacy; and here privately deposited by these Black Fryars.

The PARISH of St. MICHAEL the QUERN.

NOW to turn again out of the Black-fryars, through Bowyer-row, Ave-mary-lane, and Pater-noster-row, to the Church of St. Michael ad Bladum, or at the Corn, (corruptly called the Quern) so called, because in Place thereof was sometime a Corn-Market, stretching up West to the Shambles. It seemeth that this Church was first built about the Reign of Edward III. Thomas Newton, first Parson there, was buried in the Choir, in the Year 1361, which was the 35th of Edward III. At the East-End of this Church stood a Cross, called the Old Cross in West-Cheap, which was taken down in the Year 1390, the 13th of Richard II. Since the which Time, the said Parish Church was also taken down; but new built and enlarged in the Year 1430. The 8th of Henry VI. William Eastfield, Mayor, and the Commonalty, granted of the common Soil of the City, three Feet and an half in Breadth on the North Part, and four Feet in Breadth toward the East, for the enlarging thereof.

THIS Church was repaired, and with all Things, either for Use or Beauty, richly supplied and furnished, at the sole Cost and Charge of the Parishioners, in the Year of our Lord God 1617.

THIS Church was burnt down in the great Fire, and not rebuilt;

BUT the Parish is united to St. Vedast Foster-Lane.

THERE was a Parsonage-House but demolished by the Fire; and the Ground now lies in the open Street. And no Satisfaction ever received for the Loss of the Ground. No Glebe belongs to this Parish.

THERE are several Bequests given to the Poor for Gowns and Bread; which are Yearly and Weekly disposed of.

BUT as for Legacies or Gifts given to the Church (i. e. for the Repairing or Adorning thereof) there were none.

MONUMENTS.

THE old Church had the Monuments of;

Thomas Newton, first Parson.

Roger Woodcocke, Hatter, 1475.

Thomas Ruffel, Brewer, 1473.

John Hulton, Stationer, 1475.

John Oxney.

Roger North, Merchant, Haberdasher, 1509.

John Leyland, the famous Antiquary.

Henry Prannell, Vintner, one of the Sheriffs, 1585.

Will. Elkin, one of the Sheriffs, 1586.

Thomas Bankes, Barber-Chirurgion, 1598, &c.

ON a Monument on the South Side of the Chancel, was this Inscription:

Here lyeth buried the Body of Henry Prannell, late Citizen and Alderman of London, and free of the Vintners; who deceased the 22d day of October, Anno Dom. 1589. Anno ætatis sue, 58. He had to Wife Anne, the Daughter of Edmond Baxter; and had Issue by her, three Sonnes and one Daughter.

ON another in the same Wall:

Here lyeth the Body of William Elkin, Mercer, late Citizen and Alderman of London; who deceased the last day of October, 1593. Anno ætatis sue, 70. Who tooke to Wife Alice Robinson, the Daughter of Thomas Wilkes, by whom he had Issue one Daughter, named Ursula.

On a smaller in the same Wall.

Thomas Bankes, Barber Chirurgion, Deputie of this Ward, who had to Wife Joan Laurence, by whom he had Issue seven Sonnes and ten Daughters.

John Mundham had a Chantry there in the 4th of Edward II.

ON a fair Monument in the North Isle:

John Bankes, Mercer, and Esquire, whose Body lyeth here interred; the Sonne of Thomas Bankes, free of the Barber-Surgeons. This John was aged 59, and expired the ninth of September, Anno 1630.

His first Wife was Martha, a Widow, by whom he had one onely Sonne, deceased. His second Wife was Anne Hasell, who left unto him one Daughter and Heire, called Anna: since married unto Edmond Waller, of Berkensfield in Buckinghamshire, Esquire. He gave by his last Will and Testament (written with his own Hand) to unbeneficed Ministers; to decayed Housekeepers; to the Poore of many Parishes; to all (or the most) of the Prisons, Bridewells, and Hospitals, in and about London; to young Beginners to set up their Trades; to the Artillery Garden, and towards the Maintenance thereof for ever, very bountifully; to his own Company, both in Lands and Money; to his Friends, in Tokens of Remembrance; to divers of his Kindred; and to other charitable and pious Uses, the Summe of 6000*l.* notwithstanding noble and sufficient Dower to his Daughter reserved. And all these several Legacies, by his careful Executor Robert Tichbourne, and his Overseers, punctually observed, and fully discharged.

Imbalm'd in pious Arts,
wrapt in a Shroud
Of white innocuous Charity, who vow'd,
Having enough, the World should understand
No Deed of Mercy
might escape his Hand:
Bankes here is laid to sleepe,
this Place did breed him,
A President to all
that shall succeed him,
Note both his Life
and imitable End,
Know he th' unrighteous
Mammon made his Friend, Expressing by his Talents
rich increase,
Service that gain'd him Praise and lasting Peace.

WHICH

WHICH Church had not its Name from Edwin, the first Christian King of Northumberland, (as Mr. Richard Smith supposed) but is the same Saint Owen, or Audown: And this Church in old Writing is called Sti. Audeoni juxta Fratres minores LONDON, and some Time infra Newgate.

IN this Church was founded a Fraternity of St. Anne, the Mother of Mary, from the Alms of the Parishioners; as it is express'd in a Certificate in the Tower, given in about it, by the then three Masters of it, viz. John Shepye, Taylor, Nicholas Minet, Fletcher, and another, who certified, that in the same Church, every Year seven Wax Candles quadrate, (i.e. Square) were to be burnt before the Image of St. Anne, all the solemn Days, in which a Light burnt before the Crucifix; and yearly to be renewed the said Light, as long as the said Fraternity could sustain it. And that every Brother should offer at the High Mass of the said Day, in the Church, one Half-penny; and four Torches of ten Pounds of Wax, to be burnt upon the Obsequies of any Brother of the Fraternity, &c.

THIS Church (as is before said) was given by King Henry VIII, towards the erecting of Christ-Church. It was taken down, and in Place thereof, a fair strong Frame of Timber was erected; wherein dwell Men of divers Trades: And from this Frame to Newgate, is all of this Ward, and so an End thereof.

AND now for the modern State of this large Ward.

As to the Description of the Places in this Ward, we shall begin with Ludgate-street; then proceed to Black-fryars, and the Places in the Precinct. Next to Creed-lane, Ave-Mary-lane, and Warwick-lane, taking in the Places of Note and Name on each Side. Then to Newgate-street, with the Places on each Side, as Christ-Church, and the Hospital of the same Name; Newgate-market, Butcher-hall-lane: After that, to Pater-noster-row, Cheapside, the Old Change, and conclude with St. Paul's, and the Places about it.

Ludgate-street. This is a Street of a very great Resort, for Coaches, Carts, Horse, and Foot, through Ludgate towards Fleet-street, and other Western Parts of the City; and from thence into the City. For which Reason it enjoys a very great Trade, being taken up by considerable Dealers: And since the late Fire of LONDON, the Buildings are very lofty and uniform. For the Description of Ludgate, see the Chapter in the first Book which treats of the Gates of the City. This Street towards the East fronts the West End of St. Paul. Adjoining to Ludgate, on the North Side of the Street, is the Parish-Church of St. Martin's Ludgate; which since the Rebuilding, occasioned by the dreadful Fire of LONDON, is very comely, and ascended up by Stone Steps, well finished within; and hath a most curious spire Steeple of excellent Workmanship, pleasant to behold.

ON the South Side of this Street, over-against St. Martin's Church is the Entrance into Black-fryars. The ample Privileges, that the Inhabitants of this Precinct enjoy'd, have been for many Years lost, so that now the Sheriffs Officers can arrest there.

Black-fryars hath but a narrow Passage out of Ludgate-street, and turning by the back Side of Ludgate Prison, falleth into an open Place with very good Buildings, well inhabited by Tradesmen. Which said Street runneth down Southwards to the Thames; but that Part by Apothecaries-Hall, and so downwards, is called Water-street; and hath a handsome Pair of Stairs to take Water at, where Plenty of Watermen ply:

VOL. I.

And in its Passage to the Water-side takes in several Courts and Yards.

As Banister's-court, which is but ordinary; opposite to which, is a large handsome House, with a graceful Front to the Thames: It is now occupied by a Timber Merchant, but was formerly the Dwelling of Sir Thomas Fitch, Knt. and Bart. and afterwards of Dr. Salmon, an eminent Physician.

Hughs's-court, hath a Passage into Duke Humfrey's, which falls into Puddle-dock: And out of Duke Humfrey's, is a Passage into Cloyster-court, and so into Ireland-yard, which comes into Puddle-dock-hill: And in this Passage receives Jackson's-court, Canterbury-court, and Ireland-court; all Places of small Account. And out of Ireland-yard is Fryars-court and New-street, both which are but ordinary, and fall into Shoemakers-row, which comes out of Black-fryars in the broad Place, and falls into Creed-lane, against Carter-lane End. This Shoemakers-row is a Place of some Trade, and pretty well inhabited: And here are some small Courts, as Cob's-court, &c. And out of this Row is Church-entry, but narrow and ordinary; and falls into Glass-house-yard, by where St. Anne's Church stood.

The King's Printing-house-yard, so called from the King's Printing-house there seated; a good convenient and large Building, for that Use: The King's Printer there printing Bibles in all Volumes, also Proclamations, and what concerns the publick Use.

The Scotch-hall, a large House, seated as well in Water-street, as on the Ditch-side; made use of by Scotchmen for some Meeting. Apothecaries-hall, seated almost opposite to the Paved-alley that leadeth to the Ditch-side, down Steps against Bridewel-bridge. This Hall is a good Building with a Pair of Gates that leads into an open Court handsomely paved with broad Stones; at the upper End of which is the Hall, which is a good Building, adorned with Columns of the Tuscan Order. It is built of Brick and Stone, finished Anno 1670. The Cieling of the Court-Room and Hall is adorned with Fret-work, and the latter wainscotted 14 Feet high. In the Hall is the Portraiture of King James I. the Busto of Dr. Gideon Delaun (the said King's Apothecary, and a good Benefactor to this Fraternity). Here are two large Elaboratories, one for Chymical, the other for Galenical Preparations. Over the former is this Inscription:

Apothecaries Hall.

Hanc Ædem Medicinæ Hermeticæ sacram voluit Societas Pharm. Lond. Quæ ut Artem a subdolis Pseudo-Chimicorum Technis vindicaret Medicamenta Chimica quæcunque in Usum veniunt hic summa Fide & Industria sumptibus propriis præparanda curavit.

AT this Hall are prepared vast Quantities of Medicines for the Apothecaries and others, and particularly the Surgeons of the Fleet do here make up their Chests.

IN the Corner of Black-fryars, by London-wall, is Worley-court, which is but small; and this hath a Passage into the Ditch-side; the East Side of which, all along to the Water-side, is in this Parish; and for the generality built with good Houses, and well inhabited. And thus much for the Precinct of Black-fryars.

Creed-lane, formerly called Spurrier-row. It is a Lane pestered with Carts and Carrs to Puddle-dock, and other Wharfs on the Water-side, which makes it to be not over well inhabited. The West Side is in this Ward, the East in Castle-Baynard's. Out of this Lane are two Passages into Holiday-yard, or Court, which is a large Place, but of no great Account: And here are

are two Courts into it, and both bearing the same Name. This Lane comes out of Ludgate-street, against Ave-mary-lane, and falleth into Puddle-dock-hill. On the East Side of this Lane is Scallop-court, indifferent good, with a Free-stone Passage into Carter-lane, against Puddle-dock-hill.

Ave-mary-lane hath good Houses, many of which are inhabited by noted Tradesmen. On the West-Side is an open square Court, with good Houses, called Stationers Rents. Out of which Court is a Passage into Amen-Corner, and another into Stationers-Hall; a very good Building, having a handsome large Hall, with a Court Room; and other Apartments separate from the Hall, which are made Use of for the Stock Books of the Company. Out of this Hall is a Passage through Cock-Alley into Ludgate-street; which Alley is but narrow at the Entrance, but against the Hall it is good and airy, fronting the Hall.

Amen-Corner, short, but indifferent well built and inhabited, fronting Pater-noster-row. At the Upper End was seated the College of Physicians, burnt by the general Fire of London. Since which, in that Place, is erected a fair House, now the Seat of a Residentiary of St. Paul's.

Warwick-lane runneth Northwards into Newgate-street; the West-Side being in this Ward, and the East in Castle-Baynard. On the West Side are these Places, Oxford-arms-Inn, very considerable, and well accustomed; the Inn stands backwards, and the Passage to it hath small Houses on both Sides. Warwick-Court, a very handsome, spacious and airy Court, with an open Passage for Coaches into it; and is graced with very good large Buildings, well inhabited by Persons of Repute. The Physicians College, a very curious Structure: Of which see more in the first Book.

THEN on the East-Side of this Lane, is Whitehart-street, which gives a Passage into Newgate-market, inhabited by Poulterers, and such Trades whose Dependance is on the Market. Bell-inn, but small, only for Stabling for the Market-People's Horses; and this Inn hath a Passage into the Market. Crown-inn, also for that Purpose, and but small.

Newgate-street, well inhabited by good Tradesmen; it comes out of Cheapside, and Blowbladder-street, and runs to Newgate, the City Jail for Malefactors; as also for the County of Middlesex for the like Criminals, and likewise for Debtors. It is a large Prison, and made very strong, the better to secure such Sort of Criminals, which too much fill it: Inasmuch that the Debtors are crowded amongst them, except they have large Purfes to be in the Press-yard; which is a Place for the better Sort, or such as can well gratify the Keepers extravagant Demands.

ADJOINING to this Prison, on the North-Side, is Swan-yard, a pretty long Court, but ordinary. Phoenix-court, adjoining to Newgate on the South-Side, a good handsome Place, with a Free-stone Pavement, and good Houses. Oxford-arms-inn and Crown-inn by Warwick-lane, both ordinary, and only for the Market-Peoples Horses.

THE Part of Newgate-street, from the End of Cheapside, a little above St. Martin's le grand, unto the Shambles, was called Blowbladder-street, from the Bladders there sold in former Times.

THE Butchers inhabiting in this Street, had their Slaughter-Houses in Butcher-hall-lane, formerly called Stinking-lane, from the Nastiness of the Place; but now it is kept pretty clean. This Lane cometh out of Newgate-street, and passing by Christ-church, into which it hath an Entrance, falls into Bull-and-mouth-street, which leadeth to St. Martin's le grand, but this is in Aldersgate Ward.

OUT of this Lane is another Passage into Angel-street, an indifferent Place; and is but Part in this Ward. Over-against Christ-church is Crow-court, which is but small. Near this Lane is the Bagnio, a neat contrived Building after the Turkish Mode, for that Purpose; seated in a large handsome Yard, and at the Upper End of Pincock-lane, which is indifferent well built and inhabited.

ON the North-Side of the Shambles was Pentecost-lane: Here was antiently a Church and Church-yard, afterwards a large Square; and is now called Bull-head-court, which is pretty well inhabited and built.

Christ's-church was consumed in the Conflagration of the City; and that Part called The New Church, which was made Use of before, is rebuilt very handsome, at the Charges of the Parishioners of this Parish, and St. Leonard Foster-lane, which is united to it.

ADJOINING to this Church and Hospital, is a Court, which retaineth the Name of the Greyfriars-court, a pretty large Place, having a Passage into the said Hospital, and another out of Newgate-street, through the Cloysters and Long-walk, into St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and so into Smithfield; being a great Thorough-fare.

Newgate-market, before the late dreadful Fire of London, was kept in Newgate-street; where there was a Market-House only for Meal, and a middle Row of Sheds, which afterwards were converted into Houses, and inhabited by Butchers, Tripe-sellers, &c. And the Country People which brought Provisions to the City, were forced to stand with their Stalls in the open Street, to the Damage of their Goods, and Danger of their Persons, by the Coaches, Carts, Horses, and Cattle, that pass'd through the Street. But since the nominating of convenient Places in the City for Publick Markets, by Act of Parliament, which appoints the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commoners, to appoint proper Places, they have found out a most convenient Place for this Market, and near adjoining; being situate between Newgate-street on the North, and Pater-noster-row on the South; and between Warwick-lane on the West, and Ivy-lane on the East. The greatest Part of which Market is in this Ward, and the other Part in Castle-Baynard Ward.

THE Market-Place is a square Piece of Ground, which is encompassed with fair Houses, built according to the second Rate of Building. In the Middle of the Market-Place, which is 148 Feet broad from North to South, and 194 Feet long from East to West, there is erected a Market-House, in Form of a Cross, standing upon twenty four Pillars or Columns, and ascended up into the Market-House, by two or three broad Stone Steps at all the Entrances. Under this Market-House are Vaults or Cellars; and over it several Rooms, for the Stowage of the Fruiterers, and other Goods, in the Night; and over all a Cupola, or Bell Tower. This Market-House is made Use of for Fruit, Herbs, &c. And round about it, at a convenient Distance, are Stalls for Butchers; as are Stalls also by the Sides of the Houses, for Butchers and Poulterers. This Market is very well served with all Sorts of Butcher's Meat, and Poulterer's Ware; also with Fruit, Herbs, Butter, Eggs, &c. The Passages into this Market, are out of Newgate-street through Rose-street, which is broad, but short; well built, and inhabited by Butchers and Fishmongers. Another out of Warwick-lane, through Whitehart-street, but short also; inhabited by the like Tradesmen. Another out of Pater-noster-row, through a short Alley: And two others out of Ivy-lane. As to the Laws for the well ordering of this, and the rest of the Markets

kets in LONDON, they are treated of in the Chapter of the Civil and Temporal Government of this City.

MORE Eastward from this Market, and in Newgate-street, is Swan-alley, which is but ordinary. Three-cup-court, pretty small; and King's-head-court, very small and ordinary.

Pater-noster-row. This Street, before the Fire of LONDON, was taken up by eminent Mercers, Silkmen, and Lacemen; and their Shops were so resorted to by the Nobility and Gentry, in their Coaches, that oft-times the Street was so stopped up, that there was no Passage for Foot-passengers. But since the said Fire, those eminent Tradesmen have settled themselves in several other Parts, especially in Covent-garden, in Bedford-street, Henrietta-street, and King-street. And the Inhabitants in this Street are now a Mixture of Trades-People, but there are more of the Booksellers Trade than any other.

THIS Street begins East at Cheapside, and runneth up to Amen-corner; from which it is severed by Warwick-lane, and Ave-mary-lane. It hath a Passage into these Parts: On the South Side, a small Alley which leads to the West End of St. Paul's through London-house-yard; where formerly the Bishops of LONDON had their House or Palace. Paul's-alley, a Place of small Trade, and very narrow, and falleth on the North Side of St. Paul's, and about the Middle divideth itself into two Parts, the one running strait South, and the other Eastwards; at the End of which was a Passage into Petty-canons, indifferent large, and now converted into Buildings; having at the upper Part or End, a Passage into Paul's-church-yard, near Petty-canons-alley, which is an open Place, with a Free-stone Pavement leading into Pater-noster-row.

THEN on the North Side of this Pater-noster-row, next to Warwick-lane, is Mermaid-court, a handsome Place, with a Free-stone Pavement. Next is the Passage into Newgate-market.

Ivy-lane, is well built and inhabited, and falleth into Newgate-street; having two Passages into Newgate-market, as aforesaid. And on the East Side is Sun-court, which is but small.

IN Pater-noster-row, is Lovel's-court, being a handsome Place, with good Buildings, well inhabited. Queen's-head-alley, so called from the Queen's-head Tavern, there seated in an open square Court, from which it hath a long Passage into Newgate-street. Panyer-alley, near unto Cheapside.

THIS Alley leadeth into Blowbladder-street, over-against St. Martin's le Grand. It is a great Thoroughfare, and a Place of good Trade. On the West Side of this Alley, is Eagle-and-Child-court, which is but small. Betwixt this and Lovel's-alley is the Castle Tavern, which is large, and famous for a fine Confort of Musick, supported there by a Supscription of Gentlemen, during the Winter Season.

A little Eastward from Panyer-alley and Newgate-street, like two Rivulets joining into one, they fall into Cheapside; and just here, fronting Cheapside, stood the Parish-Church of St. Michael's Quern, which, in the late Fire of LONDON, was consumed, and is not rebuilt, but the Parish united to St. Vedast, alias Foster: And where that Church stood, against which is the Passage into St. Paul's Church-yard, was a Conduit, which was taken down but a few Years since.

THIS Street of Cheapside, is spacious and large, graced with very lofty Buildings; which are well inhabited by Goldsmiths, Linnen-Drapers, Haberdashers, Druggists, and other noted Tradesmen; being one of the chief high Streets in the City, and of a very great Resort, as leading to and from the Royal-Exchange: But it is partly in many Wards.

Foster-lane, for the Generality inhabited by working Goldsmiths; and is of chief Note for Goldsmiths Hall here seated. There is but a very small Part of this Lane in this Ward, not above two Houses beyond the Church. And to this Ward belongs the West Side of Noble-street, in part, and Mugwel-street, and the North Side of Hart-street unto Cripplegate; which is a narrow slip of Ground, and apart from the rest of the Ward. The other Sides being in Cripplegate Ward, and joining to the said Ward.

THIS Church of St. Foster, since its burning down in the great Fire of LONDON, is now rebuilt very decently; and beautified within, by the Parishioners of this Parish, and of St. Michael's Quern, which is united unto it.

NEAR this Lane, but in Cheapside, is Sadlers Hall, a good Building, adorned with Fret-work and well wainscotted; it is seated at the Upper End of a handsome Alley, at the Entrance of which, is an ornamental Stone Door-case with an Iron Gate, and the Arms of the Company, well carved in Stone over it. Near this is Half-moon-alley, which is but small; at the Upper End of which is a Tavern, which gives a Passage into Foster-lane, and another into Gutter-lane.

Gutter-lane, but narrow, and none of the best; here dwell several Joiners that make Chimney-Pieces, for which it is of some Note. Here the Company of Embroiderers have their Hall. In this Lane are these Places. Day's-court, on the East Side, indifferent. Goldsmiths-street leadeth to Wood-street, against the Compter, indifferent: But of this Street, the greatest Part is in Cripplegate Ward. Dove-court, but small and ordinary, seated on the West Side against Goldsmiths-street. Innholders Hall a handsome Building. King's-head-court, a square Place, seated against Innholders Hall. Near unto this is Stone-court, but small. More Northwards, and on the West Side, is Kerry-lane, a handsome Place, and of some Trade, having a Passage into Foster-lane; but little or no Part is in this Ward, but in Aldersgate Ward. Huggin-alley, comes out of Gutter-lane, and falls into Woodstreet, but no Part in this Ward.

Wood-street, hath but a small Part in this Ward; only the West Side taking in the Church-yard of St. Peter's Cheap, the Church not being rebuilt since the late Fire; and the Parish united to that of St. Matthew Friday-street.

Friday-street, as far as the Church of St. Matthew Friday-street, is in this Ward; the rest in Bread-street Ward.

THIS Church is seated near the North West Corner of Friday-street, next unto Cheapside. Since its burning in the late Conflagration of LONDON, it is rebuilt, and that of St. Peter's Cheap united unto it. The Church is not very large, and built of Brick, except the Front towards the Street, which is all Free-stone. By this Church is a Free-stone Passage, which leads to the Back Door of the Fountain Tavern in Cheapside. In this Church are Prayers every Morning and Evening, about seven of the Clock.

BETWIXT Friday-street and the Old Change, is Star-court, a large Place. Then Shepherd's-court, handsome, well built and inhabited. At the Upper End of which is the Fountain Tavern, of good Account as most in Cheapside.

THE Old Change. This Street begins in Cheapside, and falls into Old-fish-street; but the Part in this Ward goeth but to St. Austin's Church, and then the West Side, unto Old-fish-street, is in Castle-Baynard Ward; and on the East Side, in Bread-street Ward.

THIS Street, taken from Cheapside to Old-fishstreet, is of a pretty good Trade, well built and inhabited. The Courts and Alleys, beginning next Cheapside, and so to the Old-change, are, Swan-court, but small, hath a Passage through a Publick House, called the Swan, into Paul's Church-yard. Green-dragon-court, indifferent good. Three-dagger-court, but small. Purse-court, a very handsome square Place, with good Buildings, and Inhabitants answerable; with a Free-stone Pavement. Lamb-alley, long and ordinary. Crane-court, a good handsome Place. Crown-court, very good, seated opposite to Distaff-lane. Black-horse-court, narrow and ordinary. King's-head-inn, of pretty good Resort. Phoenix-court, and Gingerbread-court, both small and ordinary.

St. Austin's Church. It was wholly consumed in the great Fire of LONDON, and is now beautifully rebuilt, with a most neat Spire, of curious Workmanship. To this Parish, is that of St. Faith under St. Paul's united.

PASSING out of this Street, through St. Austin's Gate, (which Name it retaineth, although the Gate, since the Fire of LONDON, is not built, but lieth open) you enter into St. Paul's Churchyard; a spacious Place, and on all Sides begirt with very good Buildings, inhabited by great Traders. The East and South Sides generally by Woollen-Drapers and Cane-Chair-Sellers. Part of the East Side is taken up by St. Paul's School.

THE North Side, which is the most Spacious, especially from the North Door to the East, is taken up by Bookfellers chiefly. On this Side is a fair House called the Chapter-house belonging to St. Paul's. And here the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury useth to sit, to consult about Ecclesiastical Matters, and to frame Canons, for the better and more orderly Government and Peace of the Church. The Clergy whereof consisting of an Upper and Lower House, are called by the King's Writ, whensoever the Parliament sits; and are prorogued and dismissed by his Authority. Thus Anno 1718, after a Prorogation of this Synod, by Authority of the King's Writ and Licence, "Full, free and lawful Power, was given to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the rest of the Bishops of the Province, or the greater Number of them; and the rest of the Clergy of this present Convocation, (that is the Lower House) or the greater Number of them, from Time to Time, during this present Parliament, to propose, confer, treat, debate, consult, and agree of, and upon such Canons, &c. as they shall think necessary, fit and convenient, for the Honour and Service of God, the Good and Quiet of the Church, and the Government thereof, as by Law established. And farther, they are authorized, to set down in Writing, and exhibit to the King, all such Canons and Things, so by them, from Time to Time, agreed upon. Provided always, that they be not contrary, nor tend to make any Alteration in the Doctrine, Discipline, or Government of the Church of England, as established by any Act of Parliament now in Force.

THE West Side fronteth Ludgate-street, where it is very spacious.

THERE are to watch at the several Stands in this Ward, every Night, one Constable, a Beadle, and forty Watchmen.

THE Jury returned by the Inquest, for this Ward, are to serve in the several Courts holden in the Guild-hall, in the Month of September.

It hath an Alderman, and his Deputy, fifteen Common-Council Men. Seventeen Constables. Eighteen Scavengers. Eighteen Wardmote Inquest Men; and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON 50*l*. And in the Exchequer, at 53*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*.

THE Alderman is Sir Richard Brocas, Knt.

CHAP. IX.

BREAD-STREET WARD.

BREAD-STREET Ward begins in the High Street, called Cheapside, and runs on the South Side, from where the Standard to where the great Cross formerly stood. Then is also a Part of Watheling-street of this Ward; up almost to St. Paul's Gate: For it lacketh but one House of St. Augustin's Church. And on the South Side, up to the Old-change. And down the same on the East Side, by the West End of Maiden-lane, or Distaff-lane, to Knightriders-street; or as they call that Part thereof, Old-fish-street. And all the North Side of the said Old-fish-street, till over-against the Trinity-church, and Trinity-lane.

THEN is Bread-street itself, so called, of Bread in old Time there sold. For it appeareth by Records, that in the Year 1302, which was the 30th of Edward I. the Bakers of LONDON, were bounden to sell no Bread in their Shops or Houses, but in the Market. And that they should have four Hall-motes in the Year, at four several Terms, to determine Enormities belonging to the said Company.

THIS Street, giving the Name to the whole Ward, beginneth in West-cheap, almost by where the Standard stood; and runneth down South, through or cross Watheling-street, to Knightriders-street afore said, where it endeth. This Bread-street is wholly on both Sides of this Ward. Out of which Street, on the East Side, is Basing-lane; a Piece whereof is of this Bread-street Ward.

THEN there is another Street, which is called Friday-street, and begins also in West-cheap, and runneth down South through Watheling-street to Knightriders-street, or Old-fish-street. This Friday-street is of Bread-street Ward, on the East Side, from over-against the North East Corner of St. Matthew's Church; and on the West Side, from the South Corner of the said Church, down as afore said.

IN this Friday-street, on the West-Side thereof, is a Lane, commonly called Maiden-lane, or Distaff-lane, corruptly for Distaff-lane, which runneth West into the Old-change: And in this Lane is also one other Lane, on the South Side thereof, likewise called Distaff-lane, which runneth down to Knightriders-street, or Old-fish-street. These are the Bounds of the whole Ward.

THE Monuments, to be noted here, are, first, at Bread-street Corner, the North East End, 1595, one Thomas Tomlinson, causing in the High-street of Cheap, a Vault to be digged and made, there was found at fifteen Feet deep, a fair Pavement, like that above Ground. And at the further End, at the Channel, was found a Tree, sawed into five Steps, which was to step over some Brook, running out of the West, towards Walbrook. And upon the Edge of the said Brook, as it seemeth, there were found lying along, the Bodies of two great Trees, the Ends whereof were then sawed off; and firm Timber, as at the first when they fell: Part of the said Trees remain yet in the Ground undigged. It was all forced Ground, until they went past the Trees aforesaid; which was about seventeen Feet deep, or better. Thus much hath the Ground of this City (in that Place) been raised from the Main.

AND here it may be observed, that within fourscore Years, and less, Cheapside was raised divers Feet higher. For it was found to be twenty eight Feet higher than it was when St. Paul's was first built; as appear'd by several eminent Marks, discovered in the late laying of the Foundation of that Church.

THE next Thing to be noted, Stow saith in his Time, was the most beautiful Frame and Front of fair Houses and Shops, that were within the Walls of LONDON, or elsewhere in England; commonly called Goldsmiths-row, betwixt Bread-street End and the Cross in Cheap; but within this Bread-street Ward. The same was built by Thomas Wood, Goldsmith, one of the Sheriffs of London, in the Year 1491. It contained in Number ten Dwelling-Houses, and fourteen Shops, all in one Frame, uniformly built four Stories high, beautified towards the Street with the Goldsmiths-Arms; and the Likeness of Woodmen, in Memory of his Name, riding on monstrous Beasts. All which were cast in Lead, richly painted over, and gilt. These he gave to the Goldsmiths, with Stocks of Money to be lent to young Men having those Shops, &c. This said Front was again new painted and gilt over, in the Year 1594, Sir Richard Martin being then Mayor, and keeping his Mayoralty in one of them; and serving out the Time of Cutbert Buckle, in that Office, from the 2d of July, till the 28th of October.

THE Goldsmiths kept their Shops and Trade in West-cheap, from antient Times, even before the Days of King Edward III, unto our Times. And the Exchange for the King's Coin was not far off; the Place yet called the Old-change; as appears by this Record, shewing not only the Place of the Goldsmiths Habitation, but their Occupation and Business about the Coin and Plate.

UPON the Goldsmiths Petition, exhibited to King Edward III, and his Council in Parliament, holden at Westminster in the first of his Reign; shewing, "That no private Merchant nor Stranger heretofore were wont to bring into this Land any Money coined, but Plate of Silver to exchange for our Coin. And that it had been also ordained, that all who were of the Goldsmiths Trade, were to sit in their Shops in the High-street of Cheap: And that no Silver in Plate, nor Vessel of Gold or Silver, ought to be sold in the City of LONDON, except at or in the Exchange, or in Cheapside, among the Goldsmiths, and that publickly: To the End, that the People of the said Trade might inform themselves, whether the Seller came lawfully by such Vessel, or not. But that now of late the said Merchants, as well Private as Strangers, brought from foreign Countries into this Nation, counterfeit Sterling: Whereof the Pound was not worth above sixteen Sols of the right Sterling. And of this Money, none could know the true Value, but by melting it down. And also that many of the said Trade of Goldsmiths kept Shops in obscure Turnings, and By-lanes and Streets; and did buy Vessels of Gold and Silver secretly, without inquiring, whether such Vessel were stolen, or lawfully come by. And immediately melting it down, did make it into Plate, and sell it to Merchants trading beyond Sea, that it might be exported. And so they made false Work of Gold and Silver; as, Bracelets, Lockets, Rings, and other Jewels. In which they set Glais of divers Colours, counterfeiting right Stones; and put more Alloy in the Silver than they ought. Which they sold to such as had no Skill in such Things.

AND that the Cutlers, in their Work-houses, covered Tin with Silver, so subtilly, and with such Slight, that the same could not be discerned and severed from the Tin. And by that Means they sold the Tin, so covered, for fine Silver, to the great Damage and Deceit of the King and his People.

WHEREUPON the said Goldsmiths petitioned the King; That he would be pleased to apply convenient Remedy therein. And he being willing to prevent the said Evil (as the Letters Patent ran) did, by and with the Assent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons of the Realm, for the common Profit, will and grant for him and his Heirs, That henceforth no Merchant, either Private or Stranger, should bring into this Land any Sort of Money, but only Plate of fine Silver. Nor that any Gold or Silver wrought by Goldsmiths, or any Plate of Silver, should be sold to the Merchant to sell again, and to be carried out of the Kingdom; but should be sold at the King's said Exchange, or openly among the said Goldsmiths, for private Use only; and that none that pretended to be of the same Trade should keep any Shop, but in Cheapside, that it might be seen that their Works were good and right.

AND that those of the same Trade might, by Virtue of these Presents, elect honest, lawful, and sufficient Men, best skilled in the said Trade, to inquire of the Matters aforesaid: And that they so chosen might, upon due Consideration of the said Craft, reform what Defects they should find therein; and thereupon inflict due Punishment upon the Offenders; and that, by the Help and Assistance of the Mayor and Sheriffs, if Occasion be. And that in all Trading Cities and Towns in England, where Goldsmiths resided, the same Ordinance be observed, as in LONDON. And that one or two of every such City or Town, for the rest of that Trade, should come to LONDON, to be ascertained of their Touch of Gold, and there to have a Stamp of a Punchion with a Leopard's Head marked upon their Work, as of antient Time it hath been ordained. These Letters Patent bore Date at Westminster the 30th of March, in the first Year of the King.

THEN for Watling-street, which Leyland calls Atheling or Noble-street; but since he sheweth no Reason why it was so called, it may be supposed to be from the High-way of that Name.

THE Old Exchange here has been already taken Notice of in Faringdon Ward. We pass next to Knightriders-street, in a Part of which was a Fish-market kept, and therefore called Old-Fish-street, for a Difference from New-Fish-street. In the Midst of this Knightriders-street, was a Row of small Houses, which were possessed by Fishmongers, but were at first only moveable Boards Boards or Stalls, set out on Market-Days; but, a Licence being obtained to set up Sheds, they grew to Shops, and, by little and little, to tall Houses, of three or four Stories in Height, and are now called Fish-street. Walter Turke, Fish-monger, Mayor, in 1349, had two Shops in Old Fish-street, over-against St. Nicholas Church.

Bread-street is now inhabited by many Merchants and wealthy Traders, and hath in it one very good Inn, [the Sign of the Three Cups] for Carriers and other Travellers to the City.

It appears in the Will of Edward Stafford, Earl of Wiltshire, dated the 22d of March 1498, and 14 Henry VII, that he lived in a House in Bread-street in LONDON, which belonged to the Family of Stafford, Duke of Buckingham; afterwards, he bequeathing all the Stuff in that House to the Lord Buckingham; for he died without Issue.

The PARISH of ALHALLOWS in BREAD-STREET.

Alhallows is Bread-street.

ON the East Side of this Street, at the Corner of Watling-street, is the Church of Alhallows in Bread-street. There being many Churches in LONDON called Alhallows, we have given an Account of the Rise of that Name and Festival in Book II, Chap. II, in treating of Alhallows Barking.

THE Prior and Chapter, and Chapter of Christ-Church Canterbury, were the original Patrons of this Church; but, by an Instrument under their Chapter Seal, dated April 24, 1365, they granted to Simon (Islip) Archbishop of Canterbury, and to his Successors for ever, the Advowson of this Church of Alhallows in Bread-street; street, and also of the Churches of St. Pancras, and St. Dunstan in LONDON, in Consideration of the many Benefits he had bestowed upon them; and more especially, for that he had restored to them, and their Successors, by Licence from the King, the Advowsons of the Churches of Eastry and Munston.

THE King granted Licence to John de Hurley, Walter de Tiffeld, and Matthew le Barbour, to give to Nicholas de Rothwell, Parson of this Church of Alhallows, and his Successors for ever, one Piece of Ground in this Parish, containing 12 Feet in Length, next the King's Highway, and 27 in Breadth toward the South, contiguous to the Chancel of the said Church, May 6, 1349.

AND on the 20th of the next February, granted Licence to William de Ifford, to give to Thomas, the Parson of this Church, and to his Successors for ever, a certain Piece of Ground with its Appurtenances, containing 11 Feet in Length, and 20 in Breadth, contiguous to this Church, to build a Chapel upon the same.

THIS Church was suspended for a Month, in 23 Hen. VIII, upon the falling out of two Priests in it, and one drawing Blood of the other; they were both committed to Prison, and on Oct. 15, being enjoyned Penance, went before a general Procession bare-headed, and bare-footed, and bare-legg'd before the Children, with Beads, and Books in their Hands, from St. Paul's, thro' Cheapside, Cornhill, &c.

THE Church here had some Time a fair spired Steeple of Stone, which on Sept. 5, 1559, about Noon, was struck with a great Tempest of Lightning and Thunder about nine or ten Feet below the Top, and though but little damnified thereby, was shortly after taken down for sparing the Charges of Reparation.

ON the South Side of the Chancel was a very fair Window, with the Portraiture or Figure of him that gave it, very curiously wrought upon it, with this Inscription:

Thomas Beaumont, Salter, the Founder of this Chapel, and a worthy Benefactor to the Company of Salters, 1629. This Window being then erected.

THIS Church of Alhallows was burnt down in the late dreadful Fire; but rebuilt and made the Parish-Church for the Inhabitants of this Parish, and that of St. John Evangelist, which is annex'd unto it: The Church was finish'd in the Year 1684, and the Steeple in the Year 1697, at which Time the Whole was new beautified.

THIS Church is of the Tuscan Order, the Length 72 Feet, the Breadth 35, and the Altitude 30.

THE Steeple, as the rest of the Church, is of Stone, built Square, of the Dorick Order, and well adorned, the Key-stones over the Windows being carved Heads, and between each a large Festoon; its Height is about 86 Feet, without the Pinacles, and 100 Feet with them.

TWO new Bells were put up in this Steeple the last Summer [1733.]

THE Finishing and Ornaments of this Church are considerable; it is wainscotted round with right Norway Oak eight Feet high, and in some Parts higher, and well pewed.

THE Pulpit is finely carved and enriched with Cherubims, and the Sound-Board finnier'd.

HERE is a handsome Gallery at the West End, of fine Wainscot; the Work of the Front is Bolection, swelling with raised Pannels.

THERE is a spacious Altar-piece, well carved; it is of the Corinthian Order, with Architrave, Frieze, Cornice, and Pediments, the Columns fluted, and Frieze carved; the Commandments are done in Gold Letters on Black, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed, Black Letters upon Gold, invironed with Fruit, Flowers, &c. Over the Commandments, under a Pediment, is a Festoon and Cherub: Under the large Pediment, above the Cornice, is a Glory, and at each End of the Cornice, a Lamp with flaming Tapers, all carved in right Wainscot; over all which are (a little higher) the King's Arms done in Fret-work.

ON the South Side of the Church is a Table of Benefactors Japann'd Black, and the Letters Gold, at the Top of which stands a Shield with these Words:

GO AND DO THOU
LIKEWISE.

BENEFACTORS to the Parish of Alhallows Bread-street.

William Hitchcock, Citizen and Salter, gave five Marks per Ann. for 50 Years, payable quarterly out of a House in Bread-street. 1567.

Henry Brown, of Saffron-Walden, Esq; gave and confirm'd the same for ever.

Alexander Every, Citizen and Clothworker, gave Fifty Pounds towards the Repair of this Church. 1588.

David Cock, Citizen and Salter, gave Forty Shillings per Annum towards the Repair of this Church. 1601.

William Pryce, Citizen and Merchant-Taylor, gave his House in Bread-street for the paying 13 Pounds six Shillings and eight Pence, for reading a Lecture every Sunday Morning, and the Remainder of the Rents for the Repairs of this Church, and Relief of the Poor. 1604.

Dorothy Offley, gave five Pounds to be distributed amongst the Poor against every Christmas-Day, by ten Shillings Yearly, till paid away.

William Parker, Citizen and Merchant-Taylor, gave 100 Pounds as a Fund for the Repairs of this Church for ever. 1616.

Simon Wood, Citizen and Merchant-Taylor, gave a Brafs Branch. 1619.

1650. Anthony Wright, Citizen and Draper, gave 20 Pounds.

The Lady Melton, gave 100 Pounds for an Augmentation to the Thursday's Lecture.

1670. John Lane, Citizen and Grocer, gave 50 Pounds to be disposed of as the Vestry should direct, which was accordingly laid out in the several Pieces of Plate engraven with his Name and Arms.

1696. Nathaniel Houlton, Sen. Citizen and Mercer, gave the Book of Martyrs, in three Volumes; and Bishop Burnet's History of the Reformation, in two Volumes.

1721. Thomas Whistler, of this Parish, Salter, gave 100 Pounds, the Interest to be distributed in Bread amongst the Poor of this Parish, on every St. Thomas's Day, for ever.

This Table was erected in the Year 1729.

Since which Time Mr. Isaac Waldo has given a Silver Chalice and Paten gilded, for the Use of such sick Persons as shall receive the Holy Sacrament in private Houses, which Gift is to this Parish only, but the Church-wardens for the Time being may lend the said Plate to any Person in St. John Evangelist's Parish, for the Use above, if they please.

Opposite on the North Side is another Table of the same Size and Shape with that above-mentioned, containing the Names of the Subscribers and Sums subscribed to the Erecting the Organ, in the Year 1717, and to the additional Stops in the Year 1722; at the Top of which is curiously painted King David kneeling on a Cushion, and playing on the Harp, which was the Gift of Mr. George Druce, Painter, of this Parish, to whom likewise the Proprietor of this Work is indebted for the Copper Plate of Albhalloes Church, and therefore thinks himself obliged to make this Acknowledgment. If there had been more Persons of Mr. Druce's Publick Spirit, it would have been a great Advantage and Ornament to our Undertaking.

MONUMENTS.

In this Church were the Monuments of James Thame, Goldsmith.

John Walpole, Goldsmith, 1349.

In his Time well known to all;

He lived well, and died so

When God hence did him call.

To the sacred Memory

Of that worthy and faithful Minister of Christ, Master Richard Stocke; who after 32 Years spent in the Ministry, wherein by his learned Labours, joined with Wisdom, and a most holy Life, God's Glory was much advanced, his Church edified, Piety increased, and the true Honour of a Pastor's Place maintained; deceased April 20, 1626. Some of his loving Parishioners have consecrated this Monument of their never dying Love, Jan. 28, 1628.

I have fought a good Fight, &c.

MONUMENTS since the Rebuilding the Church.

ON a spacious Marble Grave-stone in the Chancel is this Inscription :

Here lies the Body of Arthur Baron, Esq; a worthy Member of many Societies in this Honourable City, a prudent Man, diligent, just, and charitable, a good Friend; and a very kind Relation. He died a Batchelor, the 20th of July, 1702; in the 80th Year of his Age. Arms, a Martlet between three Estoils.

His Nephew, Alexander Baron, died in 1703, and is buried near him.

NEAR the last a Grave-stone, with an Inscription, in Memory of Jeremy Gough, Grocer; but not remarkable. Obiit Feb. 1692. Arms on a Fess, between tree Boars Heads couped, a Lion Passant.

OVER the East Door is a handsome Monument of fine Marble, richly carved; at the Nether Part is a Cherub, and at the Upper Mr. Levin's Arms;

Two Coats impaled, first Argent on a Bend Sable, three Escallops shells of the first, with a Mullet for a Difference; 2dly, Or, three Bendlets Gules, surmounted by a Fess Sable charged with three Plates.

ON which Monument is this Inscription :

To the Memory

Of the worthy Gentleman Humphrey Levins, Citizen and Grocer of London, third Son of William Levins, of Emley in the County of Northampton, Esq; a Person in whom Prudence, Sobriety, Integrity, Religion, Loyalty, and all the Virtues of a good Man, good Christian, and good Subject were very eminent; but of such Modesty, that though his Industry advanced him to a plentiful Fortune, and his rare Endowments to a considerable Employ in his Station; yet did they serve but to illustrate the Graces which in him were so particular, his Humility and his Charity, by which he laid up a never-failing Treasure in Heaven, which he now enjoys.

He died in the 53d Year of his Age, July 25, 1682, and lies buried in the same Grave with his Son Humphrey, a lovely Youth and hopeful Branch of so worthy a Stock, who deceased May the 16th, 1677. Ætat. 14.

Which shall we weep? both merit Tears; yet sure Tears are but vain where Bliss is so secure:

Which shall we praise? our Eulogy can't add Unto the Blessed who God's kind Euge had:

Our Duty's but to imitate and admire This happy Pair of the celestial Choir.

IN the Chancel is another Grave-stone for Christopher Rayner, and Frances his Wife, Daughter of Henry Baron, of Wells, Gent.

IN the Body of the Church, flat Stones over Mary Conant, Wife of Edward Conant; of this Parish, Haberdasher, 1698.

ON a Grave-stone in the Chancel, at the Communion-Table Rails, South-Side, lieth the Body of Rebecca, Wife of Mr. John Young, of this Parish, Merchant; Daughter of Richard Nutcombe, of Nutcombe in the County of Devon,

VOL. I.

Esq; She died October the 4th, 1715. Aged about 50. She was truly exemplary in her Life and Conversation, a sincere Christian, remarkable for her strict Piety, Devotion, and Humility, and the Pleasure she took in doing Good. She was of an affable and sweet Temper, an excellent Wife, a kind Friend; and was blest with good Sense, and many other Talents, of which she made a good Use. It was her great Delight, when alive, to draw near that Holy Table, near which she now lies waiting for a joyful Resurrection.

Also Nutcomb Young, and John Nutcomb Young; the youngest of whom died in March, 1704.

A Grave-stone before the Rails, on which are cut the Arms of Chase and Jackson, with this Inscription :

Here also lieth interr'd the Body of Mrs. Sarah, Wife of the abovesaid Mr. Richard Chase, who departed this Life the 4th Day of September, 1719, in the 65th Year of her Age;

For if we believe that Jesus Christ died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.

1 Thess. Chap. iv. Ver. 14.

A Grave-stone in the Middle Isle, for Richard Bagnal, Esq; Salter of London, Oct. 14, 1702. Aged 75.

And Richard Bagnal, his Son, April 27, 1704. Aged 31.

And Mary Bagnal, Relict of the abovesaid Richard Bagnal, Esq; December the 7th, 1710. Aged 63.

ON the North-Side of the Chancel is an Atchievement in Memory of Jeremy Gough, Esq; Citizen and Grocer, Deputy of this Ward, who fin'd for Sheriff of this City, and died in the Year 1715. This Gentleman was Son of Mr. Jeremy Gough afore-mentioned.

ON the South-Side of the Church is another Atchievement in Memory of Mr. Francis Gore, Citizen and Distiller; of this Parish, who died in the Year 1727.

SINCE which Time there is laid in the Chancel next to that of Mr. Chase, a Stone, with the Arms of Waldo and Chase, which hath the following Inscription :

Near this Place lie the Bodies of Daniel, Anne, Peter, and Elizabeth Waldo, who died young Children, all under four Years of Age.

And under this Stone lies Elizabeth Waldo, who died July the 26th, 1726, in the 4th Year of her Age;

Also Edward Waldo, who died in March, 1728, Aged 17 Months.

Here also lies the Body of Mr. Isaac Waldo, who died June the 14th, 1731, in the 17th Year of his Age, all of them the Children of Mr. Isaac and Mrs. Sarah Waldo, Inhabitants of this Parish.

THE Living of the united Parishes of Albanelows Bread-street, and St. John the Evangelist, is a Rectory in the Gift of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, who present alternately: The Value is 140 l. by Act of Parliament, rated in the King's Books 37 l. 3 s. 9 d.

THE pious Laurence Saunders, who suffer'd Martyrdom in the Year 1555, under the Reign of Queen Mary, was Rector of this Parish.

THE celebrated John Stanley, Batchelor of Musick, a blind young Gentleman, now of St. Andrew's Holborn, was chosen Organist of this Church before he was twelve Years of Age.

THIS Parish hath a Workhouse belonging to it, which was erected in the Year 1730, through the great Care taken by Mr. Anthony Planck, then Church-warden; it is in Old Fish-street, the House that was formerly the Lobster-Tavern.

The PARISH of St. MILDRED in BREAD-STREET.

LOWER down, on the same Side, is the Parish-Church of St. Mildred the Virgin; the Saint to whom this Church is dedicated, is mention'd in the third Chapter of this Book, treating of St. Mildred in the Poultry.

OF this Church in Bread-street, the Lord Trenchant, saith Stow, was supposed to be the new Builder, or chief Benefactor, about the Year 1300. It was repaired and beautified in the Year 1628, the North Wall being new built, and a curious Window, having these Stories painted on five Lights. 1. History of the Spanish Invasion. 2. A Monument of Queen Elizabeth. 3. The Gun-powder Plot, in 1605. 4. The Plague, in 1625. And, 5. The Portraiture of that worthy Gentleman Nicholas Crisp, Esq; who gave, besides this Window, and his Share toward the Reparation, 7 l. and whose Relations, Mrs. Hester Crisp, Samuel Crisp, Esq; the late Sir Nicholas Crisp, Bart. &c. Ancestors of the present Sir John Crisp, Bart. have been worthy Benefactors to this Parish. All which Church, and fine Window, unhappily participating in the deplorable Disaster of the Fire, in 1666, this Church of St. Mildred was re-edified, being finished and opened March 20, 1683.

THE Front of the Church, toward Bread-street, is well built of Free-stone; the rest of the Walls, and Tower, of Brick; the four Sides within the Structure are uniform, each having one Window under a spacious graceful Arch; and the Roof is a Dome, whose Base's Circumference touches the four Arches aforesaid; the Outside of which Roof is covered with Lead; the Church is paved with Purbeck Stone, has two Isles, and the Steeple is placed at the South East Angle of the Church.

ORNAMENT there is not a little in this neat Church. The West End, fronting Bread-street, is done with a Cornice, at each End whereof, on Acroters, is a Pine-Apple; and a Third above this, on a pitched Pediment, between two large Cartouches; also Ovifers, &c. The Arches and Walls within the Church are adorned with great Variety of Fret-work, as the Groining of the Arches with Roses, &c. the Circumference of the Base of the Dome with Leaves, Fruit, &c. the North and South Sides, at the West End, with Shields, and Cherubims, Voluta's, and the Regalia; the Inside of the Dome, with four Cherubims in the Crown or Center; and at half the Distance thence to the Circumference, are two Cupids Northward, and two Southward, each two sustaining an Iron, at which a Brafs Branch Candlestick is pendant; there are also two Eastward and two Westward, each of which two support a Crown Imperial; and the Walls are also adorned with Imposts, Cartouches, and Escalop-shells. Under the North Window, the King's Arms stand in a Frame; they are done in Fret-work, gilt and painted, very large, and is an extraordinary Piece of Workmanship of that Sort.

At the West End there is a very neat Wainscot Gallery, said to be given by Sir Nicholas Crisp, his Arms being depicted on the Front, which you will have blazoned hereafter; it is placed between two Shields gilt with Gold, having handsome Compartments. Over these Arms is the Dial of a Clock, wherein is placed the Figure of Time, and these Words under it: Ex dono Benjamin Williams.

At the West End is a Wainscot Door-case, shewing when the Church was finished; and also the Words of Matthew v. 5. And another such Door-case on the South Side, near the West Angle, with the Words of Eccles. v. 1. and of Matt. xxi. 13. It is well pewed with Oak, of which the Pulpit is also made, with Enrichments of Cherubims, Shields, Festoons, and Fruit; and the Sound-Board is finned, having seven Stars circumscribed within as many Circles, and a large Crown gilt at the Top of it.

THE Altar-piece is adorned with two Pilasters between as many Columns, of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Commandments done in Gold on Black, between the Portraits of Moses and Aaron. Over the Decalogue, and under a spacious compass Pediment, within a Circle, is a Glory proceeding out of an equilateral Triangle, at each of which Angles, in the Rays, is a Cherub well painted all within Clouds. Over the Glory is a Cherub, with a Festoon carved and gilt as the other Enrichments are; over each Column is a Lamp; and without the Columns are the Creed and Pater-noster done in Black on Gold, each under a Dove expanded within a Circle of Palm-branches; and the Foot-pace of the Communion-Table is black and white Marble, inclosed with Rail and Ballister.

IN a carved and gilt Frame, close by the Font, at the West End of the Church, are the Words in Mark x. 14. done in Gold Letters.

LENGTH of the Church 62 Feet, Breadth 36; Altitude 40, and to the Top of the Dome about 52 Feet, and that of the Steeple, to the Top of the Spire, is about 140 Feet, where is one Bell.

Funeral

Funeral MONUMENTS.

Mr. Stowe says, here were buried :

His Arms : on a Bend, Sable, three Trefoils slipt, Argent.

HERE was a Monument with an Obiit in Memory of him, and a fair Inscription on the Wall, containing these Words :

Here lyeth a Man that Faith and Works did even,
Like fiery Chariots, mount him up to Heaven ;
He did adorn this Church : When Words are weak,
And Men forget, the living Stones will speak.
He left us Land, this little Earth him keeps ;
These black Words Mourners, and the Marble weeps.

ON a plated Stone before the Communion-Table was this Inscription :

Here lyeth the Body of Thomas Copenher, the which deceased the 14th Day of November, in the Yeere of our Lord God 1513, on whose Soule, &c.

By the other :

Here lieth Roger Forde, Vintner, of LONDON, with Joan and Margaret his Wives ; the which Joan deceased the 8th Day of August, Anno Domini 1467. And Margaret deceased the 11th Day of June, Anno Domini 1492. And the aforesaid Roger deceased, &c.

ON a fair plated Stone in the South Choir :

Here lye buried the Bodies of John Ireland, Citizen and Salter of LONDON, and Elizabeth his Wife, who were married together about 49 or 50 Yeeres ; and he had Issue by her sixe Sonnes and sixe Daughters ; and hee lived in this Parish 60 Yeeres. He was Deputie of this Ward 15 Yeeres, and was the first Master of the Company of Salters. She deceased the 2d Day of April, 1613, being of the Age of 75 Yeeres ; and hee deceased the 25th Day of June, being aged 83 Yeeres.

So rest they both here in the Bed of Death, in Hope of a Joyful Resurrection.

Respice & prospice finem.

This Stone opened upon the Stairs of a Vault, made by Captain Nicholas Crispe, Anno 1628, wherein lieth buried his Grandfather, Master John Ireland, Deputy of this Ward ; he was buried the 29th of June, 1614, and Mrs. Elizabeth Ireland his Wife, buried the 13th Day of April, 1613, and his Father, Ellis Crispe, Alderman, and died Sheriff. He was buried the 10th Day of November, 1625 ; and his Son Nicholas Crispe, who was buried the 23d Day of January, 1626.

Nicholas, } Children of Captain Nic. Crispe,
Elizabeth, } buried Anno Dom. 1632.
John, }

A fair Monument belonging to this Stone stood over it, with this Inscription :

Ere his Worth was fully known,
London lost him, once her own.
Let that Year ly buried here,
In which London two did gain,
Sheriffs good, and lost again,
City, Church, Wife, Children, weep ;
Reason good, though he but sleep.
Ill can London not lament,
Spoil'd of one chief Ornament.
Pity, Death had him o'regrown,
Ere his Worth was fully known.

Late MONUMENTS.

PERSONS here also buried, and that have Monuments, or Stones, with Inscriptions, are these :

In a Vault under the Communion-Table, are interred Tho. Ball, of Maidstone in Kent, and Citizen of LONDON, 1679. And Frances his Wife, 1680.

In the same Vault, Frances Williams, only Child of the said Thomas and Frances, and Wife to Benjamin Williams. She died 1685.

Sarah Coxon, Wife of John Coxon, of the Parish of St. Margaret Moses, 1683.

A Hatchment for Sir Nicholas Crisp.

BENEFACTORS.

THERE is a Table of their Benefactors on the North Side of the Communion-Table, set up by them in Gratitude, Anno 1684.

THE Lord Trenchaunt, of St. Alban's, Knt. who was supposed to be the new Builder of this Church, our best Benefactor, about the Year 1300.

Sir John Chadworth, or Shadworth, some Time Lord Mayor of LONDON, who gave to this Church a Parsonage-House, Vestry, and a Church-Yard, Yard, in the Year 1430, and was buried in a Vault in this Chancel.

Mr. Coppinger, whose Monument stood in this Place before the late Fire, 1666.

Mr. Tho. Langham, a good Benefactor to this Parish, in the Year 1575.

THE Account given in of the charitable Gifts of the Parochial-Visitation, 1693, mentioned, in general, divers Bequests and Legacies to the Church, Poor, and Publick Uses, viz. Lands of the yearly Value of 50 l. and divers other Legacies, of the yearly Value of 20 l. 12 s. 2 d. as appears by the Register-Books, wherein the Names of all the Benefactors, and the Lands and Sums given, are particularly mentioned.

THE Parsonage-House was burnt down, rebuilt, and leased out for 40 Years, at 5 l. per Ann. payable by the Executors of Mr. Tho. Hatton.

THIS Parish, after the Fire of LONDON, was annexed to that of St. Margaret Moses.

THE Living is a Rectory in the Gift of the King, and Sir John Crisp, who present alternately, Value, as united per Act of Parliament, 130 l. per Ann. St. Mildred rated in the King's Books 16 l. 6 s. 10 d.

THE Rector is the Reverend Dr. Thomas Manzey, and the Lecturer is the Reverend Mr. Crayner.

PRAYERS are every Wednesday, Friday, and Holidays, at 11 o'Clock; no Organ. The Gift Sermons are, one on the first Sunday after the 10th of May; one on the first Sunday after the 10th of November; the Ministers have 10 s. for each Sermon, the Gift of Alderman Crisp. One on the first Sunday after the 10th of January, and one on the first Sunday after the 12th of April, the Gift of Mr. John Ireland, who gave 13 s. 4 d. for two Sermons. Mr. David Giddins gave one to be preached on the second Sunday in Advent, and one on the second Sunday in Lent, 5 s. for each Sermon; to the Reader 2 s. to the Church-Wardens 2 s. 8 d. to the Sexton 8 d. Mr. Brightwell gave one on the fifth of November; to the Preacher 13 s. 4 d. to the Clerk 3 s. 4 d. to the Sexton 1 s. 4 d. Mr. Langham gave one on the first Sunday after the 10th of August; to the Preacher 10 s. One on the 17th of November, by Mr. George Pook, to the Preacher 10 s. to the Clerk 5 s.

NUMBER of Houses are 54.

OUT of this Bread-street, on the same East Side is Basing-lane, a Part whereof, as is afore-shewn, is of this Ward; but how it took its Name is uncertain. In the Time of Richard II. it was called the Bakehouse, perhaps from the King's Bakehouse being there, or from other Bakers of Bread, to serve the Market in Bread-street.

ON the South Side of this Lane is a great House, built of old Time upon arched Vaults of Stone, and with arched Gates, brought from Caen in Normandy.

Stow says, in his Time this was a common Hostery, corruptly called Gerard's-hall, from a Giant said to have dwelled there.

IN the high roofed Hall of this House some Time stood a large Fir-Pole, which reached to the Roof thereof; and was said to be one of the Staves that Gerard the Giant used in the Wars to run withal. There stood also a Ladder of the same Length, which (as they said) served to ascend to the Top of the Staff; but Stow takes all this to be a Fable, as undoubtedly it was; nor does he believe that any one of the Name of Gerard lived there. "I read," says he, that John Gisors, Mayor of LONDON, in the Year 1245, was Owner thereof, and that Sir John Gisors, Knt. Mayor of LONDON, and Constable of the Tower, 1311, and divers others of that Name and Family, since that Time, owned it. For I read that William Gisors was one of the Sheriffs 1329. More, that John Gisors had Issue, Henry and John, which John had Issue, Thomas. Which Thomas deceasing in the Year 1358, left unto his Son Thomas his Mesuage called Gisor's-hall, in the Parish of St. Mildred in Bread-street. John Gisors made a Feofment thereof 1386, &c. So that it appeareth, that this Gisor's-hall, of late Time (by Corruption) hath been called Gerard's-hall, for Gisor's-hall; as Bosoms Inn for Blow-soms Inn, Bevis Marks for Buries Marks, Mark-lane for Mart-lane, Beliter-lane for Belsetters-lane, Gutter-lane for Guthurums-lane, Cry [or Cre] Church for Christ's Church, St. Mikel in the Quern, for St. Mikel at Corn, and such others. Out of this Gisor's-hall, at the first Building thereof, were made divers arched Doors, yet to be seen, which seem not sufficient for any great Monster, or other than Men of common Stature to pass through. The Pole in the Hall might be used in old Time, as then the Custom was in every Parish, to be set up in the Street, in the Summer, as a May-Pole, before the principal Hall, or House, in the Parish, or Street; and to stand in the Hall before the Scrine, decked with Holly and Ivy, at the Feast of Christmas. The Ladder served for the decking of the May-Pole and Roof of the Hall. Thus much for Gisor's-hall, and for that Side of Bread-street, may suffice.

NOW on the West Side of Bread-street, amongst divers fair and large Houses for Merchants, and Inns for Passengers, was a Prison-House pertaining to the Sheriffs of LONDON, called the Compter in Bread-street. But in the Year 1555, the Prisoners were removed from thence to another new Compter in Wood-street, provided by the City's Purchase, and built for that Purpose. The Cause of which Remove was this; Richard Husband, Pastelar, Keeper of this Compter in Bread-street, being a willful and head-strong Man, dealt (for his own Advantage) hard with the Prisoners under his Charge; having also Servants, such as himself liked best for their bad Usage, and would not for any Complaint be reformed. Whereupon, in the Year 1550, Sir Rowland Hill being Mayor, by the Assent of a Court of Aldermen, he was sent to the Jail of Newgate, for the cruel handling of his Prisoners; and it was commanded to the Keeper, to set those Irons on his Legs which are called the Widows Alms. These he wore from Thursday till Sunday in the Afternoon; and, being, by a Court of Aldermen, released on the Tuesday, was bound in 100 Marks, to observe from from thenceforth an Act made by the Common-Council, for the ordering of Prisoners in the Compters. All which, notwithstanding, he continued as afore, whereof myself, saith Stow, am partly a Witness. For being on a Jury, to enquire against a Sessions of Jail-Delivery, in the Year 1552, we found the Prisoners hardly dealt withal for their Achates and otherwise; as also that Thieves and Strumpets were there lodged for 4d. the Night, whereby they might be safe from Searches that were made abroad. For which Enormities, and others not needful to be recited, he was indicted at the Sessions; but did rub it out, and could not be reformed, till this Remove of the Prisoners: For the House in Bread-street was his own by Lease, or otherwise, so that he could not be put from it; such Jailors, buying their Offices, will deal hardly with pitiful Prisoners.

An ABSTRACT of an Act of Common-Council, held September 19, in the 3d and 4th Years of Philip and Mary, for the removing of the Compter Prison out of Bread-street into Great Wood-street.

BY Reason of divers Hindrances, Injuries, Extremities, and Displeasures, done unto the Prisoners in Bread-street-compter, by the Keepers of the same; who hiring the House of the Goldsmiths Company, would not many Times suffer the Sheriffs of LONDON, who stand charged with the Prisoners, to use them so well as they had proposed; whereby the City hath been slandered, Law and good Orders broken, and poor Prisoners too much abused: Therefore was the Prison removed to a House belonging to the City, situate in Great Wood-street, where the Sheriff and his Officers were to keep their Courts, &c. as they had before used in Bread-street. At which Time it was also enacted, that the said Compter in Wood-street should never hereafter, for any Cause whatsoever, be let out to any other Use or Person, &c.

The PARISH of St. JOHN EVANGELIST.

NOW in Friday-street, so called from Fishmongers dwelling there, and serving Friday's Market, on the East Side was a small Parish called St. John Evangelist.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified at the sole Cost of the Parishioners in the Year of our Lord 1626.

IN the same Year a Gallery was new built and beautified at the only Cost of Thomas Goodyear, Citizen and Draper of LONDON, and there a Parishioner.

MONUMENTS in this Church were for,

John Dogget, Merchant-Taylor, one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1509.

Sir Christopher Askew, Draper, Mayor, 1533.

William de Avinger, Farrier, was buried there, in the 34th of Edward II.

THIS Church being burnt down, in the Fire of LONDON, the Parish was, by Act of Parliament, annexed to that of Alhallowes Bread-street.

THERE is a Parsonage-House belonging to St. John Evangelist, which is now leased out at a low Rent. Likewise the House adjoining and going over the Gateway of Star-court in Bread-street, belongs Part to the Rector, and Part to the Parish of Alhallowes, and the other Part to Richard Winn, Esq; but for want of a right Understanding it has been empty some Years.

The PARISH of St. MARGARET MOSES.

LOWER down was the Parish Church of St. Margaret Moses, which stood on the East Side of Friday-street, over-against Distaff-lane End, and is called St. Margaret Moses, from one Moses or Moyse (as it seems) that was the Founder or new Builder thereof. It is likewise written, sometimes, St. Margaret in Friday-street. It is a Rectory, and subject to the Archdeacon.

THIS Church was repaired in the Year 1627, but being consumed in the Fire of LONDON, the Parish was annexed to St. Mildred in Bread-street.

MONUMENTS in this Church were for,

Sir Richard Dobbles, Skinner, Mayor, 1551.

Here was also buried Mr. Buys (or Briss) Skinner, one of the Masters of the Hospital. There attended all the Masters of the Hospital, with green Staves in their Hands; and all the Company in their Liveries, with twenty Clerks singing before. The Sermon was preached by Mr. Juel, afterwards Bishop of Salisbury: And therein he plainly affirmed there was no Purgatory. Thence the Company retired to his House to Dinner. This Burial was Anno 1559, January 30.

William Dane, Ironmonger, one of the Sheriffs, 1569.

Sir John Allot, Fishmonger, Mayor, 1591.

There was of elder Time buried; Nicholas Stanes, and Nicholas Bray; they founded Charities there.

PART of Friday-street ; Part of Pissing-alley ; Part of Great Distaff-lane, and Part of Little Distaff-lane.

NUMBER of Houses 46.

THE Church of St. Margaret Moses came out as far as where the Channel now runs ; for in the Year 1717, a Man riding along, his Horse slipped into a Hole near the Channel, the Crown of a Vault being broke, in which were two Coffins, with Tops ridged like the Roof a House, both being found, and the Vault very dry, they were supposed, by their Situation, to be the Coffins of Sir John Allot, before-mentioned, who was Lord Mayor, and died in his Mayoralty Anno 1591, and of his Lady.

ON the West Side of Friday-street is Maiden-lane, so named from such a Sign ; or Distaff-lane, for Distar-lane, as Stow says he read it in a Record of a Brewhouse, called the Lamb in Distar-lane, the 16th of Henry VI.

IN this Distar-lane, on the North Side thereof, is Cordwainers, or Shoemakers Hall ; it is built of Brick, having several handsome Rooms in it. The Hall is adorned with the Pictures of King William and Queen Mary, given by one of the Members.

OF these Cordwainers Stow has read, that since the 5th of Richard II. (when he took to Wife Anne, Daughter to Wenceslaus, King of Bohemia) by her Example the English People had used piked Shoes, tied to their Knees with filken Laces, or Chains of Silver and gilt. Wherefore, in the 4th of Edward IV. it was ordained and proclaimed, that Beaks of Shoon and Boots, should not pass the Length of two Inches, upon Pain of Cursing by the Clergy, and by Parliament to pay 20 s. for every Pair. And every Cordwainer that shod any Man or Woman on the Sunday, to pay 30 s.

ON the South Side of this Distar-lane is also another Lane, called Distar, or Distaff-lane, which runs down to Knightriders, or Old Fish-street.

Now for the present State of this Ward :

THE principal Streets and Places in this Ward are, Watling-street, Bread-street, Friday-street, Distaff-lane, Basing-lane, with the East Side of the Old-change, from the Corner of St. Austin's Gate to Old Fish-street ; and the North Side of Old Fish-street and Trinity-lane, with Part of the South Side of Cheapside, betwixt Friday-street and St. Mary le Bow Church.

Watbeling-street is a great Thorough-fare, and has good Buildings in it, which are very well inhabited by great Dealers, chiefly by Wholesale. This Street begins two or three Houses beyond St. Austin's Church on the West, and runs Eastward through the Heart of this and Cordwainer Ward, almost to St. Anthonine's Church, where Budge-row begins, and runs into Canon-street, in Walbrook Ward. In the Part of this Street belonging to this Ward, are these Places, beginning by St. Austin's Church, viz. St. John Evangelist Church-Yard, seated in the East Side Corner of Friday-street, the Church not being rebuilt, but the Parish united to St. Albhallows Bread-street ; and the Ground on which this Church stood, being inclosed, serves as a Burying Place for the Inhabitants, and has a handsome Pair of Iron Gates before it.

Bread-street is a good open Street, well built, and inhabited by great Dealers, both by Wholesale and Retail, Hop-Merchants, Grocers, and others. It begins at Cheapside, and runs Southwards to Old Fish-street, next to Trinity-lane, crossing Watbeling-street. The Courts in this Street, beginning next Cheapside, are Black-spread-eagle-court, but small, with a Free-Stone Pavement, has a very good House at the Upper End. Planners-court, indifferent large, but ordinary.

Star-

Star-court, very large, with an open Passage for a Cart, is well built and inhabited.

St. Albhalows Bread-street Church, large, and well built of Free-Stone, the Front being in this Street, but the Side in Watheling-street.

It was consumed in the great Fire, but rebuilt; and the Parish of St. John Evangelist, not built, is united to it.

Three Cups Inn, large, well built, and of a great Trade for Country Waggon and Carriers.

White-cock-court, a handsome square Place, well built, and inhabited by Wholesale Dealers.

St. Mildred Bread-street Church, destroyed by the general Conflagration, but now rebuilt of Free-Stone, with a Spire Steeple covered with Lead, very comely. To which Church is united that of St. Margaret Moses, not rebuilt. It is seated on the East Side of Bread-street.

Basing-lane, a handsome open Street, with good Buildings; of this Lane, about half is in this Ward; the East Part, towards Bow-lane, being in Cordwainers Ward.

In this Lane is Gerard's Hall, now made use of for an Inn.

Red-lion-court has a Passage into Watheling-street, already taken Notice of; and near the aforesaid Inn is Horn-alley, which is but small and ordinary.

Friday-street comes out of Cheapside, and runs South into Old Fish-street, and in its Passage crosses Watheling-street: This Street is well built, and inhabited chiefly by Haberdashers, and other Wholesale Dealers. In this Street are these Places, White-horse-inn, large, and of a good Resort. Bell-inn, of good Resort and Trade. Blue-boar-court, an open Place, also inhabited by Wholesale Dealers. Angel-court, but ordinary, with an open Passage for Carts. Saracen's-head-inn, large, and of a great Resort and Trade.

St. Margaret Moses Church was seated on the East Side of this Street, towards Old Fish-street, burnt in the Fire of LONDON, not rebuilt, but the Parish united to St. Mildred Bread-street; and the Place where this Church stood, is inclosed for a Burial-Place for the Inhabitants.

Great Distaff, or Distar-lane, comes out of the Old-change, and runs up to Bread-street, against Basing-lane, crossing Friday-street on the South Side.

PLACES of Name in this Lane; Back's-head-court, a small Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Cordwainers, or Shoemakers Hall, a handsome Building, seated opposite to Little Distaff-lane, of no great Account, and runs in to Old-Fish-street. And in this Lane is Dolphin-court, as also Suger-loaf-court, both small and ordinary.

Old-Fish-street has the North Side in this Ward; the other Side in Queen-hithe Ward.

Trinity-lane has also the North Part in this Ward, the other in Queen-hithe Ward.

THE Old-change has but a small Part in this Ward, viz. the East Side from Watheling-street Corner to Old Fish-street; the other Part in the Ward of Faringdon Within, and Castle-Baynard.

Cheapside has been described in the other Wards; the Part in this Ward, as also in that of Cordwainers, begin on the South Side, something Eastward of Friday-street, and runs almost to St. Mary le Bow Church, so that there is nothing of Courts to be here taken Notice of.

THIS Ward and Cordwainers join together in supporting two Charity Schools; the one for 50 Boys, and the other for 30 Girls, who are taught, clothed, and put out Apprentices, or to Service, when fit for it. The Charge of this is defrayed by Subscribers, and Collections made at the Churches of St. Mary le Bow, Albhalows in Bread-street, St. Anthoine's, St. Mildred Bread-street, and St. Mary Aldermay. These Schools are under the Government and Direction of 24 Gentlemen, who are most of them Inhabitants of this Ward, and are liberal Contributors themselves. The Schools are in Well-court, in Queen-street.

THERE are to watch at the several Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Constable, a Beadle and 30 Watchmen.

THE Jury returned by the Inquest for the Ward, are to serve in the several Courts at Guildhall, in the Month of April.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman and his Deputy, 12 Common-Council Men, 10 Constables, eight Scavengers, 13 Wardmote Inquest Men, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON, at 37*l.* and in the Exchequer, at 38*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.*

THE Alderman is Sir Robert Baylis, Knt.

Q U E E N - H I T H E W A R D.

NEXT to Bread-street Ward, on the South Side thereof, is Queen-hithe Ward, so called from a Water-Gate, or Harbour for Boats, Lighters and Barges; and was, of old Time, for Ships, when the Timber Bridge of LONDON used to be drawn up, for their Passage to the said Hithe; as to a principal Strand for landing and unlading against the Middle and Heart of the City. This Ward begins in the East in Knightriders-street on the South Side thereof, where the East End of the Parish-Church, called the Holy Trinity, stood, and runs West on the South Side, to a Lane called Lambart-hill, which is the Length of the Ward in Knightriders-street. Out of which Street are divers Lanes, running South to Thames-street, and are of this Ward. The first is Trinity-lane, which runs down by the West End of Trinity Church. Then is Spuren-lane, or Spooner's-lane, now called Huggen-lane. Then Bread-street-hill. Then St. Mary Mountbaut. Out of which Lane, on the East Side thereof, is another Lane, turning East through St. Nicholas Olave's Church-Yard to Bread-street-hill. This Lane is called Finimore-lane, or Five-foot-lane, because it is but five Feet in Breadth at the West End. In the Middle of this Lane runs down another Lane, broader, South to Thames-street.

Stow believes this Lane was antiently called Desborne-lane; for he had read, he says, of such a Lane in the Parish of St. Mary Somerset, in the 22d of Edward III.

LAST of all is Lambart-hill, so called from one Lambart, an Owner thereof; and this is the farthest West Part of this Ward.

The HOLY TRINITY.

THIS Church, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, and called Trinity the Less, or in Knightriders, is situate on the South Side of the said Street, in the Eastern Part thereof. It is subject to the Archdeacon, and a Rectory.

It was a small Church, and very old, and in Danger of falling down, inasmuch, that in the Year 1606, they were constrained to pull it down to the Ground, and from thence with what Speed they could, with much Care and Cost, to rebuild it; which in the Years 1607 and 1608, was finished, with Contributions, partly of the Parishioners, and partly of other Benefactors in and about the City.

It was, of Old, in the Gift of the Prior and Convent of St. Mary Overy's, in Southwark, 'till the general Suppression in Henry's VIII's Time. After which, by Grant, or by way of Exchange, as may be supposed, it came from the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, in which it hath continued ever since.

To the pious Work of Rebuilding this Church, the Worshipful Companies of Merchant-

Tailors and Vintners, were very bounteous Benefactors.

As also these Aldermen, Sir Thomas Cambel; Sir John Swinnerton, Sir John Gore, Sir William Craven, and Sir Thomas Middleton, who had their Names and Arms standing in a fair Window at the Upper End of the Chancel.

THIS Church was also repaired and beautified at the Cost and Charge of the Parish, in the Year of our Lord 1629.

THIS Church consumed in the great Devastation by Fire, is indeed rebuilt, but is become a Church for Lutherans to serve God in, by the Procurement chiefly of Theodore Jacobson, and the Parish united to Queen-hithe.

THERE have been no Legacies, or charitable Gifts belonging to this Parish, as the Church-Wardens, 1693, knew of, given or left, either for Sermons or Reparations.

BUT 15 s. per Ann. for the Poor, payable to this Trinity Parish; to which a Stop was put about 20 Years ago, or more, 'till a Difference depending was decided.

THERE is a Piece of Glebe built, and leased out for 20 Years reserved Rent, 3 l. But Anno 1636, the Glebe was 10 l. per Ann. and a Parsonage-House 8 l. per Ann.

I N T E R M E N T S.

NUMBER of Houses 78.

THE converting of the Trinity Church into a Church for Protestant Foreigners, called Lutherans, is founded upon the King's Letters Patents, dated the 13th of September, 24 Car. II. to Theodore Jacobson, and five other Gentlemen more, named in the Patent, and to their Heirs and Assigns, by the Consent and Approbation of the the then Archbishop of Canterbury, Bishop of LONDON, and Lord Mayor, free Liberty granted them to cause a Temple to be erected on Ruins where the Church of the Holy Trinity, before the Fire of LONDON, stood. Which Ground they had purchased of the City of LONDON, for the free Exercise of the Augustine Confession in the German Tongue; with divers other Powers and Authorities mentioned in the said Letters Patents. And according to those Powers granted to the Patentees, they made several Orders, or Laws, for the better regulating of themselves, and for the Good of the said Congregation.

Theodore Jacobson, being antient, by Indenture dated the 27th January, 1702-3, by Advice of able Counsel, conveyed all the said Rights and Powers, unto 14 Persons more, of known Honesty and Ability, and of the same Congregation, and their Heirs; upon the Trust, and to the Intents and Purposes in the Letters Patents mentioned. These, for the Good of the Church, as they pretended, altered some of the former Laws and Orders, and made others in their Room: Whereat the Minister, and four or five more of the Congregation, were displeased; and they caused a Meeting to be held at the said Temple, the 5th of May, 1703. And there, without Authority from the Trustees, but rather in Opposition to them, elected 12 Persons, under the Denomination of Deacons; and with these pretended Deacons, the said Minister thwarted the intended good Designs of the Trustees. Upon this, they of this Church entered into a Suit of Chancery.

The PARISH of ### St. NICHOLAS COLD-ABBEY.

St. Nicholas
Cold-Abbey.

SITUATE on the South Side of Old Fish-street, is the Parish-Church of St. Nicholas Cold-Abbey.

THE Saint to whom this Church is dedicated was born at Patara, a City of Lycia. His Study in Piety was such, that when others were at their Sport, he was always at Church, hearing Sermons, and repeating them. He was at first a private and honest Householder.

THE Bishop of Myra, or Myra, in Lycia, being dead, the other Bishops and Priests agreed among themselves, that whosoever should the next Day first enter into the Church, should be created Bishop. When, therefore, Nicholas came first into it, to make his Prayers, with every one's Gratulation and Acclamation, he was saluted Bishop: And altho' he took upon him this Office unwillingly, in that he was a Citizen and a Layman (as at this Day they call him) yet he obeyed this lawful Call, and honestly and diligently he performed his Duty. He lived temperately and soberly, and used great Liberality to the Poor.

THERE is a notable Story reported of him; how by his Liberality he preserved three Sisters from being prostituted; but it is too long to insert here, as are many other his pious Deeds and Miracles.

St. Nicholas at last falling sick, religiously ended his Life, 8 Id. Decemb. Anno Christi 343; and was buried at Myra; from whence his Body was afterwards translated to Bari, in Apulia, wherein is a stately Temple dedicated to him, where his Reliques remain.

It is said, that he assisted at the general Council of Nice, where he strongly opposed Arius.

It seems, that in former Times many foolish and superstitious Ceremonies were usually observed upon the Feast of St. Nicholas, as also of St. Katharine, St. Clement, &c. which being distastful by King Henry VIII. were by him, with Advice of his Council, required to be no more used in his Realm, as by his Proclamation of July 22, in the 33d of his Reign, appears.

Stow says, the Word Cold-abbey (which was added to distinguish this from other Churches of St. Nicholas) is corruptly so called, being more properly Cold-bay (as a Place exposed to the Weather) as Cold-harbour, &c.

THIS Church was an antient Foundation; for Stow says, the Steeple and South Isle (which were not so old as the rest of the Church) were new built in the 1st of Richard II. viz. Anno 1377, and the Church was then old; of which one ——— Buckland, Esq; (as appeared by his Arms in several Places) was the Builder of the Steeple, and Repairer of the Residue. Thomas Fer, Fishmonger, gave a large Cemetery. Anno 1397, the Church was repaired at the Charge of Thomas Barnard, and others; and again, at the Charge of the Parish, Anno 1626, 1628, and 1630; but being consumed by the terrible Flame, Anno 1666, was re-edified 1677.

THE Walls are well built with Stone, the Steeple is a Tower, and a Frustum of a Pyramid covered with Lead; and a Balcony at the Upper End; the Roof within is flat; the Floor paved with Stone, where that of the Chancel is one Step higher than the rest. There are three Isles, and the Structure is of the Corinthian Order.

It is adorned in its Roof with Pannels of Crocket-Work, the Walls with Pilasters of the said Order; the Pews and Pulpit are Oak, and it is wainscotted therewith seven Feet high. At the West End there is a handsome Gallery and Partition, adorned with Pilasters, Entablament; and three arched Apertures right against the said Isles, enriched with Fruit, Leaves, &c. of the same Species of Timber; as is also the Altar-Piece, which is adorned with two Columns, and their Entablament of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue under a Glory; and three Cherubims between the Lord's Prayer and the Creed, done in Gold Letters on Black; and here are Enrichments of Shields, Cherubims; Fruits, Leaves, and Palm-Branches. Above the Cornice are the King's-Arms under a Pediment, between Vases or Lamps, all well carved. The Foot-Pace of the Communion-Table is Black and White Marble, inclosed with Rail and Baluster.

THE Dimensions are, Length within 63 Feet, Breadth 43, Altitude 36 Feet; and that of the Steeple about 135 Feet, wherein is only one Bell.

INTERMENTS.

AN Engraven Plate in the North Wall of the Chancel :

Here Blitheman lies, a worthy Weight,
who feared God above ;
A friend to all, a Foe to none,
whom Rich and Poor did love
Of Princes Chapel, Gentleman, unto his dying Day ;
Whom all took great Delight to heare him on the Organs play.
Whose passing Skill in Musick's Art,
a Scholar left behinde ;
John Bull (by Name) his Master's Veine expressing in each Kinde.
But nothing here continues long,
nor resting Place can have ;
His Soule departed hence to Heaven,
his Body here in Grave.

He died on Whitsunday, Anno Dom. 1591.

ON a small Monument in the North Wall of the Chancel :

Here before this Place, lieth buried the Bodie of John Widnell, Citizen and Merchant-Taylor of LONDON, some Time Master of that Company, and Deputy of this Ward. Who deceased the 15th Day of February, 1601, being of the Age of 70.

NUMBER of Houses, with the Parsonage-House, 51.

THE next is Old-fish-street-hill, a Lane so called, which also runs down to Thames-street. In this Lane, on the East Side, is one End of Finimore, or Five-foot-lane.

ON the West Side of this Old-fish-street-hill, was the Bishop of Hereford's Inn, or Lodging ; an antient House, and large Rooms, built of Stone and Timber, which some Time belonged to the Mounthauts in Norfolk. Radulphus de Maydenstone, Bishop of Hereford, about 1234, bought it of the Mounthauts, and gave it to the Bishops of Hereford, his Successors. Charles, both Bishop of Hereford, and Chancellor of the Marches, about the Year 1517, repaired it. Since which Time, the same is divided into many small Tenements : The Hall, and principal Rooms, were an house belonging to a Sugar-Baker.

The PARISH of St. MARY MOUNTHAUT.

NEXT adjoining was the Parish-Church of St. Mary de Monte alto, or Mounthaut. This was a very small Church, and, at first, built to be a Chapel for the said House of the Mounthauts, and for Tenements thereunto belonging.

THIS Church was in part new built, and very much enlarged and beautified, in the Year of our Lord 1609.

BENEFACTORS towards this Building.

• Robert Bennet, Bishop of Hereford.
Sir William Craven.
Sir Thomas Middleton. And,
Dr. Erwold.

IN the Year 1610, this Church was wholly glazed, at the Cost and Charges of Tho. Tyler, Haberdasher, and Rich. Tichburne, Skinner.

IN the South Isle of this Church hung a very good Picture of King James I. with the Figures of Peace and Plenty, on each Side of him. Peace with her Olive-Branch, and Plenty with her Sheaf, in their Hands ; being the Gift of Robert Plunker, then Church-warden.

THIS Church being consumed in the Fire of LONDON 1666, the Parish was annexed, by Act of Parliament, to that of St. Mary Somerset.

MONUMENTS in this Church were, of John Glocester, Alderman 1345, who gave Salt-wharf, for two Chantries there.

John

John Skip, Bishop of Hereford, 1539, sat 12 Years; died at LONDON in Time of Parliament, and was buried in this Church.

THIS Parish, together with several other Parishes, hath a Gift of 8 s. per Annum left by Randolph Bernard, and paid by the Ironmongers.

A Legacy by Rob. Warner, 1688, a late Inhabitant of the Parish, of 40 s. per Annum for the Poor.

THERE was a Parsonage before the Fire, rebuilt 1677, and let out for Forty Years at 10 s. a Year, to Rob. Warner.

No other Houses, or Glebe, but 10 s. a Year in the Middle-row in Fish-street, sold to the City; and little Account given of it.

THE Vestry is General.

NUMBER of Houses 48.

THERE was some Time a fair House in the said Parish of St. Mary Mounthaut, belonging to Robert Belkenape, one of the King's Justices; but the said Belkenape being banished this Realm, King Richard II. in the 12th of his Reign, gave it to William Wickham, Bishop of Winchester.

ON the East Side of this Old-fish-street-hill, is a great House, which some Time was one of the Halls pertaining to the Company of Fishmongers, at such Time as they had six Hall-motes or Meeting-places; namely, two in Bridge-street, or New-fish-street; two in Old-fish-street; whereof this was one; and two in Stock-fish-monger-row, or Thames-street; as appears by a Record the 22d of Richard II.

NEXT Westward is another Lane, called Lambart-Hill, the East Side whereof is wholly of this Ward, and but half the West Side; to wit, from the North end of the Blacksmiths-Hall.

The PARISH of St. MICHAEL QUEEN- HITHE.

THEN in Thames-street, of this Ward, and on the North Side, over-against Queen-hithe, is the Parish of St. Michael; for an Account of the Saint, to whom this Church is dedicated, See Book II, Chap. VII.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified, great Cost bestowed on the Roof, the East and West Windows new built and glazed, with other Repairs about it, at the Cost and Charge of the Parish, in the Year of our Lord 1615; but being burnt down in the great Fire, was built again, and Trinity Parish laid to it. The Communion-Table was given by Mr. John Oliver, 1682. Two Damask Table-Cloths, a long Time since given; the Donors unknown.

N<sup>o</sup> 48. VOL. I.

THE Roof of the Structure is square and flat, covered with Tile; the Walls, Stone, with which also the Church is paved, but the Chancel with Marble and Purbeck; and there are three Isles.

THE Ornament of the Roof is a Quadrangle bound with Fret-work, the Walls (near the Roof) have Overtures, Arches, Imposts and Drops, and handsome five Light and circular Windows. There is a pretty Gallery at the West End, having an Oak Bolection-work Front; the Pulpit and Pews are of the same Species of Timber. The Altar-piece is painted in perspective, in the Gothick Manner; the Inter columns are the Commandments, supported with the Portraits of Moses and Aaron in their Habits between the Creed and Pater-Noster, sustained by two Angels. Over the Decalogue are two Attick Pilasters and an Arch; under which is a Glory, and below that the Words, Sursum Corda, and enriched with Festoons, Vases, &c.

THE Dimensions are, Length 71 Feet, Breadth 40, Altitude 39, and that of the Steeple, consisting of a Tower and Spire, is about 135 Feet.

CHARITABLE Gifts and Benevolences are register'd in this Parish with the Names of the Benefactors, and laid out according to the Intent of the Donors.

MONUMENTS in the Old Church were, for

Stephen Spilman, Gentleman, of that Family in Norfolk, some Time Mercer, Chamberlain of LONDON, then one of the Sheriffs, and Alderman, in 1404, deceasing without Issue, gave his Lands to his Family, the Spilmans, and his Goods to the Making or Repairing of Bridges, and other like godly Uses. And amongst others, to this Church, wherein he founded a Chantry; and was buried in the Choir.

Also Richard Marlow, Ironmonger, Mayor, 1409, gave 20 l. to the Poor of this Ward, and ten Marks to the Church.

Richard Gray, Ironmonger, one of the Sheriffs 1515, gave 40 l. to that Church, and was there buried.

QUEEN Elizabeth had a Monument in this Church, with the Inscription following:

Many Daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all.

On the one Side:

Here lyēs her Type, who was of late
The Prop of Belgia, Stay of France,
Spain's Foil, Faith's Shield, and Queen of
In brief, of Women nere was seen, [Chance:
So great a Prince; so good a Queen.

On the other Side:

Sith Vertue her Immortal made
Death (envying all that cannot dye)
Her earthly Parts did so invade
As in it wrackt self Majesty:
But so her Spirits inspired her Parts,
That she still lives in loyal Hearts:

I have fought a good Fight, I have finished my Course, &c.

No Parsonage-House belongs to this Parish; nor did before the Fire, nor any Glebe, nor any in the Year 1626; for nothing appeared in the Parochial Visitation that Year.

THE Living is a Rectory; St. Michael's is in the Gift of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's; and Trinity Church is in the Gift of the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury. Their Value, as united, is 160 l. per Annum; the first is rated at 16 l. the other at 8 l. 7 s. 6 d.

The PARISH of St. MARY SOMERSET.

ON the North Side of Thames-street, and at the South End of St. Mary Mount-haut-lane, is the Parish-Church of St. Mary Somerset, over-against Broken Wharf. It is a proper Church:

AND was repaired and beautified in the Year of our Lord 1624.

ON a Table hanging close by the Pulpit was this Inscription:

Dictum Thomæ Burtoni Rectoris Ecclesie, temporis reparationis & exornationis hujus Aedificii.

Dominus Petra mea & Arx mea, & Liberator meus, Adjutor meus, sperabo in eum, Psal. xviii. 2.

That is,

The Saying of Thomas Burton, Rector of the Church in the Time of the Reparation and Beautifying of this Building.

The Lord is my Rock, and my Fortrefs, my Deliverer, my Helper, I will hope in him, Psal. xviii. 2.

THIS Church was burnt down by the great Fire, and was rebuilt and finished Feb. 16, 1695.

THE Church and Tower are built of Stone, where the former is also paved, having two Isles; the Roof within is flat, adorned with a Cornice; and between the Windows are Fret-Work of Cherubims, &c. It is finely wainscotted with Oak about 10 Feet high, and a neat Wainscot Gallery is at the West End, supported with four Stone Columns of the Tuscan Order. And here are two spacious inner Door-Cases, and handsome Pews of the said Species of Timber; as is also the Pulpit, which is enriched with Cherubims, and the Sound-Board finiered.

THE Altar-Piece is adorned with four Pillasters, Entablature, and Compass Pediment, of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue, curiously done in Gold Letters on Black, placed under five Cherubims and Palm-branches, &c. gilt with Gold. Above the Cornice, and under the Pediment, is a Glory in Form of an Equilateral Triangle, surrounded with painted Cherubims. Without the Columns are the Lord's Prayer and Creed, done in Gold Letters on Blue; and on the East Window is painted the King's Arms; and the Foot-Pace of the Communion-Table is black and white Marble; at the West End is a neat Marble Font, which was given by John Tooley, Deputy of this Ward 1699. He also wainscotted the Vestry, where his Coat of Arms is set up.

THE Dimensions of this Church are, Length 83 Feet, Breadth 36, Altitude 30, and that of the Tower, to the Top of the highest Pinacles, about 120.

MONUMENTS in this Church were as follow:

ON a fair plated Stone in the Chancel, by the Communion-Table:

Here lieth buried the Body of Master Richard Randall, of this Parish, who had Issue by Margaret, his first Wife, four Sons and seven Daughters, one only Daughter surviving, named Joyce. He was by Freedom a Pewterer, by Trade a Brewer, and one of the Governors of Christ's Hospital. He departed this Life the 7th Day of June, An. Domini 1616, being aged 75 Years.

No cause to mourne, though here he lye,
That gave to many Cause to cry.
For though his Body turn to Dust,
His Soul doth live among the Just.

OF the Monuments that antiently were erected in this Church, and long since defaced, and hitherto lost, Mr. Strype restores these few that follow:

Hic jacet Johannes Epus Dromorensis, & Rector istius Ecclesie. Qui ob. 12 Jun. 1433.

Hic jacet Thomas Cane, Notarius & Rector istius Ecclesie. Qui ob. 18 Sept. 1444.

John Blundel, some Time Citizen and Fruiterer of LONDON, and Margaret and Alice his Wives; which John died the 23d of May, 1474.

Johannes Ravening, Civis & Salter LONDON. Et Johanna & Elizabetha Uxores ejus. Obiit ille 17 Feb. 1481.

Hic jacet Arthurus, filius & heres Dni. de Dacre. Qui ob. 26 die Aprilis, 1489.

Orate pro anima Johannis Denham, quondam Rectoris istius Ecclesie. Qui obiit 1511.

Bennet Brocas, Servant to the Earl of Surrey, and Treasurer of England, desireth you to pray, &c.

Under this Inscription is the Coat of the Earl of Surrey, then a Coat Baron and Femme, 1. Within a Bordure engrailed, Arg. the Field Sable, a Lion Rampant Guardant, Or. 2. Arg. two Brooks Couchant, Az. A Flower de Lis in the Nombril Point.

Orate pro bono statu Benedicti Brocas, Generosi, & pro eorundem. Verum etiam ac Margareta nuper Uxoris, & filiorum filiarumq; mortuorum, An. Dom. 1511. Again.

Pray for the Soul of Bennet Brocas, Gentleman, who dyed the 11th of Fevrier, An. Dom. 1511. Cujus anime propitiatur Deus. Amen.

Robert Hill, Grocer, kneeling in the Window.

Of your Charity pray for the Soul of Peter Belieff, Fesyscon (i. e. Physician) and Surgeon of LONDON; and for the good Estate of Annis his Wife. The which Peter departed to God the 2d Day of October, 1516.

Pray for the Soul of Thomas Hottby, Citizen and Grocer of LONDON; Alice, Joan, and Margaret his Wives. Which Thomas died the 22d of March, An. Dom. 1528.

Pray for the Soul of Thomas Ungil, and Elizabeth his Wife. Which Thomas dyed the 6th of Novemb, 1537.

Here lyeth Frauncis Barantine, of Hafely, in the County of Oxford, Esq; who dyed the 23d of Aug, 1557.

Here was also Queen Elizabeth's Monumental Memorial, with these Verses taken out of the Scripture:

Psal. cxii. 6. The Righteous shall be had in everlasting Remembrance.

Prov. x. 7. The Memorial of the Just shall be blessed.

2 Tim. iv. 7, 8. I have fought a good Fight, I have finished my Course, &c.

SINCE the new building of the Church, within the Rails of the Communion-Table, lies buried, under a fair Stone, the Reverend Father in God, Gilbert Ironside, Bishop of Hereford, with this Inscription:

H. S. E.
Reverendus admodum in Christo Pater Gilbertus Ironside, S. T. P. Coll. Wadhamentis, in Acad. Oxon. Vice-Cancellarius. Primo consecratus Bristol. Espiscop. Postea translatus ad Episcopat. Hereford. Obiit 27 die Aug. 1701. Ætat. suæ 69.

And,

Mary, with her seven Sons and three Daughters, the Wife, and Issue of Deputy John Tooley, Citizen and Lime-Merchant of LONDON. She departed 1695.

As for Charitable GIFTS;

Randulph Bernard left 8 s. per Ann. payable by the Ironmongers Company. And 7 s. 6d. issuing out of some Ground-Rent in Tower-street, and paid by John Moyser, Esq;

BUT no Legacies or Bequests for Sermons, or towards Reparations, or other Charitable Uses, than what is above-mentioned.

THERE was a Parsonage-House before the Fire; since built; and let for 40 Years, at 5 l. Ground-Rent. No other Houses or Glebe. Note, in the Parochial-Visitation, 1636, the Church-Wardens brought in the Parsonage-House 10 l. the Glebe 8 l.

THIS Living is a Rectory in the Gift of the Bishop of Hereford, and of a private Person, who present alternately; the Value per Act of Parliament 110 l. per Ann. St. Mary Somerset is rated in the King's Books at 10 l. 10 s. and St. Mary Mounthaw, at 6 l. 10 s.

THE Rector is the Reverend Dr. Croxal; and the Lecturer is the Reverend Mr. Hetherly.

PRAYERS are Wednesdays, Fridays, and Holidays, at 11 o'Clock; no Organ; one Bell.

THE Vestry of St. Mary Somerset is Select, consisting of about 20.

The PARISH of St. PETER near PAUL's WHARF.

THIS Church of St. Peter, of Old called St. Peter's Parva, or Little, because it was but a small Church, but of latter Times called St. Peter near Paul's Wharf, because situate near to that Place, stood on the North Side of Thames-street, at the South East Corner of St. Peter's-hill.

IN this Church were two perpetual Chantries founded; one for the Souls of William Barnard, and Isabel his Wife, endowed with 4 l. 6 s. 8 d. per Ann. and the other was founded by Walter Kent, and endowed with 4 l. 13 s. 4 d. per Ann. of both which the Rector, Church-Wardens, and Parishioners, were Patrons.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified in 1625.

THO' this Church was but small and inconsiderable, yet Newcourt, in his Repertorium, adds something of his own Knowledge to the Honour of it, which is this, That it was very famous some Years before the Restauration of King Charles II. by Reason of the Common-Prayer, which was much used therein; and the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper duly administered, according to the Liturgy of the Church of England, which brought a great Concourse and Resort to it, both of the Nobility and Gentry; and the Galleries, where, they sat were richly hung with Turkey Work Carpets, and the like.

BUT being burnt down in the dreadful Fire, it was since annexed to that of St. Bennet at Paul's Wharf.

To this Church belongs no Parsonage-House, as they knew of; accordingly to the Presentment of the Church-Wardens in the Parochial-Visitation, Anno 1693. But, according to the Parochial-Visitation, 1636, there was a Parsonage-House and Glebe, valued at 4 l. 8 s. per Ann.

NOR any Gifts or Legacies to Church or Poor.

Queen-hithe.

THEN is Queen-hithe, a large Receptacle for Corn-Barges, and other Western Vessels. Touching the Antiquity and Use of this Gate and Hithe: Of old Time the same belonged to one named Edred, and was then called Edred's Hithe. Which since falling to the Hands of King Stephen, it was by his Charter confirmed to William de Ypre. The Farm thereof in Fee and in Heritage, William de Ypre gave it unto the Prior and Convent of the Holy Trinity within Aldgate, as appears by this Charter:

TO Theobald, by the Grace of God Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of England, and Legate Apostolike. To the Bishop of London, and to all faithfull People, Clerkes and Laymen, William de Ypre sendeth greeting. Know ye me to have given and granted to God, and to the Church of the Holy Trinity of London, to the Prior and Canons there, serving God, in perpetual Alms, Edred's Hithe, with the Appurtenances. With such Devotion, that they shall send every Yeere Twenty Pounds, unto the Maintenance of the Hospitall of Katharines; which Hospital they have in their Hands; and One Hundred Shillings to the Monkes of Berdmonsey, and Sixty Shillings to the Brethren of the Hospitall of Saint Giles. And that which remaineth, the said Prior and Canons shall enjoy to themselves. Witnesses, Richard de Lucia, Raphe Bigot, or Picot, &c.

THIS Edred's Hithe, after the aforesaid Grants, came again into the King's Hands.

AND, in the 6th Year of Henry III, being then called Ripa Reginae, he granted it to Richard de Ripary, i. e. Rivers. And in the 10th of his Reign, he granted it Thome Cirencestræ ad placitum Regis, i. e. To Thomas Cirencester at the King's Pleasure.

BUT it pertained unto the Queen, and therefore it was called Ripa Reginae, the Queen's Bank, or Queen's Hithe; and great Profit was made to her Use, as will appear by this which followeth:

KING Henry III, in the 9th of his Reign, commanded the Constable of the Tower of LONDON, to arrest the Ships of the Cinque Ports, on the River of Thames, and to compel them to bring their Corn to no other Place, but to the Queen's Hithe only.

THE same Year, viz. 9 Hen. III, the said Constable was required to arrest the said Ships in the Thames, to carry their Corn only to the Ports of the Realm. The Words are, De blado non caviando nisi ad portus Regni.

IN the 11th of his Reign, he charged the said Constable to distrain any Fish offered to be sold in any Place of this City, but at the Queen's Hithe.

THE Words of the Record are, Distringat eos, qui ducunt piscem venalem in Navibus usq; London. & remanent trans Pontem London. ex parte Turris, ad ducendum dict. piscem usq; Hitham.

The Constable was to compel or force them who brought Fish in Boats to LONDON, to sell, not to remain on this Side the Bridge near the Tower, but to see them conveyed to Queen-hithe. And again, in the 10th of that King, Ducet [Constabularius Turris] piscem venalem venientem ap. London. ad Ripam Reginae.

MOREOVER, in the 28th of the said King's Reign, an Inquisition was made before William of York, Provost of Beverly, Henry of Bath, and Hierome of Caxton, Justices Itinerants, sitting in the Tower of LONDON, touching the Customs of Queen-hithe, observed in the Year last before the Wars between the King his Father, and the Barons of England; and of old Customs of other Times. And what Customs had been changed; at what Time the Tax and Payment of all Things coming thither; and between Woorepath, and Anede-hith, were found and seized, according to the old Order; as well Corn and Fish, as of other Things. All which Customs were as well to be observed in the Part of Downgate; as in Queen-hithe, for the King's Use: When also it was found, that the Corn arriving between the Gate of Guild-hall of the Merchants of Coleyne, and the Soke of the Archbishop of Canterbury (for he had a House near unto the Black-fryars) was not to be measured by any other Quarter, than by that of the Queen's Soke.

AFTER this, the Bailiffs of the said Hithe complained, that since the Recognition, fourteen foreign Ships, laden with Fish, arrived at Bilingsgate; which Ships should have arrived at the said Hithe. And therefore it was order'd, That if any foreign Ship, laden with Fish, should, in the Form aforesaid, arrive elsewhere than at this Hithe, it should be at the King's Pleasure to amerce them at 40 s. Notwithstanding, the Ships of the Citizens of LONDON were at Liberty to arrive where the Owners would appoint them.

ALL this Inquisition before the King's Justices Itinerants, 28 Hen. III, concerning Queen-hithe, being set down very imperfectly and obscurely, Mr. Strype relates it more fully and exactly, as it stands in the Books of the Chamber of LONDON.

Dominus Rex mandavit, &c. i. e. Our Lord the King (Henry III) commanded Lord William de Eboraco, Provost of Beverly, and Henry of Bath, and Jeremiah de Caxton, his Fellow Justices Itinerants at the Tower of LONDON, in the 28th Year of the Reign of the said Henry, Son of King John, That with all Diligence, and by all the Ways they could, cause Inquiry to be made, what Customs belonged to the Queen's Heth, LONDON, the Year next before the War moved between the Lord John, his Father, and his Barons of England. And when it shall appear to them concerning those Customs, and others, which belonged to the aforesaid Heth, and which were afterwards changed and alienated, they labour with all Solicitude and Carefulness they can, to reform the said Heth to its due State. And that the Customs in the same be held, which was wont to be held in the Time aforesaid.

BEFORE which Provost and Justices, it was convicted by the Mayor and Aldermen of the City, that in the Time aforesaid were three Customs belonging to the foresaid Heth; to wit,

OF every Sieve (that is, a Measure containing five Quarters) of Salt, that shall belong to a Man that is a Foreigner, or to any one of the five Ports, and shall land and come, wheresoever it be within Woreparth and Anede-hethe, or beyond; 2dly, at the Farm of the said Heth.

ALSO, if any Citizen of LONDON have Part in the same Sieve of Salt, he shall give nothing of his Portion: But the Residue that belongs longs to the Strangers, shall give Custom according to the Quantity of his Ware.

Also, if any bring from Abroad Herrings, Corn, or such like, together with Salt, in one Ship, it hath been lawful for the Queen's Bailiff to take a ——— Part of the aforesaid Catals.

Also, if any from Abroad, and also from the five Ports, come with Salmon, if he shall bring 100, or more, he shall give two Salmons to the Queen's Farm.

AND if any shall land them in the Queen's Soke, he shall give one of the best, and one of the middling Sort.

AND if he shall bring less than 100, he shall give according to the Quantity of the Thing, to the fourth Part.

AND if he shall bring less than the fourth Part, he shall give nothing but Standage.

Also, of Salt Mulvil (a Kind of Fish) the same Custom is to be taken at the Queen's Farm in the same Soke, which the Sheriff takes for the King's Use at Billingsgate.

Also, if a Stranger, and also any for the Five Ports, shall bring in his Ship White Herrings salted, in the Queen's Soke, 100 is to be taken out of the Ship. And if any of the Citizens have a Part with him, nothing to be taken from his Portion.

Also, whatsoever Stranger brings the first Red Herring, not frailed, he shall give 100 Herrings. And others, who shall come with the same Kind of Herrings, whether they are frailed or not, shall give nothing through the whole Year, besides the Standage of the Ship.

Also, if any Foreigner shall buy Salmon, or Mulvil, salted in the Ship, and shall put it into another Ship; for every 1000 he shall give an Half-penny.

Also, concerning Salmon and Mulvil bought in Shops, situate in the same Soke, of every 100 is to be taken 2 d. as was before said, concerning the Ships.

Also, of Herrings bought in Shops, of every 1000 is to be taken an Half-penny.

Also, if every Kind of fresh Fish, coming in the Queen's Soke, the same Custom is to be taken, which is taken of the same Kind of Fish, at the Queen's Farm at London-bridge.

Also, of every Ship that saileth within Orlokes, is to be taken 2 d. at the Queen's Farm; unless it be of LONDON, or of the Five Ports.

Also, of a Ship which saileth with Toll, is to be taken an Half-penny.

Also, of every Shout coming down in the Queen's Soke with Corn, to be taken 1 d. ob. but if with Wood, without Corn, 1 d.

All Customs before written, are to be kept and held, as well in the Port of Dovegate as Queen-hithe, for the Lord the King's Use.

Also, Corn which landeth between the Gutter of the Guildhall of the Men of Colen, and the Archbishop of Canterbury's Soke, (i. e. near Black-fryars) is not wont to be measured by another Quartern, than by the Quartern of the Queen's Soke.

Also, it belongeth to the Queen's Bailiff, to take Scawyng in Selva Wynton, for the Queen's Use, under the same Form as the Sheriff of LONDON takes Scawyng elsewhere in LONDON for the King's Use.

Also, if any withdraw his Custom, and depart from the City with the same Custom, he falls into the Mercy of the Bailiff.

Also, if any offer to pay his Custom to the Bailiff, or his Servant, and they will not take it, although he depart from the City, he is not to be amerced.

Also, all Assizes of the City, in the Hustings, provided and ordained for the Amendment of the City, are to be ordained and observed in the Queen's Soke; and therefore it is a Custom, that the Lord the King have his Seizin of all the aforesaid Customs, according as it is acknowledged by the same Mayor and Citizens.
VOL. I.

AFTERWARDS came the Bailiffs of the same Heth, and complained, that after the foresaid Acknowledgment, 14 Foreign Ships landed with Fish at Billingsgate, which ought to have landed at the foresaid Heth. And therefore the Custom is, that if any Foreign Ship with Fish, land elsewhere in the Form aforesaid, than at the foresaid Heth, it is in the King's Mercy, to wit; at 40 s. Forfeiture. Let this Punishment have Place; until one Month after the Feast of St. Michael, this Year. And; in the mean Time; according to the Transgression, Provision is made for inflicting an heavier Pain; if they will not observe the foresaid Form.

AFTERWARDS came the Mayor and Citizens; and say, that six Ships of Strangers, with all Salt Fish, in Foreign Spindler Boats, landed at the foresaid Heth, in the foresaid Time. But Ships which were the Citizens of LONDON, landed elsewhere, where they would; and therefore let the King have his Seizin.

AFTER this the said Henry III. confirmed the Grant of Richard Earl of Cornwall, for the Farm of Queen-hithe to John Gisors, then Mayor; and to the Commonalty of LONDON, and their Successors for ever, as appears by the following Charter:

HENRY, by the Grace of God King of England, Lord of Ireland, Duke of Guien, and Earl of Anjou, to all Archbishops, &c. Be it knowne, that wee have seene the Covenant betweene our Brother Richard, Earle of Cornwall, of the one Party, and the Maior and Communalty of LONDON, on the other Party; which is in this Sort: In the 30th Yeere of Henry, the Sonne of King John, upon the Feast of the Translation of St. Edward at Westminster, this Covenant was made betweene the Honourable Lord Richard, Earle of Cornwall, and John Gisors, then Maior of LONDON, and the Commons thereof, concerning certain Exactions and Demands pertaining to the Queene-hith of LONDON, to wit, That the said Earle granted for himself and his Heyres, that the said Maior, and all Maiors ensuing, and all the Commons of the City, should have and hold the Queene-hith, with all the Liberties and Customs, and other Appurtenances in Fee Ferme; rendring thence yeerely to the said Earle, his Heires and Assignes, 50 l. at Clerkenwell at two several Termes, to wit, at the Close of Easter 25 l. and in the Octaves of Michaelmas, 25 l. And for more Surety hereof, the said Earle hath set thereunto his Seale, and left it with the Maior; and the Maior and Communalty have set to their Seale, and left it with the Earle: Where we confirme and establish the said Covenant, for us and our Heires. Witnesses, Ralph Fitz-Nichol, Richard Gray, John and Will. Brithem, Paulin Paynter, Ralph Wancia, John Cumband, and others. At Windsor, the 26th of February, the 31st of our Reign.

It seems Queen-hithe was in the Hands of the Earl of Cornwall, at the Death of K. Henry III.; and the Citizens supposed was wrongfully detained from them. For upon an Inquisition appointed by the Justices the 3d of Edw. I. they make this Presentment, "That the Queen-hithe was some Time belonging to the City of LONDON; and how it came to the Earl of Cornwall, and his Heirs, they knew not,"
8 X "nor

" nor by what Warrant. And that it was worth
 " per Ann. 52 l. And moreover, they say,
 " That King John, Father of Lord King Henry,
 " gave Queen-hithe to Alianore, then Queen of " England, and was had of the King's De-
 " meine all his Time. But from that Time
 " 'till now, the Earl of Cornwall, and his Heirs
 " held it, and still did hold it against the " Crown, and Disenheirsen of the King, as it " seemed to them; but by what Warrant they " knew not.

THE Charge of this Queen-hithe was then committed to the Sheriffs, and so long continued.

Now for the Customs of this Queen-hithe: In the Year 1302, the 30th of Edward I. it was found by the Oath of divers Men, that Bakers, Brewers, and others, buying their Corn at Queen-hithe, should pay for Measuring, Portage, and Carriage, for every Quarter of Corn whatsoever; from thence to Westcheap, to St. Antho-nine's Church, to Horse-shoe-bridge, and to Woolsey-street, in the Parish of Albhalows the Less, and such like Distances, one ob. q. To Fleet-bridge, to Newgate, Cripplegate, to Birchovers-lane, to Eastcheap, and Billingsgate, 1 d. Also, that the Measurer, or the Meeter, ought to have eight chief Master-Porters; every Master to have three Porters under him, and every one of them to find one Horse, and seven Sacks; and he that so did not, to lose his Office.

THIS Hithe was then so frequented with Vessels, bringing thither Corn, (besides Fish, Salt, Fuel, and other Merchandizes) that all these Men, to wit, the Meeter and Porters, 37 in Number, for all their Charge of Horses and Sacks, and small Stipend, lived well of their Labours. But now that Case is altered; the Bakers of LONDON, and other Citizens, travel into the Countries, and buy their Corn of the Farmers, after the Farmers Price.

KING Edward II. in the first Year of his Reign, gave to Margaret, Wife to Peter Gavestone, 43 l. 12 s. 9 d. Half-penny Farthing, out of the Rents in LONDON, to be received of Queen-hithe.

CERTAIN Impositions were set upon Ships, and other Vessels coming thither; as upon Corn, Salt, and other Things, towards the Charge of cleansing Roomland there, the 41st of Edw. III.

THESE were the Impositions, and the Occasion of them. This Roomland being annoyed with Dung, Filth, &c. so as the Sellers of Corn and Victuals there could not stand to sell their Commodities, as formerly they had done, it was ordered by a Common-Council, An. 41. of King Edward III. that the Place should forthwith be made clean and paved: And that from thenceforth, towards the perpetual Cleansing and Reparation thereof, there should be taken for every Quarter of Corn, of what Kind soever, there sold or coming, a Farthing; for every Quarter of Salt, a Farthing; for every Vessel, called a Battel, bringing Rushes, 4 d. for every Vessel called a Shout, bringing Corn, or Malt, 2 d. for every Ship bringing other Victuals, 2 d. and of every Person laying Soil there, 2 s. and the Seller of the Rushes, to pay for every Boat of Rushes, 4 d.

THE 3 d. of Edward IV. the Market at Queen-hithe being hindered by the Slackness of drawing up London-bridge, it was ordained, That all Manner of Vessels, Ships, or Boats, great or small, resorting to the City with Victuals, should be sold by Retale; and that if there came but one Vessel at a Time, were it Salt, Wheat, Rye, or other Corn from beyond the Seas; or other Grains, Garlick, Onions, Herrings, Sprats, Eels, Whittings, Plaife, Cods, Mackarel, &c. then that one Vessel should come to Queen-hithe, and there to make sale. But if two Vessels came, the one should come to Queen-hithe, the other to Billingsgate. If three, two of them should come to Queen-hithe, the third to Billingsgate, &c. always the more to Queen-hithe. If the Vessel, being great coming with Salt from the Bay, and could not come to these Keys, then the same to be conveyed by Lighters, as before is meant.

ONE large House for Stowage of Corn, craned out of Lighters and Barges, was there built. Sir John Lion, Grocer, Mayor, 1554, by his Testament, gave 100 l. towards it, and this was afterwards made larger, at the Charges of the City, in the Year 1565.

AGAINST this Queen-hithe, on the River of Thames, of late Years, saith Stow, was placed a Corn-Mill, upon, or betwixt two Barges, or Lighters, and there ground Corn, as Water-Mills in other Places; to the Wonder of many that had not seen the like; but this lasted not long without Decay. The like had been in former Times, for in the Year 1525, the 16th of Henry VIII. Sir William Bayley being Mayor, John Cooke of Glocester, Mercer, gave to the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON, and theirs for ever, one great Barge, in which two great Corn-Mills were made and placed; which Barge and Mills were set in and upon the Stream of the River of Thames, within the Jurisdiction and Liberty of the said City of LONDON. And also he gave to the said City, all such Timber, Boards, Stones, Iron, &c. provided for making, mending, and repairing of the said Barge and Mills. In Reward whereof, the Mayor gave him 50 l. presently, and 50 l. yearly, during his Life. And if the said Cooke deceased before Joan his Wife, then she to have 40 Marks the Year during her Life.

THIS Queen-hithe is now a noble Market for Malt and Meal brought from the Western Counties, (as Bear-key is for Corn.) Market-Days are every Day, but chiefly Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

NEXT adjoining to this Queen-hithe, on the West Side thereof, is Salt-wharf, named of Salt taken up, measured and sold there.

THE next is Stew-lane, of a Stew, or Hot-House there kept.

AFTER that is Timber-hithe, or Timber-street, so called, of Timber and Boards, there taken up and wharfed. It is in the Parish of St. Mary Somers-hithe, as Stow says he read it named in the 56th of Henry III. and in the 9th of Edward II.

THEN is Brooks's-wharf and Broken-wharf, a Water-Gate, or Key, so called, of being broken and falling down into the Thames.

AT a Common-Council, July 23, the 2d of Queen Elizabeth, Order was taken, that out of a certain void Space of Ground at Broken-wharf, there should 33 Feet be inclosed and laid to the City's Brewhouse; which was to have a substantial Pale about it, to keep the City's Fuel, and other Goods, &c.

By this Broken-wharf was one large old Building of Stone, with arched Gates; which Messuage, in the Reign of Henry III. the 43d Year, pertained to Hugh de Bygot; and in the 11th of Edward II. to Thomas Brotherton, the King's Brother, Earl of Norfolk, Marshal of England. In the 11th of Henry VI. to John Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, &c.

WITHIN the Gate of this House, then belonging to the City of LONDON, was built, in the Years 1594 and 1595, a large House, of great Heighth, called an Engine, made by Bevis Bulmer, Gent. for the conveying and forcing of Thames Water, to serve in the Middle and West Parts of the City. The antient great Hall of this Messuage belongs now to a Brewhouse ; and the Water-Works are purchased by the New-River Company.

WEST from this is Trigg-lane, going down to the Thames. Next is called Bofs-lane, of a Bofs of Water, like unto that of Billinggate, there placed by the Executors of Richard Whittington.

THEN was a great Messuage, some Time belonging to the Abbots of Chertsey in Surrey, and was their Inn, wherein they were lodged when they repaired to the City. It was afterwards called Sandie-House, the Lord Sands has been lodged there.

AND this is an End of this Queen-hithe Ward.

THE present State of this Ward stands this :

THE chief Streets, Lanes, and Hills, in this Ward, are Thames-street, Queen-hithe, with the several Lanes which run down to the Thames, Lambart-hill, Fish-street-hill, Five-foot-lane, Bread-street-hill, Huggin-lane, Little Trinity-lane, with the South Side of Great Trinity-lane, Old Fish-street, Thames-street, runs through the Heart of this Ward, as it does that of the Vintry ; and the Lanes, Alleys, Hills, and Courts, as they lie on each Side, shall be specified, beginning at the West End, and on the South Side.

THIS Street enjoys a good Trade, and hath a great Resort, occasioned by the several Wharfs on the Water Side ; and therefore much pestered with Carts. Black-boy-alley, long and narrow, having a great Dier's at the lower End. Bofs-alley, also long and narrow, with a Dier's by the Thames Side. Betwixt this Place and Black-boy-alley, is a large Passage to a Wood-Wharf. Robin-hood-court, but very ordinary. Trig-stairs, so called from the Stairs on the Water Side, which is indifferently well supplied by Watermen. The Lane is open, reasonably well built and inhabited. Castle-lane, pretty broad for Carts, having a Wood-Wharf at the lower End ; the Buildings are but ordinary. George-yard, being good and large, and taken up by Timber-Merchants and Wood-Wharfs at the lower End. Broken-wharf ; by this is a Water-House to convey the Thames Water in Pipes, before-mentioned.

Brookes's-wharf leads also to the River Thames, having a large Wharf, with Keys therein, for the landing of Corn, Malt, and other Goods, thither brought in considerable Quantities. For which it is of great Resort.

EASTWARDS from the Water-House, is Hightimber-street, or Hithe, so called from the Timber or Boards there taken up and wharfed. The Place is but ordinary, and serves as a Passage to other Places which lead to the Wharfs ; as Dunghill-lane, Broker's-wharf, and Hamond's-lane ; formerly called Stew-lane, from a Stew, or Hot-House there kept ; all Places of ordinary Account. And from this Lane is a Passage to Queen-hithe, called the Dark-lane : And here is Boydens's-Wharf.

Queen-hithe, a great Receptacle for Western Barges, Lighters, and Boats, which brings a considerable Resort and Trade to the Place. Here is a great Meal-Market, having the Conveniency for Stowage of the Goods thither brought to be sold by the said Vessels. The Market-House is commodiously seated by the Water-side, and before it an open Yard for Carts to carry off the Goods there sold ; and round about the Yard, except the South Side next the Thames, are Rows of Houses, well inhabited, besides good Store of Publick Houses, for the Reception of People that resort thither about Business, next the Stairs.

Eastward of Queen-hithe, is Pump-court, or Yard, a small Place, which comes out of Queen-hithe, and falls into Townsend-lane, an open Place for Carts to the Wharf ; and this is the Eastern Limits of this Ward.

THEN on the North Side are these Places. Bowling-alley, a small Place, which falls into Sugar-loaf-court, now taken up for a Brew-house.

St. Michael Queen-hithe Church, rebuilt since the great Fire, a handsome well built Church, of Free-stone, having on the Top of the Steeple a small Free-stone Spire, with a Ship upon a Ball all gilt with Gold. To this Church and Parish is that of Trinity united.

Little Trinity-lane comes out of Great Trinity-lane, and falls into Thames-street, by St. Michael Queen-hithe Church. This Lane is well built and inhabited. Here is seated the Painter-Stainers-Hall ; it is adorned with a handsome Screen, Arches, Pillars and Pilasters of the Corinthian Order, painted in Imitation of Porphyry, with gilt Capitals. The Pannels of Wainscot, and the Ceilings are embellish'd with great Variety of History and other Paintings, exquisitely perform'd ; as, 1. The Portraits of King Charles II. and his Queen Catharine, by Howfman. 2. The Fire of LONDON. 3. Endymion and Luna, by Palmaitier. 4. Orpheus fleaing Pan, by Brull. 5. A Piece of Architecture of the Corinthian Order, by Trevit. 6. Another of the Ionick Order, given by Mr. Thompson the City-Painter. 7. Heracitus and Democritus, by Penn. 8. A Landskip, by Aggas. 9. Fish and Fowl, by Robinson. 10. Art and Envy, by Hungis. 11. A Piece of Birds, by Barlow. 12. A Piece of Fruit and Flowers, by Everbrook. 13. A Ruin, by Griffier. 14. Camden's Portrait. 15. A Piece of Birds. 16. The Ceiling is finely painted with Pallas triumphant, with Arts and Fame, attended by Mercury, suppressing their Enemies ; Sloth, Envy, Pride, &c. done by Fuller. 17. A fine Piece of Shipping, by Mr. Peter Monumea ; and there are several other Pieces in the Parlour.

Painter
Stainers-hall.

IN the Court-Room are several fine Pictures, most of them Members of this Company.

THERE is in the Front of the said Room a fine Bust of Mr. Thomas Evans, who left five Houses in Basinghall-street to the Company, and under it this Inscription :

Mr. Camden, the famous Antiquarian, whose Father was a Painter in the Old Baily, gave to the Painter-Stainers Company a Silver Cup and Cover, which they use every St. Luke's Day at their Election, the old Master drinking to the new one, then elected, out of it. Upon this Cup is the following Inscription :

GUL. CAMDENUS CLARENCEUX FILI-US SAMPSONIS PICTORIS LODINENSIS
DONO DEDIT.

THIS Company are still called the Painter-Stainers ; but the Art of Staining Glass is so much much out of Use, that there are but three Persons of any Note, at this Time, who can do it to Perfection, viz.

Mr. Price in Holbourn, who has done many Things for several of the Colleges of the University of Oxford; for his own Parish-Church of St. Andrew, in the Year 1719 and 1732; at Westminster-Abbey, St. Martin's in the Fields, and elsewhere.

Mr. Rowel of Chipping-Wicombe, in the County of Bucks, who found out the Art himself; and after 20 Years Study, brought it to Perfection.

AND another Person at Winnocke in Lancashire.

OPPOSITE to this Hall, is Trinity-court, a handsome Place, with a Free-stone Pavement. And adjoining to the said Hall, is Huggin-alley, but small, which hath a Passage into Huggin-lane. Cowden's Rents, very ordinary.

Trinity Church, seated at the North East Corner of Little Trinity-lane. This Church was destroyed in the Fire of LONDON, and since rebuilt, and made use of by Lutherans, for Divine Worship; as the French and Dutch have certain Churches in and about this City. But the Parish is united unto St. Michael's Queen-hithe: And the Church is now, not called Trinity Church, but the Lutheran, or Swedes Church; tho' it is used only by Germans, and supported by Hamburg Merchants.

Huggin-lane, formerly called Spooner's-lane, comes out of Great Trinity-lane, and falls into Thames-street, a Lane of good Account. On the East Side is Fair-cloth-court, very small, with a Free-stone Pavement. Star-yard, very ordinary, hath a Passage into Bread-street-hill.

Bread-street-hill, a Place well built, and inhabited by good Tradesmen, mostly Wholesale.

ON the West Side of this Hill, was the Parish Church of St. Nicholas Olave; the Church was destroyed in the dreadful Fire of LONDON, and not rebuilt; but the Parish is united unto St. Nicholas Cold-abbey.

MORE Southward, is a very handsome square Court, with three large Houses, now called Migley's-court, from one of that Name inhabiting there.

Five-foot-lane, so called, for that the West End was but five Foot broad. It hath its chief Entrance out of Thames-street, and with a turning Passage leads into Fish-street-hill. It hath another Passage out of Bread-street-hill, by St. Nicholas Olave's Church-yard; and another into Old-fish-street, through Star-court, which is but small.

Mr. Edward Gilbert, a worthy Inhabitant of the Parish of St. Nicholas Olave's, in the Year 1726, sunk a Well, between the Church-yard Wall and the Channel, about 20 Feet deep, and then had it bored, but could find no Water; afterwards he sunk another in the Passage called the Church-yard, leading from Bread-street-hill to Five-foot-lane, over-against the Rector's Gate, and there found a good Spring, where he erected a handsome Pump at his own Charge, amounting to upwards of 80 Pounds; he subscribed, about the same Time, 20 Guineas to the Iron Gates and Pallisado's set up round the Church-yard.

Fish-street-hill, a well inhabited Place, comes out of Old-fish-street, and runs down into Thames Street. On the East Side is Five-foot-lane, as aforesaid.

MORE Southward was the Parish-Church of St. Mary Mountbaw, or Mountbaut. It was destroyed in the Fire of LONDON, and not rebuilt, the Parish being united to St. Mary Somerset; and the Ground on which it stood being inclosed for a Burial-Place for the Inhabitants, as most of the Churches, not rebuilt, are.

Labour-in-vain-yard, a large Place, having at the upper End, on the North Side, a handsome Court, with private Houses, the Southern Part being taken up with Stabling, where it hath a Passage into Lambeth, or Lambart-hill. Dove Court, a handsome Place, adjoining to Labour-in-vain-yard. Bell-alley, long and ordinary, adjoining to Fish-street-hill.

BUT in Thames-street, over-against Broken-wharf, is seated the Parish-Church of St. Mary Somerset, a good Free-stone Building, having a very graceful Steeple, built with eight Pinnacles on the Battlements, the four Corners differing from the rest, which makes it graceful to the Eye of the Beholder.

It was destroyed in the general Fire of LONDON, and rebuilt as aforesaid. To this Church and Parish, that of St. Mary Mountbaut is united.

Lambart-hill, a Place well built and inhabited by private House-keepers. Of this Hill, the West Side, about half Way, viz. unto Green-dragon-court, is in Castle-Baynard's Ward, and all the rest is in this Ward. In which is Green-dragon-court, being now a Timber-yard, and has a Passage into Thames-street. On this Hill is Blacksmiths Hall, a good handsome Building, and the Alms-Houses are in Castle Baynard's Ward, and there spoken of.

St. Peter's-hill, spoken of in Castle-Baynard's Ward. In this there is but two Houses and the Church, which, before the Fire of LONDON, (and destroyed by it) was but small, and is not rebuilt; but the Parish is united to St. Bennet Paul's Wharf near adjoining.

Old-fish-street, a good open broad Street, well built, and inhabited chiefly by Fishmongers, from whom it took its Name. The North Side is in Bread-street Ward, and the South in this. It was formerly a Street of greater Request than at present, and much resorted unto for Fish-Dinners.

HERE is seated the Parish-Church of St. Nicholas Cold-abbey, a very handsome Free-stone Building, with a neat Spire-Steeple; and is better built than it was before the Fire. This Parish is united to St. Nicholas Olave's.

NEAR St. Nicholas Cold-abbey, is Moor's-yard, indifferent. And beyond Fish-street-hill is Star-court, which is but small, and hath a Passage into Five-foot-lane.

Great Trinity-lane comes out of St. Thomas Apostle's; and runs Westward to Old-fish-street, a Place indifferently well built and inhabited; the South Side is only in this Ward, the North Side in Bread-street Ward.

ADJOINING to the Lutheran Church, is a small Place called Swedish-court. And now more Eastward, is Jack's-alley, narrow and mean; but this is in Vintry Ward.

THERE are to watch at the several Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Constable, the Beadle, and Forty Watchmen.

THE Jurymen returned by the Inquest, for this Ward, are to serve in the several Courts at Guild-hall, in the Month of October.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman, and his Deputy, Six Common-Council-Men, Nine Constables, Eight Scavengers, Thirteen Inquest-Men, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in London, 20 l. and in the Exchequer, at 19 l. 6 s. 2 d.

THE Alderman is Robert Alsop, Esq;

THE next is Castle-Baynard Ward, so called from an old Castle that antiently stood there. This Ward begins in the East on the Thames Side, by where, of old Time, was a House called Huntington House, and runs by St. Paul's-wharf, by where old Baynard's-Castle stood; Puddle-wharf, and by the South Side of Black-fryars. Then turning by the East Wall of the said Fryars, to the South West End of Creed-lane. Then on the North Side of Thames-street, by where St. Peter's Church stood, and the Lane called St. Peter's-hill, along 'till over-against Puddle-wharf; and then North up by the Great Wardrobe to the West End of Carter-lane. Then up Creed-lane, Ave-Mary-lane, and a Piece of Pater-noster-row; and back again up Warwick-lane, all the East Side thereof, to the Sign of the Crown by New-gate-market: And this is the farthest North Part of this Ward.

THEN out of Thames-street, are Lanes ascending North to Knightriders-street. The first is Peter-hill-lane, all of that Ward, (two Houses excepted.) The next is Paul's-wharf-hill, which crossing Knightrider's-street and Carter-lane, goes up to the South Chain of St. Paul's Church-Yard.

THEN is Addle-street, over-against the West Part of Baynard's-Castle, going up the West End of Knightriders-street, and to Carter-lane.

THUS much for Lanes out of Thames-street. The one half of the West Side of Lambart-hill-lane being of this Ward, at the North West End thereof, on the South Side, and at the West End of St. Mary Magdalen's Church. On the North Side begins Knightriders-street to be of this Ward, and runs West, on both Sides, to the Parish-Church of St. Andrew by the Wardrobe.

THEN at the said East End of St. Mary Magdalen's Church, goes up the Old-exchange; all the West Side whereof, up to the South East Gate of St. Paul's Church-Yard, and by St. Austin's Church, is of this Ward.

ABOUT the Middle of this Old-exchange, on the West Side thereof, is Carter-lane, which runs West to the East Entry of the Black-fryars, and the South End of Creed-lane. Out of which Carter-lane, descends a Lane, called Do-little-lane, and comes into Knightriders-street. And more West is Sermon-lane. Then out of Carter-lane, on the North Side thereof, the South Chain of St. Paul's Church-Yard, and the Church-Yard itself, on that South Side of St. Paul's Church, and Dean's-court, are all of this Ward; and these are the Bounds thereof.

THE Ornaments in this Ward were, of old Time, four Parish-Churches, a Castle, divers Noblemens Houses, two Halls of Companies, &c.

IN Thames-street, at the South End, was an old Messuage, antiently called Beaumont's-Inn, as belonging to that noble Family in the 4th of Edward III. Edward IV. in the 5th of his Reign, gave it to W. Hastings, Lord Chamberlain, Master of his Mints. It was afterwards called Huntington House, appertaining to the Earls of Huntington.

NEXT is St. Paul's-wharf, a large landing Place, with common Stairs upon the River of Thames, at the End of a Street called St. Paul's-wharf-hill, which runs down from St. Paul's-chain.

NEXT is a great Messuage called Scroop's-Inn, some Time belonging to the Scroops, in the 31st of Henry VI.

THEN was another great Messuage, some Time belonging to the Abbey of Fiscampe, beyond the Sea. And by Reason of the Wars, it coming to the Hands of King Edward III. the same was given to Sir Simon Burley, Knight of the Garter, and therefore called Burley House in Thames-street, between Baynard's-Castle and St. Paul's-wharf.

THEN was Baynard's-Castle, whereof this whole Ward takes Name. This Castle banked on the River Thames, and was called Baynard's-Castle, of Baynard, a Nobleman that came in with William the Conqueror: Of which Castle, and of Baynard himself, see what is already said in Book I. Chap. VIII. treating of antient Towers and Castles.

THERE was antiently a publick Laystall near this Castle, the Stink of which could not but be an Annoyance to it; which in the Reign of Queen Mary I. was removed, the Earl of Pembroke then living there. And at a Common-Council, August the 7th, in the 3d and 4th of Philip and Mary, it was agreed, at the Request of the Earl of Pembroke, that the City's Laystall adjoining to his Lordship's House, and being noisome to the same, should be removed; upon Condition, that he should give the City, toward the making of a new Laystall in another Place, 2000 Feet of hard Stone, to make the Vault and Wharf thereof; or else 40 Marks in ready Money, to buy the same Stone withal.

THERE was also another Tower by Baynard's-Castle, built by King Edward II. Edward III. in the 2d of his Reign, gave it to William Duke of Hamelake, in the County of York, and his Heirs, for one Rose yearly to be paid for all Service. The same Place was afterwards called Legates-Inn, in the 7th of Edw. IV. where now divers Wood-Wharfs are.

THEN was there a great Brewhouse, and Puddle-wharf, a Water-Gate into the Thames, where Horses use to be watered; and therefore being defiled with their Trampling, and made Puddle like; as also from one Puddle dwelling there, it was called Puddle-wharf.

THEN there is a Lane between the Black-fryars and the Thames, called in the 26th of Edward III. Castle-lane.

IN this Lane also, was one great Messuage, of Old Time, belonging to the Priory of Okeborn in Wiltshire, and was the Prior's Lodging when he repaired to LONDON: This Priory being of the French Order, was suppressed by Henry V. and with other Lands and Tenements pertaining to the said Priory, was by Henry VI. given to his College in Cambridge, called now the King's College.

ABOUT this Castle-lane was some Time a Mill, or Mills, belonging to the Templers of the New Temple, as appears on Record. For King John, in the first Year of his Reign, granted a Place in the Fleet, near to Baynard's-Castle, to make a Mill; and the whole Course of Water of the Fleet, to serve the said Mill.

ALSO in the Year 1274, the 2d of Edward I. Richard Raifon, and Atheline his Wife, did give to Nicho. de Musely, Clerk, 10 s. yearly, Free and Quit-Rent, out of all his Tenements, with the Houses thereunto built, and their Appurtenances, which they had of the Demise of the Master and Brethren of Knights Templers in England, next to their Mill of Fleet, over-against the Houses of Laurence de Brooke, in the Parish of St. Andrew, next to Baynard's-Castle; which Tenements lie between the Way leading to the said Mill on the West Part. Also in the Rights belonging to Robert Fitzwater, and to his Heirs, in the City of LONDON, in the Time of Peace, it was declared in the Year 1303, that the said Robert Castillion, of LONDON, and Banner-Bearer, had a Soke (or Ward) in the City, that was by the Wall of St. Paul, as you go down the Street before the Brewhouse of St. Paul to the Thames; and so to the Side of the Mill, which is in the Water that comes down from Fleet-bridge, and goes so by London-wall, betwixt the Fryars-Preachers Church and Ludgate; and so that Ward turned back by the House of the said Fryars, to the said common Wall of the Canonry of St. Paul's: That is all of the Parish of St. Andrew, which is the Gift of his Ancestors by Seniority.

Now here it is to be noted, that the Wall of LONDON, at that Time, went strait South from Ludgate down to the River Thames. But for Building of the Black-fryars Church, the said Wall was, by Commandment, taken down, and a new Wall was then made, strait West from Ludgate to Fleet-bridge, and then by the Water of Fleet to the River Thames, &c.

IN the Year 1307, the 35th of Edward I. in a Parliament at Carlisle, Henry Lacie, Earl of Lincoln, complained of Annoyances done to the Water of the Fleet: Whereupon it was granted that the said Mill should be removed and destroyed.

AND not only this noble Earl, but the Commoners of LONDON, and especially the Inhabitants of Holborn, were Complainants and Petitioners to the said Parliament. And the Annoyances they complained of were these: That the Course of the Water was stopp'd that ran under the Bridges of Holborn and the Fleet into the Thames: So that the Vessels that used to come up to that Part of the City, with Goods and Commodities, under Fleet-bridge, as far as Holborn-bridge, could not pass. The Cause of which Stoppage, was not only the Key belonging to the said Mills, but Filth thrown in it, &c.

THIS may more at large be understood by repeating the Record of the same, viz. "The Petition of the Commonalty of LONDON, complaining, That whereas the Course of the Water, which runs at LONDON, under the Bridge at Holborn, and the Bridge of the Fleet into the Thames, was wont to be so large and broad, and deep, that 10 or 12 Ships used to come up to the said Fleet-bridge, with divers Things and Merchandizes; and some of those Ships went under the aforefaid Holborn-bridge. Now that Course was obstructed by Filth and Inundation of Tanners, and by various other Stoppages made in the said Water; and chiefly by raising of the Key, and by diverting of the Water, which they of the New Temple had made for their Mills, without Baynard-Castle: So that the same Ships cannot come in as they were wont, and ought to do. Whereupon the Commons pray, that the Mayor taking with him the Sheriffs, and the discreeter Aldermen, view the Course of the Water; that by the View and Oath of honest and lawful Men, he cause to remove all the Annoyances of the said Water which he shall find, and to repair the aforefaid Course, and to maintain it in such a State wherein it was wont to be antiently.

To this it was answered thus: "Let Roger le Brabazon, and the Constable of the Tower of LONDON, the Mayor and Sheriffs of LONDON, be assigned, that they, taking with them certain discreeter Aldermen of LONDON, inquire by Oath, &c. how it hath been wont to be; and what Course; and let them remove the Annoyances which they find, and cause it to be maintained in the same State wherein it was accustomed to be of Old.

AND this is further explained by King Edw. I. his Patent, An. 35. to Roger de Brabanson, Ralph de Sandewye, and John le Bland, Mayor of the City, to this Tenor: "Whereas by a Complaint of some, we have heard, that the Course of the Water of Fleet under the Bridge of Holborn, running down to the Thames, as well by Dung and manifold Filth cast into the said Water, as by the Exaltation of a certain Key, by the Master and Brethren of the New Temple, LONDON, for their Mills upon the Thames, near Castel-Baignard, new made, is so stopp'd up and streightned, that Boats with Corn, Wine, Faggots, and other Necessaries, cannot pass as they were wont, by the Passage of the Course of Water, from the Thames to the said Bridge; to the no little Grievance and Annoyance of the Men that inhabit near the Fleet, and the neighbouring Parts, &c.

Mr. Prinn moved, about the Year 1668, soon after the Fire of LONDON, Whether such a Commission and Inquiry, to make this River navigable to Holborn-bridge, or Clerkenwel, would not now be seasonable; and a Work worthy to be undertaken for the publick Benefit, Trade, and Health of the City and Suburbs?

THIS Ward ascends up by the East Wall of Black-fryars, to the South West End of Creed-lane, where it ends on that Side.

The PARISH of St. BENNET at PAUL's- WHARF.

ON the North Side of Thames-street, at the West Side of St. Peter's-hill, and over-against where Huntington House stood, is seated the Parish-Church of St. Bennet at Paul's-wharf; it has sometimes been written in old Records St. Bennet Huda, or at the Hyth, and sometimes St. Bennet Wood-wharf.

THIS Church is dedicated to St. Benedikt, of whom see the Account given in Book II. Chap. VI. speaking of Bennet Fink Church. Stow gives no Account of the first Building of this Church; but Munday says, it was going to be repaired 1632. It was one of those unhappily consumed by the Fire in 1666; and was again re-edified and finished in the Year 1683, being well built of Brick and Stone, the Outsides having the Ornament of several Festoons carved in Stone round the Church.

It is of the Corinthian Order; the Roof within (which is Quadrangular) being supported by four Pillars and seven Pilasters of that Order, with their Architrave, Frieze and Cantaliver Cornice.

It is enriched within with Fret-Work, well wainscotted round eight Feet high; and on the North and West Sides are Galleries, very handsome Bolection Work, with Enrichments carved; and the Pews are also good Oak.

THE Altar-Piece is lofty, of right Wainscot, having the Commandments done in Gold, upon Black, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed in Black, on Gold; over the first of which are these Words: The Law was given by Moses. And over the other these: But Grace and Truth came by JESUS CHRIST. Between the Upper Part of the Commandments is a Seraph; and on each Side a Cherub: Over the Seraph, on a Facio-Piece is the Word JEHOVA, done in Hebrew Characters in a Glory, and above that, upon the Cornice, a Shield gilt with Gold, having a fine Compartment and Festoon; the Frieze is also well carved: And over the Arching Pediment, upon Acroters are four spacious Lamps, between which are the King's Arms carved in Relievo; and over them another (though less) Arching Pediment; all neatly carved.

DIRECTLY West from which is a curious Marble Font, adorned with Cherubims, and a little Northward from that, a very ornamental Door-Case, enriched also with Shield, Compartment, Festoons, Cherubims, &c.

HERE is also a Table of Fees for Burials, &c.

THE Length of the Body of the Church within, including the Choir, is 54 Feet, Breadth 50, Height 36; and the Steeple, which is of Brick and Stone, as the Church is, consists of a Tower, Dome and Turret, and whose Altitude is about 118 Feet.

MONUMENTS in the old Church were for,

NUMBER of Houses are 121.

To this Parish Mr. Edmund Arnold gave three Houses, which stand in Knightriders-street, two of them are the first and second of eight Tenements, called Erkenwald's Tenements; and the third is called Stone-house, with a Toft of Ground near adjoining; this held by Lease from Merton College, Oxon; the two former from the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's; which together, besides the Rents and necessary Taxes, are now worth 50 l. a Year to the said Parish.

Arnold gave these three Houses, by his last Will, dated May the 6th, 1675, to the End that the Common-Council-Men, Church-Wardens, and Overseers of the Poor, with six or eight others of the more substantial Parishioners, do yearly, out of the Profits, distribute 10 l. per Ann. to and among the Poor of the said Parish of St. Bennet's; 5 l. yearly, to the Poor of St. Mary Magdalen Old-fish-street; and with the remaining Profits yearly to put out poor Children of the said Parish of St. Bennet's, Apprentices, and for the setting them up when they come out of their Time; reserving 5 l. per Ann. for ever, to be paid to the Hospital of Bridewell, to the Use of the poor Boys, or other Children there.

THIS Gift was almost lost by some unjust Trustees, who refused to give Account of the Rents and Receipts, and Disbursements, of and about the said Premises, to the Officers of the Parish. But at length, by Pains and Industry of some, and chiefly Mr. Evan Pugh, one of the Inhabitants, they were recovered to the Parish, by a Decree in a Commission of charitable Uses. To which, when Exceptions were taken by the said Trustees in the Chancery, after three Years, and the Expence of 200 l. the said Decree was confirmed in the said Chancery.

IN this Parish of St. Bennet's, in Thames-street, stood Le Neve Inn, belonging formerly to John de Montagu, Earl of Salisbury; and after to John de Beauchamp, Knt. granted to Sir Thomas Erpingham, Knt. of Erpingham in Norfolk, and Warden of the Cinque Ports, Knight of the Garter.

WEST from this Church, by the South End of Addle-street, almost against Puddle-wharf, there was an antient Building of Stone and Timber, built by the Lords of Berkley, and therefore called Berkley's Inn. This House, in Stow's Time, was all in Ruin, and let out in several Tenements; yet the Arms of the Lord Berkley remained in the Stone Work of an arched Gate; and is between a Chevron, Crosses ten, three, three, and four.

Richard Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, was lodged in this House, then called Berkley's Inn, in the Parish of St. Andrew, in the Reign of Henry VI.

VOL. I.

The PARISH of ### St. ANDREW WARDROBE.

THE Parish-Church here is situated on the East Side of Puddle-dock-hill; it was some Time called St. Andrew Juxta Baynard's-Castle, and standing near that House which was the King's great Wardrobe, was from thence likewise called St. Andrew Wardrobe.

How long it is since a Church was first erected here, is uncertain, but it was repaired at the Charge of the Parish in the Year 1627; and had a fair Window on the South Side, with this Inscription:

This Window was glazed at the Charge of Peter Leonarts, the Elder, of East-smithfield, Brewer, Anno Dom. 1627.

BUT this Church being consumed by the Conflagration in 1666, it was again re-edified and finished in February, 1692.

AND as it was dedicated to one of the 12 Apostles, who were the Builders of the Christian Church; so this is supported by 12 Pillars of the Tuscan Order.

It is not only pleasant by its Model and the Contrivance of the Structure, but its Ornament does very much add to its Perfection. The Roof has five large Quadrangles, and in each there is a Circle, near as big as can be inscribed, of rich Fret-Work of Flowers, Fruit, &c. And over each Column is a Cherub, and each Arch, Branches of Palm, &c.

It is very well pew'd and wainscotted round seven Feet and an half high, the Pillars being cased almost to the Roof; tho' this last, and also the lower Part of the Galleries are Deal, but good Work, and painted Wainscot Colour.

THERE are two handsome Galleries, one on the North, the other on the South Sides of the Church, with very good Wainscot Fronts; that on the South is for the Parishioners (as also below) of St. Andrew's, and the North Side the Church for those of St. Ann's Black-fryars.

THE Pulpit is of right Wainscot carved, and the Sounding-Board finiered.

THE Altar-Piece is also of Wainscot, consisting of four Pilasters, with their Entablament of the Tuscan Order. The Intercolumns the Decalogue between the Pater-noster and Creed, well done in Gold Letters, upon Black; and between the Arch of the Pediment, and the Cornice is painted a Glory, with the sacred Word GOD in large Characters, Hebrew, Greek, and Latin.

AND on Acroters over each of the inner Pilasters is a Lamp with a gilded Taper; which Altar-Piece is inclosed with strong Wainscot, Rail and Ballister, and the Ground within paved with fine Black and White Marble.

HERE are also two spacious Wainscot inner Door-Cases on the North and South Sides of the Church, near the West End, and the Gates adorned with Vases.

ALSO two Tables of the Fees of each Parish, printed in a fair Character in black Frames; which shews the Dues payable (by all Parishioners particularly) for Marriages, to the Rector, Parish-Clerks, and Sexton; and also those for burying in the Church, Church-Yard and Vaults; and likewise for the Funeral Service in the Desk, the Charge of the Bell, Bearers, and Mason; and that all Strangers pay double: Which Rates are agreed on by the Rector and Church-Wardens, at a Vestry in April 1704, and entered in the Episcopal Registry of LONDON, signed

Hen. Newton Vic. Gen. Dias. Lond.

And by

Ed. Alexander Reg. Dep.

THE Church outwardly is very handsome, being built of Brick, but finished, or rendered over in Imitation of Stone. The Facio's and Corners are Stone, and very good Rustick Quions, and the Roof is covered with Lead.

THE Length of this Church is about 77 Feet, Breadth 60, and Altitude 42; and that of the square Tower about 84.

MONUMENTS.

THIS Church never had but few Monuments; among which we may venture to place that of John Wenlock, who, by his last Will, dated 1477, the 17th of Edward IV. bequeathed his Body to be buried in the Parish-Church of St. Andrew, by Baynard's-Castle, where he had ordained his Tomb and Epitaph, and a Chantry in that Church, to pray for the Soul of the Earl of Shrewsbury, and the Lady his Wife; for the Soul of John Wenlock, and Isabel his Wife, &c. He willed there should be expended upon a Tomb, near the Lady Shrewsbury, where she is buried before J. H. S. 100 l. if the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's would give Licence thereunto.

John Parut founded a Chantry there.

ON a plated Stone under the Communion-Table was this Inscription:

Hic jacet Joannes Ley, Armiger, de Comitatu Wiltz. Qui obiit 7 die Junii, Anno Domini 1604. Ætat. suæ 54.

ON the like Stone, by the other:

Hic jacet Joannes Barnard, nuper Civis & Scissor LOND. ac Alionora & Alicia, uxores ejus. Qui quidem Joannes obiit 21 die Novemb. An. Dom. 1503.

ON a fair engraven Plate, with Arms on a Pillar, in the Chancel:

The 29th Day of October, An. Dom. 1573, deceased Thomasine, the Wife of Thomas Butler, of Bewfen, in the County of Lancaster, Esq; and lyeth buried before this Pillar.

Gentleman of the Privie Chamber to King Henry VIII. the third Son of Sir Thomas Long, Knt. of Wiltshire; who married Dorothie, the Daughter of Nic. Clarke, of Weston, Esq; and Elizabeth Ramsey his Wife, sole Heire of Thomas Ramsey, of Hicham, Esq; her Father; by whom hee had Issue one Sonne and three Daughters. Hee dyed the 15th Day of April, An. Dom. 1573, leaving alive, at the Time of his Death, Elizabeth, his sole Daughter and Heire.

Nere to this Place lyeth interred the Corps of William Nicholson, some Time of Walton, in the County of Bucks, Gent. Citizen and Draper of LONDON. He had to Wife Joan, the eldest Daughter, and one of the Heires of William Company, Gent. by whom he had Issue (among divers other) these which survived; namely, Helen, first the Wife of John Minor, of LONDON, Draper; and afterward of Sir John Branch, Knt. Lord Maior of LONDON, An. Dom. 1580. And Benjamin, who deceased at Bramley in the County of Surrey; where he hath also left Issue two Sons, Robert and George. The said William Nicholson departed this Life in September, Anno Dom. 1531, being a Benefactor to this Church, and to other charitable Uses; whose Soule (we doubt not) resteth with the Lord.

NUMBER of Houses 193.

THE next Place was the King's great Wardrobe. Stow says, he has not read by whom it was first built, neither when, or for what Cause; but only that Sir John Beauchamp, Knight of the Garter, Constable of Dover, Warden of the Cinque Ports, Son to Guido de Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, built this House, and was lodged there; the House then bearing the Name of the King's Wardrobe, in the 5th of Edw. III. The said Sir John Beauchamp deceased in the Year 1359, and was buried on the South Side of the Middle Isle of St. Paul's Church. His Executors sold the House to King Edward III. to whom the Parson of St. Andrew's complaining, that the said Beauchamp had pulled down divers Houses, in their Places to build the same House, whereby he was hindered of his accustomed Tithes, paid by the Tenants of old Time; granted him 40 s. by the Year out of that House, for ever. King Richard III. was lodged there in the 2d of his Reign.

IN this House was lodged Sir John Fortescue, Knt. Master of the Wardrobe, Chancellor and Under-Treasurer of the Exchequer, and one of the Privy-Council to Queen Elizabeth. The secret Letters and Writings, touching the Estate of the Realm, were wont to be inrolled in the King's Wardrobe, and not in the Chancery, as appears by the Records, Claus. 18. E. 4. 1 Memb. 13. Claus. 33. E. 1. Memb. 3. Et liberat. 1. E. 2. Memb. 4. &c.

FROM this Wardrobe, by the West End of Carter-lane, then up Creed-lane, Ave-Mary-lane, and a Piece of Pater-noster-row, up Warwick-lane, most of the East Side is of this Ward.

TOUCHING Lanes ascending out of Thames-street, to Knightriders-street, the first is Peter's-hill; wherein is no Matter of Note, more than certain Alms-Houses, founded on the West Side thereof, by David Smith, Embroiderer, for six poor Widows, whereof each to have 20 s. by the Year.

ON the East Side of this Lane, stood a large House of antient Building, some Time belonging to the Abbot of St. Mary in York, and was his Dwelling-House when he came to LONDON.

THIS House came afterwards to the Possession of Sir Michael Hicks, Knt. Secretary to the Lord Treasurer Burghley; but since the great Fire, it was built into two fair Tenements, by Sir Will. Hicks, Bart. one whereof was lately possessed and inhabited by Sir Michael Hicks, Knt. deceased; and the other belonging to Sir Harry Hicks, Bart. after the Death of his Mother, the Lady Hicks, Widow of Sir Will. Hicks, Knt. and Bart. Son of Sir William above said.

AT the Upper End of this Lane, towards the North, the Corner Houses there are called Peter-key.

THEN is Paul's-wharf-hill, on the East Side whereof was Woodmongers-hall.

AND next adjoining was (Garter-house, so called of the Office there kept by Garter King of Heralds, and other Heralds. Called also) Darby-house, some Time belonging to the Stanleys; for Thomas Stanley, first Earl of Darby of that Name, who married the Lady Margaret, Countess of Richmond, Mother to Henry VII. in his Time built it.

QUEEN Mary gave it to Gilbert Dethick, then Garter, Principal King of Arms of Englishmen; Thomas Hauley, Clarencieux, King of Arms of the South Part; William Harvy, alias Norroy, King of Arms of the North Parts; and the other Heralds and Pursuivants of Arms, and to their Successors, all the Capital Messuage or House, called Darby-house, with the Appurtenances situate in the Parish of St. Bennet and St. Peter; then being in the Tenure of Sir Richard Sackville, Knt. and lately Parcel of the Lands of Edward Earl of Darby, &c. To the End that the said Kings of Arms, Heralds, and Pursuivants of Arms, and their Successors might (at their Liking) dwell together; and at meet Times to congregate, speak, confer and agree among themselves, for the good Government of their Faculty, and their Records might be more safely kept, &c. Dated the 18th Day of July, 1555. Philip and Mary the first and third Year.

THEN higher up, near the South Chain of St. Paul's Church-Yard was the Paul's-head Tavern. Which House, with the Appurtenances, was of old Time called Paul's Brewhouse, for that the same was so employed; but since left off, and let out.

IN the 38th of Henry III. one Will. Hilary watched the going out of John de Codrington, Clerk, being then in Bracina Sti. Pauli in Ward a Barnard Castle. When the said John was gone out, presently the said William made an Insult upon him. And, as a Clerk Convict, he was delivered to the Bishop. This Clerk was fled thither, it seems, for Sanctuary. The very Brewhouse belonging to St. Paul's Church was a Sanctuary.

ON the West Side of this Street is another great House, which did belong to St. Paul's Church, and was sometime let to the Blunts, Lords Mountjoy, but afterwards to the Head of a College at Cambridge, and then to the Doctors of the Civil Law and Arches, who keep a Commons there, and many of them being lodged together, it is called Doctors Commons, of which see more Book I. Chap. XII.

ABOVE this, on the same Side, was another great Building over-against Paul's Brewhouse; and this was called Paul's Bakehouse, and was employed in Baking of Bread for the Church of St. Paul.

Doctors Commons.

UPON

UPON Paul's-wharf-hill, within a great Gate, and belonging to that Gate next to the Doctors Commons, were many fair Tenements; which in their Leases made from the Dean and Chapter, went by the Name of Camera DIANÆ, i. e. Diana's Chamber, so denominated from a spacious Building, that in the Time of Henry II. stood where they were. In this Camera, or arched and vaulted Structure, full of intricate Ways and Windings, this Henry II. (as sometime he did at Woodstock) kept, (or was supposed to have kept) that Jewel of his Heart, fair ROSAMUND: She whom there he called Rosamundi; and here by the Name of Diana. And from hence had this House that Title.

FOR a long Time there remained some evident Testifications of tedious Turnings and Windings; as also of a Passage under Ground, from this House to Castle-Baynard. Which was, no doubt, the King's Way from thence to his Camera Dianæ, or the Chamber of his brightest Diana.

IN Addle-street, or Lane, are no Monuments.

IN Lambart-hill-lane, on the West Side thereof, is the Blacksmiths-hall; and adjoining to the North Side thereof, is one Plot of Ground, inclosed with a Brick Wall, for a Church-Yard, or burying Plot, for the Dead of St. Mary Magdalen's by Old-fish-street. Which was given to that Use by John Iwarby, an Officer in the Receipt of the Exchequer, in the 26th of Henry VI. as appeareth by Patent.

John Iwarby, &c. gave a Piece of Land lying void in the Parish of St. Mary Magdalen, nigh to Old-fish-street; between the Tenement of John Philpot, on the South, and the Tenement of Bartholomew Burwash, on the West; and the Tenement pertaining to the Covent of the Holy Well on the North, and the Way upon Lambart's-hill, on the East; for a Church-Yard to the Parson, Church-Wardens, &c.

The PARISH of St. MARY MAGDALEN in OLD FISH-STREET.

St. Mary Magdalen in Old-fish-street.

OVER against the North West End of this Lambart-hill-lane, in Knightriders-street, is the Parish Church of St. Mary Magdalen, or Maudlin.

THE Saint to whom this Church is dedicated, was so named either from the Town of Magdala, wherein she was born, or bred up, or from the Hebrew Word Magdal, signifying a Tower or Castle.

THERE is often Mention made of her in the Evangelical History: As, how Christ cast out of her seven Devils, and how she followed Christ, ministering unto him out of her Means, Luke viii. 2. How with her Tears, she standing at his Feet behind him, washed his Feet, and with the Hair of her Head wiped them, and kissing them, anointed them with her Ointment, whereupon Christ seeing her Faith, told her, That her Sins were forgiven, and bade her go in Peace; at which Simon the Pharisee (in whose House they were) was offended, because she was a Sinner, which Christ denied not, yet commended her Piety and Zeal towards him, Luke vii. 37. Matth. xxvi. 6.

SHE beheld Christ crucified, Matth. xxvii. 56. And after the Sabbath, she was one of the First, that with her Ointment, betimes in the Morning, hastned to the Sepulchre, Matth. xxviii. 1.

Mark xvi. 1. Luke xxi. 1, &c. Unto her, first of all, Christ after his Resurrection manifested himself, Mark xvi. 9.

CONCERNING Mary Magdalen, there hath been much Debate among the learned Men, whether she was the Sister of Lazarus and Martha, called Mary, or not, some of the Greek Church denying it, and those of the Latin Church affirming it; some pretend there were two, others three Mary Magdalens.

THE three several pretended Mary Magdalens are these; First, The Woman called, a Sinner; who in the Pharisee's House in Naim, washed Christ's Feet with her Tears, wiped them with her Hair, kissed and anointed them, Luke vii. 37. The Second, Mary Magdalen, out of whom Christ cast seven Devils, Luke viii. 2. The Third, Mary, the Sister of Lazarus and Martha, which Lazarus Christ raised from the Dead, and which Mary was the same Woman that anointed the Lord with Ointment, and wiped his Feet with her Hair, John xi. 2. This is the Opinion of Faber Stapulensis, and others. But the greatest Part of learned Writers affirm generally, That there was but one Mary Magdalen, and this is the general Tenet of the Church, and that was she, who was Sister to Lazarus and Martha, out of whom Christ cast seven Devils.

VARIOUS are the Relations concerning this Holy Woman: Therefore the Advice of Cardinal Baronius is, To observe the Apostle's Precept herein, viz. Prove all Things, hold fast that which is good.

As to the Time of her Death, some say she died Anno Christi 62. Others 80, Aged 80 Years. And as to the Place of her Death and Burial, some say she being dead, was buried in a City, in France, called Civitas Aquensis (now Ays, or D'ax) in Gascoigne; which being afterwards destroyed by the Sarazens, her Body was then translated by Gerard, Earl of Burgundy, to the Monastery of Vicolincum by him erected, and there interr'd. Others write, That her Body resteth at Ephesus. But others report, That the Body of Lazarus and Mary Magdalen were translated from Cyprus to Constantinople, and there interr'd in the Church of St. Lazarus, erected by the Emperor Leo, Son of Basilus.

BUT her Legend runs thus, Mary Magdalen, with her Brother Lazarus, her Sister, and many others after Christ's Ascension, were put out to Sea in a Ship without Sail, which brought them to Marseilles, in France, whereof Lazarus became Bishop, and Magdalen retiring herself into a Wilderness, lived there privately and devoutly 30 Years, and then died in a Cave, where she had seated herself from the Concourse of People, her Soul being taken up into Heaven.

HER Festival is yearly celebrated on July 22.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified, at the Charge of the Parish, Anno Domini 1630, the Charge amounting to 140*l.* but being burnt in the Fire of LONDON in the Year 1666, it was rebuilt and finished in 1685.

It is mostly built of Stone, with Rail and Baluster round the Outside in lieu of Battlements; the Roof is hipt and covered with Lead, and there is a handsome Stone Tower; but the Foundation thereof, is Brick, which is one Reason why they do not store it with more Bells; the Inside of the Roof is square, the Floor is paved with Stone, and there are three Isles; the small Pillars that support the Galleries are of the Composite Order.

THIS Ornament and Finishing: In the Roof within, is a Quadrangle of Cantaliever Cornice; also Arches and Escutcheons, Volutes, and Leaves, of Fretwork; and the Windows outward are Stone, enrich'd with Cherubims, Cartouches, and Leaves cut in Relief.

Two neat Wainfcot Galleries on the West and North Sides, with Bolection Work, Fronts, enrich'd with Fruit and Leaves, over the North Gallery, are the King's Arms, carved, gilt, and painted, placed on a Pedestal, with a Cherubim and Festoon of Fruit.

THE Church is substantially pewed and wain-scotted with Oak, about 12 Feet high; also two good wainfcotted Door-Cafes.

THE Pulpit is curious Workmanship of right Oak, having Enrichments of Cherubims, Shields, Festoons, Fruit, Leaves, and Vases.

THE Altar-Piece is of the same Species of Timber, adorned with two Columns of the Corinthian Order, fluted, with their Entablature and Compass Pediment: On the Cornice are two Lamps, and two more between them placed on Acroters over the Columns. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue, and the Extracolumns, the Creed, and Lord's Prayer, all finely done in Gold Letters and Flourishes, on Black, over which is a Cherubim; and above the Cornice, but under the large Pediment, is a Glory; the Whole being enrich'd with Variety of Fruit, Flowers, Leaves, Branches of Palm; and over the Lord's Prayer and Creed are two Shields, each under a small arched Pediment; and the Communion-Table rests on a Foot-Pace of Black and White Marble, inclosed with Rail and Ballister.

THE Font is placed directly West from the Altar; it has Enrichments of Cherubims, a Crown, and these Arms:

A Cross between four Bucks Trippant, borne on a Lozenge.

MONUMENTS in the old Church were for,

Richard Woodroffe, Merchant-Taylor, 1519.

Barnard Randolph, Esq; 1583.

ON a very antient Tomb, in the North Isle of the Choir, was this Inscription:

Hoc

24th of December, in the Year 1565, by a Tempest of Wind, these Gates were blown open, and the Bars, Bolts, and Locks, broken asunder, or greatly bent.

At each Corner of this West End was a strong Tower of Stone, made for Bell-Towers, one of them, viz. that next the Bishop's Palace, was used by the Palace in Stow's Time; and the other, towards the South, was called the Lollards Tower, and used as the Bishop's Prison, for such as were detected for Opinions in Religion contrary to the Faith of the Church.

The Lollards
Tower.

It was in this Lollards Tower that Richard Hunne, a Citizen of LONDON, A. D. 1515, a Man of a fair Character, and well beloved, was made Prisoner, on Pretence of having Wickliffe's Bible; but, indeed, the Occasion of his Ruin was a Dispute he had with a Clerk about a Mortuary, which was made the Cause of the whole Clergy; he submitted to the Bishop's Correction, upon which he ought to have been enjoined Penance, and set at Liberty; but he was found hanged in his Chamber, and his Neck broken; which Murder, the Bishop's Sumner, own'd that he, and the Chancellor, Dr. Horsley, and the Bell-Ringer, had committed: And when the Coroner's Inquest proceeded to Trial, the Bishop began a new Process against the dead Body for Heresy, which, not contented to have murder'd, they afterwards burnt in Smithfield. See more of this Tower in Foxe's Martyrology.

THE last Prisoner, whom Stow says he remember'd to be committed there, was, in the Year 1573, one Peter Burchet, a Gentleman of the Middle Temple, for having desperately wounded, and designing to murder John Hawkings, Esq; in the High Street, near the Strand; who being taken and examined, was found to hold certain erroneous Opinions, and therefore committed thither, and convicted: But in the End, by Permission, he promised to abjure his Heresies, and was, by Commandment of the Council, removed from thence to the Tower of LONDON.

The PARISH of St. GREGORY by St. PAUL's.

ADJOINING to the Lollards Tower, was the Parish-Church of St. Gregory, appointed to the Petty Canons of St. Paul's.

St. Gregory, surnamed the Great, to whom this Church was dedicated, was by Nation a Roman, by Art a Philosopher, Son of Gordian, a Man of Quality, and the blessed Silura, or Silvia, his Wife. He was at first a Monk, and a Deacon under Pelagius II, his Predecessor. He, being a very learned and studious Man, was created, (though unwillingly) the 66th Bishop of Rome, Anno Christi 590, being the first Pope of that Name. He was of so meek a Spirit, as that he ordained, That both he himself, and his Successors, Bishops of Rome, should from thence forward be stiled Servi Servorum Dei, which Title the Popes continue to this Day. He condemned the Stile of Universal Patriarch, (or Bishop) which John, Bishop of Constantinople, assumed to himself, as a proud, diabolical, and profane Title.

He erected six Monasteries out of the Estate his Father left him, and dedicated his House at Rome to a Religious Use. He was termed Magnus, both for the extraordinary Matters performed by him, as also for his Learning.

THIS holy Pope sent Augustin the Monk, and other pious and learned Men, into this our Country, to convert the English or Saxon Nation to the Christian Faith, which in some Measure they did; which Augustine was the first Archbishop of Canterbury, that Archiepiscopal See being, by his Procurement, translated thither from LONDON, where it had been all along before that Time.

THIS Pope Gregory was the Author of many Ecclesiastical Ceremonies and Rites of the Church. He instituted the Litanies in Time of great Mortality, reformed the Church, where Need was; suppressed Simony; stoutly reprov'd the Emperor Mauritius upon just Cause: Tho' afterwards he played the Politician with the said Mauritius his Preserver, and graced too much the Traitor Phocas, who slew him. He wrote divers pious and learned Works extant in Print. He is by some termed the last good and first bad Pope of Rome. He died 4 Id. Mar. An. Chr. 604, and the second of Phocas the Emperor, having sat 13 Years, six Months, and 10 Days. His Festival is observed March 12, and his Life is written at large by most, who have written the Lives of the Saints, or of the Bishops and Popes of Rome.

BESIDES this Gregory, there were others of that Name, antient Fathers of the Church, as Gregory Nazianzen, Gregory Nissen, Gregory Thaumatergus, &c. But this Gregory the Great is reputed to be the Patron of the Churches dedicated to his Name.

THIS Parish-Church was very antient; for it is said, that the Body of Edmund, King of the East Angles, who was martyr'd by the Danes about the Year 870, when it was caused by Alwyne, Bishop of Helmham, to be brought up to LONDON from St. Edmond's Bury, rested for the Space of three Years in the Parish-Church of St. Gregory, near the Cathedral Church of St. Paul.

IN this Church was a Chantry, and in the same Parish was a Messuage and Tenement, called Holmes College, given for the Maintenance of the said Chantry. King Edward VI. alienated it to John Hulfon, and Will. Pendred, 2 Edward VI.

THE Church was repaired within and without, and every Part of it richly and very worthily beautified, at the proper Cost and Charges of the Parishioners, in the Years of our Lord God 1631, and 1632, at the Expence of 2000 l. and upwards; but being consumed in the Fire of LONDON, was not rebuilt; but the Parish, by Act of Parliament, was annexed to St. Mary Magdalen in Old-fish-street.

MONUMENTS in the Old Church were as follow:

ON a plated Stone by the Communion-Table was this Inscription:

Alicia Barvis, Relicta Johannis Barvis, Civis ac Minutarii Londinensis, posuit defuncto.

Debita peccati

ON a Monument close by the other, at the same End of the Church :

Here lyeth Martha Forthe, sometime Wife to Robert Forthe, Doctor of Law ; with whom she lived very comfortably in true Marriage, a most faithful and loving Wife, the Space of 24 Yeeres and 5 Moneths. She lived virtuously and modestly, and beloved of all that did know her ; and dyed in sound Faith, and in the Feare of God, the 26th Day of November, An. Dom. 1589, in the 45th Yeere of her Age, in constant Hope of a joyfull Resurrection, with the elect Children of Almighty God.

ON another adjoining :

Memoriæ Sacrum.

Edwardo Baker, Armig. Regiæ Majestatis ad causas Ecclesiasticas Registrario principali, viro eximia eruditione, prudentia singulari, moribus probatissimis, & in publicis negotiis plurimum versato. Qui longo morbo intabescens, certa spe in Christo resurgendi, pie placideque animam Deo reddidit, die 26 Maii, An. Dom. M.D.C.II.

ON a Monument in the South Wall of the Chancel :

Here lyeth intombed the Body of Mary, late Wife of Thomas Sandys, Esquire, and only Daughter to Sir Stephen Thorneburst, Knight, and Dame Sybill his Wife. Whose Soule departed this Life unto Christ, the last Day of July, in the Yeere of our Redemption, 1598, and in the One and Twentieth Yeere of her Age. In Remembrance of whose Piety and singular Vertues, the eternall Love of her Husband hath caused this Monument to be erected.

In Heaven her Soule,
In me her Love,
her body resteth here,
Which is to God,
Was to the World,
to me her Husband, deare.

ON a Monument at the West End of the Chancel :

Hereunder resteth Arthur Medlycote, Citizen and Merchant-Taylor of LONDON ; Sonne of Richard Medlycote, of Shrewsbury, Gentleman, with Elizabeth his Wife, Daughter of John Philips. The said Arthur, in assured Hope to be with Christ, ended this transitory Life the Seven and Twentieth Day of July, Anno Dom. 1605. And the said Elizabeth, the Eighteenth Day of October, 1605.

ON another at the same End :

Here lyeth Dorothie, Daughter of John Theobald, the Elder, of Shepie, in the County of Kent, Esq; She first married John Croke, Doctor of Law ; by whom shee had onely Dorothie, first Wife to Robert Honeywood, Esq; Secondly, to Ralph Allen, Alderman of LONDON. Thirdly to the most Reverend, Excellent, and Learned Judge, Sir Roger Manwood, Knt. Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer ; by whom she had Issue John and Thomas, who dyed young. Margerie, the first Wife of Sir John Lewson, Knt. and Anne, first Wife to Sir Percival Hart, Knt. and Sir Peter Manwood, Knight of the Bath.

She dyed the 14th Day of September, Anno Domini 1575. To whose Reverend Memory, the said Sir Peter Manwood hath dutifully erected this Monument, Anno Dom. 1606.

NEAR the last mention'd, on a small Monument, was this Inscription :

Gulielmi Coci hoc Tumulo

NUMBER of Houses 300.

THE rest of that South Side of St. Paul's Church, with the Chapter-House, (a beautiful Piece of Work, built about the Reign of Edward III.) was defaced, Stow says, in his Time, by Means of Licences granted to Cuttlers, Budget-makers, and others, first to build low Sheds, but now high Houses, which hide that beautiful Side of the Church, save only the Top and South Gate.

ON the North West Side of this Church-Yard was the Bishop's Palace, a large Thing for Receipt, wherein divers Kings have been lodged, and great Household hath been kept; as appears by the great Hall; which, after the Rebatement of Bishops Livings, was not furnished, as was meant by the Builders thereof, and was of old Time used.

IN the Year 1546, the Admiral of France, the French Ambassador, lodged here; and before that, here Edward V. took up his Lodging when he was brought to LONDON to take Possession of the Crown; and under King Edw. VI. the Scotch Queen was here entertained.

THE Dean's Lodging on the other Side, directly against the Palace, was a fair old House; and also divers large Houses were on the same Side built; which, of old Time, were the Lodgings of Prebendaries and Residentiaries, who kept great Households, and liberal Hospitality, but now decayed, and otherwise converted.

THEN was Stationers Hall on the same Side, built for them in the Place of Peter College: Where, in the Year 1549, the 4th Day of January, six Men were slain by the Fall of Earth upon them, digging for a Well. Afterwards Stationers Hall was in Amen-lane, at the End of Pater-noster-row,

THE present State of this Ward stands thus:

AS to the Places of Note in this Ward, we shall begin with the South Part next the Thames, and Thames-street, with the Lanes, Hills, and Courts that fall into the said Street; as Lambeth, or Lambart-hill, St. Peter's-hill, St. Bennet's-hill, Addle-hill, and Puddle-dock-hill; then with Knightriders-street, Carter-lane, Creed-lane, Ave-mary-lane, and Warwick-lane.

ON the Banks of the River Thames, are the Wharfs of Puddle-dock, used for a Laystall for the Soil of the Streets, and much frequented by Barges and Lighters, for taking the same away; as also for landing of Corn, and other Goods.

Paul's-wharf, or St. Bennet Paul's-wharf, a noted Stairs for Watermen; and on each Side of the Stairs is a very handsome House, one made Use of by a Brewer, and the other for a Timber-Yard.

Baynard's-Castle, which gives Name to the Ward, was seated on the Bank of the River Thames, but had its Entrance out of Thames-street; which being all burnt down, except a little Tower next the Water-Side, in the Conflagration of LONDON, 1666, was converted into Buildings and Wharfs, as now it is. Hereabouts, where antiently stood divers Noblemens Houses fronting the Thames, are now generally Wharfs, Dyehouses, and Brewhouses.

Castle-street, seated near to Paul's-wharf, a good broad Street, which falls down to the Thames, meanly inhabited, and of no great Account.

Westward from Castle-street are Common-lane, and Dunghill-lane, both which run down to the Thames; and beyond Puddle-dock is Queen's-college-yard, and Bristol-street; both which fall into Duke Humphrey's; all Places of ordinary Account. It has a Passage into Puddle-dock, and another into Black-fryars.

Thames-street begins at Puddle-dock, and runs Eastward to the Tower, which is above a Mile in Length, but is in several Wards, as has been taken Notice of. It is a Street, especially Eastward, of very good Trade, and inhabited by great Dealers; besides the Dyers, Brewers, Woodmongers, and Timber-Yards, on the South Side, next the Thames: And by Reason thereof, and of the several Keys and Wharfs, it is much pestered with Carts, for lading and un-lading of Goods.

Great Rutland-court, indifferent large and good, has a Passage up Steps into Church-bill-alley.

Lambart-hill has but a small Part in this Ward, viz. on the West Side, from a little beyond Green-dragon-court to the Corner of Old-fish-street, over-against St. Mary Magdalen's Church; all the rest is in Queen-bitch Ward: But in this Ward here is St. Mary Magdalen's Church-Yard, being the Place for the Burial of the Dead of that Parish. Here is Crane-court, which is long, and has a Passage into St. Peter's-hill, with a Free-Stone Pavement, but the Houses are indifferent.

St. Peter's-hill, well built and inhabited, especially the End next to Old-fish-street. On this Hill are Alms-Houses for six poor Widows, built by David Smith, Embroiderer to Queen Elizabeth, and called Embroiderers Alm-Houses, each having two Rooms, endowed with 3*l.* per Ann. After the Fire of LONDON, these Alms-Houses were rebuilt by Sir Tho. Fitch, Knt. and Bart. some Time a Bricklayer, deceased. On the West Side is the Back-Part of the Heralds-Office, with a Door leading into it.

St. Bennet's-hill, or Paul's-wharf-hill, takes its Rise out of Thames-street, and runs up to Paul's-chain into St. Paul's Church-Yard. It is a Place much pestered with Carts to the Wharfs, which makes it not so well inhabited as otherwise it would.

THE Church of St. Bennet's is seated at the Bottom of the Hill; it was consumed in the Fire of LONDON, and is now rebuilt better than before; and to this Parish is united St. Peter Paul's-wharf, which Church is not rebuilt.

THIS Place is of Note, and well resorted to, by Reason of Doctors-commons, and the Heralds-Office there seated. The former on the West Side, possessed by the Doctors, and others professing the Civil Law, and practising it here.

It is a large and well built House, with several open Courts, where the Civilians have their Apartments, and where they keep their Courts for the Hearing of Causes, viz. in their Publick Hall, which is large for that Purpose. Of this Doctors-commons we have already spoken. Out of this Place is a Back-Door into Knightriders-street.

THE Heralds-Office, or College of Heralds, is seated on the East Side. This Office was burnt down in the Fire of LONDON, but now rebuilt, and far better than before, being now built into a fair, uniform, quadrangular Court, containing their Hall and Apartments for the several Members of this learned Society.

Addle-hill comes out of Carter-lane, and runs down to Thames-street, leaving Knightriders-street on the East Side, and Church-hill-alley on the West; which said Alley, with a turning Passage by St. Andrew's Wardrobe Church, falls into Puddle-dock. The Houses are only on the South Side, the North lying open to the Church and Church-Yard; and in this Alley is Crown-court, which is indifferent good. Adjoining to this Church was the King's great Wardrobe, as being formerly employed for that Use. The Garden is converted into a large and square Court, with good Houses, and called Wardrobe-court.

St. Andrew Wardrobe Church was destroyed in the Conflagration of LONDON, and since, it is very handsomely rebuilt, being a very fair Church; and to this the Parish of St. Anne Blackfryars is united, this Church serving for both Parishes.

ON the West Side of Addle-hill, is White-bear-court, very large, containing two or three Courts all of that Name; but all very ordinary, and meanly built and inhabited. Out of this Place is a Passage up Steps into Church-hill-alley; and another down Steps into Great Rutland-court. Likewise on this Hill are three small and ordinary Places, viz. Rose-court, White-horse-court, and Cock-and-hoop-court.

Knightriders-street, of which there is the Great and the Little, being severed from each other by St. Bennet's-hill and Paul's-chain: The Less running towards Old-fish-street, and the Greater towards St. Andrew Wardrobe Church. And this Street is wider, better built and inhabited than the Little, that is, by Proctors, and such as have Dependance on Doctors-commons. Out of this Street is a Passage into Carter-lane, thro' Bell-yard, which is a very good open Court, with handsome Houses, well inhabited.

Little Knightriders-street, but narrow, and not over well inhabited, especially the End next to Paul's-chain.

OVER-against Lambart-hill, in the Passage to the Old-change, is the Parish-Church of St. Mary Magdalen Old-fish-street.

A little Westward from this Church is Do-little-court.

Sermon-lane; this Lane also falls into Carter-lane, and is of no great Account, either for Inhabitants or Buildings.

Carter-lane, of which there is the Great and the Little. The Little comes out of the Old-change, and falls into Great Carter-lane, but severed by Paul's-chain, and thence runs Westward to Puddle-dock and Creed-lane.

Great Carter-lane is the broadest, best built and inhabited; and in both these Lanes are these Court, viz. Scallop-court, which has a Passage of Free-Stone Pavement into Creed-lane. Dean's-court, which will be mentioned hereafter. Wardrobe-court and Bell-yard, already mentioned. Mermaid-Inn, large, and of a good Trade. King's-head-court, indifferent large, with a Passage into St. Paul's Church-Yard. And within this Court is another, bearing the Name of Red-lion-court, handsome, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Black-swan-court, indifferent good, also has a Passage into St. Paul's Church-Yard. Saracen's-head Inn, of a good Trade.

Old-change has only the West Side from St. Mary Magdalen's Church to St. Austin's Gate, in this Ward; so that there is little to say of it, more than what is said of it in Faringdon Ward Within.

Paul's-chain begins at the Corner of Knightriders-street, and runs up to St. Paul's Church-Yard. A Street large and open, well built, and inhabited by Proctors and Tradesmen; and by Reason of its near Situation to Doctors-commons, is of great Resort.

Paul's-bakehouse, now a good square Court, with four handsome large Houses, especially two, which are well inhabited. At the East Corner of this Street, next to Little Carter-lane, is kept the Faculty-Office, for the granting of Licences for Marriages, &c.

THE Part or Side of St. Paul's Church-Yard in this Ward, all lies open to St. Paul's; and is a spacious Street, graced with good Houses, loftily built and uniform, well inhabited by Woollen-Drapers; with a Mixture of them that make and sell Cane-Chairs, and some Cabinet and Looking-Glass-Sellers.

IN this Row of Building, which reaches from St. Austin's Gate to Ludgate-hill, are these Courts, besides those already taken Notice of. In Carter-lane, Dean's-court, by many called the Prerogative-court; for that the Prerogative Office is here kept. In which said Court is a very large House, built by Sir Joseph Sheldon, and now the Seat of the Deans of St. Paul's successively. This Court is open and airy, and has a Passage into Great Carter-lane. More towards Ludgate-hill, and almost in the South West Corner, is a new Court called St. Paul's-college, made Use of for the Singing Men belonging to St. Paul's Cathedral.

St. Gregory's, seated by the South West End of St. Paul's. It was destroyed by the great Fire, and is not rebuilt, that the Ground on which it stood might lie open to St. Paul's Church-Yard, and the Parish is united to St. Mary Magdalen Old-fish-street.

ON the North West Side was the Bishop of LONDON's Palace, long since converted into Tenements, now called The Bishop of London's-Yard. The Ground-Rents are the Bishop's.

Paul's-alley has a Free-Stone Pavement, and serves as a Passage into Pater-noster-row.

Creed-lane and Warwick-lane, have the East Sides in this Ward; for the Account whereof, and for the Market, Part of which stands here, see Faringdon Ward Within. On this Side is the Bell-Inn, chiefly used by Market People. Over-against the College of Physicians, is Crown-court, which is but small and ordinary.

THERE are to watch at the several Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Constable, with the Beadle and 24 Watchmen.

THE Jurymen returned by the Inquest for this Ward, are to serve in the several Courts at Guildhall, in the Month of September.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman, his Deputy, 10 Common-Council-Men, 10 Constables, seven Scavengers, 14 Wardmote Inquest-Men, and a Beadle.

It is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON, at 12 l. in the Exchequer 11 l. 13 s.

THE Alderman of this Ward is John Barber, Esq;

C H A P. XII.

F A R I N G D O N W A R D Without.

THE farthest West Ward of this City, being the 25th Ward of LONDON, but without the Walls, is called Faringdon Without, and was of old Time Part of the other Faringdon Within, until the 17th of Richard II, in which it was divided, and made two; by the Names of Faringdon infra, and Faringdon extra, as is afore shewed.

THE Bounds of which Ward, without Newgate and Ludgate, are these:

First, On the East Part thereof, is the whole Precinct of the late Priory of St. Bartholomew; and a Part of Long-lane, on the North, towards Aldersgate-street; and all Smithfield, to the Bars in St. John-street.

THEN out of Smithfield, Chicken-lane, towards Turnmill-street. Then back again by the Pens or Folds in Smithfield to Cow-lane, which turns towards Holbourn; and then Hosier-lane out of Smithfield; also toward Holbourn, till it meets with a Part of Cow-lane.

THEN Cock-lane, out of Smithfield, over-against Pie-corner. Then also is Giltspur-street, out of Smithfield to Newgate. Then from Newgate, West by St. Sepulchre's Church, to Turnagain-lane. Then to Holbourn Conduit, on Snow-hill, to Holbourn-bridge, up Holbourn-hill, to the Bars, on both Sides.

ON the Right Hand, or North Side, at the Bottom of Holbourn-hill, is Gold-lane, some Time a filthy Passage into the Fields; now both Sides built with small Tenements.

THEN higher is Lither-lane, turning also to the Fields, and so to the Bar.

NOW, on the Left Hand, or South Side from Newgate, lieth a Street called the Old Baily; this stretches down by the Wall of the City to Ludgate. On the West Side of which Street, breaks out another Lane, called St. George's-lane, till you come unto the South End of Seacoal-lane; and then, turning towards Fleet-street, it is called Fleet-lane.

THE next out of the High Street from Newgate, turning down South, is called the Little Baily, and runs down to the East of St. George's-lane.

THEN is Seacoal-lane, which turns down into Fleet-lane.

NEAR unto this Seacoal-lane, in the Turning towards Holbourn Conduit, is another Lane, called in Record, Wind-again-lane, for that it turned down to Turnmill-brook, and from thence back again, for there was no Way over.

THEN beyond Holbourn-bridge, to Shoe-lane, which runs out of Holbourn, unto the Conduit in Fleet-street.

THEN also is Fewtars, now called Fetter-lane, which likewise stretches South into Fleet-street, by the East End of St. Dunstan's Church; and from this Lane to the Bars, are the Bounds without Newgate.

NOW, without Ludgate, this Ward runs up from the said Gate to Temple-bar, and hath on the Right Hand, or North Side, the South End of the Old Baily. Then down Ludgate-hill to Fleet-lane, over Fleet-bridge, and by Shoe-lane, and Fewtars-lane, and so to New-street or Chancery-lane, and up that Lane to the House of the Rolls. Which House is also of this Ward. And on the other Side, to a Lane over-against the Rolls, which formerly enter'd Ficquete's Field.

THEN hard by the Bar, is another Lane, called Shire-lane, because it divides the City from the Shire; and this turn'd into Ficquete's Field.

FROM Ludgate again, on the Left Hand, or South Side, to Fleet-bridge, to Bride-lane, which runs South by Bridewell; then to Water-lane, which runs down to the Thames.

THEN by the White-fryars, and by the Temple, even to the Bar aforesaid, are the Bounds of this Faringdon-Ward Without.

IN these Parts from Ludgate, and so Westward, the City, in the Saxon Times, was chiefly situate, and more thinly built; where now the City especially stands. This appears from what Fabian found in a very old Record, called Doomsday, belonging to the City: Who writes in his Chronicle, that in King Egelred's, or Ethelred's Reign, which began in the Year 981, (or 978, according to Stow) LONDON had most Houses or Buildings from Ludgate towards Westminster, and little or none where the Chief or Heart of the City now is, except in divers Places, but they stood without Order; so that many Towns and Cities, as Canterbury, York, and others, passed LONDON in Building in those Days, as he saith, he had seen and known by an old Book in the Guild-hall of LONDON, named Doomsday. But after the Conquest it increas'd, and shortly surpass'd and excelled all the others.

TOUCHING Ornaments and Antiquities in this Ward: First, betwixt the said Newgate, and the Parish of St. Sepulchre's, is a Way towards Smithfield, called Giltspur, or Knightriders-street, of the Knights, and others, riding that Way into Smithfield; replenished with Buildings on both Sides, up to Pie-corner, a Place so called of such a Sign, some Time a fair Inn for the Receipt of Travellers, but now divided into Tenements. And over-against the said Pie-corner, lieth Cock-lane, which runs down to Holbourn Conduit.

BEYOND this Pie-corner, lies West Smithfield, compassed about with Buildings. As, first, on the South Side, on the Right Hand, stands the Parish-Church, and large Hospital of St. Bartholomew, founded by Rayhere, the first Prior of St. Bartholomew's, thereto near adjoining, in the Year 1102. Of this Hospital see more, Book I, Chap. XIV.

The P A R I S H of St. BARTHOLOMEW the Less.

THIS Church, (which was the Chapel of the Hospital) upon the Suppression, remained a Parish-Church for the Tenants, dwelling within the Precincts of the said Hospital, and is now called Little St. Bartholomew's: It is a Vicarage, Vicarage, subject to the Archdeacon in Subordination to the Bishop; and the Patrons are the Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of the City of LONDON, Governors of the Hospital for the Poor, called Little St. Bartholomew's, near to West Smithfield, of the Foundation of King Henry VIII.

Jan. 13, 38 Hen. VIII, there was an Agreement made between that King, and the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON, dated December 27, by which (inter alia) the Vicar of this Church was to have 13 l. 6 s. 8 d.

THIS Church is an old Gothick Building of Brick and Boulder, render'd over with Finishing, but it is handfomely pewed with Oak; and there is a spacious Door-case at the West End, with Pilasters of the Ionick Order, adorned with Cherubims, &c.

THE Altar-piece has the Commandments, Lord's Prayer, and Creed, in Carved Frames, done in Gold Letters upon Black, adorned with a Seraphim, two Cherubims, Cornice and two Lamps carved, as the King's Arms are above that, and the same is painted in the Glass a little higher in the Window, on the North Side, whereof are the Arms of LONDON, under which is this Date, 1619; and on the South Side thereof this Coat (the Arms of the House.)

Party per Pale Argent, and Sable, a Chevron counterchanged.

ALL which Altar-piece is inclosed with Rail and Ballister, the Floor paved with black and white Marble, and the Communion-Table is of Cedar.

THE Length of the Church is 99 Feet, Breadth 42, (except in the Chancel, which is more than answer'd by the Chapel on the North Side of this Church where the poor lame People sit) greatest Altitude about 34 Feet, and of the Tower 70 Feet, wherein are three Bells.

MONUMENTS in St. Bartholomew's Church, of the Dead, and Benefactors thereunto, are these:

Elizabeth, Wife to Adam Hone, Gentleman.

Bartilmew Bildington.

Jane, Wife to John Cook.

Dame Alice, Wife to Sir Richard Isham.

field ; Tart's-court ; Part of Duck-lane ; Part of Little-britain, King-street, Peterborough-court,

NUMBER of Houses 143.

ON the East Side of this Hospital lies Duke- lane, (now called Duck-lane) which runs out of Smithfield South to the North End of Little- britain-street.

The P R I O R Y of
St. B A R T H O L O M E W.

ON the East Side of this Duck-lane, and also of Smithfield, lay the Priory of St. Bartholomew, founded also by Raybere, a witty Gentleman, and therefore in his Time the King's Minstrel, about A. D. 1102. He founded it in a Part of the Moorish Ground, which has been spoken of before, and which was a common Laystall of all Filth that was to be voided out of the City. He placed Canons there, and became himself their first Prior, and so continued till his dying Day, and was there buried in a handsome Monument, which Stow says, in his Time, was lately renewed by Prior Bolton.

By a great Gate in the said Duck-lane, we enter into a spacious Court, inhabited, belonging to the said Hospital, called Bartholomew-close. On the East Part thereof, is a late built Court, with fair Brick Buildings, called Queen's-court: At the Upper End thereof, East, is a Picture of the late Queen ANNE, in full Proportion. This Court was built Anno 1708. There are also two or three narrow Passages from this Close into Aldersgate-street.

AMONGST other memorable Matters touching this Priory, one is an Archbishop's Visitation, which Matthew Paris has thus:

“ Boniface (saith he) Archbishop of Canterbury, in his Visitation, came to this Priory, where, being received with Procession in the most solemn wise, he said, That he passed not upon the Honour, but came to visit them. To whom the Canons answered, That they having a learned Bishop, ought not, in Contempt of him, to be visited by any other. Which Answer so much offended the Archbishop, that he forthwith fell on the Sub-Prior, and smote him on the Face, saying, Indeed, indeed, Doth it become you English Traitors so to answer me? Thus raging, with Oaths not to be recited, he rent in Pieces the rich Cope of the Sub-Prior, and trod it under his Feet, and thrust him against a Pillar of the Chancel with such spiritual Violence, that he had almost killed him: But the Canons seeing their Sub-Prior thus almost slain, came and plucked off the Archbishop with such Force, that they overthrew him backwards, whereby they might see that he was armed, and prepared to fight. The Archbishop's Men seeing their Master down, being all Strangers, and their Master's Countrymen, born at Provence, fell upon the Canons, beat them, tore them, and trod them under Foot. At length, the Canons getting away as well as they could, ran bloody and miry, rent and torn, to the Bishop of LONDON, to complain; who bade them go to the King at Westminster, and tell him thereof. Whereupon, four of them went thither, the rest were not able, they were so fore hurt. But when they came to Westminster, the King would neither hear nor see them; so they returned without Redress. In the mean Season, the whole City was in an Uproar, and ready to have rung the common Bell, and to have hewed the Archbishop into small Pieces, who was secretly crept to Lambeth, where they sought him; and not knowing him by Sight, said to themselves, Where is this Russian, that cruel Smiter? He is no Winner of Souls, but an Extracter of Money, whom neither God, nor any lawful or free Election did bring

“ to this Promotion. But the King did unlawfully intrude him, being unlearned, a Stranger born, and having a Wife, &c. But the Archbishop conveyed himself over, and went to the King with a great Complaint against the Canons, whereas himself was guilty.

THIS Priory of St. Bartholomew was again new built in the Year 1410.

Bolton was the last Prior of this House, a great Builder there; for he repaired the Priory Church, with the Parish-Church adjoining; the Offices and Lodgings to the said Priory belonging, and near adjoining. Part of this old Priory-House is now standing; in the Walls of which, in many Places; is a Rebus, on his Name, viz. a Bolt and a Ton; it was not long since inhabited by Mr. Palmer, a Printer, deceased, and Mr. James, a Letter-Founder, still living there. He likewise new built the Manor of Canonbury, at Islington, which belonged to the Canons of this House, and is situate in a low Ground, somewhat North from the Parish Church there. But he built no House at Harrow-on-the-hill, as Edward Hall has written, following a Fable then on Foot.

THE People (says he) being scared by Prognostications, which declared, that in the Year of CHRIST 1524, there should be such Eclipses in watery Signs, and such Conjunctions, that by Waters and Floods many People should perish; People victualled themselves, and went to high Grounds for fear of drowning; and especially one Bolton, which was a Prior of St. Bartholomew's in Smithfield, built him an House upon Harrow-on-the-hill, only for Fear of this Flood. Thither he went, and made Provision of all Things necessary within him, for the Space of two Months, &c.

BUT this was not so indeed, as Stow says he had been credibly informed. True it is, that this Bolton was also Parson of Harrow, and therefore bestowed some small Reparations on the Parsonage-House, and built nothing there more than a Dovehouse, to serve him when he had foregone his Priory.

TO this Priory King Henry II. granted the Privilege of a Fair to be kept yearly at Bartholomew-tide, for three Days, viz. the Eve, the Day, and the Morrow; to which the Clothiers of England, and Drapers of LONDON repaired, and had their Booths and Standings within the Church-Yard of this Priory, closed in with Walls and Gates, locked every Night, and watched, for the Safety of Mens Goods and Wares. A Court of Piepowders was daily, during the Fair, holden for Debts and Contracts. But now (notwithstanding all Proclamations of the Prince, and also the Act of Parliament) in Place of Booths within this Church-Yard (only let out in the Fair-time, and closed up all the Year after) are many large Houses built; and on the North Wall, towards Long-lane, being taken down, a Number of Tenements are there erected for such as will give great Rents.

THE Custos of the City, Ralph Sandwich, An. 1295, had a Contest with the Prior of St. Bartholomew's, about the Customs and Benefits of this Fair; claiming all the Customs, the Morrow after St. Bartholomew's Day, and half of them on the Eve before the said Day. Of this King Edward took Notice, and the Customs being his Benefit at this Time, when the City Privileges were forfeited, and in the King's Hand; he sent this Brief, a little before the Fair, to the said Custos and the Sheriffs, to have the Business decided by his Treasurer and Barons. The said Brief was as follows:

“ Dominus,

" Dominus Rex, &c. The Lord the King, hath commanded the Custos and Sheriffs in these Words: Edward, by the Grace of God, to the Custos and Sheriffs of LONDON, Greeting. Whereas the Prior of St. Bartholomew, of Smithfield, in the Suburbs of LONDON, by the Charters of our Progenitors, Kings of England, and our Confirmation, claimeth to have a certain Fair there every Year, during three Days, viz. on the Eve, on the Day, and on the Morrow of St. Bartholomew the Apostle, with all Liberties and free Customs belonging to the Fair; a Contention hath arisen between the said Prior, and you, the said Custos, who sue for us, concerning the Use of the Liberties of the said Fair, and the free Customs belonging to it. And Hindrance being made to the said Prior, by you the said Custos, as the same Prior asserteth, to wit, concerning a Moyety of the Eve, and of the whole Morrow, before said. Concerning which, we will, as well for us, as for the foresaid Prior, that Justice be done as it is fit, before our Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer, from the Day of St. Michael next, for one Month. We command you, that sufficient Security be taken of the said Prior, of restoring to us the said Day the Issues of the foresaid Fair, coming from the Moyety of the foresaid Eve, and of the whole Morrow, if the said Prior cannot then shew something for himself, why the said Issues ought not to belong to us. We command you, that ye permit the same Prior, in the mean Time, to receive the foresaid Issues, in Form afore said; and you may have there this Brief. Witness my self at Dunelm, the 9th Day of August, in the 20th Year of our Reign.

MONUMENTS.

Mr. Weever says, this Prior Bolton, after he had built the Manor-House of Cambury at Islington, died at his Parsonage-House near Harrow-on-the-hill; and the Portraits of him and his Brethren were upon a Table some Time hanging in this Church, afterward in Sir Robert Cotton's Library holding up their Hands towards a Crucifix, under whome was depend'd

Gulielmo Bolton precibus succurrite vestris. Qualis erat Pater hic, Domus hæc cætera monfrant.

In the North Side of the Chancel is the Monument of Rayhere, the first Founder, with his Effigies; both which were, in a late Reparation of the Church, refreshed and beautified. He lies along upon a raised Tomb, well arched and canopied, in his black Habit, bare Head, shaven Crown, with his Hands together. On each Side of him, two Fryars in Grey Habit, or Chauntry Priests, holding two large Books, somewhat in a bowing Posture, as praying for his Soul. At his Feet an Angel looking towards him, crowned, holding his Shield, Gules, two Lions passant gardant, Or, in Chief, two Ducal Crowns of the same. The Inscription upon the Edge of the Stone he lies upon, is, Hic jacet Raberus, primus Canonicus, & primus Prior hujus Ecclesiæ.

The PARISH of St. BARTHOLOMEW the Great.

THIS Church, which belonged to the old Priory, and in which is the afore-mentioned Monument of Rayhere, is a spacious Building, partly Gothick, and partly of the Tuscan Order, with a strong Timber Roof; the Walls of the Church are of Boulder, Stone, and Brick, and the Steeple of Brick, with Battlements.

It had the good Fortune to escape the terrible Fire in 1666, and was new beautified in the Year 1696.

It is handsomely enough pewed, tho' mostly old, and the Pulpit is a Piece of fine old Carving, after the Gothick Manner.

THE Altar-Piece is a very spacious Piece of Architecture, painted of Stone Colour in Perspective: It consists of four Columns and two Pilasters, with their Entablament of the Dorick Order. The Intercolumns are the Commandments, and lower are the Lord's Prayer and Creed, all done in Gold Letters, upon Black. Over the Commandments, and under an arching Pediment is a Glory, with the Word JEHOVAH done in Hebrew Characters.

ABOVE the said Pediment are the King's Arms, done in their Colours, between two Columns of the Ionick Order; over which is another Circular Pediment, and the Whole is adorned with Pyramidal Figures, Shields, &c. and is about 32 Feet high.

THERE are two Galleries, one at the West End, and the other at the South West Angle of the Church; and the Font is directly Westward from the Communion-Table, which is enclosed with Rail and Ballister.

THE Length of the Church is 132 Feet, Breadth 57, and Altitude 47; the Height of the Steeple is about 75 Feet, wherein are five Bells, and the Roof of the Church is covered with Lead.

HERE are two Tables of Benefactors, japanned Black, and the Letters of Gold, one against the North Wall, and the other under the Organ, set up in the Years 1729, and 1731.

PERSONS here buried, besides the two Priors already mentioned, were,

Roger Walden, who died Bishop of LONDON, 1406, who, Mr. Weever says, was some Time Bishop of Canterbury, and has these Words upon him:

Dominus Rogerus de Waldene debitum Naturæ soluit, qui varia fortuna vectus expertus est sub brevi tempore.

And,

He denied his Preferment to the said Bishoprick from the Pope, and would accept of it only from the King, as appears by the Records in the Tower.

NUMBER of Houses 324.

THE Piepowder-court in this Parish was established by Letters Patents, granted in the Reign of King Henry VIII. unto Edward Rich, Esq; who was Lord of the Manor, and unto his Heirs, who had afterwards the Title of Earl of Warwick and Holland conferred upon them. This Court consists of a Steward, two Judges; one for the Lord of the Manor, and one for the Lord Mayor of LONDON; one Clerk of the Papers, two Attorneys, the Lord Mayor's eldest Carver and young Man, eldest Serjeant at Mace of Wood-street Compter, and his Yeoman; one Constable, one Jailor, and six Warders.

THE Parish of St. Bartholomew the Great was endowed with great Privileges, which having been disused for many Years, the Officers of the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of LONDON, have now the Liberty of arresting any Person within that Liberty; However, the Piepowder-court is held during the three Days of Bartholomew Fair, and if any Person commits an Offence within the Jurisdiction of that Court; and the Cause be not decided before the Expiration of the three Days before-mentioned, he will be sent to Newgate, where he is to remain till the Court meets again. Note, That any Persons, tho' not a Freeman of LONDON, may keep a Shop and exercise any Trade or Calling within the Parish of St. Bartholomew the Great.

THE Priory of St. Bartholomew's, at the Surrender made the 30th of King Henry VIII. was valued at 653 l. 15 s. by the Year.

HERE, in Great St. Bartholomew's, after the Dissolution of the Priory, lived Sir Richard Rich, Lord Rich, and Lord Chancellor in the Beginning of King Edward VI. And hither the Earl of Warwick, and some other Noblemen repaired one Morning requiring him, from the King, to resign the Great Seal. Here also dwelt another great Counsellor of Queen Elizabeth's, Sir Walter Mildmay, Chancellor of her Exchequer.

THIS Church, having in the Bell-Tower, six Bells in a Tune, was sold to the Parish of St. Sepulchre's; and then the Church being pulled down to the Choir, the Choir was, by the King's Order annexed, for the enlarging of the old Parish-Church thereto adjoining, and so was used till the Reign of Queen Mary, who gave it to the Fryars Preachers, or Black-fryars, and was used as their Coventual Church, until the first of our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth. Those Fryars were once more put out, and then all the said Church, was wholly as it stood, in the last Year of Edward VI, given by Parliament, to remain for ever a Parish-Church to the Inhabitants within the Close, called Great St. Bartholomew's.

ON the North Side of this Priory, is the Lane truly called Long, which reacheth from Smithfield towards Aldersgate-street. This Lane is built on both the Sides, with Tenements for Brokers, and such like. The rest of Smithfield, from Long-lane end to the Bars, is inclosed with Inns, and large Tenements. On the West Side is Chicken-lane, down to Cowbridge. Then are the Pens or Folds, so called of Sheep there parted, and penned up, to be sold on the Market-Days.

Then was Smithfield-pond, which of old Time, in Records, was called Horse-pool; for that Men watered Horses there, and was a great Water. In the 6th of Henry V. a new Building was made in the West Part of Smithfield, betwixt the said Pool, and the River of the Wells, or Turnmill-brook, in a Place then called The Elms; for that there grew many Elm Trees; and this had been the Place of Execution for Offenders. Since which Time, the Building there hath been so increased, that, saith Stow in his Time, now not one Tree remaineth growing.

This Place was in Use for Executions, in the Year 1219, and, as it seems, long before; by a Clause Roll 4 Henry III. wherein mention is made of Furca facta apud Ulmillos Com. Middlesex, ubi prius facta fuerunt.

IN Cowbridge-street, or Cow-lane, was the Inn or LONDON Lodging of the Prior of Sempringham.

The rest of that West Side of Smithfield hath several large Inns, and other good Buildings up to Hofter-lane, which turneth down towards Holbourn, till it meets with Cow-lane.

Stow saith, by these Incroachments, and this Inclosure of Smithfield, there remained but a small Portion for the old Uses, viz. for Markets of Horses and Cattle; nor for Military Exercises, as Justings, Tournings, and great Triumphs, which had been there performed before the Princes and Nobility, both of this Realm and Foreign Countries.

FOR Example: In the Year 1357, 31 Edward III. Great and Royal Justs were then holden in Smithfield; there being present the Kings of England, France, and Scotland, with many other Nobles, and great Estates of divers Lands.

IN the Year 1362, 36 Edward III. on the first five Days of May, in Smithfield were Justs holden, the King and Queen being present; with the most Part of the Chivalry of England, and of France, and

The Elms in Smithfield, the common Place of Execution.

and of other Nations; to the which came Spaniards, Cyprians, and Armenians, Knightly requesting Aid of the King of England, against the Pagans that invaded their Confines.

THE 48th of Edward III. Dame Alice Perrers, or Pierce, (the King's Concubine) as Lady of the Sun, rode from the Tower of LONDON, through Cheap, accompanied of many Lords and Ladies; every Lady leading a Lord by his Horse's Bridle, till they came into West Smithfield; and then began a great Just, which lasted for seven Days.

Also the 9th of Richard II. was the like great Riding from the Tower to Westminster, and every Lord led a Lady's Horse's Bridle; and in the Morning began the Justs in Smithfield, which lasted three Days: Henry of Darby, the Duke of Lancaster's Son, the Lord Beaumont, Sir Simon Burley, and Sir Paris Courtney, all behaved well.

IN the 14th of Rich. II. Royal Justs and Tournaments were proclaimed to be done in Smithfield; to begin on Sunday next after the Feast of St. Michael. Many Strangers came forth out of other Countries: Namely, Valerian, Earl of St. Paul, that had married King Richard's Sister; the Lady Maud Courtney, and William the young Earl of Ostervant, Son to Albert of Baviere, Earl of Holland and Henault.

At the Day appointed, there issued forth of the Tower, about the third Hour of the Day, sixty Coursers, apparelled for the Justs; and upon every one an Esquire of Honour, riding a soft Pace. Then came forth sixty Ladies of Honour, mounted upon Palfreys riding on the one Side, richly apparelled; and every Lady led a Knight with a Chain of Gold. Those Knights being on the King's Party, had their Armour and Apparel garnished with White Harts and Crowns of Gold about the Harts Neck; and so they came riding through the Streets of LONDON, to Smithfield, with a great Number of Trumpets, and other Instruments of Musick before them. The King and Queen, who were lodged in the Bishop's Palace of LONDON, were come from thence, with many great Estates, and placed in Chambers to see the Justs. The Ladies that led the Knights, were taken down from their Palfreys, and went up to Chambers prepared for them. Then alighted the Esquires of Honour from their Coursers, and the Knights in good Order mounted upon them. And after the Helmets were set on their Heads, and being ready in all Points, Proclamation made by the Heralds, the Justs began; and many commendable Courses were run, to the great Pleasure of the Beholders. These Justs continued many Days, with great Feasting, as ye may read in Froissard.

IN the Year 1393, the 17th of Richard II. certain Lords of Scotland came into England to get Worship, by Force of Arms; the Earl of Mar challenged the Earl of Nottingham to Just with him; and so they rode together certain Courses, but not the full Challenge; for the Earl of Mar was cast, both Horse and Man, and two of his Ribs broken with the Fall; so that he was conveyed out of Smithfield, and so towards Scotland, but died by the Way, at York.

Sir William Darell, Knt. the King's Banner-Bearer of Scotland, challenged Sir Piercy Courtney, Knt. the King's Banner-Bearer of England; and when they had run certain Courses, gave over without Conclusion of Victory. Then Cookborne, Esq; of Scotland, challenged Sir Nicholas Hawberke, Knt. and rode five Courses, but Cookborne was borne over Horse and Man, &c.

IN the Year 1409, the 10th of Henry IV. a great Play was played at Skinner's-well, which lasted eight Days; where were to see the same, the most Part of the Nobles and Gentlemen of England. And forthwith began a Royal Justing in Smithfield, between the Earl of Somerset, and the Seneschal of Henalt, Sir John Cornwall, Sir Rich. Arundel, and the Son of Sir John Cheyney, against certain Frenchmen. And the same Year a Battle was fought in Smithfield, the one called Gloucester, Appellant, and the other Arthure, Defendant; they fought valiantly, but the King took up the Quarrel into his Hands, and pardoned them both.

IN the Beginning of Henry V. his Reign, another memorable Encounter happened here in Smithfield, between Rob. Carey, of the West, Son of Sir John Carey, Knt. and a Foreign Knight called Aragonese, one of the Kingdom of Aragon; who having performed many Noble Achievements in other Countries, at last visited England, where he challenged many Persons of his Rank and Quality, to make Trial of his Skill in Arms. The said Robert Carey accepted his Challenge. Between them was waged a cruel Encounter, and a long and doubtful Combat; but at last he was vanquished by the English Gentleman, who was therefore Knighted by the King, and restored to Part of his Father's Inheritance, having been Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer in King Rich. II's Time, and taking Part with him, had forfeited his Estate. And whereas by the Law of Heraldry (says my Author) whosoever fairly in the Field conquered his Adversary, might justify the Wearing and Bearing of his Arms whom he overcame; he accordingly took on him the Coat Armour of this Aragonese, being Argent, on a Bend Sable, three Roses of the First; which is ever since borne by the Name of Carey, whose antient Coat of Arms was, Gules, a Chevrou, Argent, between three Swans proper; one whereof they still retain in their Crest.

IN the Year 1430, the 8th of Henry VI. the 14th of January, a Battle was done in Smithfield within the Lists, before the King, between two Men of Feverham in Kent, John Upton, Notary, Appellant, and John Downe, Gentleman, Defendant. John Upton put upon John Downe, that he and his Compeers should imagine the King's Death, upon the Day of his Coronation. When these had fought long, the King took up the Matter, and forgave both Parties.

IN the Year 1442, the 20th of Henry VI. the 30th of January, a Challenge was done in Smithfield within the Lists, before the King; there being Sir Philip la Beause, of Aragon, Knt. the other an Esquire of the King's House, called John Ansley, or Antsley. They came to the Field all armed; the Knight with his Sword drawn, and the Esquire with his Spear, which Spear he cast against the Knight, but the Knight avoided it with his Sword, and cast it to the Ground. Then the Esq; took his Axe, and smote many Blows on the Knight, and made him let fall his Axe, and brake up his Uniber three times, and would have smote him on the Face with his Dagger, to have slain him; but then the King cried, Hold, and so they parted. The King made John Ansley a Knight, and the Knight of Aragon offered his Harnefs at Windsor.

IN the Year 1446, the 24th of Henry VI. John David impeached his Master, William Carter, of Treason; and a Day being assigned them to fight in Smithfield, the Master being well beloved, was so cherished by his Friends, and plied with Wine, that being therewith overcome, was also unluckily slain by his Servant; but that wicked Servant, for he falsely accused his Master, lived not long unpunished; for he was afterwards hanged at Tyburn for Felony.

LET all such false Accusers, says Stow, note this for Example, and look for no better End, without without Repentance ; and in this, it is thought, he had a View to his own Brother, who had falsely accused him in some Matters concerning Religion.

THE same Year, Thomas Fitz-Thomas, Prior of Kilmaine, impeached Sir James Butler, Earl of Ormond, of Treason ; which had a Day assigned them to fight in Smithfield. The Lifts were made, and the Field prepared ; but when it came to the Point, the King commanded they should not fight, and took the Quarrel into his Hands.

IN the Year 1467, the 7th of Edward IV. the Bastard of Burgoyne challenged the Lord Scales, Brother to the Queen, to fight with him, both on Horseback and on Foot. The King therefore caused Lifts to be prepared in Smithfield, the Length of 120 Taylors Yards, and 10 Feet ; and in Breadth 80 Yards, and 20 Feet ; double barred, five Feet between the Bars, the Timber Work whereof cost 200 Marks, besides the fair and costly Galleries prepared for the Ladies, and others : At which Martial Exercise, the King and Nobility were present. The first Day they ran together with Spears, and departed with equal Honour.

THE next Day they Turneyed on Horseback ; the Lord Scales's Horse having on his Chafron a long Spear Pike of Steel, and as the two Champions coaped together, the same Horse thrust his Pike into the Nostril of the Bastard's Horse ; so that with much Pain he mounted so high, that he fell on one Side with his Master ; and the Lord Scales rode about him with his Sword drawn, 'till the King commanded the Marshal to help up the Bastard ; who said, I cannot hold by the Clouds ; for though my Horse fail me, I will not fail an Incounter Companion. But the King would not suffer them to do any more that Day.

THE next Morning they came into the Lifts on Foot, with two Pole-Axes, and fought valiantly ; but at last the Point of the Pole-Axe of the Lord Scales entered into the Side of the Bastard's Helm, and by Force might have placed him on his Knees. But the King cast down his Warder, and the Marshal parted them. The Bastard required that he might perform his Enterprize ; but the King gave Judgment, as the Bastard relinquished his Challenge, &c. And this may suffice for Jufts in Smithfield.

BUT yet we must not part with Smithfield so ; for, as it has been a Place for such honourable Jufts and Triumphs, by Reason it was a soft Ground, and unpaved ; so was it a Market-Place for Cattle, Hay, Straw, and other necessary Provisions. And likewise (once in the Year) at Bartholomew-tide, a general Fair, commonly called Bartholomew-Fair, has usually been kept in that Place. But in Regard that it was continually subject to the Iniquity of Weather, and being a Place of good Extent, deserved to be much better respected ; it pleased the King's Majesty (James I.) with the Advice of his honourable Lords of the Council, to write graciously to the Lord Mayor, and the Aldermen his Brethren, in the Year 1614, that Smithfield might be sufficiently paved, which would be the only Means to have it kept in far cleaner Condition. And as no Motion (to any good End and Intent) can be made to the City, but they as gladly embrace, and willingly pursue it ; even so this honourable Motion was found an acceptable Entertainment, and it was very speedily proceeded withal. Some voluntary Contributions in the several Parishes (what each Man willingly would give) was bestowed on the Work ; but, indeed, hardly deserving any Report. Notwithstanding, on the 4th Day of February, An. 1614, the City began the intended Labour, and before Bartholomew-tide, then next ensuing, to the Credit and Honour of the City for ever, it was fully finished, and Bartholomew-Fair there kept, without breaking any of the paved Ground, but the Booths discreetly ordered, to stand fast upon the Pavement. The Citizens Charge thereupon amounting to near 1600 l.

WHERE, besides the paving of this Place all over, and levelling it (which being in such a rude foul Condition, it was before thought impossible to be done) it was greatly raised and mounted in the Middle, whereby it became a very fair, clean, and spacious Walk : And divers Conveyances were made for the Water, from the new Channels, made by the Reason of the Pavement. It was also strongly railed on all Sides ; and the Middle had also substantial Rails round about, for the better Safety of Passengers, and for the Security of such as should walk there, from the Danger of Coaches, Carts, Horses, Oxen, and other Cattle, of which Smithfield is seldom empty. And that, if Occasion were, it might serve for a Market-Place ; because Newgate-Market, Cheapside, Leadenhall, and Grace-church-street (where the Markets in those Times were kept) were unmeasurably pestered with Increase and Multitude of Market-Folks, Carts, and other Annoyances attending them ; to the great Vexation of the Inhabitants, and Trouble of Passengers : So that the Magistrates of the City did seriously take it into their Consideration, how to make some new convenient Market-Place, for the general Service of the City.

THIS Field, as it had antiently been (as was said before) a Place of Honourable Exercises of Jufts and Tournaments, so loose serving Men would commonly meet here, and make Uproars and Quarrels ; infomuch that it was many Years called Ruffians Hall, being the usual Rendezvous of Ruffians and Quarrellers, during the Time that Swords and Bucklers were used : When every Serving-Man carried a Buckler at his Back, which hung by the Hilt or Pommel of his Sword, hanging before him.

AND now for a long Time, the Fair kept here, instead of three Days, hath lasted a Fortnight ; and became of little other Use than for idle Youth, and loose People to resort to, and to spend their Money in Vanity ; and (that which was worse) in Debaucheries and Drunkenness, Whoredom, and in seeing and hearing Things not fit for Christian Eyes and Ears ; many of the Houses and Booths here serving only to allure Men and Women to such Purposes of Impiety. Therefore the Magistracy often intending fully, at last, resolved in the Year 1708, to reduce the Fair to that Space of Time only, according to which it was at first granted, that is, to three Days ; and accordingly an Order was made. And at a Court of Common-Council, in June, the said Year, when some Petitions were offered for revoking the former Order, upon certain Inconveniencies, as the great falling of the Rents of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and of the great Losses that many of the Inhabitants in and about West-Smithfield must suffer. Yet, upon the Consideration of the great Mischiefs and Disorders that had arisen by the long Continuance of the said Fair, the Petitions for prolonging the Time were rejected, and the Order confirmed. Whereby the Fair was to be kept for three Days only, for selling of Merchandizes, according to the Original Grants from the Crown. But, by Degrees, it has again arrived at the same Length of Time as formerly, and was the last Year [1733] held a full Fortnight.

The PARISH of
St. SEPULCHRES.

NOW to return through Gilt-spur-street by Newgate, here stands the Parish-Church of St. Sepulchres; this Church is dedicated to the Commemoration of the Holy Sepulchre; or Grave, of our Saviour CHRIST at Jerusalem; of which there was such Regard in former Times, that an Order of Knights of the Holy Sepulchre of Jerusalem was instituted by Godfrey, of Bulsen, (as some will have it) in the Year 1099; or (as others) by Baldwyn, second King of Jerusalem, Anno 1103. To this Order was committed the Keeping of the Holy Sepulchre, from whence they had their Name.

THEY follow the Rule of St. Augustin; and their antient Habit was a black Cassock, a white Rochet over it, with a black Cloak: Upon which, on the Left Side were five black Crosses, as some write. And that they wore also a long Beard and a Cap, after the Eastern Fashion.

THIS Order of Knights of the Holy Sepulchre being ejected out of Syria, was at length, by Pope Innocent VIII. united to the Order of the Knights of Rhodes, Anno Dom. 1485, and thereby they ceased to be an Order by themselves. And the Knights of the Order being expelled out of Jerusalem, the Custody of the Lord's Sepulchre was, at the Command of the Soldan, committed to the Monks of the Franciscan Family, which was profitable to the Saracens and Turks. But Anno 1336, the Sepulchre, with the Leave of the Bishop of Rome, was committed to eight Franciscan Monks, who have the Oversight thereof to this Day.

THIS Church was called of Old St. Sepulchres in the Baily, or by Chamberlain Gate. It was, in Stow's Time, in a fair Church-Yard, though not so large as before it had been, Part of it being let out for Buildings, and a Garden-Plat. It is subject to the Archdeacon, saving only as to Wills and Administrations, which belong to the Commissary.

THIS Church was re-edified, or new built, about the Reign of Henry VI. or Edward IV. One of the Popham's was a great Builder there; namely, of one fair Chapel on the South Side of the Choir, as appeared formerly by his Arms, and other Monuments in the Glass Windows thereof; and also of the fair Porch of the same Church, towards the South, over which Porch his Image, fairly graven in Stone, was fixed, but now defaced and beaten down. His Titles were these by Offices; Chancellor of Normandy, Captain of Vernoyle, Susan and Bayon, and Treasurer of the King's Household. He died rich, leaving great Treasure of strange Coin, and was buried in the Charter-house, by West-smithfield.

Roger, Bishop of Salisbury (which was Roger that rich and mighty Bishop of Salisbury, in the Reign of Henry I.) gave this Church of Sepulchre de Ballio, LONDON, cum pertinentiis suis infra Burgum & extra, to the Prior and Canons of St. Bartholomew in West-smithfield: It was confirmed to them (inter alia) by the Charter of King Henry III. bearing Date at Winton, June 15, in the 37th of his Reign.

THUS this Church of St. Sepulchre became Part of the Possessions of the said Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew; but when, or upon what Occasion it was appropriated to them, is uncertain. However, it appears that there was a perpetual Vicarage ordained, Time out of Mind, of this Church; of which the said Prior and Convent were, and continued Patrons 'till their Suppression. Upon which it came to the Crown; and remained in it, 'till King James I. in the 7th of his Reign, granted the Rectory and its Appurtenances, and the Advowson of this Vicarage to Fran. Philips, and others. After which the said Rectory; and its Appurtenances, were purchased by the Parishioners, and held in Fee-Farm of the Crown. And the Advowson of the Vicarage by the President and Fellows of St. John Baptist College, in Oxford, who continue Patrons to this Day.

THERE having been formerly some Controversies between the said Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew, the Patrons and Proprietors of this Church, and Robert Dycar, Vicar of the same, about the Tithes and Profits thereof, John Stokesley, Bishop of LONDON, did, on the 4th of April, 1531, by the Consent of the Parties on both Sides, make an Agreement, or Composition between them, wherein he decreed, ordered, and awarded to the Effect following:

FIRST, That the said Vicar, and his Successors, should have the third Part of all the Tithes, Oblations, and Profits that shall grow and come to the said Church yearly, through all the Year, from thenceforth for ever, except the within excepted; and that all Tithes, Oblations, and Fruits (saving such as shall be received at Feasts of Easter, or within seven Days thereof, and such as hereafter be excepted) shall, from Time to Time, be put into a Box in the Vestry of the said Church, and there shall remain, 'till it shall be indifferently divided at every Month's End, after the Rate aforesaid, and as hath been accustomed in Times past. And if the said Parties, at any Time hereafter, shall vary between themselves in their Reckonings, that they cannot among themselves, within eight Days next after the Terms before assigned, to reckon and part the same, agree upon the Sims by them received, and to be paid according to the said Award; that then they shall, within eight Days next after that, exhibit their Account before such an Auditor as the said Bishop and his Successors shall assign; and upon his Judgment the said Arrears shall be divided and parted forthwith, according to the Proportion aforesaid.

THEN settling the Arrears that were then due, it goes on further thus, viz. and likewise if it shall happen at any Easter, or at any other Time hereafter in the Year, any Manner of Tithes, Oblations, or Profits of the said Church to be behind unpaid; that then the same shall be gathered both by the said Parties, or by both their Deputies, or by one to be deputed indifferently between them both, and so shall be divided after the Rate of the said Decree and Order.

FURTHERMORE, That the said Vicar, and his Successors, shall yearly, from thenceforth for ever, have the third Part of all the Tithes, and Profits spiritual, of and by Reason of the Composition that is made between the Prior and Convent of the Charter-house, and the said Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew, and the Vicars of St. Sepulchres, for the Houses within the Precinct, and the Inhabitants of the same Charter-house, without any Manner of Let or Interruption of the said Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew, their Successors or Assigns; provided always and excepted, that the said Vicar shall make no Claim, nor Title, neither shall have Tythes, Oblations, or other Profits coming or growing within the Precinct of the Monastery, or Close of St. Bartholomew, or within the Precinct of the Hospital of the same. Neither of the Tithes of Clerkenwell Field, nor of any Tythes to be had by Reason of any Composition made in Times past between the

the Lord of St. John of Jerusalem in England, and the Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew aforefaid.

THIS is what is moſt material in this Compoſition as to our preſent Purpoſe; what elſe is contained in it, refers only to the Offerings of Candles, Wax, Legacies to the High Altar, &c. wholly caſt out of the Church upon the Reformation, and therefore of no Validity now; for which Reaſon we omit it, and come to the Concluſion of this Award, wherein it is provided, That this Decree, Order and Compoſition, ſhall be of full Strength and Effect for the whole Space of five Years, and five Weeks next following the Date thereof, viz. April 4, 1532. And if the Prior and the Convent of the ſaid Monastery of St. Bartholomew, or the Vicar of the ſaid Pariſh for the Time being, do, after the Expiration of the ſaid five Years and five Weeks, think themſelves aggrieved with this Award, and within two Months after do reclaim and proteſt againſt it before the Biſhop of the Dioceſe, or his Chancellor, that then this Degree, Order and Compoſition, ſhall be void, and of none Effect: But no ſuch Reclamation or Proteſt being made by any of the ſaid Parties, it may be concluded that this Compoſition is ſtill of Force and Effect.

IN the Year 1624, and from that Time till the Year 1633 inclusive, there were ſeveral Repairs every Year in and about this Church and Steeple, which coſt in all 1110*l.* 3*s.* 2*d.*

THIS Church being almoſt demolished, except Part of the Wall and Steeple, by the Fury of the Flames in 1666, it was again re-erected and finiſhed Anno 1670.

THE Building is in this Manner: The Walls are ſquare Stone Boulder, and ſome Brick, ſtrengthened with Buttrefſes; the Battlements, and Coping, appears much newer Work than the reſt; the Roof is covered with Lead; the Tower is alſo Stone, with four ſmall Spires, one at each Angle; the Windows are of the Modern Gothic; the Roof over the Naves is cambered, but is flat and lower about eight Feet over the Side Iſles, ſupported with 12 ſtrong Stone Columns of the Tuſcan Order. The Floor is paved with Tile, and many large Marble Graveſtones, eſpecially in the Chancel, which is one Step above that of the Church; and there appears to have been a Chapel on the North Side of the Church, the Breadth there being much more than the reſt.

THE Ornament and Finiſhing is thus: It is wainſcotted Six Feet and a half high, and hath Galleries on the North Weſt, and South Sides, and the Pews of Oak; the Fronts of the Galleries are enriched with Seraphims, Branches of Palm and Laurel, Feſtoons, Crowns over the Letters C. R. &c. The Pulpit is alſo Oak, and the Roof is adorned with Arches, Pannels and Roſes, and the Coving Cornice over the Pillars, with Leaves of Fret-work. Near the South Eaſt Angle is an inner Door-caſe of Wainſcot, adorned with two Pilafters; their Entablature and Compafs Pediment of the Corinthian Order.

THE Altar-piece conſiſts of two ſmall Marble Columns, with Entablature and Pediment of the Ionick Order; the Inter columns are the Decalogue in two Tables, done in Gold Letters on Black Marble under the King's Arms, which are painted and placed in the Pediment, and far between the Pater Noſter and Creed, done in Black on Gold; and all theſe between the Portraits of Moses and Aaron, placed in Frames richly carved and gilt; and here are Variety of gilded Enrichments, being Cherubims, Fruit, Leaves, Feſtoons, Palm-branches, &c. and the Whole is incloſed with Rail and Balliſter; the Space within which has the Pavement of poliſh'd Marble, Black and White.

THE Dimenſions are as follow: (Length beſides the Paſſage or Ambulatory at the Weſt End) 126 Feet; Breadth (excluding the Chapel on the North Side) 58; Altitude of the Roof over the Middle Iſle, 35 Feet; and of the Tower and Spires, or Pinnacles, about 140 Feet; in which Tower there are Ten tuneable Bells, which make a pleaſant Harmony when rung in Peal; there are alſo Chimes, which go at the Hours of Four, Eight, and Twelve daily; and upon the ſaid Bells may be rung 3,628,800 Changes.

BESIDES which Ten Bells, there was formerly a large Bell to toll when the Priſoners were carried to be executed at Tyburn from Newgate, but has been ſold ſeveral Years.

MONUMENTS.

There lie buried in this Church, William Andrew, Steven Clamparde, Eſq; Laurence Warcam, John Dagworth, Will. Porter, Rob. Scarlet, Eſqrs; ———, Daughter of Richard Love.

William Creſewyk, Citizen of LONDON, buried in the Chappel of St. Mary, in St. Kath. Cree-church, by his Will, gives to the Miniſter and Church-Wardens of the Pariſh of St. Sepulchre, and their Succeſſors, for ever, a yearly Rent of 13*s.* 4*d.* to be received out of his Land and Tenement, called the Caſtle-Inn, near the Bars of Weſt-Smithfield, for the Support of the Ornaments of the ſaid Church of St. Sepulchres.

This Will. Creſewyk, was Executor of the Will of Sir Nic. Twyford, who was Lord Mayor of LONDON, and died 1390.

John Joyner, Citizen and Ironmonger, by Will dated the 28th of Auguſt, 1426, gives all his his Lands and Tenements in Turnagayn-lane, in the Parish of St. Sepulchres, LONDON, after the Death of Ifabel his Daughter, &c. to the Rector and Wardens of the said Parish, for a perpetual Chantry in the Chappel of the Blessed Mary, founded in the same Church, for Augmentation of the Chantry. And that they find, within a Year, one other Chaplain to celebrate in the said Chapel, for his Soul, and the Souls of his Parents, &c.

Rich. Byernes, An. 1405, by his Will, gave Fabricæ Ecclesiæ Sti. Sepulchri, Lond. xii d. annuatim; percipiend. de Gardinis suis, quæ tenet ad terminum annorum de Priore & Convent. Elien. juxta Trillemyle Brook.

ON a plated Stone in the Chancel was this Inscription:

Hereunder lieth buried the Body of the virtuous Lady, the Lady Elenor Sentleger, Wife to Sir Anthony Sentleger, Knight, Master of the Rolles of the Chancery of the Realme of Ireland, and one of her Majesties Privie Councell of the same Realme. The Daughter of Richard Markham, of Seggebrooke, in the County of Lincolne, Esquire, deceased. Who died the second Day of February, 1598, being of the Age of 52 Yeeres, and Moneths odde.

ON another:

Here lieth Dame Elizabeth Langton, late Wife of Sir Thomas Langton, Knight, Baron of Newton, in the Countie of Lancaster. One of the Daughters of Sir Edward Stanley, Kt. Lord Mounteagle. Which deceased the 17th Day of June, An. Dom. 1533.

ON another:

Here lieth buried the Body of Richard Sneling, of West Greensted in the County of Suffex, Esquire; who died the 25th Day of August, An. Dom. 1611. He married Margery May, the eldest Daughter of George May, in the County aforesaid, Esquire. By whom hee had Issue two Sons and three Daughters. Which said Margery was living An. 1612, and caused this Monument to bee laid, desiring to be interred hereunder.

ON another:

Elionora præhonorabilis viri, Johannis Fortescue, Equitis Aurati, Ducatus Lancastriæ Cancellarii, a sanctioribus Regiæ Majestatis Conciliis, filia Edvardi Hubbard, Armig. defuncti, aliquando Conjux perquam dilecta, sub hoc Marmore jacet sepulta. Vixit annos 36 pie, juste, sobrie, quoad Deum, mundum, seipsam, gestos, in fide, pace, spe Christi, conscientiæ, gloriæ, obiit 10 die Mensis Julii, Ann. Regni Regis Jacobi, Angliæ, &c. 3 An. Dom. 1605.

Qualis vita, finis ita.

ON a Stone by the Communion-Table, richly adorned with Arms:

Here under lyes the Wonder of her Kinde,
The Quintessence
of Nature and of Grace, Wit, Beauty, Bounty, and (in Noble Race
The rarest Jewell)
a right humble Minde.
Here lyes her Body,
but her Soule refin'd

Above th' Emphyreal, hath Imperial Place,
In Blisse so boundlesse,
as no Words embrace,
Nor Art can feigne,
nor mortall Heart can find.
Her Fame remaines
a Monument of Honour, Built by her Vertue,
gilt with purest Gold,
With Lilly-flowers, and Roses strewed upon her

Her EPI TAPH:

Urania thus enroll'd:
Milde Child, chaste Mayden, and religious Wife;
The Even crownes the Day,
Joane Essex Death, her Life.

Pie obiit die Martis Martii 15. Ann. ætat.
suæ 26. Salutis nostræ, 1607.

UNDER the Communion-Table, on a fair plated Stone:

A Dorcas milde,
a Mary full of Grace,
A Virgin chaste,
and of rare Education,
Entombed lyeth here underneath this Place;
Whose Life and Name
deserved Commendation.
But in the blooming
Month of pleasant May,
Untimely Death hath stolne her Life away.
Yet spight of Death,
her Virtue still remaineth;
And in the Heaven
a better Life she gaineth.
Upon whose Tome
I consecrate this Verse,
Instead of Flowers,
to deck her Funeral Hearse.

Nemo ante obitum felix.

ON a handsome Monument in the Chancel was the following Inscription:

Joannes Brewster, Armiger. in obitum D. Elizabethæ Deane, uxoris ejus. Obiit 24 die Octob. 1609.

Made generous by Birth, and kept that Fount,
From Time's Pollution
striving still to rise Above the Earth, high in the World's Account, For outward and for inbred Courtesies.
Her Actions, Almes, her Life,
Faith, Hope, and Love,
A suffering Spirit,
rendering Right for Wrong:
Her Heart a Spheare, where all good Thoughts did move, Whose Influence was disperfed by the Tongue.
Religion was her Compasse,
Truth her Starre,
In sundry Seas
of World's Prosperity;
Wealth her bad Angel,
Flesh and Bloud her Warre;
Yet Wisedome made this Discord Harmony.

Then

Then Marble keepe
to all Posterity,
Her Lives dear Memory
Upon whose Urne
And to her Obsequies
(O, obsequiously)
In Love's sweet Odours
Hearts shall ever burne.
And let each Christian Heart
Joyne with my Pen,
T' imbalme her Vertues
in the Hearts of Men.
Thou Bed of Rest,
Reserve for him a Roome,
Who lives a Man divorc't
from his dear Wife:
And as they were one Heart,
so this one Tombe
May hold them neere
in Death, as linckt in Life.
Shee's gone before,
and after comes her Head;
To sleepe with her
among the blessed Dead.

ON a Monument on a Pillar in the Body of the Church:

Here is buried the Body of Henry Cotton, Gentleman, eldest Son of Thomas Cotton, of Connington, in the County of Huntingdon, Esq; by Dorothy Tamworth, his second Wife. Hee living honestly, died the 11th Day of June, 1614, and made his Executors, Sir Edward Montague, Knight of the Bath, married to Frances his second Sister, and William Mulso, Esq; married to Rebecca his third Sister. Who in Requital of his Kindnesse to them, erected this Remembrance for him.

ON a Grave-stone at the North Isle entring into the Choir:

Barkly sublatus, jacet hic
sub marmore stratus,
Qui pueros docuit multos, veluti bene sciunt.
Quem rapuit Dominus,
sed, vivis spiritus ejus,
Inter seculas quo obierunt
qui bene formas
Annis Millenis
quingentenis simul octo,
Quod Domini migrat
qui non cursum sibi pigrat.
Mense Decembre fero,
de quo non plus majus edo.
Binas uxores habuit
senas quoque proles.
Quarum tres nati,
natae tres atque fuere,
Quos nece truncavit
Christus quicumque creavit.

ON the South Side of the Choir:

To the living Memory of his deceased Friend,
Captain JOHN SMITH, some Time Governour of Virginia, and Admiral of New England. Who departed this Life the 21st of June, 1631.

Acordiamus, Vincere est Vivere.

Here lyes one conquered that hath conquered Kings, Subdu'd large Territories, and done Things
Which to the World impossible would seem,
But that the Truth
is held in more Esteem

Shall I report his former Service done
In honour of his God and Christendom
How that he did divide
from Pagans three,
Their Heads and Lives,
Types of his Chivaldry.
For which great Service,
in that Climate done,
Brave Sigismundus,
King of Hungarion,
Did give him as a Coat of Armes to wear,
These conquered Heads,
got by his Sword and Spear.
Or shall I tell of his Adventures since,
Done in Virginia,
that large Continent?
How that he subdued
Kings unto his Yoke,
And made those Heathen flee,
as Wind doth smoke:
And made their Land,
being of so large a Station,
An Habitation for our Christian Nation
Where God is glorified, their Wants supply'd;
Which else, for Necessaries must have dy'd
But what avails his Conquests;
now he lyes
Interred in Earth, a Prey to Worms and Flies?
O! may his Soul in sweet Elysium sleep,
Until the Keeper,
that all Souls doth keep,
Return to Judgment:
And that after thence,
With Angels he may have his Recompence.

1. Gifts and Givers to the Repair and Maintenance of the Church of St. Sepulchres, for ever.

2. Gifts and Givers to the Maintenance of the Poor, for ever, in Money, Bread, Bibles, Cloth Gowns, Ringing the Prisoners Bell, &c.

3. Stocks of Money given to the Poor.

4. Perpetual Annuities.

5. Coals and Fewel for the Poor.

6. Gift-Sermons.

A Memorial of the Benefactors Names are carefully kept in their Parish-Books, with the respective Sums by them given.

THERE is a good Vicarage-House, which the Minister now inhabits, and adjoins to the Church-Yard; with some other small Glebe.

IN the Visitation, An. 1636, the Glebe was given in by the Church-Wardens, to be in Value 17 l. 13 s. 4 d.

Dr. Bell, some Time Vicar of this Parish, in the Year 1681, under his own Hand, gave this Account of the Rights of the Vicar :

THE Parish lieth four Parts in LONDON, and the fifth in Middlesex.

THE College of St. John, Oxon. Patron of the Living : The Parish, Impropriators; both by Purchase of the Crown.

THE Vicar was formerly endowed with a Third of the Tithes and Easter Book, to be paid without Defalcation for Collecting. By the

the late Act, his Maintenance of Tithes is to be 200 l. a Year. Towards which, that Part of the Parish that lies within LONDON, pays 80 l. per Ann. by Quarterly Payments, by the Church-Wardens; and gives a Tithe-Book of 80 l. more; for which the Vicar pays the Collectors 2 s. per Pound.

Middlesex Part should pay the other 40 l. and have a Tithe-Book of 107 l. per Ann. but gather yearly not above 60 l. whereof they pay, once a Year, 20 l. as a Third, and are not included in the Act for Augmentations. About 160 l. is gathered from the whole Parish, much being lost by Tofts of Ground unbuilt, Houses unlet, and poor Inhabitants.

THE Easter Book, formerly 150 l. a Year to the Parish and Vicar, is reduced to less than 9 l. yet collected still.

THE Exchequer pays about 19 l. a Year, whereof 14 l. for daily Morning-Prayer. 1 s. in the Pound to the Pay-Master; and 5 s. for De-benture.

THERE is paid 1 l. 6 s. 8 d. for a Coalhouse.

THE Sexton, a Sugar-Loaf.

THE Castle Tavern, for Parcels of Glebe, 1 l.

EVERY fourth Year, for the Wardmote-Sermon, preached successively by the Minister of St. Sepulchres, St. Andrew's, St. Dunstan's, and St. Bridget's, 1 l.

SIX Sermons on Anniversary-Days, viz. the 30th of January, the 29th of May, St. James's Day, the 5th of November, the 6th of December, and Mr. Shaw's Gift by the Shoemakers, 3 l.

FOR Prayers with the Quest, 6 s. 8 d.

A new House free to Dr. Bell's Successors, with a Yard thereto. The Use of a Parlour, Kitchen, and Wash-House, under the Quest-House, that belonged to the Parish for the said Bell's Time, he being at the Trouble to build it, and brought 200 l. towards it; the Use thereof reserved to the Parish on Publick Occasions of Quest, or Burials.

FORMERLY no Lights in the lower Rooms, and high and narrow ones above, that overlooked the Vicar's-Yard, and no Doors below; but all made by him, for his Convenience.

THERE is a Watch-House built by Consent of the Diocesan and Vicar, at the Instance of the Parish, at the South East Corner of the Church-Yard, on Snow-hill; for a daily Use of which, as a Shop, 5 l. is paid yearly to the Parish, but claimable by the Vicar, as built on his Glebe; which Dr. Bell had not demanded, as thinking himself compensated by Use of the Quest-House, and Under Rooms.

A little House of two Rooms, next the North Church-Door, let some Time for 40 s. a Year, with the first Inclosure in that Passage.

THIS above-written, Dr. Bell thought good, in Justice to the Church, and his Successors, to deliver to the Registry of LONDON, June the 24th, 1681.

IN the Church of St. Sepulchres was a Fraternity of St. Katharine; which of the Devotion of some Poor of the Parish began, to the Honour of the Conception of St. Mary. They met on the Day of the Conception in the said Church, and there had the Mass of the Day, and offered to the same, and found a certain Chaplain daily to celebrate Divine Service for the Brethren and Sisters of the Fraternity, for the Living and the Dead; to meet four times a Year; to set up certain Wax-Lights before the Image of the Fraternity on all Festival-Days.

A Certificate of this Foundation, Government, and Continuation of this Guild was made in Chancery, in the Vigil of the Purification, the 12th of Rich. II. according to the Form of a certain Proclamation made thence by the King's Brief.

THE Value of the Vicarage, by Act of Parliament, is 200 l. and is rated in the King's Books at 20 l. The present Vicar is the Reverend Dr. Knight, and the Lecturer is the Reverend Mr. Nicholson.

THERE are Prayers every Day between Six and Seven in the Morning, and between Three and Four in the Afternoon; and also at Eleven in the Forenoon every Wednesday and Friday.

THE Vestry consists of all that have passed the Office of Constable.

THIS Parish chuses Offices for four Precincts Within the Liberty, and for one Without.

NUMBER of Houses,

Within the Freedom about	1400
Without the Freedom about	360
In all	1760

THERE lies a Street from Newgate, West, to the End of Turn-again-lane, and winding North to Holbourn Conduit. This Conduit by Holbourn-cross, was built 1498. Thomasin, Widow to John Percival, Mayor, gave to the second making thereof, 20 Marks; Richard Shore, 10 l. Thomas Knefworth, and others, did also give towards it.

BUT afterwards a new Conduit was there built in the Place of the old, namely, in the Year 1577, by William Lambe, some Time a Gentleman of the Chapel to King Henry VIII. and afterwards a Citizen and Clothworker of LONDON. The Water thereof he caused to be conveyed in Lead, from divers Springs, to one Head, and from thence to the said Conduit, and Waste of one Cock at Holbourn-bridge, more than 2000 Yards in Length: All which was by him performed, at his own Charges, amounting to the Sum of 1500 l. and by him finished.

FROM the West Side of this Conduit is the Highway, there called Snow-hill, stretching out by Holbourn-bridge, over the oft-named Water of Turnmill-brook, and so up to Holbourn-hill; all replenished with fair Buildings.

IN the Bishop of LONDON's Register of Wills are these Places mentioned:

Tryllemys-street,
Wendayns-lane,
Secole-lane,
Cokkys-lane, } In the Parish of St. Sepulchre.

Reuner-street, a Street antiently so called, that led from Newgate toward West-smithfield.

WITHOUT Holbourn-bridge, on the Right Hand, was Gold-lane, as is before-shewed. Up higher, on the Hill, are certain Inns, and other fair Buildings; amongst which, of old Time, was a Messuage, called Scroop's-Inn; for so is the same recorded in the 37th of Henry VI.

THIS House was some Time let out to Serjeants at Law, as appears and was found by Inquisition taken in the Guildhall of LONDON, before William Purchase, Mayor, and Escheator for King Henry VII. in the 14th of his Reign, after the Death of John Lord Scroope. That he died disseised in his Demesne of Fee, by the Feoffment of Guy Fairfax, Knt. one of the King's Justices, made in the 9th of the same King, unto an Esquire, the said John Scroope, Knt. Lord Scroope of Bolton, and Robert Wingfield, of one House, or Tenement, late called Serjeant's-Inn, situate against the Church of St.

Andrew in Holbourn, in the City of LONDON, with two Gardens, and two Messuages to the same Tenement belonging, in the said City, to hold in Burgage, valued by the Year in all Reprises, 10 s.

THEN is the Bishop of Ely's-Inn, commonly called Ely-Place, for that it pertaineth to the Bishop of Ely. William de Luda, Bishop of Ely, deceased 1297, and gave this House, by the Name of his Manor, with the Appurtenances, in Holbourn, to his Successors; with Condition, that his next Successor should pay 1000 Marks, towards the finding of three Chaplains in the Chapel there.

MORE, John Hotham, Bishop of Ely, did give by the Name of six Messuages, two Cellars, and 40 Acres of Land, in the Suburbs of LONDON, in the Parish of St. Andrew in Holbourn, to the Prior and Convent of Ely, as appears by Patent of the 9th of Edward III. This Man was Bishop of Ely 20 Years, and deceased An. 1336.

Thomas Arundal, Bishop of Ely, beautifully built of new his Palace at Ely; and likewise his Manors in divers Places, especially this in Holbourn; which he did not only repair, but rather new built and augmented it with a large Port, Gatehouse, or Front, towards the Street, or Highway. His Arms are yet to be discerned in the Stone-Work thereof; he also sat Bishop of Ely 14 Years, and was translated to York.

IN this House, for the large and commodious Rooms thereof, divers great and solemn Feasts have been kept, especially by the Serjeants at Law, whereof two are to be noted for Posterity.

THE first, in the Year 1464, the 4th of Edward IV. in Michaelmas Term, the Serjeants at Law held their Feast in this House. To which, amongst other Estates, Matthew Philip, Mayor of LONDON, with the Aldermen, Sheriffs, and Commons of divers Crafts, being invited, did repair. But when the Mayor looked to keep the State in the Hall, as it had been used in all Places within the City and Liberties, out of the King's Presence, the Lord Gray of Ruthen, then Lord Treasurer of England, unwitting the Serjeants, and against their Wills (as they said) was first placed. Whereupon, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons, departed home; and the Mayor made the Aldermen to dine with him. Howbeit, he and all the Citizens, were wonderfully displeased that he was so dealt with; and the new Serjeants, and others, were sorry (as they said) it had so happened.

ONE other Feast was likewise there kept in the Year 1531, the 23d of King Henry VIII. The Serjeants then made, were in Number 11, namely, Thomas Audeley, Walter Lake, J. Baldwine, J. Hinde, Christopher Fenny, John Dowfell, Edward Mervine, Edmund Knightley, Roper Chomley, Edward Montague, and Robert Yorke.

THESE also held their Feast in this Ely-house for five Days, viz. Friday the 10th of November, Saturday, Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday. On Monday (which was the principal Day) King Henry and Queen Katharine dined there (but in two Chambers) and the Foreign Ambassadors in a third Chamber.

IN the Hall, at the high Table, sat Sir Nicholas Lambard, Mayor of LONDON, the Judges, the Barons of the Exchequer, with certain Aldermen of the City. At the Board on the South Side sat the Master of the Rolls, the Master of the Chancery, and Worshipful Citizens. On the North Side of the Hall, certain Aldermen began the Board, and then followed Merchants of the City. In the Clostry, Chapel and Gallery, Knights, Esquires, and Gentlemen were placed.

placed. In the Halls, the Crafts of LONDON. The Serjeants at Law, and their Wives, kept in their own Chambers.

It would be tedious to set down the Preparation of Fish, Flesh, and other Victuals spent in this Feast, and seem almost incredible; and (as it seems) wanted little of a Feast at a Coronation.

THERE were brought to the Slaughter-House, 24 great Beefs, at 26 s. 8 d. each, from the Shambles; one Carcass of an Ox, at 24 s. an Hundred fat Muttons, 2 s. 10 d. each; 51 great Veals, at 4 s. 8 d. each; 34 Porks, 3 s. 8 d. each; 91 Pigs, 6 d. each; Capons of Greece, of one Poulterer, (for they had three) 10 Dozen, at 20 d. each; Capons of Kent, nine Dozen and six, at 12 d. each; Capons coarse, 19 Dozen, at 6 d. each; Cocks of Grose, seven Dozen and nine, at 8 d. each; Cocks coarse, 14 Dozen and eight, at 3 d. each; Pullets the best, 2 d. ob. other Pullets, 2 d. Pidgeons, 37 Dozen, at 10 d. the Dozen; Swans, 14 Dozen; Larks, 340 Dozen, at 5 d. the Dozen, &c. Edward Nevill was Seneshal, or Steward; Thomas Ratcliffe, Comptroller, and Thomas Wildon, Clerk of the Kitchen.

To this Ely-Place, in Queen Elizabeth's Time, belonged Grounds, consisting of an Orchard and a Pasture, all inclosed within a Wall. Cox, Bishop of Ely, upon the Queen's Solicitation, granted Mr. Christopher Hatton (who was Vice-Chamberlain of the Household, Knighted, and lastly, Lord High Chancellor) a Part of this House for 21 Years, upon which he laid out much Cost; and upon that Pretence, afterward, he moved the Queen to require the said Bishop to alienate it to him, with the Garden; which to do, he made an humble Denial to the Queen, signifying to her, by a well penned Letter in Latin, not only the Inconveniency that would hereby come to him and his Successors, viz. "That they should want an Orchard and Ground, and that they should be too much streightened; but that in his Conscience he could not do it, being a Piece of Sacrilege. That when he became Bishop of Ely, he had received certain Farms, Houses, and other Things, which former pious Princes had judged necessary for that Place and Calling. These he received, by the Queen's Favour, from his Predecessors; and that of these he was to be a Steward, not a Scatterer. That he could not bring his Mind to be so ill a Trustee for his Successors, nor to violate the pious Wills of Kings and Princes, and in effect, rescind their last Testaments. He put the Queen in Mind of that Rule of Nature, and of God, not to do that to another, which one would not have done to one's self; and that the Profit of one, is not to be increased by the Damage of another. Nay, he told her, that he could scarcely justify those Princes which transferred Things appointed for pious Uses, into Uses less pious". But however, Hatton failed of obtaining his Desire at present. After this good Bishop's Death, the Temporalities coming into the Queen's Hands, these Lands were made over to him, and now go under the Name of Hatton-garden. Of which, by Buildings, vast Improvements have been made.

THIS Ely-house, with the Bounds of it, claimed a Privilege of express Exemption from the Lord Mayor's Jurisdiction. About this was a Contest, Anno 1567, Sir Roger Martin being Lord Mayor, came with his Company into the Parts about Ely-house, called Ely-rents, and attempted to weigh Bread, and do his Office among the Bishop's Tenants there. Which they refused to suffer him to do, as being exempt from the Rights and Franchises, and Liberties of the Mayor; and that they belonged to the Jurisdiction of the Church and Bishoprick of Ely. This caused a great Dispute, and at length the Bishop and the Mayor chose certain honourable Arbitrators to determine this Business, submitting themselves to the Order and Direction of the Right Honourable Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper, Robert Earl of Leicester, Sir Rob. Catelyne, Kt. Lord Chief Justice of England, Sir Walter Mildmay, Kt. Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir James Dyer, Kt. Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas. And both the said Parties appeared at divers and sundry Times, with their Learned Counsel, before the said Lords and Arbitrators, and shewed divers and sundry Writings and Records, for the Maintenance of their several Titles and Claims. And also, severally, produced several Witnesses, which had been examined in the Court of Chancery, and their Examinations published. And also produced several Witnesses Viva Voce before the said Arbitrators, for Proof of their several Allegations.

THE Consideration of all which Matters, after divers and sundry Debates, was agreed, should be referred to the two Chief Justices; and that they should make their Report, and give their Opinions touching the said Matter, and in whom the Right rested.

AND the Chief Justices having advisedly weighed and considered the several Proofs, and afterwards being present in the Star-Chamber, together with the said Sir Nicholas Bacon, and Sir Walter Mildmay, the 9th of June, in the 12th of Queen Elizabeth, Anno 1570, did make Report and Declaration of their Opinion, touching the said Controversy, viz.

THAT the Right of the Law, as far as they could yet discern, stood for the said Mayor and Commonalty: And that the said Tenements, called Ely-rents in Holbourn, were and be within the Liberties, Franchises, and Jurisdiction of the said City, for and concerning the Matter in Controversy.

IT was therefore by the Arbitrators (except the said Earl, who was then absent, and the said Bishop and his Counsel being likewise absent) order'd and decreed, the said 9th of June, That the said Mayor and Commonalty of the City of LONDON, and their Successors, should from thenceforth peaceably and quietly have, use, enjoy, and exercise, within the said Tenements, all and every such Liberties, Customs and Jurisdctions, as they may use within any other Place, within the Liberty and Freedom of LONDON, without any Trouble to their Servants, Tenants, and Officers, until such Time as the said Bishop, or his Successors, shew forth better Matter for their Parts and Defence in the Premises.

NEXT beyond this Manor of Ely-house, is Lither-lane. Then is Furnival's Inn, now an Inn of Chancery, but some Time belonging to Sir William Furnival, Kt. and Thomas his Wife, who had in Oldbourn two Messuages, and thirteen Shops, as appears by Record of Richard II, in the 6th of his Reign.

THEN was the Earl of Bath's Inn, afterwards called Bath Place, of late (for the most Part) new built, and so to the Bars.

Now again from Newgate, on the Left Hand, or South Side, lies the Old Bailey, which ran down by the Wall, upon the Ditch of the City, called Houndsditch, to Ludgate. It is uncertain how this Street took that Name; but it is like to have risen of some Court of old Time there kept. In the Year 1356, the 34th of Edward III, the Tenement and Ground upon Houndsditch, between Ludgate on the South, and Newgate on the

the North, was appointed to John Cambridge, Fishmonger, Chamberlain of LONDON. Whereby it seems, that the Chamberlains of LONDON have there kept their Courts, as now they do in the Guild-Hall. And to this Day, the Mayor and Justices of this City keep their Sessions in a Part thereof, now called the Sessions Hall, both for the City of LONDON, and Shire of Middlesex. Over-against which House, on the Right Hand, turns down St. George's-lane, toward Fleet-lane.

IN this St. George's-lane, on the North Side thereof, remains yet an old Wall of Stone, inclosing a Piece of Ground up Seacoal-lane, wherein, by Report, some Time stood an Inn of Chancery. Which House being greatly decayed, and remote from other Houses of that Profession, the Company removed to a common Hostery, called of the Sign, Our Lady Inn, not far from Clement's Inn; which they procured from Sir John Fineox, Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench; and since have held it of the Owners, by the Name of the New Inn, paying therefore six Pounds Rent by the Year, as Tenants at their own Will.

BENEATH this St. George's-lane, the Lane called Fleet-lane, winds South by the Prison of the Fleet, into Fleet-street, by Fleet-bridge.

LOWER down into the Old Bailey, was, in Stow's Time, a Standard of Timber, with a Cock, or Cocks, delivering fair Spring Water to the Inhabitants, and was the Waste of the Water serving the Prisoners in Ludgate.

NEXT, out of the High Street, turns down a Lane, called the Little Bailey, which runs down to the East End of St. George's-lane.

THE next is Seacoal-lane, once called Limeburners-lane, of burning Lime there with Seacoal: For there is mention'd in Record such a Lane to have been in the Parish of St. Sepulchre, and there yet remains in this Lane an Alley, called Limeburners-alley.

NEAR unto this Seacoal-lane, in the Turning towards Holbourn Conduit, is Turnagain-lane, or rather, as in a Record of the 5th of Edward III, Windagain-lane, for that it goes down West to Fleet-ditch, from whence, Men must turn again the same Way they came, for there it is stopped.

THEN the High Street turns down Snow-hill, to Holbourn Conduit, and from thence to Holbourn-bridge. Beyond which Bridge, on the Left Hand, is Shoe-lane, by which Men pass from Holbourn to Fleet-street.

IN this Shoe-lane, on the Left Hand, was one old House, called Oldbourn-hall; it was afterwards let out into divers Tenements.

IN this Shoe-lane was a Messuage called Ban-gor-house, situate in St. Andrew's Holbourn Parish, belonging formerly, it seems, to the Bishops of that See, with a considerable Quantity of waste Ground about it. Which Messuage, after a Term of Years then unexpired, Sir John Barksted, Kt. did in the Year 1647, purchase of the Trustees for Sale of Bishops Lands, with the said waste Ground thereunto belonging, containing in Length 168 Feet of Assize, and in Breadth from East to West, 164 of Assize, more or less, with a Purpose to build thereupon, at the Expiration of the Lease; the Building there being the chief Advantage he expected to make by the said Purchase, as appeared in an Act of Parliament made Anno 1656, against new Buildings in and about the Suburbs. Wherein a proviso was made for him, in Respect of his Purchase, having given more than otherwise he would have done, but upon his Purpose of erecting Messuages and Tenements thereupon: And in Consideration that the said Place being at that present both dangerous and noisome to the Passengers, and Inhabitants near adjoining.

St. ANDREW HOLBOURN.

ON the other Side stands the Parish-Church of St. Andrew Holbourn. The Apostle St. Andrew, to whom this Church and three more within the City are dedicated, was the Son of Jonas, or John, and Brother to Simon Peter the Apostle. He was born in Bethsaida, a City of Galilee, on the Lake of Genesareth, by Profession a Fisherman, was one of the Disciples of John Baptist, by whom being sent to CHRIST, he follow'd our Saviour, taking along with him his Brother Simon, John i. 35, &c.

FROM his Fishing he was called by CHRIST, with his Brother Simon, who at first Call, casting away their Nets, followed him, who told them, That he would make them Fishers of Men, Matth. iv. 19, &c.

AFTER our Lord's Ascension, and the Descent of the Holy Ghost, it is generally affirmed by the Antients, that the Apostles agreed amongst themselves (by Lot, some say) what Parts of the World they should severally take to preach the Gospel. In this Division, St. Andrew had Scythia, and the neighbouring Countries primarily allotted him for his Province. He first travelled through Cappadocia, Galatia, and Bythynia, and instructed them in the Faith of CHRIST, passing all along the Euxine Sea. And after having preached the Gospel at several Places, and wrought Miracles with good Success, tho' not without meeting with great Difficulties and Discouragements, and barbarous Usage, he purposed at last to return to Jerusalem, whence, after some Time, he betook himself to his former Province, preaching successfully at Sebastopolis, situate upon the Eastern Shore of the Euxine, and after that, at Chersonesus, a great and populous City, within the Bosphorus; thence sailing cross to Sinope, to encourage and confirm the Churches which he had lately planted in those Parts; he there ordained Philologus, formerly one of St. Paul's Disciples, Bishop of that Place.

HENCE he came to Byzantium, (since called Constantinople) where he instructed them in the Knowledge of the Christian Religion, founded a Church for Divine Worship, and ordained Stachys, (whom St. Paul calls, his beloved Stachys, though Baronius ascribes this Honour to St. Peter) first Bishop of that Place: But being banished out of that City, he fled to Argyropolis, where he preached the Gospel for two Years together with good Success. After this he travelled over Thrace, Macedonia, Thessaly, &c. in all which Places, for many Years, he preached and propagated Christianity, and confirm'd the Doctrine that he taught with great Signs and Miracles. At last he came to Patras, a City of Achaia; where by Ageas the Proconsul, for refusing to sacrifice to the Gods, he was first committed to Prison, then scourged by seven Lictors successively on his naked Body, and last of all crucified; but, by the Proconsul's command, not fastened to the Cross (which was made of two Pieces of Timber crossing each other in the Middle, in the Form of the Letter X, hence usually known by the Name of St. Andrew's Cross) with Nails, but Cords; whereon he hung two Days teaching and instructing the People all the Time: And when great Importunities in the mean Time were used to the Proconsul to spare his Life, he earnestly begged of our LORD, that he might at that Time depart, and seal the Truth of Religion with his Blood. God heard his Prayer, and he immediately expired on the last Day of November, tho' in what Year no certain Account can be recovered, but Moreri says, it was Anno 69.

Truth

HIS Body, taken down and embalmed, was decently and honourably interred by Maximilla, the Proconsul's Wife (whom, as also his Brother Straclocles, he had both cured and converted.) It was afterwards, by Constantine the Great, solemnly removed to Constantinople, and buried in the great Church, which he had built to the Honour of the Apostle, which being taken down some hundred Years after by Justinian the Emperor, in order to its Reparation, the Body was found in a wooden Coffin, and again reposed in its proper Place. You may read more at large of this Apostle in the Learned Dr. Cave's Antiquitates Apostolicæ, Page 132, &c. Some write, that his Head was brought to Rome, and placed there in St. Peter's Church.

HIS Festival is celebrated yearly on the last Day of November.

HE was reckoned a Titular Saint of Scotland, upon Occasion of a great Victory obtained by Hungus, King of Picts, at Hadington, in 790, over Athelstan, King of England; St. Andrew appearing to Hungus the Night before the Battle, in a Vision, and promising him Victory, and his Cross, in Form of an X, appearing the next Day in the Air, at the Beginning of the Battle; and the Scots having succeeded the Picts in those Countries, thought they had also a Right to St. Andrew's Tutelage. Achaius, King of Scotland, instituted an Order of Knighthood in Honour of St. Andrew; and, after a long Disuse, it was again revived by King James VII. of Scotland, and II. of England.

IN this Church, about 300 Years ago, were divers Altars, besides the High Altar, as, the Altar of St. Mary, the Altar of St. John Baptist, St. Nicholas's Altar. There were also belonging to it divers Chaplains and Clerks, to sing Masses, and pray for the Souls of the Departed, and such as had Chantryes, or were interred there, as appears by a Will of Gilbert Worthington, Rector of this Parish 280 Years ago, buried at the Door of the Chancel. Whose superstitious Gifts and Legacies, according to the Devotion of that Age, mentioned in his Will, on that Occasion, we will record, being communicated to Strype by a curious Man, and his worthy Friend, of the same Name; who took it from the Office of Wills, in the Bishop of LONDON's Registry.

George Worthington, Clerk, Rector of St. Andrew's Holbourn, LONDON, condidit Testamentum Jul. 28, 1447. Probatum Aug. 12. eodem Anno. He gives his Soul Omnipotenti Deo and B. Mar. St. Andr. and the rest of the Saints; and his Body to be buried in Hostio Cancelli of the said Church, if he died within 10 Miles of the City, or where else it should happen God should take his Soul out of his Body. He willed, that there should be no very costly Candelabra circa feretrum, but only Candelabra lacun' Ecclesie. And that his Feretrum, [i. e. Biere] should have four Cerei, [i. e. Wax Candles] not exceeding one Pound each. That after his Funeral, one Wax Candle be placed on the High Altar, another on the Altar of the Blessed Mary, another on the Altar of St. John Baptist, the fourth on the Altar of St. Nicholas, so long as they should last. Willing his Debts should be first paid, he bequeathed as follows:

Mro. & Confratrib. fraternitatis S. Trinitat. LONDON. 20 s.

To each Chaplain of the Church of St. Andrew, 6 s. 8 d. ad dicendum Exequias for 30 Days, and the Day following a Mass ad Requiem.

To each Clerk of the said Church, 3 s. 4 d. sub forma predicta.

Towards the Fabrick of the said Church, 20 l.

To the Poor of the Parish, six Marks, to be distributed amongst them by John Pycard, Chaplain.

To the poor Maids of the Parish, six Marks, towards the disposing them in Marriage.

Four Marks for a Supplement to the Legacy of Alex. Asheley, who gave two Marks to the adorning the Altar.

The Utensils of his House, to his Brother Hugh Worthington; and all in his Hall and Chamber, except the great Table, cum magnis Cristillis, which he willed should remain there, for the Use of succeeding Rectors, so long as they should endure.

To divers Persons, several Togas bladeas, &c.

To his Brother Walter Worthington, five Marks, to put him out to School.

To his Brother Ralph Worthington, a new Toga, Gown, in Tempus Desponsationis.

To the poor Scholars of God's-house in Cambridge, 40 s.

To the Priory of Bernevel, for Repair, 8 s. 4 d.

To Tho. Farclogh, of the University of Cambridge, eight Marks, to pray for the Souls of all that he was bound to pray for, and ought to do any Thing for.

To his Servant, William Worthington, 100 s. which he wills shall satisfy for his Service.

To another of his Servants, one of his Togæ.

He makes Mr. Alex. Farclogh, &c. Executors, and Neil, Master of St. Thomas de Acons, and John Pycard, Chaplain, his Overseers. To whom ex speciali amore & Confidentia terrena omnia relinquo, me solum Deo soli committo.

John de Ipre, by his last Will willed, that the Rector of the Church of St. Andrew Holbourn, should have his Bay Horse, called Principal, ad orandum pro anima sua.

Will. Hoscroft, gave by his Will (dated about the Year 1390 odd) to the Rector and his Successors, and to the Church-Wardens of St. Andrew Holbourn, for ever, a Rent of 13 s. 4 d. yearly, out of his Lands and Tenements in the said Parish; pro missa celebrand, &c. Solvend. Presbyt. 6 s. 4 d. and 3 s. 4 d. annuatim inter infirmos & pauperes in lectis jacent. in dist. Parochia.

IN this Church was a Guild, or Fraternity, of St. Sith's. To the maintaining of which, before the Dissolutions of Chantryes, belonged a Messuage and Tenement in Fetter-lane, in the same Parish, called the Plough; and one Garden, and one Barn. To which belonged divers Houses, Edifices, Stables, Curtilages, Profits, Commodities, &c. Which coming to King Edward VI. by Virtue of the Act for Chantryes, in his second Year, he granted them to Thomas Bartlet, (the same who was the King's Printer) and to Richard Mody.

THIS Church, about the Year 1632, was in a very decayed Condition, and had so been for many Years, in many Parts of it: Infomuch, that it then called rather for a Rebuilding than a Reparation. Which the Parishioners were then providing for, purposing very shortly to pull it all down; and rebuild, enlarge, and enrich it, with that Beauty that became so pious a Work.

THIS Church was at last rebuilt in the Year of Christ 1687, being then finished.

IT is a very pleasant Church and spacious; the Columns that support the Roof, are of the Corinthian Order, Walls of Stone, and Roof covered with Lead.

As to the Ornament, the Roof, and between the Arches, and particularly over the Altar-Piece, are adorned with curious Fret-Work.

THE Wainfcot is good, and here is a great deal of it, the Walls being lined round the Church 12 Feet high, and eight Feet above the Galleries, which extend on all Sides of the Church, except the East, all Bolection, swelling with raised Pannels; and the Organ-Gallery is supported with two large fluted Wainfcot Columns of the Tuscan Order.

The Altar-Piece is very spacious, at least 15 Feet high of Wainfcot, having two Columns and two Pilasters fluted Eastward; also two Pilasters on the South, and two on the North Sides, of the Tuscan Order, with their Frise, Cornice and Pediment carved, and four Lamps with their Tapers over the four Middle Columns and Pilasters, two at each End of the Pediment, placed on Acroters; and under are the Commandments well done in Black, on Gold, as the Lord's Prayer and Creed are, within large Frames carved, and gilt with Gold. Over the Decalogue, and under the Pediment, is a Space about two Feet square, within which are these Words in large Characters:

Do this in Remembrance of me,

done in black Letters upon Gold, enriched round with Fruit, Leaves, &c. finely carved, as are the Surbase and four Pannels, two at the North, and two at the South Sides of this Altar-Piece.

ABOVE which is a Window with the King's Arms painted on Glass.

HERE are four large Inner Door-Gates, two Northward, and two Southward, of fine Wainfcot.

THE Church is very well and regularly pewed uniform.

THE Pulpit is also a curious Piece of Wainfcot Carving, finniere, and there are two handsome Branches.

THERE is also a fine Marble Font, adorned with Cherubims, and a carved Wainfcot Type, or Cover, at the Top whereof is a gilded Dove, which stands directly West from the Altar-Piece.

THE Length of the Church is 105 Feet, Breadth 63, and Height about 43.

THERE is also a new Tower, or square Steeple, finished Anno 1704, whose Altitude is 110 Feet; it has four large Windows fronting East, West, North and South, adorned with Pilasters, Architrave, Frise, Cornice, Pediments, &c. of the Doric Order, wherein are eight Bells.

MONUMENTS in the Old Church were, for

Thomas, Lord Wriothefley, Earl of Southampton, buried there 1550.

Ralph Rokeby, of Lincoln's-Inn, Esq; Master of St. Katharine's, and one of the Masters of Requests to Queen Elizabeth, who deceased the 14th of June, 1596.

He gave by his Testament to Christ's Hospital, in LONDON, 100 l.

To the College of the Poor of Queen Elizabeth, in East-Greenwich, 100 l.

To the poor Scholars in Cambridge, 100 l.

To the poor Scholars in Oxford, 100 l.

To the Prisoners in the two Compters in LONDON, 200 l.

To the Prisoners in the Fleet, 100 l.

To the Prisoners in Ludgate, 100 l.

To the Prisoners in Newgate, 100 l.

To the Prisoners in the King's-Bench, 100 l.

To the Prisoners in the Marshalsea, 100 l.

To the Prisoners in the White Lion, 20 l.

To the Poor of St. Katharine's, 20 l. and to every Brother and Sister there, 40 s.

Will. Sydnam founded a Chantry there.

THERE was also of old Time (in the 3d of Henry V.) an Hospital for the Poor, which was a Cell to the House of Cluny, in France; and was therefore suppressed among the Priories Aliens.

ON a Monument in the North West of the Chancel:

Here resteth the Body of Margery Parkinson, late Wife of John Parkinson, of the City of Chester, Gentleman, the Daughter of William Dimmocke, of the same City, Gentleman, who died in the Faith of Christ on the 4th Day of February, Anno Domini, 1610. She left behind unto her said Husband these Children at her Death, Gerrard, William, John, Edward, and Katharine Parkinson; which Gerrard died at Brazen-Nose College in Oxford, the 4th Day of January, Anno Domini 1611.

John Parkinson, her sorrowfull Husband, caused this Monument to be here erected, for a Memorial of her Vertue, and of their mutual Love.

UPON a Brass Plate near the North-Door :

Here lies a Maid, for Heaven
by her pure Life
So fit, she could not stay to be a Wife.
And with her, half a Man lyes buried,
That is but half himself,
now she is dead.
His other half lives
but in hope to be Inclosed in this Urne,
as well as She.
In losing her, the LOVE'S lost a Gem,
A Margaret, too rich
indeed for them :

But not for him, to whom she went from hence,
Usher'd by Faith, Hope,
Love, and Innocence
Then you that are her Friends,
your Grief forget ;
In Heaven your Margaret
is richly set.

Obiit 4 die Febr. An. Dom. 1631.

NUMBER of Houses about 3600.

THERE is a School adjoining to the Church of St. Andrew, which was one of those that King Henry VI. in the 24th and 25th of his Reign, erected by Act of Parliament.

THERE is, in Hatten-garden, a Charity-School for 80 Boys and 80 Girls, maintained by Subscription; the Boys are taught to Read, Write, and cast Accompts, and 5 l. given with each of them when put to Trades. The Girls are taught to Read, Work, Sew, &c. and 5 l. given also with each of them when put out.

IN this Parish are two Workhouses for the Poor; one in Shoe-lane, the other in Bell-alley, on Saffron-hill.

FROM this Church of St. Andrew up Holbourn-hill, are divers good Houses, among which, on the Left Hand, stand three Inns of Chancery, whereof the first is called Thavie's-Inn, and is opposite to Ely-house.

BEYOND Fewters, or Fetter-lane, is Barnard's-Inn, antiently called Mackworth's-Inn, which is the second Inn of Chancery, belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, as says the Record of Henry VI. the 23d. of his Reign; and was founded by Inquisition in the Guildhall of LONDON, before J. Norman, Mayor, the King's Escheater. The Jury said, that it was not hurtful for the King to licence Thomas Atkins, Citizen of LONDON, and one of the Executors of John Mackworth, Dean of Lincoln, to give one Messuage in Holbourn, in LONDON, with the Appurtenances, called Mackworth's-Inn, but was commonly known by the Name of Barnard's-Inn, to the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, to find one sufficient Chaplain, to celebrate Divine Service in the Chapel of St. George, in the Cathedral Church of Lincoln, where the Body of the said John is buried; to have and to hold the said Messuage to the said Dean and Chapter, and to their Successors for ever, in Part of Satisfaction of 20 l. Lands and Rents, which Edward III. licensed the said Dean and Chapter to purchase to their own Use; either of their own Fee, or Tenure, or of any other, so the Lands were not holden of the King in Capite.

THEN is Staple's-Inn, the third Inn of Chancery, adjoining to Holbourn-bars Within, but yet it is out of the Freedom. This is a very large and handsome Inn, with a large Court-Yard, surrounded with Buildings, and a handsome Garden behind it, which has a Gate into Southampton-buildings.

ON the other Side of the Way in Holbourn is Ely-house, already mentioned, formerly called Ely's-Inn.

THIS House is, at present, a very old Building, and stands upon a large Piece of Ground; having a spacious Hall, a good Chapel, and several large Rooms, but old fashioned, with a spacious Yard, or Court, before it, and a large Ground for Gardening behind it, which, for want of a Gardener's keeping, lay in a rude Condition; and were this Ground improved by Building, it would bring in a great Revenue to the Episcopal See, besides a good House for his City Abode. The present Possessor thereof is the Right Reverend Dr. Thomas Green, now Lord Bishop of Ely.

ABOVE this Ely-house and Hatton-garden, is Furnival's-Inn, seated betwixt Brook-street and Leather-lane, one of the Inns of Chancery; at present a very handsome Building. It has a large Court before it, and a handsome Garden behind.

NEXT are Brook-buildings, raised out of a large House and Garden belonging to the Lord Brook, and built into Streets, viz. Brook-street, Grevile-street, Beauchamp-street, and Doddington-street.

Brook-street is the best, being a good handsome long Street, with new built Houses, well inhabited: It comes out of Holbourn, and runs Northwards into Doddington-street. Betwixt which and Beauchamp-street, is Brook-Market, a good, large, and convenient Place, with Shambles, a Market-House, and Stalls, &c. for that Use; but is of small Resort, as to the Market, but the Shambles are well served with Meat.

ON the West Side of this Street, is a Passage into Gray's-Inn-lane, through Fox-court; as also through Bell-court.

Grevile-street comes out of Brook-street, and falls into Leather-lane; the like doth Beauchamp-street, and Doddington-street. All which said Streets are graced with good new Brick Buildings, well inhabited.

BUT now, without Ludgate, on the Right Hand, or North Side, from the said Gate, lieth the Old-Bailey. Then the High-Street, called Ludgate-street, down to Fleet-lane; in which Lane stands the Fleet, a Prison-House, so called of the Fleet, or Water, running by it, and some Time flowing about it, but now vaulted over.

Richard I. in the first Year of his Reign, confirmed to Osbert (Brother to William Longshampe, Chancellor of England, and Elect of Ely) and to his Heirs for ever, the Custody of his House, or Palace, at Westminster, with the keeping of his Jail of the Fleet, at LONDON. Also King John, by his Patent, dated the 3d of his Reign, gave to S. Archdeacon of Wells, the Custody of the said King's House at Westminster, and his Jail of the Fleet, together with the Wardship of the Daughter and Heir of Robert Leve-land, &c.

ABOUT the Year 1586, the Prisoners of the Fleet petitioned the Lords of the Council. The Warden had let and set to Farm, the Victualling and Lodging of all the said House and Prison, to one John Harvey; and the other Profits of the said Fleet he had let to one Thomas Newport, then Deputy there, under the Warden; and these two, being very poor Men, having neither Land, nor any Trade, to live by, nor any certain Wages of the said Warden; so that these, being also greedy of Gain, lived by Bribing and Extortion. And they did most shamefully extort and exact from the Prisoners, and raised new Customs, Fines and Payments, for their own Advantage; and cruelly used them, shutting them up in close Prisons, when they found Fault with their wicked Dealings, not suffering them to come and go within the said Prison, as they ought to do; nor permitting their Friends to come to them that should travel in their Causes for their better Relief; which, with other their abominable Misdemeanours, without Reformation, might be the poor Prisoners utter Undoing.

AND for the doing these Wrongs with the greater Secrecy, they made away with a Book that was always ready to be shewed, containing all Orders and Constitutions of the said House; that all Men committed might see what they ought to have in the said Prison; and what every one ought to do, touching all Manner of Duties, Rights, Constitutions and Ordinances, to be observed and kept in the Fleet. The Customs of which Fleet were, that every Prisoner should have Meat, Drink, and other Necessaries and Commodities, and be well and decently used, as was meet for every Man's Degree.

ALL this the Prisoners set forth in their Petition; and therefore prayed their Lordships to appoint Commissioners to come to the Fleet, and examine Newport and Harvey. And to separate the one from the other, that they might have no Conference together. And so be examined severally, upon Interrogatories already prepared to be ministred to them. And that the Prisoners might be examined touching their Doings; and to take such good Order for the Redress thereof, as to their Lordships should seem convenient.

IN the said Year 1586, a Commission was granted for the Relief of the Fleet. And for more convenient Use, the Recorder Fleetwood, by Commandment of the Archbishop of Canterbury, did abbreviate and explain it.

FURTHER, in the Year 1593, the Prisoners of the Fleet preferred a Bill to the Parliament, touching the Orders and Reformation of the Fleet, which Joachim Newton, Deputy-Warden, did all he could to hinder. They therefore petitioned the Lord Treasurer Burghley to forward it; and to shew what Reason they had to exhibit this Bill, they sent a Paper of Articles, in Number 28, of the Murders and other Misdemeanors of the said Joachim.

IN the Year 1729, great Complaints having been made of Abuses committed in this and other Prisons, a Committee of the House of Commons was appointed to make an Enquiry into the State of the Jails, by whom such Enormities were discovered, that the Warden of the Fleet, John Huggins, Esq; and his Deputy, Thomas Bambridge, were turned out of their Offices, and committed to Newgate; and the former tried for the Murder of one of his Prisoners, by locking him in a Dungeon, without any Provision, either of Food or Raiment, where he perished in a deplorable Manner; but the Jury, upon the Trial, bringing in a special Verdict, he was afterwards acquitted. However, this occasioned an Act of Parliament for the better Regulation of Jails for the future.

NEAR the Gate of this Prison stood a Bridge over Fleet-ditch, but is taken down, the Ditch being at this Time filling up, for the Purposes mentioned Book I. Chap. III.

AGAINST the South End of Shoe-lane in ancient Time stood a Water Conduit, whereof Will. Eastfield, some Time Mayor was Founder. For the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON, being possessed of a Conduit Head, with divers Springs of Water gathered thereinto, in the Parish of Paddington, and the Water conveyed from thence, by Pipes of Lead, towards LONDON to Tyburn, where it had lain for the Space of six Years, and more. The Executors of Sir William Eastfield obtained Licence of the Mayor and Commonalty for them in the Year 1453, with the Goods of Sir William, to convey the said Waters, first in Pipes of Lead, into a Pipe begun to be laid beside the great Conduit Head at Marybone, which stretches from thence to a Separa, late before made against the Chapel of Rounseval, by Charing-cross, and no further: And then from thence to convey the said Water into the City, and there to make Receipt or Receipts for the same, to the Common Weal of the Commonalty, viz. the Poor to drink, the Rich to dress their Meat; which Water was by them thus brought into Fleet-street, to a Standard which they had made and finished, 1471, near Shoe-lane.

THE Inhabitants of Fleet-street, in the Year 1478, obtained Licence of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty, to make (at their own Charges) two Cisterns, the one to be set at the said Standard, the other at Fleet-bridge, for the Receipt of the waste Water. This Cistern at the Standard they built, and on the same a fair Tower of Stone, garnished with Images of St. Christopher on the Top, and Angels round about lower down, with sweet sounding Bells before them; whereupon, by an Engine placed in the Tower, they, divers Hours of the Day and Night, with Hammers, chimed such an Hymn as was appointed.

THIS Conduit, or Standard, was again new built, with a larger Cistern, at the Charges of the City, in the Year 1582.

THIS Conduit in Fleet-street, with some others built at the City's Charge, cost 2000 l.

Will. Carwode, by his Will, about 1416, gave his Tenement and Garden, called St. Andrew's-cross cross on the Hoop, in Fleet-street, in the Parish of St. Dunstan's, lying between the Tenement of the Prior and Convent of Royston, called, The Key on the Hoop, on the East, and the Tenement of the Carmelites on the West, &c. to Robert Carwode his Son.

Robert Mauncel, by his Will, 14 — gave his Tenement, called St. Andrew's-cross on the Hoop, with a Garden, situate in the Parish of St. Dunstan's in Fleet-street, between the Tenement of the Prior and Convent of Royston, called The Key on the Hoop, on the East, and the Tenement of the Carmelite Fryars on the West, extending itself to the Church of the said Carmelite Fryars to the South.

THESE Places are also named in the old Register of Wills and Testaments :

Hospitium, an Inn vocat. Popyngaye in Fleet-street, spectan. ad Abb. & Convent. de Circeftree. Now called Poppinger-alley.

Hospitium Abbatis de Valle Reali in Fleet-street, LONDON. Anno 1375.

The PARISH of St. DUNSTAN in the West.

FROM where this Conduit stood, up to Fewter's, or Fetter-lane, and further, is the Parish of St. Dunstan, called in the West, for Difference from St. Dunstan in the East, in treating of which last named Church, Book II. Chap. II. is an Account of the Saint to whom they are both dedicated.

THE exact Time when this Church was first built, is uncertain ; but it must be less than 750 Years ago, because St. Dunstan has not been dead quite so long ; but that it was built above 300 Years ago, appears from Thomas Duke's being there buried, who built St. Catharine's Chapel, Anno 1421, (as Mr. Stow has it) and Nicholas Conningstone and John Knapp founded Chuntries here. It was a fair beautiful Church in 1632, though it had not been then repaired of 20 Years ; and it fortunately escaping the Destruction by the calamitous Fire of 1666, (which came very near this Church on that Side Fleet-street, and somewhat Westward of it on the South Side that Street,) it was much altered for the better, beautified and repaired in the Year 1701, the old arched Roof being taken down, and a handsome square one, more lofty built, in lieu thereof ; and the Windows, &c. added, rendering the Church more pleasant and ornamental. All which was done by an Assesment on the Parish, according to the Poor's Rate, and amounted to about the Sum of 1500 l.

THIS Church is built of Brick and Stone, covered with a handsome Finishing on the Outside the Walls ; and it is mostly now of the Tuscan Order of Building, though some Part is of the modern Gothick.

THE Ornament of this Church consists (on the Out-side) of a Nich and Pediment at the East End, and of a Clock on the South Side, near the West End ; here being two Figures of Savages, or Wild Men, well carved in Wood, and painted natural Colour, appearing as big as the Life, standing erect, with each a knotty Club in his Hand, wherewith they alternately strike the Quarriers, not only their Arms, but even their Heads moving at every Blow : They are placed so under an Arch of the Clockhouse, which is of the Ionick Order, as to be visible to such as pass on the South Side of the Street, whence they are more admired by many of the Populace on Sundays, than the most elegant Preacher from the Pulpit within. These Figures were set up in the Year 1671.

THE Roof, or Ceiling of this Church is now square, adorned with a spacious Quadrangle of deep Mouldings, Crocket-Work, an Elipsis, Roses, &c. of Fret-Work ; and above the Pillars, which support the Roof, there is an Entablament of Painted Wainscot extending round the Church ; on the North-West and South Sides whereof, there are Galleries of the like Wainscot, and the Fronts are Bolection-Work, with an Architrave, Frise and Cornice, and the Pulpit is of the same Kind of Work, and the Church is well pewed with Oak.

THE Altar-Piece consists of two Columns of the Ionick Order, between which are the Commandments, and these placed between the Lord's Prayer and Creed, all done in Gold Letters on Black, adorned with painted Cherubims ; over which is a Cornice, and in the Middle of that is a Globe between two Bibles, erected and gilt with Gold, denoting the wonderful spreading of the pure Gospel over the World, all which Altar-Piece is fenced in with Rail and Ballister, and the Space inclosed is paved with Marble.

THE Dimensions of the Church are as follows ; Length 90 Feet, Breadth (at the West End) 60, Height 36, and the Altitude of the Tower and Turret about 100 Feet.

MONUMENTS.

Here lie buried T. Duke, Skinner, in St. Katharine's Chapel, by him built 1421.

Ralph Bane, Bishop of Coventry and Litchfield, 1559.

(And Ogletborp, Bishop of Carlisle, the same Year.)

Nicholas Conningston, John Knape, and others, founded Chuntries there.

A fair Table in a Glasse, upon a Pillar in the Middle Isle, thus written on :

The comfortable Farewell of a young Infant, fighed out in his dying Sicknes, to his mournfull Parents.

Let not my Father grieve, or Mother moane
That I this wretched World have soone forgone :
Better I dye
before I doe amisse,
Than live to sinne,
and be bereft of Blisse.
All that I can be charged with
at the Tribunal Throne, Is Sinne originall,
for actual I have none.
And that I know
my Saviour with his Blood Hath washt away,
and made my Badness good
And 'cause I know (though Knowledge I have small)

VOL. I.

That Jesus Christ did dye to save us all;
I passe with Joy, in Heaven
to meet my King,
With Angels and Archangels
there to sing.
Then Father mourne,
and Mother weep no more,
I now dye rich, that might have liv'd but poore;
For had I progreſt
unto Man's Estate,
It is not certaine
what would be my Fate :
Whether a Crosse or Blessing I should prove,
Or merit Parents
direful Hate, or Love.
For oft you see, how Youths rebellious Prankes, Make Sonnes ingrate, to those they owe most Thanks.
And might not I have beene among the Number
Of those that doe their Parents States incumber ?
Yes, yes, I might, perhaps,
have been a Slave,
And kill'd your Hearts with Care,
and digg'd your Grave.
But now my filly Dove-like Soule doth part
In Peace of God
and Love of Parents Heart.
Sweet Innocence, my Shield,
I bear in Hand,
To guard me towards that most Holy Land.
Where Parents both,
and Sister I shall see,
In God's appointed Time
triumphantly.
Till when,
Adieu, sweet Parents,
Jehovah calls away,
My Name is * Simon

When Earth her Flowre
Embroydery doth display,
Jane Watson, one of Vertues Flowers most faire,
For Beauty, Wit, and Worth,

A fair Monument over the Vestry-Door, in the Chancel, with this Inscription :

In Memory of the Honourable and Vertuous Margaret Talbot, Widow ; who deceased the 31st of March, 1620.

By this small Statue (Reader)
is but showne,
That she was buried here ;
but hadst thou knowne
The Piety, and Vertues of her Minde,
Thou would'st have said,
Why was not she enshrined ?
Both Vere's and Windfor's best Blood fill'd the Veines, She matcht with Talbot,
yet their noble Straines
Were farre below her Vertue, in whose Breast,
God had infus'd his Graces
'bove the rest.

Of all her Sex ; whose sacred
Course of Life,
Both in the State of Widow,
Maid, and Wife,
For each she had beene,
though her latter Dayes Chaste Widowhood crown'd,
to her immortall Praise,
Was so immaculate,
she deserves to be
The Crystal Mirrour
to Posterity.
More Honour hast thou
by her Burial here,
Dunstan, than to thee
chanc'd this many a Yeere.
Earth from her Coffin
heave thy ponderous Stones,
And for thy sacredst Relique keep her Bones.
Since, spite of Envy,
it cannot be deny'd,
Saint-like she lived,
and like a Saint she dy'd.

A Table hanging upon a Pillar, in the Middle Row of Pews, with this Inscription :

On the Death of the Discreet and Vertuous Mistrisse Mary Davies, Daughter of Thomas Croft, of Okley Parke, in the County of Salop, Esquire, and Wife of John Davies, of Hereford. She died on New-yeere's-day, 1612, Here lies her Dust,

who in a Span of Life,
Compass the Vertue
of the worthiest Wife :
If oddes there be (well measured) 'twill be found,
She more acquir'd ;
so her bright Stocke renown'd,
And to those Wives
that Glory most doe gaine
She was a Mirrour that no Breath could staine ;
Though she a Female were,
her Judgment was,
To truest Masculines,
a truer Glasse :
For she by Nature, Grace,
and Wisdome too,
Shew'd by a Woman,
what best Men should doe
In their best Actions :
For she acted nought
That came not from a grave and gracious Thought.
But Nature (though familiar,
yet most strange,
Shewing how much
She doth delight in Change,
In thousand Fashions doth herself array)
Permits nought heere to stand at constant Stay.
And Time and Death
with her therein conspire, Else had these Ashes still held vitall Fire.
But these just Lines,
in Time and Death's Despight,
Shall leade all Times
To do her Vertue Right.

A good Name is better than a good Oyntment, and the Day of Death, than the Day that one is born, Eccles. vii. 3.

Queen ELIZABETH's Monument.

Here lies her Type, who was of late
The Prop of Belgia, Stay of France,
Spaine's Foile; Faith's Shield, and Queen of State, of Armes, of Learning, Fate, and Chance:
In briefe, of Women ne're was seene, so good a Prince, so good a Queene.

Sith Vertue Her immortal made,
Death (envying all that cannot dye)
Her Earthly Parts did so invade,
As in it wrackt Self-Majesty.
But so her Spirit inspired her Parts,
That she still lives in Loyal Hearts.

Many Daughters have done well, but thou excellest them all.

I have fought a good Fight, I have finished my Course, I have kept the Faith.

Righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that Day; and not me only, but to them also that love his appearing,*
2 Tim. iv. 7, 8.

ON a neat small white Marble Monument, adorned with a Cherub, Cartouch Pediment,
two weeping Boys, and these Arms:

Sable, a Stag at Gaze, Argent, impaled with Azure [which is accounted false Heraldry] three Bucks lodged Gules, is this Inscription:

Near this Place lyeth interred the Body of Henry Jones, late of this Parish, and of the Inner-Temple, Clock-maker, Son of William Jones, heretofore Vicar of Boulder, in the County of Southampton.

He was industrious, honest, and charitable;
five poor Widows having annually the Benefit thereof for ever. He died the 26th of November, 1695, aged 63 Years.

NORTH Isle, Giles Champion, 1697.

ON the North Wall of the North Isle, near the East End, on an elliptical moulded Stone, much decayed, is this Inscription:

Near the Foot of this Pillar, under a Tomb-Stone, with these Arms, lyes the Body of Mary Colclough, the most deservedly beloved and lamented Wife of Adam Colclough. This is only intended to tell you who she was; for her Ver-tues ought rather to be imitated every where, than recited here. She was Daughter to Coll.
Blagge, Governor of Yarmouth and Languard Fort, Captain of the Yeomen of the Guards, and of the Bedchamber to his Majesty that now is.
Her Mother was Daughter of Sir Roger North, and of his Wife, mentioned in the Monument
at the Head of this Isle.

Their Arms are: Argent, five Eagles displayed in Saltier, Sable, impaled with Argent, two Bends engrailed, Gules.

AT the East End of the North Isle, a spacious black and white Marble Monument, adorned with his Effigies under an Alcove Mantling, Vo-luta's, Festoons, &c. this Inscription:

Inter Exuvias Mortis hic requiescit in pace
Gulielmi Morecroft, Armigeri Clerici Argenti protektoris, nuper Argenti Regis. Qui obiit ult.
die Aug. Anno Dom. 1657.

NUMBER of Houses 853.

IN this Parish are two Charity-Schools, one for 50 Boys, who are educated in the Principles of the Christian Religion, and in Reading, Writing, and Arithmetick and Psalmody, four of whom are taught Navigation. The other is for 40 Girls, who are farther taught to Work, get up Linnen, and what else is necessary to fit them for Services; and they make all the Linnen, and knit the Gloves and Stockings for both Schools. The Boys and Girls are compleatly cloathed at Easter; besides which, in the Month of October, each Boy has a Pair of Shoes and Stockings; and the Girls Shoes, Stockings, and Pattens. They are publickly examined in the Quest-Room four times every Year before the Subscribers, and every Sunday Evening before their Parents and Friends, except when they attend the Evening Lecture. In this Parish is a Work-house for the Poor.

NEXT to St. Dunstan's Church is Clifford's-Inn, some Time belonging to Robert Clifford, by Gift of Edward II. in these Words.

"The King granteth to Robert Clifford, that Messuage, with the Appurtenances, next the Church of St. Dunstane in the West, in the Suburbs of LONDON. Which Messuage was some Time Malculine's de Herley; and came to the Hands of Edward I. by Reason of certain Debts, which the said Malculine was bound at the Time of his Death to our said Father, from the Time that he was Escheator on this Side Trent. Which House John Earl of Richmond did hold at our Pleasure, and is now in our Possession.

Patent the 3d of Edward II.

AFTER the Death of this Robert Clifford, Isabel his Wife let the same Messuage to Students of the Law, as by the Record following may appear:

Isabel, quæ fuit uxor Roberti Clifford, Messuagium unipartitum, quod Robertus Clifford habuit in Parochia S. Dunstani, West. in Suburbio Londini, &c. tenuit, & illud dimisit post mortem dict. Roberti Apprenticiis de Banco, pro 10 l. Annuatim, &c. Anno 18 Edvardi tertii, inquitis post mortem Roberti Clifford.

THIS House fell afterwards into the King's Hands, but returned again to the Cliffords; and, in Stow's Time, was let to the said Students for 4 l. a Year.

SOMEWHAT beyond this Clifford's-Inn is the South End of Chancery-lane, formerly called New-street, on the Right Hand of which is Serjeants-Inn, called Serjeants-Inn in Chancery-lane.

AND

AND then next was some Time the House of the converted Jews, founded by King Hen. III. in Place of a Jew's House to him forfeited, in the Year 1233, and the 17th of his Reign; who built there for them a fair Church, now used, and called The Chapel for the Custody of Rolls and Records of Chancery. It stood not far from the Old-Temple, but in the Mid-way between the Old-Temple and the New. In which House all such Jews and Infidels as were converted to the Christian Faith, were ordained and appointed (under an honest Rule of Life) sufficient Maintenance. Whereby it came to pass, that in short Time there were gathered a great Number of Converts which were baptized, instructed in the Doctrine of Christ, and there lived under a learned Christian appointed to govern them.

If the Letter following to King Edward was sent from this House, as it seems to be, it appears from thence that they were of the Carthusian Profession, and that they received yearly Allowance from the Crown. And that this King, as this House was founded by his Father, continued his Favour to it. In the 6th of his Reign, viz. Anno 1278, they sent one with their Letter, named Fryar John the Convert, to bring the King's Charity. Which Letter was penned after this submissive Manner by them, stiling themselves Calicolæ Christi, i. e. Christ's heavenly Inhabitants, but very poor.

Illuſtriffimo & Magnifico Dno. Regi Angliæ, &c. Pauperes Calicolæ Christi, & Conventus Dom. Dat. An. Dom.

M°. cc°. Lxx. viii. In craſtino be Lucie.

SINCE which Time, viz. in the Year 1290, all the Jews in England were baniſhed out of the Realm; whereby the Number of Converts in this Place was almoſt decayed; and therefore in the Year 1377, this Houſe was annexed by Patent to William Bruſtall, Clerk, Cuſtos Rotulorum, or Keeper of the Rolls of the Chancery, by Edward III. in the 51ſt Year of his Reign, (or rather the 50th, which was the laſt Year of his Reign;) and this firſt Maſter of the Rolls was ſworn in Weſtminſter-hall, at the Table of Marble Stone; ſince which Time that Houſe has been commonly called the Rolls in Chancery-lane.

IN the 15th of the ſaid King Edward III. his Reign, that King annexed by Letters Patents this Houſe to the Office of Cuſtos Rotulorum; and there was an Act, wherein it was ſaid, "That the Chancellor, or Keeper of the Great Seal, after the Voidance of the ſaid Office of keeping the Rolls, ſhould inſtitute, ſucceſſively, the Keeper of the Rolls in the ſaid Houſe of the Convents." After which Act of Parliament John de Waltham, Guardian, or Keeper of the Rolls, obtained of Rich. II. in the 6th of his Reign, Letters, Patents, whereby the King granted to him and his Succeſſors, Keepers of the Rolls, the Houſe of Converts. This John of Waltham was after Biſhop of Salisbury, and after Treasuſer of England.

NOTWITHSTANDING, ſuch of the Jews, or other Infidels, as have in this Realm been converted to Chriſtianity, and baptized, have been relieved there; for it is in Record, that one William Piers, a Jew, that became a Chriſtian, was baptized in the 5th of Richard II. and had 2 d. a Day allowed him during his Life, by the ſaid King.

IN the Reign of Henry IV. there was one Elizabeth, Daughter of a Rabbi (who was intituled The Biſhop of the Jews) that was a Convert; to whom, beſides a Penny a Day paid her by the Keeper of this Houſe of Converts, out of a Branch of the Exchequer, appointed for that Purpoſe, the King of his Grace granted another Penny a Day for her Life, according to a Patent to this Tenour, Rex omnibus ad quos, &c. Salutem Sciatis quod de gra' noſtra ſpeciali, Conceſſimus Elizabethæ Filix Rabi Moyſes, Episcopi Judæorum, unum denarium per diem, ultra unum denarium, quem ead. Elizabetha, ut una Judæorum ad fidem Chriſtianorum converſa, per manus Cuſtodis Domus Converſorum LONDON. de ſumma pro hujusmodi Converſis, ad Scaccarium precipienda, assignata, ſingulis diebus percipit. Habendum & percipiendum dictum Denarium diurnum per nos eid. Elizab. tenore præſentium conceſſum, una cum dicto altero Denario, &c.

THE Building is of Brick, Boulder, and ſome Free-Stone; the Doors and Windows are Gothick; the Roof is covered with Slate; the Ornament of the Preſſes for Rolls on the Inſide, is Columns and Pilasters of the Ionick and Composite Orders.

It is in Length 60 Feet, in Breadth 33.

IN this Chapel of the Rolls, againſt the Eaſt Wall, is a venerable Monument for Dr. Yong, ſome Time Maſter of the Rolls. It is cut in the Figure of a well wrought Stone Coffin, on which lies along a Man moſt artificially carved in Stone, with a Cap with Corners, covering his Ears, and Scarlet Gown, his Hands lying upon his Breſt a-croſs. On the Wall, juſt above him, the Head and Shoulders of our Saviour appearing out of the Clouds, looking down upon him; and two Angels on each Side of our Saviour. Underneath this Figure is this Inſcription in Capitals, viz.

Jo. Yong, L. L. Doctori, ſacrorum ſcriniorum ac hujus Domus Cuſtodi, Decano olim Ebor. Vita deſuncto xxv Aprilis, ſui fideles Executores hoc poſuerunt M. D. XVI.

Upon the Baſe of the Coffin, Dominus Firmamentum meum.

ON the North Side of this Chapel is a magnificent Monument, adorned with the Effigy of an old Gentleman in a long Robe, in full Proportion, cumbant on his Right Side, his Head reſting on his Hand; this is between two Columns (with gilded Capitals) and Entablature of the Corinthian Order; and lower, on the Front, are four ſmaller Figures in a kneeling Poſture. The Inſcription is:

Sacræ Memorix

His Arms : Or, a Saltier, Gules, a Chief of the 2d, on a Canton, Argent, a Lyon Rampant, Azure : These also impaled with Or, a Bend ingrailed, Azure :

Up the Chancel Steps, on the South Side of the Chapel, is a spacious Monument of the Corinthian Order, with the Figures of a Man, Woman, and three Children, in a kneeling Posture, and this Inscription :

Hospes qui fuerim quondam, si quaeris, Amice,
Nomen ALLINGTONUS stirps Generosa fuit,
Hac Monumenta mihi Conjux fidiſſima ſtruxit,
Quæque mihi ſtruxit deſtinat illa ſibi.

Sunt Vultus quarum, marmora ſculpta tenent ;
Cum matre has omnes precor ut poſt Funera ſumme
Cælica perduca in tua Regna Deus.

Arms : a Bend between ſix Billets, &c.
10. Coats, Quarterly ; but the Colours not diſcernable.

At the North Weſt Angle of this Chapel is a Bench, &c. where the Maſter of the Rolls hears Cauſes in Chancery.

THE Miniſter is appointed by the Maſter of the Rolls, the Honourable Sir Joſeph Jekyll.

THERE are Prayers upon Sundays and Holidays, at about Eleven and Three. The preſent Preacher is the Rev. Dr. Bolton. His Salary is about 20 l. each Term : It is reckoned a Place of great Credit.

ATTENDANCE is alſo given in this Chapel, from Ten to Twelve daily, for taking in and paying out Money, (according to Order of Court,) and for making Searches of Rolls, &c. by ſuch as come for that Purpoſe.

ON the Weſt Side of Chancery-lane was ſome Time an Houſe belonging to the Prior of Neſton Park, a Houſe of Canons in Lincolnſhire. This was commonly called Hereſſete-Inn, and was a Brewhouſe, but now built for the Six Clerks of the Chancery, and ſtands over-againſt the ſaid Houſe, called the Rolls ; and near unto the Lane which entered Ficket's-cross, or Fricket's-field, now called Carey-ſtreet.

THERE was an Act made for Assurance of a Tenement to the Six Clerks of the Chancery, called Hereſſete-Inn, in Chancery-lane, and for making them a Corporation. See Acts of Parliament enrolled 32 Hen. VIII. And in the 37th Year of the ſame King, another Act paſſed for the ſame. Under theſe Six Clerks, are 60 Clerks more for the neceſſary Diſpatch of Buſineſs. And the late Lord Chancellor Jefferies added 30 Clerks more, in all amounting to the Number of 90 ; which the other Clerks took great Offence at ; and therefore there was afterwards an Endeavour to reduce them to the old Number, by not filling up the Vacancy by Death.

THE laſt Place on the North Side of Fleet-ſtreet is Shere, or Shire-lane, which opened alſo into the Place formerly called Fricket's-field. On this Side Fleet-ſtreet, in the Year of Chriſt 1595, Stow ſays it was obſerved, that when the Labourers had broken up the Pavement from againſt Chancery-lane End, up toward St. Dunſtan's Church, and had digged four Feet deep, they found another Pavement of hard Stone, more ſufficient than the firſt, and therefore harder to be broken ; under which they found, in the made Ground, Piles of Timber, driven very thick, and almoſt cloſe together ; the ſame being as black as Pitch or Coal, and many of them rotten as Earth ; which proves that the Ground there (as fundry other Places of this City) has been a Mariſh, or full of Springs.

ON the South Side of Fleet-ſtreet, from Ludgate, before the Wall of the City, are built ſeveral good Houſes to Fleet-bridge ; on which was, in antient Times, a Ciſtern for the Receipt of Spring-Water, made by the Men of Fleet-ſtreet.

NEXT is Bride-lane, and therein Bridewel, of old Time the King's Houſe ; for the Kings of this Realm have been there lodged, and their Courts of Law have been there kept of old Time. And, 'till the 9th of Henry III. the Courts were kept in the King's Houſe, whereſoever he was lodged, as may appear by antient Records.

KING Henry VIII. built there a ſtately and beautiful Houſe, new, for the Reception of the Emperor Charles V. who, in the Year 1522, was lodged himſelf at Black-fryars ; but his Nobles in this new built Bridewel, a Gallery being made over the Water, and through the Wall of the City, into the Emperor's Lodging at Black-fryars. King Henry himſelf oftentimes lodged there alſo, as namely, in the Year 1525, a Parliament being then held in Black-fryars. He created States of Nobility there, viz.

Henry Fitz-Roy, a Child, whom he had by Elizabeth Blunt, to be Earl of Nottingham, Duke of Richmond and of Somerſet.

Henry Courtney, Earl of Devonſhire, Couſin-German to the King, to be Marquis of Exeter.

Henry Brandon, a Child of two Years old, Son to the Earl of Suffolk, to be Earl of Lincoln.

Sir Thomas Manners, Lord Roſs, to be Earl of Rutland.

Sir Henry Clifford, to be Earl of Cumberland.

Sir Robert Ratcliff, to be Viſcount Fitzwater.

Sir Thomas Boloue, Treafurer of the King's Houſhold, to be Viſcount Rockford.

IN the Year 1528, Cardinal Campeius was brought into the King's Preſence, being then at Bridewel, whither he had called all his Nobility, Judges, and Counſellors, &c. And there, the 8th of November, in his great Chamber, he made to them an Oration touching his Marriage with Queen Katharine.

IN the Year 1529, the ſame King Henry and Queen Katharine were lodged there, whiſt the Queſtion of their Marriage was argued in Black-fryars, &c.

IN the Year 1553, the 7th of Edward VI. the 10th of April, Sir George Barne, being Mayor of this City, was ſent for to the Court at White-hall, and there, at that Time, the King gave to him, for the Commonalty and Citizens, to be a Workhouſe for the poor and idle Perſons of this City, his Houſe of Bridewel, and 700 Marks in Land, late of the Poſſeſſions of the Houſe of the Savoy ; and all the Bedding and other Furnitnre of the ſaid Hoſpital of the Savoy, towards the Maintenance of the ſaid Workhouſe of Bridewel, and the Hoſpital of St. Thomas in Southwark.

THIS Gift King Edward confirmed by his Charter, dated the 26th of June, next following. And in the Year 1555, in the Month of February, Sir William Gerard, Mayor, and the Aldermen, entered Bridewel, and took Poſſeſſion thereof, according to the Gift of the ſaid King Edward. The ſame was alſo confirmed by Queen Mary.

CONCERNING the forwarding of this good Work of Bridewel, and bringing it to a deſired Perfection, Perfection, this Act of Common-Council was made the last of February, in the 2d and 3d Years of Philip and Mary.

“ Forasmuch as King Edward VI. had given “ his House of Bridewel unto the City, partly “ for the setting of idle and lewd People to “ work, and partly for the lodging and har“ bouring of the Poor, Sick, Weak, and Sore
 “ People of this City; and of poor Wayfaring “ People repairing to the same: And had, for “ this last Purpose, given the Bedding and Fur“ niture of the Savoy to that Purpose. There“ fore, in Consideration that very great Charges
 “ would be required to the fitting of the said “ House, and the buying of Tools and Bed“ ding, the Money was ordered to be gotten up “ among the rich People of the Companies of “ LONDON, &c.

THERE is a Chapel belonging to Bridewel Precinct, which was enlarged and beautified at the proper Cost and Charge of the Governors and Inhabitants of this Precinct, in the Year of our Lord 1620, Sir Thomas Middleton being then President, and Mr. Thomas Johnson Treasurer of this Hospital.

THE Enlargement was by taking in of a large Room, that (before the Date above-named) joined upon the Head of the Chapel. This Ground adding to the Length of it (at the full Breadth going with it) 24 Feet and better.

THIS Room thus taken in, trimmed, beautified, and consecrated, was made a handsome Chapel, it being before a Room empty, waste, rude, and unsightly, though then in the Use deserving a fair Commendation; for then the Ground that is now a Chancel to the Prisoners of the House, was a Chapel; into which, every Sabbath, through a bye or backward Passage, they were brought from their several Lodgings to hear Divine Service and Sermons.

CLOSE by the Pulpit hung the Picture of King Edward VI. with these Lines under it:

This Edward of fair Memory the Sixt,
 In whom with Greatness, Goodness was commixt,
 Gave this Bridewel, a Palace in old Times,
 For a chastising House of vagrant Crimes.

IN this Chapel also was Queen Elizabeth's Monument, with the common Verses:

Here lyēs her Type, &c.

But being destroyed by the Fire in the Year 1666, it was re-edified and finished Anno 1668, in the Manner hereafter described:

It is a very pleasant Chapel, having a square Roof, and two Galleries at the North and West Sides, supported by Columns of the Tuscan Order; at which West End are Places for the Hospital Boys, and others for the Prisoners; the Walls are Brick; the Wainscot and Finishing very neat. The Altar-Piece consists of two Pilasters, with their Entablature and Circular Pediment of the Corinthian Order; between which are the Commandments done in Gold on Black, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed in Gold on Blue, in gilt Frames, and farther enriched with gilt Cherubims, Leaves, Fruit, &c. carved in Relievo; the Chancel was paved with Black and White Marble at the first Building; but now the whole Floor of the Chapel is paved in the same Manner, the last Part, with a handsome Pair of Iron Gates, were the Gift of Sir William Withers, as mentioned before in Book I. Chap. XIV. in which Chapter see more of Bridewel Hospital.

To this Chapel and Precinct belong the following Officers, the Reverend Dr. Yalden, Minister, chosen by the Governors; the Lecturer the Reverend Mr. Penwarene; two Chapel-Wardens, one in the House, the other in the Precinct; and one Constable living within the House, generally the Porter thereof.

HERE are Prayers Wednesdays, Fridays, and Holidays at Ten in the Forenoon.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

PART of Bride-lane, Water-street, King Tudor-street, King Edward-street, and Part of Crown-alley.

NUMBER of Houses, in the Hospital 29, without 62, in the whole Precinct 91.

IN King James the First's Time, Store-houses were erected here for the Use of the City, to prevent any Dearth; for Anno 1608, it was considered what an unspeakable Increase there was of People, as well Strangers as Natives, in and about the City: Wherefore the careful Magistrates, for Prevention of Famine, and for Provision for the Poor, began to build here 12 new Granaries, sufficient to hold 6000 Quarters of Corn; and two Storehouses more, for Sea-Coal for the Poor, which might hold 4000 Loads of Coals. These Houses were finished Anno 1610; Alderman Leman took great Care and Pains in the contriving and accomplishing this useful Work. The like Care the City had at other Times before taken, for providing Food for the Inhabitants of the City, as well by Bread Corn laid up by the several Companies of LONDON, as in building and furnishing other Granaries.

OVER-against the North Side of this Bridewel, the Bishop of St. David's had his Inn, which Palace was granted in the Time of King Edward VI. in Fee-Farm of a Mark-Rent to Dr. Huick, the Physician: Under which Purchase the same was enjoyed long after.

The PARISH of ### St. BRIDGET, or St. BRIDE's.

NEAR this is the Parish-Church of St. Bridget, or St. Bride's, as it is commonly called.

THERE were two Saints named Bridget (or Bride) of especial Note; the one a Virgin, born in Scotland, or (as others say) in Ireland; the other a Widow, born in Sweedland, or Denmark; some term her the Queen of Sweedland.

BUT 'tis plain, that our Church of St. Bride, LONDON, was first dedicated to the Virgin Bridget, and not to the Widow, because it appears by what follows hereafter that there was a Clerk instituted to this our Church of St. Bride, under the Denomination of St. Bride, or St. Bridget, Anno 1632, which was before the Widow Bridget was canonized for a Saint, which was not 'till the Year 1391, as Heræus; or 1400, as Hospinian: We shall therefore here only treat of the Virgin St. Bridget.

St. Bridget, or St. Bride, the Virgin, as most Writers affirm, was born in Scotland, of honourable Parents; her Father's Name, says Possevin, was Daboth, who, said Dempster, was Vice-Roy of Cathnes in Scotland. Of this Bridget writes venerable Bede, Volaterian, and many others; but Giraldus Cambrensis, Capgrave, Surius, and some others write, that she was born in Ireland, whose Father's Name, say they, was Dubtacus, Dubtacus, come from a renowned Stock in Ireland, and her Mother was named Brofeca, a young Woman of an admirable Beauty, whom Dubtacus, her Master, got with Child, of whom came this Bridget, or Bride, famous afterwards for her holy Life and Miracles.

WHETHER she was a Scottish, or Irish Woman by Birth, is not much material: However, it is agreed on all Sides, that she was a Holy Virgin, living and dying in the Time of Justinus Major, Emperor, about the Year of our Lord 518, as some write; others, 525; the English Martyrologue, 540; John I. (as some say) being Pope of Rome, or, as others say, Boniface II.

THE English Martyrologue relates, that this Virgin Bridget was born in the County of Kildare, in Ireland, in a Town called Focart; and that after many Miracles done in Sign of her Sanctimony and Innocency of Life, she died in the Year of our Lord 540: And that there was a fair Church erected in her Honour, in the City of LONDON, which 'till this Day is yet remaining, commonly called St. Bride's; as also many others in England, Scotland, and the Isle of Man, and where it is recorded, that she lived some Time, and where is an antient Town and Church of her Name, still retaining the vulgar Denomination of St. Bride's.

HER Body was interred in the Town of Daune, or Dune, in the Province of Ulster, in a Tomb, together with the Bodies of St. Patrick and St. Columbe, which was afterwards miraculously revealed to the Bishop of that Place, as he was praying one Night, late in the Church, in the Year 1176, over which there shone a great Light.

Dunum (now named Down) is very antient, a Bishop's See, and remarkable for the Tomb of St. Patrick, St. Bridget and St. Columbe, who have this chiming Distich written upon them:

Hi tres in Duno cumulo tumulantur in uno, Brigida, Patricius, atque Columba pius.

One Tomb three Saints contain, one Vault below
Does Bridget, Patrick, and Columba shew.

THIS Monument of theirs, is said to have been demolished by Leonard Gray, Lord-Deputy in Henry VIII's Time.

SHE is said to be a Disciple of St. Patrick, and very famous both in Ireland, Scotland, and England; her Miracles, and the Fire which never goes out (being preserved and cherished in the inner Sanctuary, like that of Vesta, by the Sacred Virgins) and still burns without any Addition or Increase of Ashes, are related by some Authors.

It is said, this Holy Virgin, St. Bridget, came out of Ireland into Britain, to obtain some Reliques of her dear and honoured Patron, St. Patrick, where she passed some Years in a certain small Island, near Glastenbury, where there was an Oratory consecrated to the Honour of St. Mary Magdalen; the Island was called Bekery, or Little Ireland; afterwards having left behind her Scrip, Chain, Bell, and other Vestments of her own Wearing (which, for the Memory of her Sanctity, are there exposed) she returned into Ireland, where, not long after, she rested in the Lord, and was buried in the City of Down.

As to the Foundation of this Church, Mr. Stow says, it was antiently very small, which William Venor, Esq; Warden of the Fleet, about the Year 1480, increased with a large Body; and the Side Isles from the Choir, (which of old Time was the whole Church) down to the West End. All through the Church built of this Charges, was wrought in the Stone-Work, round about, both within and without, the Figure, or Likeness of a Vine, (a Rebus on his Name, as if it had been Viner;) with Clusters of Grapes amongst the Leaves, &c.

THE Partition betwixt the old Work and the new, some Time prepared as a Screene, to be set up in the Hall of the Duke of Somerset's House in the Strand, was bought for 160 l. and set up in the Year 1557. One willful Body began to spoil and break the same in the Year 1596; but was (by the High Commissioners) forced to make it up again.

THIS Church was Repaired at the Cost of the Parishioners, Anno Domini 1630, likewise in 1631, and 1632. The Battlements were then new built, so was the Middle Roof, and a handsome Gallery on the North Side; but being unhappily demolished by the Fire of LONDON, was Rebuilt very solidly of Stone, and finished in the Year 1680, it was Beautified in the Years 1698 and 1699, and in the Year 1732.

It has a cambered Roof, beautifully adorned with Arches of Fret-Work, between each of which is a Panel of Crocket-Work, and Fret-Work, and a Porthole Window.

It is a strong, pleasant, well built Church, and very regular, all the Apertures, &c. on the one Side answering exactly to those on the other. And the Roof is elevated on Pillars and Arches with Entablament of the Tuscan Order; the Groynings of which Arches are neatly carved, having a Rose between two large moulded Patens; on the Key-Stone of each Arch, a Seraph, and in the Middle between them a Shield, with Compartments and Imposts finely done, and gilt.

It is wainscotted round with Oak, about eight Feet high, having spacious Galleries on the North, South, and West Sides, with curious Fronts of deep Bolection-Works, as is the Pulpit, being carved and finned; which are also right Wainscot.

THE inner Door-Cases are five, two on the North, and two on the South Sides, of the Composite Order; and a very spacious one toward the West, having folding Doors, and adorned with Pilasters, Entablature, and Parabolically arched Pediment of the Ionick Order, all of Wainscot. And at the same West End of the Church is likewise a large strong outer Door-Case of the Ionick Order (as the other outer Door-Cases are) over which are these Words under a Seraph, Domus Dei: And the Church is well pewed.

THE Altar-Piece is beautiful and magnificent; the lower Part consists of six carved Columns (painted Flake-Stone Colour) with Entablature and Circular Pediment of the Corinthian Order, embellished with Lamps, Cherubims, &c. all gilt with Gold. Above a Circular Pediment are the King's Arms finely carved, gilt and painted, with the Supporters: Under the Pediment the Words in 1 Cor. x. 16. The Intercolumns are the Commandments; and here is also the Lord's Prayer and Creed. Over the former, the Words of Matth. vi. 8. and over the latter, the 2d Epistle of Timothy i. 13. all well done in Black, upon Gold. The upper Part is painted, and consists of six Columns, three on each Side, of a handsome arched five Light Window, with the Architrave, Frieze, and Cornice, finely done (white and veined) in strong Perspective: In the Front of which are the Portraits of Moses, with the two Tables in his Hands, and Aaron in his Priest's Habit; over the Window 'tis painted nebulous, and above the Clouds appears (from within a large Crimson-Velvet Festoon painted Curtain) a Celestial Choir, or a Representation of the Church Triumphant, in the Vision and Presence of a Glory in the Shape of a Dove, all finely painted, the Enrichments are gilt with Gold, and the whole is inclosed or fenced in with Rail and Ballister, and the Floor within that paved with Black and White Marble. Here are also three fine Branches.

THE Length of this Church is 111 Feet, Breadth 57, Height 41; and the Altitude of the Steeple is 234, which is above 30 more than that of the Monument. Sir Christopher Wren was the Architect, it consists of a Tower and lofty new Spire of Stone, adorned with Pilasters and Entablature of the Corinthian Order, arched Pediments, Lamps, &c. Here is a fine Ring of 12 Bells.

MONUMENTS.

John Ulsthorp, William Evesham, John Wigan, and others, founded Chuntries there.

John Ulsthorp, Citizen and Taylor (Scissor) LONDON, by his Will bearing Date Jan. the 25th, 1432, 11 Henry VI. gave to the Rector and Keepers of the Goods of the Church of St. Bridget's, three Tenements in Fleet-street: "One called the Tabard, situate between the "Tenement called the Castle, on the East, and "the Tenement called the George at Scho-lane "End, &c. the Tenement called the Rabyn; "and also his Tenement adjoining to it, situate, &c. and the Land of the Abbess of Godstow, &c. to have them for ever, on Condition that they find a Chaplain to celebrate, &c. at the Altar of St. Anne, in the Church of St. Bryget, for his Soul, and the Souls of his Parents, and Alice his Wife, &c. "And that the said Chaplain so intending pro posse to do Divine Services there, without having any other Service; and that he have his Chamber, and reside in the said Parish. "And willed, that the said Chaplain should have in his keeping, in the Almshouse (Almariolo) under the Altar aforesaid, one Missal, one Chalice with the Paten, one Casula de rubro velvet cum apparatis, for the principle Feasts, &c. And he willed, that the Rector and Keepers, pay yearly to the Chaplain for his Stipend, 10 Marks, at the four Terms of the Year. And moreover, to the Honour of God, he bequeathed to the said Rectors and Keepers of St. Bryget, those Shops, with Solars and Gardens adjoining, situate, &c. for the mending of the Church of St. Bryget, and for the bettering and repairing of the Goods and Ornaments thereof, for ever.

John Hill, of the Parish of St. Bridget, gave, by his Will, dated 1439, three Tenements in the said Parish, lying between Bride-lane on the West, and the Inn of the Abbot and Convent of Winchcomb, on the South, and Fleet-street on the North, to the Rector and Guardians of St. Bridget, to celebrate his Anniversary for ever. Dated 7 Oct. 1437.

One Anne Cokerer was here buried, by her Will, dated October the 8th, 1549. The Strain of whose Will, ran quite different from the Wills formerly made, viz. "Be it known unto "all Men, that this my Will, Anne Cokerer, being in good Health at that Time, That I do confess myself unto God in the seven deadly Synnes I have offended my Lord. I ask thee Mercy. My fyve Wytts I have much mispended. The Ten Commandments I have not fulfilled in all the Articles that belongeth thereto. Grievously I have offended my Lord. I ask thee Mercy, most merciful Ihesu, in that I have offended thee in Word, Will, Dede, or Thought. I ask thee Mercy,

VOL. I.

"most merciful Ihesu. I bequeath my Soul "into thy Mercy, and my Body to be buried "in St. Bryde's Church, before my Pew; and "40 s. to be gyvenne in Groats, to the Parish, "whereas most nede is, at the Discretion of "John Purcel, whom I make myne Executor, &c. I beseeche you, for the Love of "God, see me buried with the same Psalmes "that Mr. Starnell was buried with. The same Psalmes, as it seems, that were appointed to be used at Burials, in King Edward's Book of Common-Prayer.

ON a handsome Monument, in the South Wall of the Choir, was this Inscription:

Here lieth Edward Trussel, Citizen and Cloth-worker of LONDON, Son of Avery Trussel, of Bilseley, in the County of Warwicke, Esq; with Anne his Wife, Daughter of James Philpot. Which Anne departed this Life Anno Dom. 1586. And hee having lived 38 Yeeres in this Parish, departed in the Lord the Nineteenth Day of June, Anno Dom. 1613. Ætatis 67.

He left behind three Sons by the said Anne, and one Daughter by Elizabeth his second Wife. Jacobus, filius natu maximus Pietatis ergo posuit.

ON a fair Monument in the same Choir, in the East Corner of the Wall:

Here lieth James Kinnon, a Gentleman of Lentilo in Monmouthshire, a Citizen and Cannoniere, and a Souldier: He dyed aged 67 Yeeres, over-heating his Bloud in preparing of forty Chambers, at the Entertainment of the Prince in the Artillery-Garden. To the which Society he gave forty Chambers, and five Markes in Mony. To the Poore of the Parish hee gave 10 l. per Annum for one and twenty Yeeres; and to the Poore of Lentilo the like Summe, and five Pound present. He had one Wife, and one Sonne. Obiit 19 Decemb. Anno Dom. 1615.

It ever was his Wish to dye in Field
Or else at Sea. Fates
halfe his Wish did yeeld.
A Prince and Army
stood about him round:
Yet Age (o're wearied)
tooke the mortall Wound.
Arts Mathematicke
he both lov'd and knew;
In which his Skill increast,
as his Yeeres grew.
Wales gave him Breath, faire was his Birth and Name,
And though Death stole his Life, he left his Fame.

A very fair Monument standing in the South Isle, in the Chancel, with this Inscription:

In this Chancel lyeth buried Frances Trevor, Wife of Sir Thomas Trevor, Knight, Solicitor Generall to the Prince, at the Time of her Death; and now one of the Barons of the Exchequer. Shee was Daughter and Heire of Daniel Blenerhasset of Norfolke, Esquire. Shee died the 6th of January, 1624. In whose Memory her said Husband, hæc pie posuit.

They had a Daughter buried near unto her.

In this Chancel also was buried, the 6th of January, 1614, Prudenco Trevor, Daughter of 9 M Henry

Henry Butler, and former Wife to the said Sir Thomas; who bare him a Sonne named Thomas, now living. Also John Trevor, of Trewallyn, in Comitatu Denbighe, Esquire, Father to the said Sir Thomas, died the 15th of July, 1589, and lieth buried here.

Randulp Trevor, Brother to the said Sir Thomas, died the 21st of July, 1590, and is buried here.

Margarite, Neece to the said Sir Thomas, and Daughter of Sir Richard Trevor, of Trewallyn, Knight, was married to John Griffith, of Lyn, in Comitatu Carnarvon, Esquire, and left many Children; and was buried here the 19th of March, 1624.

IN the same Isle, at the Upper End of this Church, on a fair Monument, is this Inscription:

Here resteth the Body of Sir George Curzon, of Croxall, in the County of Derby, Knight, descended from antient Gentry, and of long Continuance in that Place; who, like the Race from whence hee came, was a Man of upright Life, religious, and hospitable. Hee tooke to Wife Mary, the Daughter of Sir Richard Levison, of Lellebull, in the County of Salop, Knight. By whom hee had Walter, who died young, and Mary, then his onely Daughter and Heire. Who was married to Edward Sackville, Earle of Dorset, Knight of the Honourable Order of the Garter. Which Lady caused this Monument to bee here infixed, to the sacred Memory of her deare Father. He departed this Life the 17th of November, 1622.

MONUMENTS of later Date.

AGAINST a Pillar on the South Side of the Altar, a small Monument, with this Inscription, in Gold Letters, on Black Marble:

Also two of their Children, Henry and Thomasin.

So 'tis, she's gone! farewell to all
Vain Mortals do Perfection call;
'To Beauty, Goodness, Modesty,
Sweet Temper, and true Piety;
'The rest an Angel's Pen must tell,
Long, long beloved Dust, farewell.
'The Blessings which we highest Prize
Are soonest ravished from our Eyes.

Over which is a black Urn, and these Arms: Sable, a Fess Dauncette, Ermin between three Doves, Argent, impaled with Sable, a Bend cottised between two Garbs, Or.

Here lyeth the Body of Thomas Flatman, eldest Son of Thomas Flatman, and Hannah his Wife, who resigned his beloved Soul the 28th of December 1682,

Who e're thou art, that look'st upon,
And read'st what lyes beneath this Stone;
What Beauty, Goodness, Innocence,
In a sad Hour was snatch'd from hence.
What Reason canst thou have to prize
The dearest Object of thine Eyes?
Believe this, Mortal, what thou valuest most,
And set'st thy Soul upon, is soonest lost.

The aforesaid Thomas Flatman, Senior, was a noted Poet, and judicious in Painting, and dying after his Son, was likewise here buried.

On the Stone are these Arms: A Chevron between Garbs, quartered with a Paly of Six, a Chevron. No Colours.

IN one of the Passages into the Church, on the North Side, is a Stone in the Wall with this Inscription :

Dormit non mortua est.

Near this Place lyeth interred the Body of Mrs. Rebekah Robinson, Wife of Mr. Brudenell Robinson, who departed this Life in Exchange for a better February the 9th, 1727, aged 58 Years.

O Passer by,
Thou, thou must dye
as well as I.
My Soul's at rest,
But thine's oppress'd,
My State is best.
Then let thy Care and Pleasure be,
To serve thy God, and rest with me.

Also here lies the Body of the above-mention'd Brudenell Robinson, who departed this Life on the 2d Day of February, 1729, in the 56th Year of his Age.

IN the same Passage, very near the last named, is another less Stone in the Wall, with the following Inscription, wrote by the late ingenious Mr. Beckingham, upon his Friend

ZADOCK SHERMENDINE.

Obiit 24 July 1729. Ætatis 67.

Flandria the Author wrote
it.

For Feats in * Flanders Plains renown'd,
Here lies a British Blade;
Age gave at last the fatal Wound
Which Foes in vain essay'd :
Yet boasts the Grave but half its Prey,
Whilst Friends his Name adore.
His Deeds still consecrate his Clay,
And what do MARLBRO's more?

NUMBER of Houses about 1400.

IN the Parish of St. Bridget, was a Messuage or Inn, call'd, The Falcon, in the Tenure of the famous Printer, in the latter Part of Henry VII's Time; and Beginning of Henry VIII, named Wynkyn de Worde.

THE next is Salisbury-court, a Place so called, for that it belonged to the Bishops of Salisbury, and was their Inn, or LONDON-House, at such Time as they were summoned to come to the Parliament, or came for other Business. It was afterwards the Dwelling, first of Sir Richard Sackville, and after of Sir Thomas Sackville, his Son, Baron of Buckhurst, one of Queen Elizabeth's Privy Council, afterwards Lord Treasurer; who very greatly enlarged it with stately Buildings.

THENCE it was some Time called Sackville-House. And being in long Lease made by Bishop Capon, Bishop there in the Times of King Henry VIII, Edward VI, and Queen Mary, was exchanged in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, by the greatly learned Jewel, Bishop of that See, for Recompence of good Value, in Lands lying in his Diocese, or elsewhere in the West.

The WHITE FRYARS;

O R,

The Fryars of our Lady of Mount Carmel.

BEFORE we treat of the House called White Fryars in LONDON, it will be requisite to say something of the Order of White Fryars, or Carmelites, the Title of which Fraternity, is this, Fratres B. Mariæ de Monte Carmele, or Carmelite Fryars.

THIS Order had its Original in Mount Carmel, in Syria, where Elias, and Eliseus, the Prophets, inhabited; there, in Process of Time, many Anchorites first settled themselves, who afterwards, by means of Almeric, Bishop of Antioch, the Pope's Legate, were brought together, and having been there a long Time dispers'd one from another, they were reduced to live together under one Government.

THERE was on that Mount, near to Elias's Fountain, a Church dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mary, where they laid the first Foundation of their Convent; there this Almeric built their first Monastery, Anno 1121, for, before, they lived in Caves and Dens. Afterwards, this Order was brought into Europe, by Albert, Patriarch of Jerusalem, Legate to Pope Innocent III, about the Year 1216, who gave them a certain Rule to follow, taken much from the Rule of St. Basil.

THESE Hermits of Mount Carmel, first professed begging in Europe, after the Dominicans and Minorites; and then they were permitted to preach and hear Confessions. Their Order was confirm'd first by Pope Honorius III, or, as others say, Honorius IV, Pope Gregory IX, Innocent IV, and other Popes.

THESE Carmelites procured a Licence from the Pope to creep out of the Wilderness into the Cities, contrary to their first Institution; against which Course, Nicholas Gallus wrote bitterly, deploring their State with pious Tears.

POPE Honorius (says Bale) granted to the Carmelites this Privilege, that they should be free from the Jurisdiction of all Princes and Bishops.

Trithemius Abbas, says, that the Colour of the Habit of this Order, at first, was White, whereby the inward Purity of the Brethren was signified, with such a Cloak, they say, as Elias was clad; and that Eliseus and the Children of the Prophets went in such a Habit. After many Years, when the Holy Land came into the Hands of the Infidels, the Brethren were forced to change their Habit, the Saracens compelling them thereunto, who held it lawful only for the Nobility to wear a white Garment; so by Necessity changing their old Habit, they took to themselves Hoods streaked with two Colours, White and Black.

AFTER many Years the Brethren were compelled, by the Malice of the Infidels, to depart out of the Holy Land, and then coming into Europe, that they might not seem ridiculous in a strange Habit, they resumed their old Habit, which is White, and which to this Day they use, and which was confirmed by the Popes.

BUT some may desire to know why these Fryars are called Brethren of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel; the Cause thereof is this, not long after the Passion of our Lord, the Brethren of Mount Carmel built a Chapel on the Side of that Mount, to the Honour of the Mother of God, and chose her for the Advocate and Patron of their Order, and thereupon afterwards, they were called her Brethren; as therefore they are called Carmelites, from Mount Carmel, so from the Chapel, which they built, they are, to this Day, called Brethren of the Blessed Virgin, the Mother of God. Thus Trithemius.

HOWEVER, this is the more general and approved Opinion of the original Cause of this Title assumed by the Carmelites; yet some there have been that affirm, that the Blessed Virgin Mary appeared to one of their Order, and presented to him a Scapulary, saying, Receive, my Beloved, this Scapulary, which I give unto this Order, in Sign of my Fellowship; whereupon they usurp the Title of Fratres Ordinis beatæ Mariæ Virginis de Monte Carmelo. But the former Opinion is most current.

Now for that, Mr. Weaver omits the Name of him, to whom the Blessed Virgin is said to appear, and bestow this Scapulary (which is a narrow Piece of Cloth, which the Monks wear over their Habit, hanging down before and behind) his Name, Mr. Newcourt says, he finds to be Simon Stock, of whom, says Mr. Fuller, in his Church History, the Carmelites boast very much; who, as he says, was a Kentish Man born, and being a Boy of 12 Years of Age, fed on Roots, and wild Fruit in the Woods, and lived in the Trunk of an hollow Tree, from whence he had his Name Stock, who was afterwards Master-General of the Order of Carmelites, and is said to have been famous for Miracles; which, for Brevity sake, we omit, and only tell you what Bale (inter alia) says of him.

THAT this Simon Stock, hearing that the Carmelites were come into England, took a cheerful Journey to them, being then near 80 Years of Age; and, for the Fame of his Life and Doctrine, was entertained by them as one sent from Heaven; and in their next General Synod, which was held at Aylesford, in Kent, An. Dom. 1245, was made the universal President of their Order, throughout Europe. Alen Amoric, who was their fifth President, resigning it to him, which, as General, he ruled about 20 Years, he went over into France, and in the 100th Year of his Age died there, in Gascoigne, and was buried at Bordeaux, Anno 1265; or, as some say, 1266. After his Death, for his great Devotion and Holiness of Life, he was canonized a Saint, whose Festival is celebrated yearly, May 6.

N<sup>o</sup> 52. VOL. I.

Bale (who was a Carmelite Fryar himself) says, that the Carmelites first began to be famous in Europe, Anno 1220. After that, Angelus Hierosolomit (a Jew by Birth) an Hermit of that Order, had preached at Rome, that the Commonwealth of the Church should shortly be afflicted.

MOREOVER, Ralph Fresburne, a Carmelite Fryar, says Bale, laid the first Foundation of the Society of the Carmelites in England, Ann. 1224, as Poet Mantuan, a Carmelite, writes, Lib. 8. and in his own Lordships founded the Priors near Alnwick in Northumberland, and in Aylesford, in Kent, in 1240, which were the first Houses for these Carmelites in England. These Fryars (says Bale) were not then shaven or anointed, nor did they observe single Life, nor Poverty, in England, for 14 Years together after they had first built themselves Priors, or Convents, during which Time the said Ralph Fresburne was their Governor.

Fuller says, that Ralph Freeborn (so he names him) in the Reign of Richard I. brought over into England these Carmelite Fryars, and placed them at Alnwick in Northumberland, in a Wilderness. Fuller, very probably, mistakes Rich. I. for Richard Duke of Cornwall, youngest Son of King John, under whom he had served as a Soldier against the Saracens.

THE first Entrance of the Carmelites into England, says Lambard, was about the Middle of King Henry III. when they made their Nest at Newenden, in Kent; a woody and solitary Place.

WHEN Milverton, the Provincial of the Carmelites in England, says Bale, was first imprisoned by Pope Paul II. about the Year 1460, both the School-Learning, and therewithal, the Estimation of the Carmelites in England, which 'till then they upheld, above all other Mendicants, fell to Decay.

THIS Order was Vertical, and in the highest Exaltation thereof, in the Reign of King Edward IV. Under Nicholas Kenton, their 25th Provincial, they reckoned no fewer than 1500 of their Order; but when John Milverton, his Successor, began in Favour of Fryars, furiously to engage against Bishops, and the Secular Clergy, the Carmelites good Masters and Dames began to forsake them, and they never recovered their Credit 'till they were utterly dissolved. They were very careful in keeping the Records of their Order, preserving the successive Series of their Provincials, from their Original here in England, 'till their Dissolution; a Catalogue whereof, made by John Bale, may be seen in Fuller's Ecclesiastical History, B. VI. p. 272.

The P R I O R Y.

THIS House of the Carmelites, or White-fryars, stood on the South Side of Fleet-street, between the New-Temple and Salisbury-court.

The Priory, or Church, was founded by Rich. Gray, Knt. Ancestor to the Lord Gray of Codnor, in the County of Derby, in the Year 1241. King Edward I. gave to the Prior and Brethren of this House a Plat of Ground in Fleet-street, whereupon to build this House, which was afterwards wards re-edified by Hugh Courtney, Earl of Devonshire, about the Year 1350, being the 24th of Edward III.

THE Curriers seemed formerly to live hereabouts. It is certain they had a Guild in this Church, founded Anno 1367, of which they brought in this Account into Chancery, about the 12th of Richard II. as did other Guilds in LONDON at this Time.

ON litel Companie of a Light of on Taper in the Queer of the White-friers in Flete-street, of the Yomanrie of Curriers, whereof ben Maistres Geffrey Tolyngdon and Robert Stor. #### INTERMENTS.

John Lufken, Mayor, and the Commonalty of the City of LONDON, granted a Lane, called Crocker's-lane, reaching from Fleet-street to the Thames, to build the West End of that Church. Sir Robert Knolles, Knt. (Ancestor to the Earls of Banbury) was a great Builder here also, in the Reign of Richard II. and Henry IV. who, though born of mean Parentage (in the County of Chester) was by his valiant Behaviour, advanced from a common Soldier, in the French Wars, under Edw. III. to a great Commander. He built the goodly, fair Bridge of Rocheſter, over the River Medway, and founded a College of Secular Priests at Pontefract, and dying full of Years, at his Manor of Stone Thorp, in Norfolk, Ann. 1407, was brought to LONDON, and honourably buried by the Lady Constance, his Wife, in the Body of this Church of White-fryars, which he had newly built.

HERE, some Time, lay intombed, in a goodly Monument of Alabaſter, the Body of Robert Myſcall, Bishop of Hereford, a Man for his great Learning and good Life, admired and beloved of all Men. He was often employed by Hen. IV. (to whom he was Confessor) upon Embassies to Foreign Princes, and was sent, with two other Bishops, to the Council of Constance. He built the Choir, Presbytery and Steeple of this Church, and gave many rich Ornaments to this Religious House, wherein he died, Dec. 21, 1416.

Stephen Patrington, Bishop of St. David's, who died Sept. 22, 1417, and Nic. Kenton, who died Sept. 4, 1468, and John Milverton, who died Jan. 30, 1486, all Provincials of the Order of Carmelites, and Men of great Eminency and Worth, for their Parts and Learning, were buried in this Church.

THERE lay buried also in the Middle of the new Choir, Sir John Mowbray, Earl of Nottingham, 1398.

By him lay Sir Edward Courtney.

IN the South Wall lieth Sir Hugh Montgomery, and Sir John, his Brother.

John Wolle, Son to Sir John Wolle.

Thomas Baybolt, Esq;

Elizabeth, Countess of Athole.

This Lord was Sir Henry Bromfield, who by his last Will (made May 21, 6 Edward IV. and proved 1468.) bequeathed his Body to be laid in the Church of the White-fryars, LONDON.

And though William, Marquis of Berkley, was buried in the Church of Fryars Augustines; yet he bore such Good-Will to these White-Fryars, that he appointed two Fryars to sing perpetually in this Church for his Soul, and the Souls of his Ancestors.

And besides these, John Wollafel, Gent.

Elizabeth, Wife of Rob. Tawfeld.

— Ynglow, Esq;

IN the Chapter-House; Henry Bedil.

IN the Cloister; Ry. Beyton, Sir Rafe St. Owen.

Sir Richard Grene, by his Will, made die Dominica prox' post Festum S. Mich. Arch. A. D. 1386, bequeathed to the Prior and Convent of Carmelite Fryars, LONDON, pro Mortuario & sepultura ibm. habend. 20 Marks. Item, Towards the new Work of their Church, 10 Marks.

HERE John Denham, Citizen and Draper of LONDON, ordained, by his last Will (dated April the 5th, 1532.) to be buried, viz. "With-
" in the Conventual Church of White-fryars in " Fleet-street, before the Awltar of St. Anne. I
" bequeth to the same Freors, for an Ornament

" to be used and occupied at the same Awltar of " St. Anne, and not elsewhere, at every high
" Fest in the said Church, a Vestment of Crym-

" the Assumption of our blessyd Lady; and at
" the two Corners, two Scotcheons, the one
" with my Armes, and the other with the " Drapers Arms; and at the other Corners in " like Manner.

This House was valued at 26 l. 7 s. 3 d. and was surrendered the 10th of November, the 30th of Henry VIII.

IN Place of this Fryars Church were built many Houses, Lodgings for Noblemen, and others. Among the rest, here lived Sir John Cheeke, Knt. in King Edward VI. his Time, his Tutor, and afterward his Secretary of State.

Anno 1608, the Inhabitants within the Compass of these White-fryars, as also those of the Black-fryars, within Ludgate, obtained divers Liberties, Privileges, and Exemptions; by a Charter of King James I.

IN the Year 1662; a Legacy was given by one Mr. Brown, to this Precinct, which will appear by what follows:

A Copy of so much of the last Will and Testament of Mr. John Brown, as relates to the Precinct of White-fryars, LONDON.

" IN the Name of God, Amen. I John
" Brown, of the County of Middlesex, Gent. &c.

" Item, I give and bequeath unto the Poor
" of White-fryars, where is most Need, accord" ing to the Discretion of my Executors, with " the Advice of Mr. Fenshaw, five Pounds.

" Item, I give and devise to the Maior, Com-
" munalty, and Citizens of the City of LON-" DON, Governours of the Possessions, Reve" nues, and Goods, of the Hospitals of Edward
" King of England, the Sixth, of Christ, Bride-
" wel, and St. Thomas the Apostle, the Sum of " 400 l. of lawful Money of England; to be
" by them yearly imployed and disposed of, for " the Education and bringing up of poor Chil" dren in Christ's Hospital aforesaid. Upon
" Trust and Confidence that the Governours " aforesaid, and their Successors, shall maintain
" three Children from Time to Time, until " their respective Age of fifteen Years. And
" as any of them die, or attain the same Age, to " take in others in the Rooms or Places of " such of them as shall so die, or attain the said
" Age, or Ages of fifteen Years. One of the " Children to be out of the Precinct of White-
" fryars, LONDON, and one out of the Pa" rish of St. Dunstane's in the West, LON-" DON, and one out of the Lordship or Fins-
" bury, in the Parish of St. Giles without Crip- " plegate, in the County of Middlesex. The " Parishioners of the said respective Parishes
" and Places, giving Caution to the Gover-" nours aforesaid; and their Successors, at their " respective Admittances into the said Hospital,
" to take them out at the said Age of fifteen " Years; if they be then living, and not other" wise disposed of.

" Item,

" Item, I give and devise all the Messuage
 " and Land, with the Appurtenances there-
 " unto belonging, or therewith used, in Ifling-
 " ton, in the County of Middlesex, commonly " called or known by the Name, or Sign of the " Nag's-head, now in Lease to John Gregory,
 " at the yearly Rent of sixty Pounds, to the " Governours aforesaid, and to their Successors
 " for ever; upon Trust and Confidence, that " they and their Successors shall for ever here" after, pay towards the Maintenance of six " Scholars, to be taken out of the Children ad" mitted into Christ's Hospital, aforesaid, into
 " the University of Cambridge, three in Christ's " College, and three in Emmanuel College. And " my Will is, that none of the six Scholars shall " continue any longer than seven Years. And " my Will and Desire is, that the Children of " the several Parishes and Places aforesaid, to " be taken into the said Hospital, shall be from " Time to Time preferred before any other, if " capable, to go to the University, and to the " Allowance before-mentioned.

IN Witness &c. the 20th day of October, the 14th of Car. II. Annoq; Dom. 1662.

IN Pursuance of this, Richard Charm, Orphan of Humphrey Charm, was first admitted into the said Hospital, the 29th of July, 1664, from White-fryars Precinct.

THE Precinct of White-fryars is extraparochial, and the Inhabitants are at Liberty to bury and marry where they please; nor do they pay any Tithes, as appeared upon Trial about the Year 1700.

THEN is the Serjeants-Inn, so called, for that divers Judges and Serjeants at Law kept a Commons, and were lodged there in Term Times.

THIS Serjeants-Inn seems to have been some Time a Garden belonging to the New-Temple, and granted by King Henry III. to a Bishop of Chichester; for such a Patent is found R. Chi- chester Epo. nov. Templ. Gardinum in vico ante
novum Templum, LONDON.

THIS, or some other Messuage of Serjeants-
Inn, was in the Crown in Edward VI. his Reign, who, in his 3d Year, sold all the Messuage, Lordship, and Hereditament thereof, to Sir Ed- ward Montagu, and John Campanet.

THE Judges and Serjeants are now removed,
 and the Inn lies empty.

The T E M P L E.

NEXT is the New-Temple, so called, because the Templers, before building of this House, had their Temple in Oldbourn. This House was founded by the Knights Templers in England, in the Reign of Henry II. And the same was dedicated to God, and our Blessed Lady, by Heraclius, Patriarch of the Church called the Holy Resurrection in Jerusalem, in the Year of Christ, 1185.

IT contained all that Space of Ground from White-fryars Eastward, to Essex-house without Temple-bar, and a Part of that too; as appears by the first Grant thereof to Sir Will. Paget, Knt. Secretary of State to King Henry VIII.
 Pat. 2. Edw. VI.

The Original
 of the Knights Templers.

THESE Knights Templers took their Beginning about the Year 1118, in Manner following: Certain Noblemen, Horsemen, religiously bent, bound by Vow themselves in the Hands of the Patriarch of Jerusalem, to serve Christ after the Manner of Regular Canons, in Chastity and Obedience, and to renounce their own proper Wills for ever. The first of which Order were Hugh Paganus, [i. e. Pain] and Jeffrey de S. Audo- mare. And whereas at first they had no certain Habitation, Baldwin, King of Jerusalem, granted to them a Dwelling-Place in his Palace, by the Temple; and the Canons of the same Temple, gave them the Street, thereby to build therein their Houses of Office. And the Patriarch, the King, the Nobles, and Prelates, gave them certain Revenues out of their Lordships.

THEIR first Profession was for Safeguard of the Pilgrims, coming to visit the Sepulchre, and to keep the Highways against the lying in wait of Thieves, &c. About 10 Years after they had a Rule appointed to them, and a white Habit, by Honorius II. then Pope. And whereas they had but nine in Number, they began to increase daily. Afterward, in Pope Eugenius's Time, they bore Crosses of red Cloth on their uppermost Garments, to be known from others. And in short Time, because they had their first Mansion hard by the Temple of our Lord in Jerusa- lem, they were called Knights of the Temple.

MANY Noblemen, in all Parts of Christendom, became Brethren of this Order; and built themselves Temples in every City, or great Town.
 In England this was their chief House, which they built after the Form of the Temple near to the Sepulchre of our Lord at Jerusalem. They had also other Temples in Cambridge, Bristol,
Canterbury, Dover, Warwick, and divers other Places. This Temple in LONDON was often made a Storehouse of Mens Treasure, such as feared the Spoil thereof in other Places.

Matthew Paris notes, that in the Year 1232,
Hubert de Burgh, Earl of Kent, being Prisoner in the Tower of LONDON, the King was informed, that he had much Treasure laid up in this New-Temple, under the Custody of the Tem- plers: Whereupon he sent for the Master of the Temple, and examined him strictly, who confessed, that Money being delivered to him and his Brethren to be kept, he knew not how much there was of it. The King demanded to have the same delivered; but it was answered, That the Money being committed to their Trust, could not be delivered, without the Licence of him that committed it to Ecclesiastical Protection.
 Whereupon the King sent his Treasurer and Justiciar of the Exchequer, to Hubert, to require him to resign the Money wholly into his Hands;
 who answered, That he would gladly submit himself, and all his, to the King's Pleasure. And thereupon desired the Knights of the Temple (in his Behalf) to present all the Keys to the King, to do his Pleasure with the Goods which he had committed to them. Then the King commanded the Money to be faithfully told, and laid up in his Treasure, by Inventory; wherein was found, (besides ready Money) Vessels of Gold and Silver, unpraisable, and many precious Stones, which would make all Men wonder, if they knew the Worth of them.

THIS Temple was again dedicated 1240, as also newly re-edified then.

IN the Year 1245, Pope Innocent's Nuncio resided in the New-Temple. And the said Pope commanded the Bishops of England to bring his Nuncio there, 6000 Marks, to be raised from the English Bishopricks. Which King Henry forbade.

THESE Templers, at this Time, were in so great Glory, that they entertained the Nobility, Foreign Ambassadors, and the Prince himself very often. Insomuch that Matthew Paris cried out on them for their Pride; who being at first so Poor, as they had but one Horse to serve two of them; in Token whereof they gave in their Seal two Men riding on one Horse; yet suddenly they waxed so insolent, that they disdained other Orders, and sorted themselves with Noblemen.

King Edward I. in the Year 1283, taking with him Robert Waleran, and others, came to the Temple, where calling for the Keeper of the Treasure House, as if he meant to see his Mother's Jewels, that were laid up there to be safely kept, he entered the House, breaking the Coffers of certain Persons that had likewise brought their Money thither; and he took away from thence to the Value of 1000 l.

MANY Parliaments and great Councils have been there kept, as may appear by our Histories.

IN the Year 1308, all the Templers in England, as also in other Parts of Christendom, were apprehended, and committed to divers Prisons.

IN 1310, a Provincial Council was holden at LONDON, against the Templers in England, upon Heresy, and other Articles whereof they were accused; but denied all except one or two of them. Notwithstanding, they all did confess, that they could not purge themselves fully, as faultless; and so they were condemned to perpetual Penance in several Monasteries, where they behaved themselves modestly.

Philip, King of France, procured their Overthrow throughout the whole World, and caused them to be condemned by a General Council to his Advantage, as he thought; for he believed to have had all their Lands in France, and therefore seizing the same in his Hands, caused the Templers, to the Number of 54, or, after Fabian, 60, to be burned at Paris.

Edward II. in the Year 1313, gave to Aimer de la Valence, Earl of Pembroke, the whole Place and House, called the New-Temple, at LONDON, with the Ground called Figuets-croft, and all the Tenements and Rents, with the Appurtenances that belonged to the Templers, in the City of LONDON, and Suburbs thereof; (also the Land called Flete-croft, Part of the Possessions of the said New-Temple.)

AFTER Aimer de Valence (say some) Hugh Spencer (usurping the same) held it during his Life; by whose Death [he being attainted the 1st of Edward III.] it came again to the Hands of Edward III, but in the mean Time, viz. 1324, by a Council holden at Vienna, all the Lands of the Templers (lest the same should be put to prophane Uses) were given to the Knights Hospitalers, of the Order of St. John Baptist, called St. John of Jerusalem; which Knights had put the Turks out of the Isle of Rhodes, and also won upon the said Turks daily, for a long Time.

THE said Edward III. therefore granted the same to the said Knights, who possessed it. And in the 18th Year of the said King's Reign, were forced to repair the Bridge of the said Temple. These Knights had their chief House for England by West-Smithfield. And they, in the Reign of the same Edward III. granted (for a certain Rent of 10 l. by the Year) the said Temple, with the Appurtenances thereto adjoining, to the Students of the Common Laws of England. In their Possession the same has ever since remained, and is now divided into two Houses of several Students, by the Name of Inns of Court, viz. the Inner-Temple, and the Middle-Temple, who keep two several Halls; but they resort all to the said Temple Church:

IN the Round Walk whereof, (which is the West Part, without the Choir) there remain Monuments of Noblemen there buried, to the Number of 11, eight of them are Images of armed Knights; five lying cross-legged, as Men vowed to the Holy Land, against the Infidels and unbelieving Jews; the other three strait-legged: The rest are coaped Stones, all of grey Marble. The first of the cross-legged, was William Marshall, the Elder, Earl of Pembroke, who died

VOL. I.

1219. William Marshall, his Son, Earl of Pembroke, was the second; he died 1231. And Gilbert Marshall, his Brother, Earl of Pembroke, slain in a Turnament at Hertford, near Ware, 20 Miles from LONDON. He died in the Year 1241.

AFTER this, Robert Rose, otherwise called Fur-san, being made a Templer in the Year 1245, died, and was buried there.

IN the Year 1381, the Rebels of Essex and of Kent, destroyed and pulled down the Houses and Lodgings of this Temple, took out of the Church the Books and Records that were there in Hutches, of the Apprentices of the Law, carried them into the Streets, and there burnt them. The House they spoiled and burnt, for Malice they bore Sir Robert Hales, Lord Prior of St. John's in Smithfield. But it was since again, at divers Times, repaired, namely, the Gate-House of the Middle-Temple, in the Reign of Henry VIII. by Sir Amias Paulet, Knt. The great Hall of the Middle-Temple was newly built in the Year 1572, in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

THE Hall is said to be built in Edward the Third's Reign: The Wall between the Thames and Garden, about the Year 1550; the Hall ceiled in 1554. About that Time Mr. Packington, Treasurer, built Tanfield-court, so called from the Chambers of Sir Laurence Tanfield, Chief Baron, being there, till which Time it was called Packington's-court.

Anno 1553, the Kitchen was built; Anno 1559, the Buildings near the Alienation-Office was erected; in 1573, the great carved Screen in the Hall was set up; Anno 1595, Cæsar's-buildings, between the Church and the Hall, were erected, and so called, for that Sir Julius Cæsar, Master of the Rolls, gave 300 l. towards the Charge; Anno 1607, the Paper-buildings were erected, and being consumed by Fire, were rebuilt a noble Pile of spacious pleasant Chambers, at the North End whereof are finely painted, appearing like so many Statues, the Figures of the four Cardinal Virtues, &c. and was finished Anno 1685, Sir Robert Sawyer, Treasurer; Anno 1609, the Inner-Temple-gate was built; about 1616, Part of the Inner-Temple-lane, Fig-tree-court, (the East Side in 1607) and Buildings near Ram-alley, and the King's-Bench Office, were erected; Part of the Lane also in 1657; Chambers against the West End of the Church, built in 1679, and Anno 1681.

IN the Year 1684, was built the Middle-Temple-gate, next Fleet-street, which is a fine Structure, in the Style of Inigo Jones; it has a graceful Front of Brick-Work, with four large Stone Pilasters of the Ionian Order; and a handsome Pediment, with a Round in the Middle of it, having these Words inscribed in large Capitals: Surrexit impensis Societat. Med. Templi, MDCLXXXIV. Lower, just over the Arch, the Figure of an Holy Lamb, 1684.

OVER the Colonnade, at the End of Pump-court, is an Inscription in Memory of a Fire that happened there some Years ago, viz.

Vetustissima Templariorum Porticu igne consumpta Anno 1678. Nova hæc sumptibus Medii Templi extructa Anno 1681, Gulielmo Whitlock, Armig. Thesaurario.

THE Temple Church having narrowly escaped the Flames in 1666, was newly beautified, adorned, and the curious Wainscot Screen set up, An. Dom. 1682, when Sir Thomas Robinson was Treasurer of the Inner Temple, and Sir Francis Withens, Treasurer of the Middle-House. The

South

South West Part was, in the Year 1695, new built with Stone, whereon appeareth this Inscription :

Verustate Consumptum, Impensis utriusque Societatis Restitutum, 1695.

Nichol. Courtney, } Armig. Thesaur.
Roger Gillingham, }

By the Workmen, at this Time, was broke down an Inscription over the little Door next the Cloister. It was in old Saxon Capital Letters, within a Semi-Circle, and was as follows :

Anno ab incarnatione Domini MCLXXXV, dedicata hæc Ecclesia in honorem beatæ Mariæ a Domino Eraclio, Dei gratia sanctæ Resurrectionis Ecclesiæ Patriarcha, II. Idus Februarii. Qui eam annatim petentibus de injuncta sibi penitentia LX. dies indulgit.

In the Year 1706, the Church was wholly new White-washed, gilt, and painted within, and the Pillars of the Round-Tower Wainscotted, with a new Battlement and Buttresses on the South Side, and other Parts of the Outside were well repaired ; also the Figures of the Knights Templers were cleaned and painted, and the Iron-Work inclosing them, painted, and gilt with Gold.

It is an antient Gothick Building, the Walls Stone, covered with Finishing, and strengthened with Buttresses ; has a Treble Roof covered with Lead, and supported with neat Pillars of Suffex Marble, and the Floor of the Whole is paved with Black and White Marble ; that of the Chancel two Steps higher than the Middle, and one higher the Side Isles ; the Isles are five in Number, viz. three (as usual) running East and West, and one Cross-Isle near the Entrance into the Chancel, and another parallel with the last, between the West End of the Ranges of Pews and the Screen.

THIS Church is not only antique in its Order, neat in its Workmanship, and rich in its Materials, but very beautiful in its Finishing ; Properties that seldom are found in one Structure. The Pillars and Floors are not only Marble, but the Windows are adorned with pretty small Columns of the same Species of Stone. It is well pewed, and wainscotted with right Wainscot above eight Feet high ; the Altar-Piece is of the same Species of Timber, but much higher, finely carved, and adorned with four Pilasters, and between them two Columns with Entablature of the Corinthian Order ; also Enrichments of Cherubims, a Shield, Festoon, Fruit, and Leaves, enclosed with handsome Rail and Baluster. The Pulpit is also finely carved and finiered, placed near the East End of the Middle-Isle ; the Sound-Board is pendant from the Roof of the Church ; it is enriched with several carved Arches, a Crown, Festoons, Cherubims, Vases, &c.

THE Round-Tower at the West End of the Church, is supported with six Pillars, wainscotted with Oak six Feet high ; and is also adorned all round (except the East Part) with an upper and lower Range of small Arches, and blank Apertures.

THE Screen at the West End of the Isles, is as the Altar-Piece, &c. of right Wainscot, adorned with 10 Pilasters of the Corinthian Order, also three Portals and Pediments ; and the Organ Gallery over the middle Aperture, is supported with two neat fluted Columns of the Corinthian Order, and adorned with Entablature and Compass Pediment, and also the King's Arms finely carved ; the Intercolumns are large Pannels in carved Frames ; and near the Pediment on the South Side, is an Enrichment of Cherubims, and the carved Figure of a Pegasus, the Badge of the Society of the Inner-Temple ; and on and near the Pediment on the North Side, an Enrichment of Cherubims, and the Figure of a Holy Lamb, the Badge of the Society of the Middle-Temple, for though these two Houses have but one Church, yet they seldom sit promiscuously there, but the Inner-Temple on the South, and the Gentlemen of the Middle-Temple Northward from the Middle-Isle.

LENGTH of the Church, from the Altar to the Screen, 83 Feet ; Breadth 60, Altitude 34, and that of the Round-Tower at the West End 48 Feet ; its Diameter, at the Floor 51 Feet ; Circumference 160 Feet.

MONUMENTS in this Church were and are, for

Sir Nicholas Hare, Master of the Rolls, who was buried there in the Year 1557.

Here lieth the Body of Anne Littleton, Wife of Edward Littleton, of the Inner-Temple, Esq; Son and Heire of Sir Edward Littleton, of Henly, in the County of Salop, Kt. Daughter of John Littleton, of Frankly, in the County of Worcester, Esquire, by Meriel, the Daughter of Sir Thomas Bromley, Kt. Lord Chancellor of England. She dyed the 6th Day of February, 1623.

On whom was made this Epitaph :

Here she lies, whose spotless Fame
Invites a Stone to learn her Name.
The rigid Spartan that deny'd
An Epitaph to all that dy'd,
Unless for War, or Chastity,
Would here vouchsafe an Elegy.
She dy'd a Wife, but yet her Mind,
(beyond Virginity refin'd)
From lawless Fire remain'd as free,
As now from Heat her Ashes be.
Her Husband (yet without a Sin)
Was not a Stranger, but her Kin :
That her chaste Love might seem none other Unto a Husband, than a Brother.
Keep well this Pawn, thou Marble Chest,
Till it be call'd for, let it rest.
For while this Jewel here is set,
The Grave is but a Cabinet.

Memoria Sacrum.

Here resteth the Body of Clement Coke, of Langford, in the County of Derby, Esquire, youngest Sonne of Sir Edward Coke, Knight, late Chief Justice of England ; and of Bridget his Wife, Daughter and Coheire of John Paston, of Paston, in the County of Norfolke, Esquire. This Clement married Sarah, Daughter and Coheire of Alexander Rediche, of Rediche, in the County of Lancaster, Esquire ; and of Katharine his Wife, sole Daughter and Heire of Humphrey Dethick, of Newal, in the County of Derby, Esquire ; and had Issue by the said Sarah, living at his Death, Edward, Robert, Bridget, and Avise. Hee in the Inner-Temple, being a Fellow of the same, Christianly and Comfortably, in his flourishing Age, yielded up his Soule to the Almighty, the three and twentieth of May, Anno Dom. 1629.

Sir Will. Dugdale, in his Book, intituled, Origines Juridiciales, hath taken Notice of most of the Monuments, and set down their respective Inscriptions, viz. those of John Portman, Richard Wye, Tulsington, Blackmore, Selden, Roger Bishop, John Den, Quatreman Turner, of Parington, John White, Bishop Browning, [some Time Preacher here, who was buried ascending towards the the Altar; but his Grave-Stone is now removed, and placed at the going into the Church: As also was the Stone for White removed to this round Chapel, where it now is] Plowden, Roop, Cole, Newcourt, Heyhoe, Richard Lemster, Chaplain, Tho. Mayhull, Chaplain, Edmund Berford, Dirland, Tho. English, Chaplain, Robert Thorne, Willielmus Langham, some Time Custos of this Temple, 1437. For the Epitaphs and Inscriptions of all these, the Reader is referred to Dugdale's Book before-mentioned.

The MONUMENTS and Grave-Stones more lately placed and laid in this Church, are for the Remembrance of these Persons following:

ON this South Wall of this Round, a decent Monument for William Petyt, Esq; late Keeper of the Tower Records, and a most learned Antiquarian, with this Inscription:

Hic juxta sitæ sunt Reliquiæ Wilhelmi Petyt, Armig. Qui olim Medii Alumnus fuit, nuper Interioris Templi Socius, & Thesaurarius, Rotulorum ac Archivorum, in Turri Londinensi remanentium, Custos fidelissimus, quamplurimis tam Genere quam Doctrina viris insignibus benotus, & in magna æstimatione habitus. Omnia sua cum amicis habuit communia. Neque sane cuiquam Literarum veterum Studioso, vel operam suam vel consilium unquam negabat; quod in pluribus Eruditorum Scriptis apparet.

Municipalia Patriæ jura, Historica & Antiquitates, Monumenta Atque Parliamentaria optime callebat: Antiquæ Constitutionis, Legum ac Libertatum Angliæ strenuissimus Assertor erat. Et ne operam & oleum perderet, & evanescerent Labores, mundo valedicturus omnia sua MSS. (quæ varia implent Volumina) una cum libris impressis, Juridicis, Historicis, atque Antiquitarum & Processuum Parliamentorum Monumentis (quæ magno labore, studio & sumptibus sibi comparavit) amicis quibusdam melioris Notæ, in fidei Commissio ad servanda integra & illibata, ultimo suo Testamento publicæ Utilitatis gratia, legavit. Quapropter locum certum, qui illis visus fuerit maxime accommodatus, eos eligere voluit: Et centum & quinquaginta libras Bibliothecæ ædificandæ destinavit.

IN Storithes prope Abbatiam de Bolton, non ita longe a vico de Skipton in Craven in Comitatu Eborum, natus fuit. Ad plures abiit apud Chelseam, in Agro Middlesex. 3<sup>o</sup> die Octobris, Anno Domini MDCCVII. Ætat. suæ LXXII.

Neque dum vixit ipse Chelseæ immemor fuit, sed erigebat ibi Ædificium, quod eidem Parochiæ alacri & libera manu dedit: In se completens (quod dicitur) Vestiarium, in usum Parochianorum, Gymnasium ad pueros erudiendos, & Cameras Præceptoris fatis commodas.

Monumentum hoc Sylvester Petyt, de Hospitio Bernardensi, Gen. & ejusdem olim Principalis ad memoriam charissimi sui Fratris, posuit.

On the Grave-Stone upon him, are these Words:

The Body of W. P. Esq; buried here the 9th Day of October, 1707.

who dyed the 9th of Auguſt, 1727.
One of the Maſters of the High Court of Chancery,
Aged 51.

SINCE the Diſſolution of the Hoſpitals, in the Time of Henry VIII. there has been a Divine,
VOL. I.

by the Name of a Maſter or Cuſtos, belonging to this Church; who is conſtituted by the King or Queen's Letters Patents, without Inſtitution or Induction.

BESIDES the Maſter, there is a Reader, who reads Divine Service twice a Day, at eight o'Clock in the Morning, and at four in the Afternoon. Formerly they had alſo a fixed Lecturer for Sun- days in the Afternoon; who had the Allowance of 80 l. per Ann. paid from each Houſe, and convenient Lodging, and his Diet at the Benchers Table; but of late, the Lecture is carried on by various Preachers, appointed and paid by the Treasuſers of the two Houſes.

TOWARDS the latter End of King Charles II. his Reign, a terrible Fire happened in the Temple, whereby the Office of Chirographer of Fines of the Court of Common-Pleas, there kept, was so burnt, that several Records of Fines engrossed, of Trinity and Michaelmas Terms, were either consumed, or lost; whereby an Act passed 31 Car. II. for the re-ingrossing of those Records; and that Office is now built in an open wide Court of the Temple, near the Water Side, not adjacent to any other Edifices, for the better Security of those Records for all Time hereafter.

WE come next to the present State of this Ward.

To begin at the South Parts, viz. Ludgate-hill and Fleet-street, taking Notice, as we pass along, of all the Lanes and Alleys through which there lie Passages, in and out of the said Streets; as on the North Side, beginning at Temple-bar, there is Bell-yard, Chancery-lane, Fetter-lane, Shoe-lane, the Town-ditch. Then on the South Side of the Street, White-fryars, Water-lane, Salisbury-court, Bridewel Precinct. Then the Street beginning near Ludgate; and passing from South to North, called Old-bailey, which opens into the North Part of this Ward, as Snow-hill, down to Holbourn-bridge; then more North is Cow-lane, Hosier-lane, Cock-lane, Chick-lane, West-smithfield, Long-lane, St. Bartholomew-Close and Hospital, Pye-corner, &c. with all the smaller Courts and Alleys contained in each of these: And lastly, publick Buildings, and Things worthy Remark.

Ludgate-hill comes down from Ludgate, and runs Westward to Fleet-street; from which it is severed by a handsome large Stone Bridge, the Breadth of the Street, which gives a Passage over the new Canal where Fleet-ditch was; which since the Fire of LONDON was made so deep and wide, cut from Holbourn-bridge to the Mouth of the River Thames, that it received the Tides, and used to bring up Barges and Lighters to Holbourn-bridge; but one Part of this, viz. from Fleet-bridge to Holbourn-bridge, is now filling, as is before said.

THIS Street, as also Fleet-street (into which it falls) and so to Temple-bar, is a great Thorowfare for Coaches, Carts, Horse and Foot Passengers; being the great Way from LONDON to Westminster, and the adjacent Parts. Both these Streets are therefore very spacious, graced with good Buildings of the first Rate, and well inhabited by Shop-keepers of the best Trades; as Woollen-Drapers, Linnen-Drapers, Grocers, Sadlers, Upholsters, Bookfellers, who drive a very considerable Trade : A great Part whereof comes from the Inns of Court and Chancery, which are planted hereabouts. And for the Accommodation of this great Resort of People, here are divers noted Coffee-Houses and Taverns : Of which last these are the most noted ; the Devil, the Golden-Lion, the King's-Arms, the Bull-Head, Pontack's, the Mitre, the Sun, the Horn, the Leg, the Globe, and the Castle.

To proceed to the Alleys, Courts, and Passages in Fleet-street. And first, on the North Side is Shear-lane, or Shire-lane. This Lane gives Passage into Little Lincolns-Inn-fields, formerly called Fickquits-field ; but this Lane being without the Freedom, is spoken of under St. Clement's Parish. The like is Bell-yard, near adjoining, except some small Part on the East Side, against Crown-court, in Chancery-lane, which may be rather termed a Street, for its Fairness and good Buildings : But there being but a little within the City-Liberty, we shall not speak of it here, but in the Rolls Liberty, in which is the greatest Part. Flying-horse-court, but small, with a Free-Stone Pavement ; here is kept the Marshalsea Office, for the making out Writs, &c. Clifford's-Inn-lane has on the West Side Houses, and on the East Side St. Dunstan's Church ; it leads into Clifford's-Inn, one of the Inns of Chancery ; which Place, of late Years, is much enlarged in new Buildings, in the Garden, which is an airy Place, and neatly kept ; the Garden being severed in from the other Part or Passage, with a Pallisado Pail, with Rows of Lime-Trees set round the Grass-Plats, and Gravel Walks. It has the Conveniency of two Doors, the one into Serjeants-Inn in Chancery-lane, and the other into Fetter-lane. The Hall yet wants new Building.

ADJOINING to Clifford's-Inn-lane, and fronting Fleet-street, is St. Dunstan's Church in the West, so called to distinguish it from St. Dunstan's in the East. It is a good handsome Free-Stone Building, with a fair Dial hanging over into the Street.

THE Inside of the Church is neatly kept, and has an Organ used in Divine Service on Sundays ; but not at the Prayers, which are every Day.

THIS Church received some Damage by the great Fire, but was soon repaired at the Charges of the said Parish.

ADJOINING to St. Dunstan's Church, Eastward, is a small Place of several Houses, which bears the Name of Hen-and-chicken-court ; and near to this Court, Fetter-lane falls into Fleet-street, Flower-de-lis-court, or rather Alley, being long, narrow and ordinary, with a Free-Stone Pavement ; has three Outlets, two into Fetter-lane, and another into West-harding-street. This Court is of small Reputation, being but meanly inhabited ; the Buildings are on the East Side, the West being the Back-yards to the Houses in Fetter-lane.

Two-crane-court, a very handsome open Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, and graced with good Buildings, well inhabited by Persons of Reputation, the front House being larger than the rest, and ascended up by large Stone-Steps, is in the Occupation of the Royal Society ; in this House is kept their Museum, and here is the Meetings of the Fellows.

Red-lion-court, good and large, with a Free-Stone Pavement ; has a Passage into West-harding-street, in Goldsmith's-rents. Johnson's-court has but a narrow Entrance, but opens into a square Court, with a Free-Stone Pavement and good Houses, well inhabited. Out of this Court is another, which bears the same Name, but smaller, with one Row of Houses, with pretty Gardens behind them, and this runs into Gough-square, a Place lately built with very handsome Houses, and well inhabited by Persons of Fashion. St. Dunstan's-court, has a narrow Entrance, but towards the Upper End opens into two Parts, and both indifferent, as to Houses and Inhabitants. Bolt-court, very good and open, with a Free-Stone Pavement, has good Houses, well inhabited. Three-king-court, but small, having two or three Houses. Hind-court, large, and broad at the Upper End, where the Houses are much better built and inhabited ; and to the Whole is a very good Free-Stone Pavement, cleanly kept. Wine-office-court, long, with a Free-Stone Pavement, has good Houses on the West Side, the East Side having a Dead Wall, where there is a Passage into White-horse-court ; and at the Upper End has another Passage into Gough-square on one Side, and King's-head-court, on the other, which leads into Shoe-lane on the Back-side of Gunpowder-alley. Three Faulcon-court. White-horse-Inn, large, and of good Resort for Coaches and Horses, and has some private Houses in it. White's-court, but small. Peterborough-court, indifferent broad at the Upper End, with a Free-Stone Pavement, and well inhabited. Racket-court, seated betwixt Shoe-lane and the Ditch-side, a very spacious and handsome Place, with good Houses, well inhabited ; the front House takes up the Breadth of the Court. Poppingey-alley, has an open Passage, but is ordinarily inhabited by Victuallers, Hatters, &c. Out of this Place is a Passage into Harp-alley, which leads to Fleet-ditch. Black-horse-alley, ordinary. Out of this Alley is a Passage to Fleet-ditch.

BEYOND Fleet-bridge, on the North Side, and on Ludgate-hill, is Bell-savage-Inn, very large, and fit to entertain a great many Coaches and Horses, and has a very good Trade, especially for Stage-Coaches. The first Yard is an open Square, with several private Houses in it ; the Inner Yard, which is much larger, being taken up in Stabling.

Flower-de-lis-court, long and ordinary, having at the Upper End a Passage into this Inn. Sword-and-buckler-court, also but ordinary, has a Passage into Flower-de-lis-court. Adjoining to Ludgate is Half-moon-court, large, but none of the best ; at the Entrance is a Coffee-house of a good Trade.

ON the South Side of Ludgate-hill is Oxen-den-corner ; over-against the Old-bailey, well built and inhabited. Dolphin-court, but small, having but one House, which is an Alehouse, and has the Sign of the Dolphin. Goat-alley, indifferent good, with a Free-Stone Pavement. White-lion-court, long, narrow, and ordinary, with a dark Entrance. Hanging-sword-alley, so called from a House of that Name, which is but ordinary, and leads into a Court so called, which has two Passages into Water-lane, near adjoining. Bolt-and-tun-Inn, of great Resort for Coaches and Horses, especially in Term-Time : This Inn has a Back-Gate into Water-lane ; in the Passage to it are several Dwelling-Houses. Boars-head-court, but ordinary, has a Passage into Bolt-and-tun-Inn. Ram-alley, taken up by Publick Houses, being a kind of privileged Place for Debtors, before the late Act of Parliament for taking them away : It has a Passage into the Temple, and into Serjeants-Inn in Fleet-street. Mitre-court, an open Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, down into the Temple, by Steps ; a Place much taken up by Publick-Houses : And this Place did pretend the like Privileges as Ram-alley, before the said Act. Faulcon-court, a good open Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, in which are about four or five Houses. Her- tules-

cules-pillars-alley, but narrow, and altogether inhabited by such as keep Publick-Houses for Entertainment, for which it is of Note.

ON the South West Side of Fleet-street are the two Temples, called, the Inner and Middle; although the Buildings before the Fire were, for the greatest Part of Timber, yet they wholly escaped the general Desolation: But since that Time have felt two great Fires, and both beginning within the Confines of the Houses, which destroyed almost all the Offices and Lodgings in the several Courts; but the Church, and both the Halls, escaped. Since which Fires, the Property of some of the Courts, and most of the Buildings, have been altered, as to their former Position; but again rebuilt in a most beautiful uniform Manner, very lofty, and more substantial and convenient than before, and all of Brick. These two Temples take up a large Tract of Ground backwards, having no visible Front to the Street, only the two Gates at the Entrance into the Middle-Temple-lane, and that leading to the Inner-Temple; in both which are Chambers for the Students in the Law; and backwards they are furnished with divers large and fair Courts, garnished with lofty Buildings, all of Brick, and uniform, viz. Exchequer-court, Tanfield-court, Cloysters-court, Hare-court, Vine-court, Figtree-court, Elm-court, Pump-court, Middle-Temple-hall-court, Brick-court, and Essex-court. And in these Courts are kept divers Offices belonging to the Crown, with others belonging to the Law: As the Exchequer Office, the Crown Office, the First-Fruits Office, the Attorney and Solicitor-Generals Office, two of the Prothonotaries Office, the King's-Bench Office, &c.

BOTH Inns have a distinct Government, but for Divine Service they make Use of one Place, viz. the Temple Church; and each Society have their Side in the Church, and the Charges of the Church are defrayed betwixt them, as well for the Maintenance of the Master, Reader, and Clerk, as for the Reparations of the Church, in which there is a most stately Organ.

THE Inner-Temple is within this Ward, but the Middle-Temple is without it. Each of these Temples have their Halls, of which the Middle is the largest and most stately. And both Houses have their Gardens fronting the River Thames, which are very well kept, with delightful Walks; the Inner-Temple Garden being the largest, the best, and most resorted to. The Buildings in both Houses that front the Thames, as lying open and airy, and enjoying a delighting Prospect into Surrey, are of the most Esteem.

THE Place called the King's-Bench Walks, is now made all level, neatly gravelled, and kept in good Order; and very commodious for the Attorneys, and others concerned in the Law, who meet every Afternoon in Term-Time, about their Law-Concerns, for their Clients.

AND at the lower End of this Walk, next the Thames, is built a large Office, called the King's-Bench Office, for keeping the Records of the Court, in case of Fire: This Office standing apart, and no Buildings for Lodgings over it, but a Platform leaded.

AT the lower End of Middle-Temple-lane is a large and handsome Pair of Stairs of Free-Stone, for taking Water at, much resorted to.

THESE Temples have a Passage into White-fryars by a Gate; into Fleet-street through Mitre-court, Ram-alley, and Serjeants-Inn; into Essex-street, and into the Strand, through Palsgraves-head-court, besides the two large Gates in the two Temple-lanes.

THE ingenious Author of A Critical Review of the Publick Buildings in and about LONDON, &c. says, "The Property of this Place is so divided and subdivided, that 'tis next to "impossible that any Agreement should ever be made in Favour of Harmony and Decoration in the Buildings here. 'Tis certain that nothing can be finer situated than the Temple, along the Side of the River; and if we consider the Elevation of the Ground, and how far it extends, the most barren Invention can't fail of conceiving the Uses it might be put to, and the Beauties of it would admit of; at present there is but one Thing which is worth observing, and that is the old Church, and even the Outside of this is covered from the View. The Inside, indeed, is yet visible, and may justly be esteemed one of the best Remains of Gothick Architecture in the City.

TEMPLE-BAR.

THE Temple-Bar is the Place where the Freedom of the City of LONDON, and the Liberty of the City of Westminster part; which Separation was antiently only Posts, Rails, and a Chain, such as now are at Holbourn, Smithfield, and Whitechapel-bars. Afterwards there was a House of Timber erected cross the Street, with a narrow Gate-way, and an Entry on the South Side of it, under the House. But since the great Fire, there is erected a stately Gate, with two Posterns, on each Side, for the Convenience of Foot Passengers, with strong Gates to shut up in the Nights, and always good Store of Watchmen, the better to prevent Danger.

THIS Gate is built all of Portland Stone, of Rustick Work below, and of the Corinthian Order. Over the Gate-way, on the East Side, fronting the City of LONDON, in two Niches, are the Effigies, in Stone, of Queen Elizabeth, and King James I. very curiously carved, and the King's Arms over the Key-Stone of the Gate, the Supporters being at a Distance over the Rustick Work.

AND on the West Side, fronting the City of Westminster, in two Niches, are the like Figures of King Charles I. and King Charles II. in Roman Habits. Through this Gate are two Passages for Foot Passengers: One on the South, over which is engraven, Erected, Sir Samuel Starling being Maior. And another on the North, over which is engraven, Continued, Sir Richard Ford, Maior. Finished, Sir George Watterman, Maior.

UPON the Dissolution of the Priory of White-fryars, the Church and Buildings in Process of Time became ruinous, and were pulled down. Afterwards converted into Buildings, and now contains several Courts, Lanes, and Alleys; as

Dogwel-

Dogwel-court, Essex-court, Aspen-tree-court. Davis's-yard, which was lately purchased by Captain Seale, and converted into a Glass-House, for making Flint Glasses, for which Art this Gentleman is very famous. Waterman's-lane, as leading to the River Thames, where there is a Pair of Stairs to take Water at; all Places of ordinary Account; besides the long Turning Passage out of Fleet-street, into the Lower End of Water-lane, which runs by the Back-side of the Temple Buildings, where there is a Gate into the Temple.

THIS Place was formerly, since its building into Houses, inhabited by Gentry; but some of the Inhabitants taking upon them to protect Persons from Arrests, upon a pretended Privilege belonging to the Place, the Gentry left it, and it became a Sanctuary to the Inhabitants, which they kept up by Force, against Law and Justice; so that it was sufficiently crowded with such disabled and loose kind of Lodgers, and had the Nick-name of Alsatia. But however, upon a great Concern of Debt, the Sheriff, with the Posse Comitatus, forced his Way in, to make a Search, and yet to little Purpose; for the Time of the Sheriff's coming not being concealed, and they having Notice thereof, took Flight, either to the Mint in Southwark, another such Place, or some other private Place, till the Disturbance was over, and then they returned.

IN the latter End of King William the Third's Reign, the Parliament taking this great Abuse into Consideration, an Act was made to put down this, the Savoy, and many other pretended Privileged Places.

THE Inhabitants of White-fryars maintain their own Poor, collect their Taxes, and choose their own Officers among themselves.

Water-lane severeth White-fryars from Salisbury-court; it is a good, broad, and strait Street, which comes out of Fleet-street, and runs down to the Thames, where there is one of the City Lay-stalls, for the Soil of the Streets; which is taken from thence by Barges and Dung-Boats, and made Use of by Gardeners and Farmers, for the manuring their Grounds. This Lane is better built than inhabited, by reason of its being so pestered with Carts to the Lay-stall and Wharfs, for Wood, Coals, &c. lying by the Water-Side, at the Bottom of this Lane; as also to White-fryars, into which it has an open Passage; as likewise another into Salisbury-court. In this Lane is Black-lion-Inn, of good Resort, which has a Passage by Sufferance into Dogwel-court, in the Fryars. On the West Side of this Lane is Briton's-alley, as also Dove-court, both ordinary Places, and has a Passage into the Fryars.

Dorset-court, commonly called Salisbury-court, was a large House inhabited by the Earls of Dorset, which was, many Years ago, pulled down and converted into Buildings; as was the Garden and Wilderness; there being a handsome well built Street, which comes out of Fleet-street, called Dorset-street, and runs Southward to the River Thames, where there are Stairs of Free-Stone, for taking Water at, where many Watermen ply.

NEAR to which Place lately stood the Theatre, or Play-House; a neat Building, having a curious Front next the Thames, with an open Place for the Reception of Coaches: On the other Side is a large Wood-Yard Wharf belonging to the Company of Carpenters.

THIS Street, on the West Side passing down to the Thames, is a handsome, airy, open Square, all taken up with good Buildings, the best inhabited of any in the Court; for that Part towards the Thames, as also the Wilderness, with the small Courts, are not to be much boasted of. In this Place are these Courts and Places of Note, viz. Blue-ball-court, an indifferent good Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Half-paved-court, but ordinary. Dorset-court, a small Place, handsomely built, and indifferently well inhabited, in which is the Charity-School for St. Bride's Parish, for Fifty Boys and Fifty Girls. Sugar-loaf-court, very small and ordinary. The Wilderness, so called, as being built in that Part of the Garden where the Wilderness was. Fisher's-alley, also ordinary, has a Passage into Water-lane. Near this Alley is George-yard, but mean; and Crown-alley, inconsiderable, has a Passage into Tuder-street, and so to the Ditch-side.

THIS Dorset, or Salisbury-court, claimed a peculiar Liberty to itself, and to be exempt from the City Government, and the Inhabitants would not admit of the City Officers to make any Arrest there. How far these Privileges reach, is uncertain, but many resorted hither, who fled from their Creditors, till the Act was made to suppress pretended Privileged Places. Out of Dorset-court is a paved Free-Stone Passage into St. Bridget's, the Parish-Church.

Bride-lane comes out of Fleet-street by St. Bridget's Church-Yard, which, with a turning Passage by Bridewell and the Ditch-side, falls down to Woodmongers Wharfs, by the Thames. This Lane is of Note for many Hatters there inhabiting; it took its Name from St. Bridget's Church, to which there is a Passage up Stone Steps.

THIS Church of St. Bridget, or St. Bride's, is large, and well built, since the great Fire, when it was wholly destroyed. It was rebuilt out of the Money raised by the Imposition on Coals, as to the outward Structure; but the Pews, Galleries, and Inside Work, was performed at the Charges of the Parishioners and Benefactors.

Bridewel, seated on the West Side of Fleet-ditch, a large Building of Brick, already mentioned.

King Tuder, King-Edward, and Water-streets, are on the Back-side of Bridewel, and have a Passage into Salisbury-court, through Crown-alley; all Places inhabited by private People, and none of the meanest Rank; one Row, which fronts the Wood-Yard, and regards the Thames, consists of good Buildings. Green's-rents falls into St. Bride's-lane, and is but mean, as is Bear-alley.

THE Ditch-side, called Fleet-ditch, is a spacious Place, with good Buildings on both Sides of the Canal, so made since the Fire of L O N D O N, and has on both Sides a broad Passage for Carts to the Wharfs next the Thames; this Canal is railed in, for fear of Danger of People's falling into it. The Part of this Canal, on the South Side, next the Thames, has the East Side in the Ward of Farringdon within; but all the rest, down to Holbourn-bridge, on both Sides, is in this Ward. The West Side of the Part next to Holbourn, is the best inhabited; and of late, much taken up by Upholsters, and others that sell Second-hand Goods, for which it is of Note. The East Side of that Part from Fleet-bridge to the Thames, has the best Houses, and best inhabited. On the West Side, from Fleet-bridge to Holbourn-bridge, are several small Alleys which lead up to Shoe-lane, where they shall be spoken of. On the East Side is the Fleet-Prison.

IN antient Times there was a Brook, called Turnmill-brook, which ran under Holbourn and Fleet-bridges into the Thames, as is before-mentioned.

Anno vicefimo secundo Car. II. in the Act for Rebuilding of the City, it was enacted:

“ THAT the Channel of Bridewell-dock, from
 “ the Channel of the River Thames to Holbourn-
 “ bridge, shall be sunk to a sufficient Level, “ whereby to make it navigable; and that the “ Ground to be set out for the Breadth of the “ said Channel, and of the Wharfs on each Side “ thereof, shall not be in less Breadth than one “ hundred Feet; nor shall exceed one hundred “ and twenty Feet. And that all the Wharf-“ Ground on each Side of the said River, shall “ lie open and at large, (Crains and Stairs only “ excepted) without any Division or Separation;
 “ and each Person's Propriety therein, to be “ distinguished only by Denter-stones in the “ Pavement thereof. — And that all Buildings “ that shall hereafter immediately border upon “ each Side of the said Wharfs, shall front and “ be placed in the Line that shall be set out for “ the Bounds of the Wharfs from the Channel.
 “ — And that the said Buildings shall be of “ the Second Rate of Buildings, mention'd in “ the Act for Rebuilding of the City. — “ And that no Lighter, Boat, or Vessel, shall “ lie before any of the said Wharfs or Keys, “ longer than shall be necessary for the Lading
 “ or Unlading of Goods, without the Consent or

“ AND for the carrying on of this Work, it “ was enacted and declared, That the sinking
 “ and making the said Channel of Bridewell- “ dock and Fleet-ditch, from the Thames to “ Holbourn-bridge, and the Sluices for the better “ Navigation thereof, and the Raising and Sink“ ing other Wharfs or Keys, on each Side of the “ said Bridewell-dock and Fleet-ditch, (whereby “ to bring the same to a Level) shall be born
 “ and first defrayed, by the Mayor and Com“ monalty, and Citizens of LONDON, out
 “ of the fourth Part of the Imposition to be rai“ sed on Coals, by Virtue of this Act. And “ in the next Place, after the Charge before-“ mentioned shall be born out of the said Fourth “ Part, Satisfaction shall be made out of the “ said Fourth Part, to the Proprietors whose “ Ground shall be laid open, or from whom any “ Ground hath been, or shall be taken, for the “ said Publick Use.

By Virtue of this Act of Parliament, the Work of making this Channel navigable, began in the Year 1668, and was finished in November 1673. It contained in Length, from South at the Thames, to North at Holborn-bridge, two thousand and one hundred Feet. It is in Breadth forty Feet; so that two Lighters might meet, and pass each other in any Part of it. It is wharfed on both Sides with Stone and Brick, laid with Tarras. It had a strong Campshot all along on both Sides, over the Brick Wharfing, with Land-Ties in several Places. It had Rails of Oak, Breast high, above the Campshot, to prevent Dangers that might happen in the Night Season.

 It had five Feet Water at the Head thereof, at Holbourn-bridge; and that at a Five-o'-Clock Tide, (which is the slackest of all high Tides) but at Spring, and other Nepe Tides, it hath much more Water. The Wharfs on each Side of this Channel, are thirty-five Feet broad, with fair Buildings.

THE whole Charge of Sinking, Clearing, and Levelling, Wharfing, Planking, and Piling, Paving, Polling, and Railing, amounted in all to Twenty Seven Thousand, Seven Hundred, and Seventy Seven Pounds; besides what was paid to the several Proprietors whose Grounds were taken, or may be, for the Enlargement of the Wharfs and Key.

OVER this Canal there were four Bridges, all of solid Portland Stone; two of them, viz. Fleet and Holbourn-bridges, were of Stone before the Fire of LONDON; but afterwards much enlarged and beautified. The other two, viz. one against Bridewell, and the other against Fleet- lane, were, before the Fire, only of Timber;
 but, since that, were handsomely built with Arches and Steps, of Purbeck and Portland Stone. The latter is now took down, and the Ditch filling up for divers Uses.

THE Fleet Prison is seated on the East Side of the Canal, being large, and reckon'd the best Prison of any in this City, for good Rooms, and other Conveniencies, the Benefit of an open Yard and Garden, inclosed with a very high Wall and Fence. The Prison-Keeper is called, The War- den of the Fleet. It belongs to the Court of Common-Pleas. To this Prison, Persons are committed for Contempt of Orders, &c. in the High Court of Chancery, or upon Debt, when they, by a Writ of Habeas Corpus, remove themselves thither, from another Prison. And, as a further Perquisite to the Warden, besides his Fees from the Prisoners for turning the Key, Chamber-Rent, &c. which is very considerable, he hath the Rents and Profits of the Shops in Westmin- ster-hall.

To this Prison there have been, some Years since, granted Rules, which are all the North Side of Ludgate-hill, the West Side of the Old Bailey, to Fleet-lane, and down the same on the South Side; and so the East Side of the Row of Houses next the Fleet, taking in all the Courts and Alleys within the said Limits.

THIS Fleet Prison was consumed in the Fire of LONDON; and, during the Time of the Rebuilding, the Prisoners that were therein at that Time, were removed to Ceroon-house in South
Lambeth, which was made into a Prison; and, upon the finishing of this Place, the Prisoners were brought back; and ever since it hath continued as a Prison.

ON the East Side of Fleet-ditch, from this Prison to Holbourn-bridge, are these Places:
Fleet-lane, which comes down from the Old Bai- ley, over-against the Sessions-House, and falls into the Ditch-side, a Place of no great Account for Buildings or Inhabitants. In this Lane are several small Courts, as Cheshire-rents, Well-yard, Harrow-court, and Cock-alley, all Places but of mean Account.

ON the North Side is Seacoal-lane. This Lane is very ordinary, both as to Houses and Inhabitants. Out of this Lane is a Passage to Snow-hill, and another into Green-arbour, and a Third into Bishop's-court; the two last ascended up by a great many Steps, or a Pair of Stairs, made through London-wall; but having their chief Entrance out of the Little Old Bailey, is there

there taken Notice of. On the West Side of this Lane, are these Alleys, which fall into the Ditch-side, viz. George-alley, or Yard; Bear-alley, on the South Side of which is another small Alley called Little Bear-alley, Goose-alley, against which is a small Place call'd Ford's-rents.

Newcastle-street comes out of Seacoal-lane, and falls into the Ditch-side, an open Place, and pretty well built.

Turn-again-lane hath a Passage out of Town-ditch into Snow-hill, a Place tolerably well built. At the End, next to Snow-hill, on the North Side, is a Timber-Yard; Crown-court, very small, and on the South Side is Queen's-head-court, indifferently built.

THE Old Bailey, of which there are two, the Great and the Little. The Great Old Bailey is an open Street, with good built Houses, and well inhabited by Tradesmen, and others. In this Place is Justice-Hall, commonly call'd the Sessions-House, as well for the City and Liberty thereof, as for the County of Middlesex. This is a Building commodious enough for the Use it is designed, having two large Galleries on the Sides or Ends, for Auditors and Spectators. The Court-Room is advanced by Stone-Steps from the Ground, with Rails and Ballisters, inclosed from the Ground before it. The Bail-Dock, which fronts the Court, where the Prisoners are kept till their Trials, is also inclosed. Over the Court-Room is a stately Dining-Room, sustained by ten Stone Pillars, and over that a Platform leaded, with Rails and Ballisters. On each Side the Court are Lodging-Rooms and other Conveniences: It stands backwards, so that it hath no Front towards the Street, only the Gateway, leading into the Yard before the House, which is spacious, and cost above 6000 l. building. And here the Lord-Mayor, Recorder, the Aldermen, and Justices of the Peace for the County of Middlesex, sit and keep his Majesty's Sessions of Oyer and Terminer, for the Trial of Malefactors, for Treason, Murder, Felonies, Burglaries, and other Riots and Offences committed within the City of LONDON, and County of Middlesex.

THIS Court or Sessions is held, most commonly, some Days before and after the four Terms; also once in the Time of Lent, and once in the long Vacation, about Bartholomew-tide.

At the Time when the Sessions are held, which commonly last three Days, every Morning before the Court sits, the Prisoners to be tried are brought hither from Newgate, the Jail for such Offenders; and here are two Places provided for them to be kept in till they are called to their Trials, one for the Men, the other for the Women; and at Night, when the Court breaks up, or adjourns to another Day, the Prisoners are returned to Newgate, under the Conduct of the Serjeants and their Yeomen, who are the Sheriffs Officers, and take their Turns to attend the Court for that Purpose.

THE Lord-Mayor is Chief Judge of this Court, but is assisted by the Recorder of the City, and oftentimes by the Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, and some other of the Judges. Of this more will be said hereafter in what relates to the Government of the City.

THE East Side of the Old Bailey runs down by the City Wall, upon the Ditch called Hound-ditch, from Ludgate to Newgate. About the Middle of the great Street, on this Side, is Ball's-court, which is but small; also Red-cross-court, which is indifferent. On the West of this Street, from the Corner of Ludgate-hill to Fleet-lane, are these Places, viz. Skip-court, but small; Prideaux-court, large, with good Houses on the West Side, having an Entrance into it, fit for Coach or Cart; Black-and-white-court, a large open Place, with handsome Buildings; at the upper End of which is Chequer-yard; out of which is a Passage into Fleet-lane.

IN the Little Old Bailey are these Places, viz. Dean's-court, long and narrow, with a Free-stone Pavement; Brown's-court, long, narrow, and ordinary; Ellis-court, well built and inhabited; Bishop's-court, indifferently well inhabited; and hath a Passage down Steps into Seacoal-lane; Green-arbour-court, at the upper End is a very good Square, with tolerable good Houses, and Inhabitants answerable. Out of this Court is also a Passage down Steps into Seacoal-lane. And out of this Court is another Passage into Angel-court, seated on Snow-hill, against the Saracen's-head-Inn, being a very handsome Place, having at the upper End a very good large House, with a Garden before it, once made use of for the Farthing-Office; St. Dunstan's-court, seated betwixt Bishop's-court and Ellis-court.

Now back to the West Part of Fleet-street, on the North Side, is Chancery-lane, a Street of a very great Resort, and well inhabited by Tradesmen, in the Part next Fleet-street, and in that Part next to Holbourn, (into which it falls) by Lawyers, and those depending on them: And the rather, for that in this Lane is Lincoln's-Inn, Serjeants-Inn, the Rolls, the Examiners Office within the Rolls Yard; the Six Clerks Office; (to which belong Twelve Masters in Chancery, and Six Clerks); Symond's-Inn, where the Register's Office for the Court of Chancery is kept; the Curitors Office; the Office for the Masters in Chancery, &c. All which Places are out of the City-Liberty, except Serjeants-Inn, which is an antient Building. Opposite to this Inn, is Crown-court, a square Place, but the Building old. The City-Liberty goes not much farther.

NEXT, on the North Side, is Fetter-lane. For the Generality, the Houses here are good, and well inhabited. It runs Northwards from Fleet-street into Holbourn. Of this Lane, the Middle Part is the best. In this Lane are these Places: Bond's-Stables, a large Yard, with some Houses in it, besides the Inn; the Part next Fetter-lane is new built with handsome Houses for Gentlemen, and is call'd the Rolls Buildings. Red-bart-Inn, new built, and very large and handsome. Over-against the Rolls Buildings is Stone-court, a small Place; Three-leg-alley, on the Back of East-harding-street, and falls into West-harding-street; also hath a Passage into Fleet-street, through Red-lion-court; East-harding-street, indifferent good, falls into Goldsmiths-rents; Nevil's-alley, very handsome, and well inhabited; Churchyard-alley, very narrow, which after two Turnings falls into Curfitor's-alley; Magpye-yard, handsomely rebuilt, and hath a Passage into Castle-street; Dean-street, well built and inhabited, falls into Goldsmiths-rents; Plough-yard, an open Place, well inhabited; over-against which is a Dissenting Meeting-house, lately built, the Pastor the Reverend Mr. Rawlings; Bewit's-court, a very handsome and large new built Court, with a Free-stone Pavement, and very well inhabited. Not far from this Court, is a Passage into Bartlet's-buildings in Holbourn, where it shall be noted: This Passage hath a few neat and well built Houses on the South Side, with pretty Gardens before them, neatly kept; Horse-shoe-alley, small and ordinary. Over-against this Court is the White-horse-Inn, which is but small: Adjoining to which is the Back-door of Barnard's-Inn; King's-head-court, formerly call'd White-horse-alley, a handsome new built Court, well inhabited, having a Free-stone Turning Passage into Holbourn; Goldsmiths-rents, a large Place, containing several Streets and Places of Name, and all well built and inhabited, especially East-harding-street, which is more open. This Street falls into West-harding- harding-street, as also into Three-leg-alley, which is but ordinary.

IN this Street are New-court and Goldsmith's-court, both but small. Dean-street falls into Fetter-lane out of East-harding-street, as afore-said. New-street, a handsome open Place, with indifferent good Buildings; of which there are four Streets, and all bearing that Name, one falling into Shoe-lane, another, which turns Northwards, receives the other two, which comes out of East-harding-street; Gun-powder-alley, long and narrow, falls into Shoe-lane, crossing Little New-street, which is but ordinary.

THE next Lane in Fleet-street is Shoe-lane, very long, runs North from Fleet-street, over-against Salisbury-court, into Holbourn, by St. Andrew's Church, a Lane of no great Note, either for Buildings or Inhabitants; in it are a great many Alleys and Courts, though of little Account: the first is Plumtree-court, large and well built; it hath a Passage into another Court, so called, which falls into Holbourn, that Part towards Shoe-lane being broad. Well-alley, very mean and ordinary; Molin's-rents, indifferent good, but hath a narrow Passage into it. Isaac's-rents, very ordinary. Near this is Spectacle's-rents, small and mean. Eagle-and-child-alley, narrow, hath a Passage into Fleet-ditch, down Steps. Brewers-yard, so called from a Brew-house at the lower End: This hath a Passage into Fleet-ditch. Queens-arms-alley, but narrow, with a Free-stone Pavement, which leads to the Ditch-side, down Steps. George-alley, but narrow, hath also a Passage down to the Ditch-side. Rose-and-crown-court, but indifferent, hath a Passage into George-alley; Stone-cutters-street, good and open: This leads down to the Ditch-side. Curriers-alley, very ordinary, runs also to the Ditch-side. Harp-alley, but narrow, runs down to the Ditch-side, a Place of great Trade for old Household Goods, for which it is of Note; but the Buildings very mean. Angel-court, small and ordinary; Fountain-court, but ordinary.

PLACES on the West Side of this Lane: Robin-hood-court, broad and large, mean Houses, and hath a Passage up Steps into Goldsmiths-rents. Cockpit-court, handsome, with Brick Building at the upper End, and hath a Free-stone Pavement. Brown's-court, but small and mean. Faulcon-court, but ordinary, near the Corner of New-street. King's-head-court, a narrow Place, which comes out of Wine-office-court, mention'd in Fleet-street, and leads into this Lane. Globe-court, but small. And thus much for Fleet-street.

NOW more on the North is Holbourn-hill, a very broad and spacious Street, a Place of good Trade, and a great Thoroughfare, being very much frequented by Waggon, Coaches, and Horses, from several Parts of England, chiefly Westwards and Northwards. And for their Accommodation, this Street, as also Snow-hill, hath several considerable Inns, as the Greyhound, the Crown, the Chequer, the Bell, the Black Bull, the Black Swan, the George, the Saracen's Head, the King's Arms, the Swan, and the Rose. The Part of this Street in this Ward, begins at the Bars, by Gray's-Inn-Lane, and runs down to Holbourn-bridge, where Snow-hill begins; and so with a turning Passage to St. Sepulchre's Church, and thence to Newgate.

THE first Place, beginning at the Bars, is Staple's-Inn, one of the Inns of Chancery. There is a Tradition, that this Inn was so called, being formerly a Hall where Wooll-Merchants used to meet, Wooll being one of the four Staple Commodities according to the Statutes.

THIS Inn is governed by one Principal, and Eleven Antients. Those of this House are one Week in Commons every Term, but there are usually 50 for a Fortnight. Here are no Mootings; the Chambers are commonly fold for one Life.

THEIR Armonial Ensigns are, Vert, a Wool-pack, Argent.

Castle-street, or Castle-yard, as it is commonly called, is a good handsome Place, well built and inhabited, which has these Inlets and Outlets, viz. It comes out of Holbourn, and leads into Curfitors-alley, with an open Passage. On the East Side it has a Passage into Fetter-lane, through Magpie-yard. And on the West Side Tuckers, or Duck-court, a large and well built Place, much inhabited by Lawyers, as seated amongst the Inns of Court and Chancery, and this has an open Passage into Curfitors-alley; besides, here is a narrow Passage on the South East Corner, through Church-yard-alley into Fetter-lane.

Curfitors-alley leads into Chancery-lane, over-against Lincoln's-Inn, and this Place took its Name from the Curfitors Office, adjoining thereto: It is a Place well built and inhabited, and stands well for Lodging, for those that come up to the Terms. The West End of this Alley, from or near the Rose Tavern, to Chancery-lane, is in the Rolls Liberty. Betwixt this Street and Bernard's-Inn is White's-alley, an indifferent Place, with old Timber Houses. Bernard's-Inn; the Buildings of this Inn are very old, and much want Rebuilding; the Back-Court has a Passage into Fetter-lane. King's-head-court, already spoken of. Bartlet's-buildings, a very handsome spacious Place, graced with good Buildings of Brick, with Gardens behind the Houses, and is a Place well inhabited by Gentlemen. Out of this Court, through a long Alley, wherein are some very good Houses, is a Passage into Fetter-lane. Adjoining to Bartlet's-buildings is a Court so called, which is but small. Thavie's-Inn, another of the Inns of Chancery, which is but small, and chiefly taken up by the Welsh Attornies. St. Andrew's-court, indifferent, and the Houses old.

St. Andrew's Church, seated in a very spacious Church-Yard, inclosed with a Wall; and since the new building of the Church, it is made very ornamental, both without and within, as to the Pews, Galleries, Pulpit, and Communion-Table, &c. It stands gracefully fronting Holbourn, and has on the East Shoe-lane.

NOW to go back to Holbourn-hill, North Side, beginning at the Bars, in which Side there are some Parts out of the Freedom, as Brook-street, Furnival's-Inn, Hatton-garden, Ely-House, &c.

THE Places of Note are, Warton-court, very long, with a Passage into Brook-street; the Court is new built with good Brick Houses, has a Free-Stone Pavement, and well inhabited. Furnival's-Inn, another of the Inns of Chancery; this Society is governed by one Principal and 12 Antients: Those of this House are obliged to be in Commons a Fortnight every Term, or pay 2 s. per Week, if absent.

THEY have a Hall and Garden: They sell their Chambers for Life only, and have had no Mooting by Utter Barristers of Lincoln's-Inn of late.

THEIR Armorial Ensigns are, Argent, a Bend between six Martlets, Gules, within a Bordure of the 2d.

Ely-court, very handsome, and large, with new Brick Houses, and a Free-Stone Pavement, and well inhabited: This Court lies betwixt Leather-lane and Hatton-garden, which being out of the Freedom, but in that Part of the Parish that lies in the County, it is there spoken of; as likewise Ely-house, Scroop's-court, formerly ly Scroop's-lun, and belonged to John Lord Scroop; after whose Death it was let out to some Serjeants at Law, and then called Serjeants-lun, in Holbourn; and, upon their Removal, it was converted into Tenements, with Gardens to them; since which, being old, and the Houses very much decayed, it is, of late, rebuilt with very good Houses, and the Place very much enlarged by the additional Buildings, and divides itself into two Parts; that towards the West Side being long like an Alley. Out of this Court is a Passage into Field-lane. Dyer's-court, opposite to Shoe-lane, indifferent good. Sutton-court, over-against St. Andrew's Church, large and good. Plough-yard, ordinary, has a Passage into Field-lane.

Field-lane, very narrow, but mean Houses, and the Place nastily kept, being inhabited by Butchers and Tripe-Dressers on the East Side, by reason of the Benefit of the Ditch that runs on the Back-side of their Yards and Slaughter-Houses, to carry away their Filth: This Lane runs up to Saffron-hill, and receives Chick-lane; but the Part of this Lane in the Freedom goes but little beyond the Passage into Plough-yard.

Holbourn-bridge and Snow-hill; this Part of Holbourn goes to Lamb's-conduit, and there begins Snow-hill, which, in a Winding-Passage, runs up to St. Sepulchre's Church; and both these Places are graced with good Buildings, well inhabited by Tradesmen, and is a Place of great Resort. The South Side, by the Bridge, lies open to the Canal, already treated of. Here are these Places; Horn-alley, near the Bridge, but indifferent. Bee-hive-alley, long, narrow, and ordinary. Katharine-wheel-alley, indifferent good. King's-arms-Inn, very considerable and large, having at the Upper End of the Yard a Passage into Chick-lane. Betwixt this Inn and Swan-Inn is Hand-and-crown-alley, very small. George-Inn, very large, and of a considerable Trade; the Passage to the Yard is through Cow-lane; and the Entrance to it in Holbourn, is through a paved Court, with indifferent good Houses on both Sides. Bell-alley, but ordinary. Cock-court, seated almost against the Conduit, by the Corner of Cow-lane, indifferent good, and has a Passage into Bell-alley. Lamb's-conduit, or Holbourn-conduit, built in the Middle of the Street, fronting Holbourn-bridge, Snow-hill, and Cow-lane, repaired and beautified; as yet it remains.

St. Sepulchre's Church, or St. Sepulchre's-in-the-bailey, seated on the Top of Snow-hill; a very large and spacious Church, with a lofty towered Steeple, Spires at each Corner, and Weather-cocks on the Tops. To this Church there is a large Church-Yard both before and behind it, although not so large as of old Time, good Part being taken away, and converted into Building, so that now it is not enough for the Burial of their Dead; and the Inhabitants are forced to make Use of another large Piece of Ground in Chick-lane.

NEXT to this Church is Saracen's-head-Inn, very large, and of a considerable Trade for Wagons, Coaches and Horses.

Church-lane, adjoining to this Church Eastward, which leads into Pye-corner, noted chiefly for Cooks Shops, and Pigs drest there during Bartholomew Fair.

Nag's-head-court, long and ordinary; and opposite to this is Green-dragon-court, which is but small.

Giltspur-street: In this Street are these Places; Ball-court, long, but ordinary. Horsehoe-alley, long, narrow, and but indifferent. Rosemary-lane, large, but ordinary, and has a Passage into the Long-walk, betwixt the two Hospitals.

N<sup>o</sup> 53. VOL. I.

Church-alley, so called, as fronting St. Sepulchre's Church, and has a good Row of Buildings on the East Side, the West Side lying open, and only severed from the Church-Yard by a Wall.

Cock-lane, an ordinary Place, it comes out of Snow-hill, and falls into Pye-corner.

Cow-lane, a great Thorough-fare for Carts, &c. out of Snow-hill into Smithfield: In this Lane are several Coach-makers, for which it is of chief Note: In this Lane is a Passage to Hosier-lane, which falls into Smithfield; and here are these Places; Fox's-court, but ordinary, has a Passage into George-lan. Nigh to this Court is White-lion-court, but small. Green-dragon-court, a large and open Place, but ordinarily built. Bull-head-court, very mean. St. John's-court, a large Place, indifferently inhabited, with old Buildings, and has a Passage into Chick-lane. Pheasantcourt, near Smithfield-sheep-pens on the South Side, which is but ordinary; and on the other Side is Red-cross-court, but small.

Hosier-lane comes out of Cow-lane, and runs into Smithfield: A Place not over well built or inhabited, having chiefly Timber Houses. This Place is of great Resort during the Time of Bartholomew Fair. In this Lane is Bell-alley, as also Three-diamond-court, both small and ordinary Places.

Chick-lane, an ordinary Place, both for Buildings and Inhabitants; it comes out of Smithfield by the Sheep-pens, and runs down to Field-lane. In this Lane are several Courts and Alleys; as Newcastle-street, or Durham-yard, open to receive Carts and Coaches, having at the Lower End a Yard for Stabling; and at the Upper End is a Passage into Katharine-wheel-yard, which is none of the best. Blue-boar-court, is ordinary, and ascended up by Steps. Church-yard-alley, but narrow and ordinary: At the Upper End is a Church-Yard which belongs to St. Sepulchre's Parish. Hide's-rents, a small open Court, very ordinary. Over-against this Place is Cross-key-court, also small and mean. St. Martin's-court, an open Place, but ordinarily inhabited. White-horse-alley, narrow and ordinary: Out of this is a Passage into Sharp's-alley, which leads to Cow-cross. Sun-alley, over-against St. John's-court, very small. Thatch'd-alley, narrow, small, and mean. Sharp's-alley, but indifferent, having turning Passages, and falls into the lower End of Cow-cross, as aforesaid. Opposite to this Place, is Old-brewers-yard, but indifferent, and has a Passage into Holbourn, through the King's-arms-Inn.

Smithfield-pens, so called from the Sheep-pens placed in that Part for the Sale of Sheep every Market-Day in Smithfield. The North, West, and South Sides having Rows of Buildings, most inhabited by Innholders, and such as keep Publick Houses: Of which the North Side is the best, and has these two Inns of good Trade, viz. the Rose and the Ram; near the Ram is Adam-and-Eve-alley, which is but ordinary, and has a Passage to Smithfield-bars, through the Boar's-head Tavern.

Smithfield-bars, so called from the Bars there set up, for the severing of the City Liberty from that of the County. This Place is generally inhabited by Butchers, who are great Dealers, as well by Retail as Wholesale, for Sheep and Lambs, to other Butchers. In this Place is Nag's-head-alley, both small and ordinary.

Long-lane, may properly be so called for its Length, coming out of Aldersgate-street, against Barbican, and running into Smithfield. The Lane, or rather Street, is good; the Houses good for Timber Buildings, and is very well inhabited by Shopkeepers who deal in Apparel, Linnen, and Upholsters Goods, both new and old; and for this Trade it is of very good Account.

THIS Lane goes in this Ward from Smithfield to the Red-lion-Inn, the other Part being in Aldersgate Ward, but something further on the South Side, even to Golden-dragon-court. The Places in this Lane are Three-fox-court, but ordinary. Charter-house-street, a neat new built Place, with an open Passage into the Charter-house-yard, with neat and genteel Houses, well inhabited: This Place, before its new Building, was called Carpenter's-yard. Three Horsehoe-court, but ordinary. Cat-alley, has a narrow Entrance, but good; and on the Back-side of this, is another Court so called. Red-lion-Inn, has a large Yard for Stabling and Coaches, and has a Passage into Charter-house-yard, and another into Goswel-street. Golden-dragon-yard, also for Stabling.

Great St. Bartholomew's-close; this Close is open and large, with several good Houses, which generally are all well inhabited, as being a creditable Place to live in. Out of this Close are several Passages into Duck-lane, Little-britain, and two into Aldersgate-street, of which one is through Northumberland-alley, and the other through Half-moon-alley, another Passage into Cloth-fair, and another into Long-lane.

PLACES of Note in this Close, and near it, are Westmoreland-court, a square Place, formerly a large House, now converted into Tenements. Out of this Court is Westmoreland-alley, by some called Paved-alley, as paved with Free-Stone, and leads into Aldersgate-street. Half-moon-alley, very narrow. Middlesex-house, an old large Building, now severed into Dwelling-Houses, with a Court-Yard before it, inclosed within a Wall. Over-against this Place is Parker's-yard, indifferent good. Passing Northwards is a Gate-Way, the Bounds of this Close, where beyond there are some Streets and Buildings, as New-street and Middle-street, both indifferent, and Back-alley, which is but ordinary; all three falling into another Street which has a Passage into Long-lane.

Cloth-fair comes out of Smithfield, a Place generally inhabited by Drapers and Mercers, and is of some Note.

Duck-lane comes out of Little-britain, and falls into Smithfield, a Place once noted for Dealers in old Books. In this Lane is Blue-anchor-Inn, which is but of an indifferent Trade, being the Corner House, and Part of it in Little-britain, leading to the Hospital, which is in this Ward as far as Well-close. But the Part of Little-britain, from St. Bartholomew-close, Southward, towards the Pump, and so bending East-ward to Aldersgate-street, is in the Ward of Aldersgate. This Part also is chiefly taken up by Booksellers. Well-close, a very handsome open Court, with good Houses, which are well inhabited. It has another Passage into King-street, by St. Bartholomew's-Hospital; this Street is short, and goes from the said Hospital into the Long-walk, and so to Christ's-Hospital.

St. Bartholomew's-Hospital, commonly called the Lame-Hospital, because lame, wounded, and diseased People, are hither sent for Cure.

FROM King-street, through this Hospital, is a Passage into Smithfield, and adjoining to this is the Parish-Church of Little St. Bartholomew, which is but small and old.

THIS Ward being very large, is parted into three Divisions, viz. St. Dunstan's, St. Bridget's, and St. Sepulchre's.

THERE are to watch at the Gates, and several Stands, every Night, in this Ward, three Constables, the Beadle, and 130 Watchmen; and in the Precinct of White-fryars, eight. In all 138.

THE Jurymen returned by the Inquest in this Ward, are to serve in the several Courts held at Guildhall, for the Month of June, yearly.

THIS Ward has an Alderman and three Deputies, 16 Common-Council-Men, 15 Constables, 15 Scavengers, and 44 Inquest-Men.

It is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON, at 35 l. and in the Exchequer at 34 l. 10 s.

THE Alderman of this Ward is Sir Francis Child.

HAVING treated of the Wards in LONDON, on the North Side the Thames (in Number 25) we are now to cross over the said River, into the Borough of Southwark; which is also a Ward of LONDON without the Walls, on the South Side thereof, as Portoken is on the East, and Faringdon extra on the West.

It was antiently called the Village, or Town of Southwark; and the City of LONDON, from antient Times, endeavoured to get this Place under its own Jurisdiction, finding a great Inconvenience by the Neighbourhood of it, Malefactors in LONDON escaping thither out of the Reach of the Cognizance and Punishment of the City Magistrates: But how Matters stood in former Times between the City and Southwark, may, in some Measure, be seen by these Passages, some three or four hundred Years ago.

THE City of LONDON came to have a Propriety in this Borough for many Ages past, by petitioning the Parliament in the first Year of Edward III. shewing the great Inconvenience and Mischief accruing to the City of LONDON by Malefactors, who did many lewd Deeds there, and then fled to Southwark, out of the Reach of the City-Officers, and so were secure. On this Reason the King granted the City a Charter for the Place; which was to this Tenor:

Edwardus Dei gratia, &c. i. e. “Edward by the Grace of God King of England, Lord of Ireland, and Duke of Acquitain, To all to whom the present Letters shall come, Greeting. Know ye, That whereas our well beloved, the Citizens of the City of LONDON, by their Petition before us, and our Council, in our present Parliament, called together at Westminster, exhibited; have given us to understand, that Felons, Robbers, and divers other Malefactors, and Disturbers of the Peace, who in the said City, and elsewhere, have committed Murthers, Robberies, and divers other Felonies, departing secretly from the same City, after such Felonies committed, flee to the Village of Southwark, and cannot there be attacked by the Ministers of the said City, and are there publickly received; so that they are made bolder by the Defect of due Punishment, to commit such Felonies; and therefore having besought of us, for the Preservation of our Peace in the said City, and to restrain the Wickedness of those Evil-doers, that we would grant to them to have the said Village, to them their Heirs and Successors, for ever, for the Term thence due to us at our Exchequer, to be yearly paid; we, in Consideration of the Premises, and by the Assent of the Prelates, Earls, Barons, and Commonalty of our Kingdom in Parliament aforesaid assembled, have granted for us and our Heirs, to the said Citizens, the said Village of Southwark, with the Appurtenances: To have and to hold, to them, their Heirs and Successors, “Citizens of the said City, from us and our Heirs for ever; paying to us and our Heirs; per Ann. at our Exchequer, at the accustomed Terms, the Farm thence due and accustomed. In witness whereof we have caused these our Letters to be made Patents. Witness our self at Westminster, the 6th Day of March, in the first Year of our Reign.

THIS is recorded in the Memoranda of the Exchequer, de Anno Edw. III. post Conquestum primo finiente, incipiente secundo, int. Recorda de Termino Sti. Michaelis.

So that Edward III. in the second of his Reign, granted to the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON, Ballivam de Suthwark, i. e. the Bailiwick of Southwark; which they held of the King at Fee-Farm, paying 10 l. a Year; and their Bailiff was Thomas Clopham, who seems to be put in by the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON.

THERE was another Patent of the said King's, in the 13th of his Reign, to pay no more than 10 l. for the said Fee-Farm.

IN the 51st of the said King Edward III. the Citizens pray that King to confirm to them their Liberties for punishing all Misdemeanors in Southwark: And that Commandment be given, that the Marshal do not intermeddle within the Parts of Southwark, that be guildable. This was not granted; the King answering, That he could not do it without doing Wrong to others.

AGAIN, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of LONDON, pray King Richard II. in the first Year of his Reign, that they may have the like Punishment of Evil-doers in Southwark as in LONDON, saved to all Lords their Rights. But that King also denied, answering, That it was prejudicial to the King, and also to the Bishops of Canterbury and Winchester.

BUT King Henry IV. in the 7th of his Reign, granted a Patent to the City, for Power to arrest Robbers and other Malefactors in the Borough of Southwark; and to bring them thence into the Prison of Newgate, and to exercise almost every other Kind of Jurisdiction there; and granting the Citizens all Goods and Chattels, called Waifs and Strays, and the Affize of Bread, Wine, Beer, and of all other Victuals; and to have Return of all the King's Briefs, Extracts, Precepts and Commandments. Teste the 23d Day of July in the said 7th Year of his Reign.

YET the next Year, viz. 8 Henry IV. the Borough of Southwark preferred a Petition to the said King; That being Parcel of the County of Surrey, and paying 10 l. Fee-Farm to him, they may be exempted from the Jurisdiction of LONDON, notwithstanding any Letters Patents obtained by the said City. The Answer was, The Parties should come before the King and his Council, and should be heard according to their Evidence.

AND Edward IV. in the 7th of his Reign, granted a Brief to the Sheriff of Surrey, for Allowance of Liberties and Jurisdictions within the Borough of Southwark.

BUT

BUT before the particular Description of this Ward, it will not be impertinent to declare when, and by what Means the Borough of Southwark, now called Bridge Ward without, was made one of the six and twenty Wards belonging to the City of LONDON, which was in this Manner :

How the Borough of Southwark first became one of the 26 Wards.

AFTER the Dissolution of Monasteries, Abbeys, Priories, and other Religious Houses, in this Realm of England ; The Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of this City of LONDON, taking into their Consideration, how commodious and convenient it would be to the City, to have the Borough of Southwark annexed thereto, and that the same Borough was in the King's Hands wholly, they became humble Suitors to King Henry VIII. and to the Lords of his Highness's Privy Council, for the obtaining of the same. Which Suit not being granted to them, after the Decease of King VIII. they renewed their Suit to his Son and next Successor, King Edward VI. and to the Lords of his Privy-Council, for the obtaining the same Borough.

King Edward VI. his Grant to the City.

At length, after long Suit, and much Labour, it pleased King Edward VI. by his Letters-Patents, sealed with the Great Seal of England, bearing Date at Westminster, the 23d Day of April, in the 4th Year of his Reign, as well in Consideration of the Sum of 647 l. 2 s. 1 d. of lawful Money of England, paid to his Highness's Use, by the Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of LONDON, as for divers other Considerations him thereunto moving ; to give and grant to the said Mayor and Commonalty, and to the Citizens of LONDON, divers Messuages, Lands, and Tenements, lying in or near the said Borough of Southwark, in the said Letters Patents particularly expressed, which were sometimes the Lands of Charles, then late Duke of Suffolk, and of whom King Henry VIII. did buy and purchase the same.

THIS Purchase consisted of a Messuage situate within the Mansion of the late Duke of Suffolk, in the Tenure of one Simon Sybatson, and divers other Messuages, Lands and Tenements in Southwark, and divers Liberties there. The yearly Value whereof was 35 l. 14 s. 4 d. The Patent dated in April, to commence at the Feast of St. Michael then last past.

BUT there was excepted out of the said Grant, and reserved to the said King Edward VI. his Heirs and Successors, all that his Capital Messuage, or Mansion-House, called Southwark-place, late of the said Duke of Suffolk, and all Gardens and Land to the same adjoining ; and all that his Park in Southwark, and all that his Messuage, and all Edifices and Ground called the Antelope there.

AND the said King Edward VI. did, by his said Letters Patents, give and grant to the said Mayor, Commonalty and Citizens, and their Successors, all his Lordship and Manor of Southwark, with all and singular the Rights, Members and Appurtenances thereof, in the said County of Surrey, then late belonging to the late Monastery of Bermondsey, in the same County : And also all his Manor and Borough of Southwark, with all and singular the Rights, Members, and Appurtenances thereof, in the said County of Surrey, then late Parcel of the Possessions of the Archbishop and Archbishops of Canterbury ; together with divers yearly Rents, issuing out of divers Messuages or Tenements, in the said Letters Patents particularly expressed.

AND also the said King Edward VI. by his said Letters Patents, as well for the above-mentioned Considerations, as also for the Sum of 500 Marks, paid to his Use by the said Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of the said City of LONDON, did give and grant to the said Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of the said City, and to their Successors, in and through the whole Borough and Town of Southwark ; and in and through the whole Parish of St. Saviour's, St. Olave's, and St. George in Southwark ; and in and through the whole Parish, then late called St. Thomas's Hospital, and then called the King's Hospital, in Southwark, and elsewhere, wheresoever in the Town and Borough of Southwark, and in Kentish-street, and Blackman-street, in the Parish of Newington, all Ways, Estrays, Treasure-trove, Goods and Chattels, of Traytors, Felons, Fugitives, Outlaws, condemned Persons, and Felons defamed, and of such as be put in Exigent of Outlawry, Felons of themselves, and Deodands, and of such as refuse the Laws of the Land, and all Goods disclaimed, found, or being within the said Borough, Town, Parishes, and Precincts, and all Manner of Escheats and Forfeitures.

AND that the said Mayor and Commonalty, and Citizens, by themselves, or their Deputy, or Officer or Officers, should have in the Town, Borough, Parishes, and Precincts aforesaid, the Taste and Assize of Bread, Wine, Ale and Beer, and of all other Victuals and Things whatsoever, sold in the same Town : And whatsoever should, or might appertain to the Office of the Clerk of the Market of his Majesty's Household ; and the Correction and Punishment of all Persons there selling Bread, Wine, Beer and Ale, and other Victuals, and of others there inhabiting, or using any Arts whatsoever : And all Forfeitures, Fines, and Amerciaments, to be forfeited to the King, or his Heirs or Successors ; and that they should have the Execution of the King's Writs, and of all other Writs, Commandments, Precepts, Extracts, and Warrants, with the Returns thereof, by such their Minister, or Deputy, as they should chuse.

AND that they should have, keep, and hold there, every Year, yearly, one Fair, to endure for three Days, viz. the 7th, 8th, and 9th Days of September ; and that during the said three Days they should hold there, by their Minister, or Deputy, from Day to Day, from Hour to Hour, and from Time to Time, all Actions, Plaints and Pleas of the Court of Piepowder, with all Summons, Attachments, Arrests, Issues, Fines, Redemptions, Commodities, and other Rights whatsoever, to the Court of Piepowder by any Means belonging. And also that they should have throughout the whole Precinct aforesaid, View of Frank-Pledge, with all Summons, Attachments, Arrests, Issues, Amerciaments, Fines, Redemptions, Profits, Commodities, and other Things, which thereof to the King, his Heirs, or Successors, should appertain.

The Fair to be kept in Southwark.

AND also, that the said Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens, and their Successors, by themselves, or by their Officers, or Deputies, may take and arrest in the Borough, Town, Parish, and Precincts aforesaid, all Thieves, Felons, and other Malefactors, and may carry them to the Jail of Newgate. And that the said Mayor, Commonalty and Citizens, and their Successors, should for ever have in the said Borough, Town, Parishes, and Precincts, all such Liberties, Privileges, Franchises, Discharges and Customs, which the King, or his Heirs, should have had, if the said Borough had remained in the King's Hands.

AND also he granted to the said Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of LONDON, and to their Successors, that they should for ever hold and keep all Manner of Pleas, Actions, Plaints and Personal Suits, and all Manner of Causes, Contracts, and Demands whatsoever, happening in the Precincts aforesaid, before the Mayor and Aldermen of LONDON, and before the Sheriffs of LONDON for the Time being, or any of them, in the Guildhall and Hustings of the said City: And the like Actions, Bills, Plaints, Proceſs, Arrests, Judgments, Executions, and other Things whatsoever, and the same Days and Times, and in such like Manner, as the like Pleas happening in the said City, before the Mayor, Aldermen and Sheriffs, or any of them, in the said Courts, or any of them, Time out of Mind, have been taken, holden, prosecuted, or executed. And that the Serjeants at Mace, and other Officers of LONDON, using to serve Proceſs, might, from thenceforth, for ever, serve and execute all Manner of Proceſs in the said Borough, Town, Parishes and Precincts, concerning such Pleas and Executions of the same, as Time out of Mind has been used in the City of LONDON.

in

AND that the Inhabitants of the same Borough, Parishes and Precincts, for Causes and Matters there growing, may implead, or be impleaded, in the said City, in Form aforesaid, and in the said Courts. And that if the Juries impannelled, and so moved to try such Issues, shall not appear before the said Mayor and Aldermen, or Sheriffs, in the said Courts of LONDON, they shall be amerced in like Manner, and forfeit such Issues as Juries in LONDON, making Default of Appearance, have used to forfeit. And that the Issues so forfeited shall be to the Use of the Mayor, Commonalty and Citizens of LONDON, and their Successors for ever. And also, that the said Mayor and Commonalty, and Citizens, for ever, should have the Cognizance of all Manner of Pleas, Plaints, and Personal Actions, out of all the King's Courts, before the King, or before any of his Justices, for any Thing happening in the said Borough, or Precincts, before the said Mayor and Aldermen, and Sheriffs, or any of them, in the Courts of the said City. And that the Issues taken upon the said Suits, shall be tried in the said Courts, before the Mayor and Aldermen, and Sheriffs, by Men of the said Borough, as Issues in LONDON are tried.

AND that the said Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens, and their Successors, should for ever choose every Year, or as often as they should think meet, two Coroners in the said Borough; and that the said Coroners, and either of them should have and use like Authority, as any Coroners in England ought to have and execute: And that no other of the King's Coroners should in any wise presume to execute any Thing belonging to the Office of a Coroner in the Precincts aforesaid.

AND that the Mayor of LONDON, for the Time being, should be Escheator in the Precincts aforesaid, and have Power to direct Precepts to the Sheriff of the County of Surrey for the Time being, and to do all other Things, which to the Office of Escheator in any of the Counties of England appertain. And that no other Escheator shall enter there, or intermeddle with any Thing belonging to the Office of Escheator. And that the Mayor of LONDON, for the Time being, shall be the King's Clerk of the Market within the Precincts aforesaid, and may do all Things there appertaining to the Office of Clerk of the Market; and that the Clerk of the Market of the King's Household, shall not there intermeddle with any Thing.

AND that the said Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens, and their Successors, for ever, should have, hold, use, and enjoy, in the Precincts aforesaid, as well all the Liberties and Franchises aforesaid, as the Toll, Tallage, Picage, and all other the said King's Jurisdictions, Franchises, and Privileges, which any Archbishop of Canterbury, Charles Duke of Suffolk, or any the Brothers and Sisters of the then late Hospital of St. Thomas in Southwark, or any Abbot of the then late Monastery of St. Saviour's of Bermondsey, near Southwark, or any Prior or Convent of the then late Priory of St. Mary Overy; or any of them ever had, then had, or ought to have had in the Premises, in any of the Places aforesaid; or which the said King Edward VI. then lately held and enjoyed, or ought to have had and enjoyed, and in as ample Manner as King Henry VIII. had and enjoyed, or ought to have had and enjoyed the same; so that none of the King's Sheriffs, or other of his Officers, should intermeddle in any Thing in the said Borough and Precincts.

AND the said King Edward VI. did, by his said Letters Patents further grant, that all the Inhabitants of the said Precincts should be within the Ordinance, Governance, and Correction of the Mayor and Officers of LONDON, and their Deputies, as the Citizens and Inhabitants of LONDON ought to be, by reason of any Charter formerly granted by any of his Progenitors. And that the said Mayor, Commonalty and Citizens, and their Successors, for ever, should have, enjoy and use such Laws, Jurisdictions, Liberties, Franchises, and Privileges whatsoever, in the Borough and Precincts aforesaid, as fully and freely as they then used, or ought to have used and enjoyed the same in LONDON.

AND that the Mayor and Recorder of LONDON for the Time being, after they have born the Office of Mayoralty of LONDON, should be Justices of the King's Peace in Southwark, and the Precincts aforesaid, so long as they should stand Aldermen of the said City, and should in the said Borough and Precincts do and execute all Things which other Justices of the Peace might do in the County of Surrey, according to the Laws and Statutes of England.

AND also, that the said Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens, and their Successors, should have every Week, on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, in the said Borough and Town of Southwark, one Market, or Markets, there to be kept, and all Things to Markets appertaining.

ALL which Manor, Tenements, Rents, Liberties, Franchises, and other the Premises granted by the said Letters Patents, did extend to the clear yearly Value of 35 l. 14 s. 4 d. and were granted to be held to the said Mayor, Commonalty of the Citizens of LONDON, and their Successors for ever, of the said King, his Heirs and Successors, as of his Manor of East Greenwich, in the County of Kent, by Fealty only in Fee Soccage (and not in Capite) for all Manner of Services and Demands whatsoever.

BUT there were excepted and reserved out of the said Grant, to the said King Edward VI. his Heirs and Successors, all his Rights, Jurisdictions, Liberties and Franchises whatsoever, within the Walk, Circuit, and Precinct of his Capital Messuage, Gardens, and Park in Southwark, and in all Gardens, Curtileges, and Lands, to the said Mansion-House, Gardens, and Park belonging.

Also the House, Messuage, or Lodging there, called the King's-Bench, and the Gardens to the same belonging, so long as it should be used as a Prison for Prisoners, as it was then used.

Also there was excepted and reserved out of the said Grant, the House, Messuage, or Lodging there, called the Marshalsea, and the Gardens to the same belonging, so long as it should be used as a Prison for Prisoners, as it was then used.

Also it was provided, that the said Letters Patent should not be prejudicial to the Officers of the Great Master or Steward of the King's Household, within the Borough and Precincts aforesaid, to be executed, while the same Borough and Precincts should be within the Verge. Nor to John Gates, Kt. one of the Gentlemen of the King's Privy-Chamber, concerning any Lands, Tenements, Offices, Profits, Franchises, or Liberties to him granted, during his Life, by the said King Edward VI, or by his Father King Henry VIII.

ABOUT a Month after the said Borough of Southwark was so granted to the Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of LONDON, and they by Force of the said Letters Patent stood charged with the Ordering, Survey and Government of the same Borough, and of all the King's Subjects inhabiting therein, and repairing thither: At a Court held before Sir Roland Hill, Kt. then Lord-Mayor of LONDON, and the Aldermen of the same City, in the Guild-hall of LONDON, on Tuesday the Eight and Twentieth Day of May, in the said fourth Year of the Reign of King Edward VI, the said Town or Borough was named and called, The Ward of Bridge-Ward Without. And Sir John Ayliffe, Kt. Citizen and Barber-Surgeon of LONDON, was then also named, elected, and chosen by the same Court, to be Alderman of the same Ward.

AND it was then also order'd, That the said Sir John Ayliffe, by that Name of Alderman of Bridge-Ward Without, and all other that from thenceforth should be Alderman of the same Ward, should have the Rule, Survey, and Government, not only of the Inhabitants of the said Town and Borough of Southwark, and other the King's People repairing to the same, but also of all the Liberties, Franchises, and Privileges within the said Town and Borough, then formerly granted by the King and his Progenitors to the said Mayor, Commonalty and Citizens of LONDON. And for the due Execution of which Office, the said Sir John Ayliffe was then presently sworn and admitted.

THIS Borough, which is in the County of Surrey, consists of divers Streets, Ways and Winding-lanes, all full of Buildings inhabited. To begin Westward: On the Bank of the Thames there is a continued Building of Tenements, about half a Mile in Length to the Bridge.

THEN from the Bridge, strait toward the South, is a continued Street, call'd, Long Southwark, built, on both Sides, with divers Lanes and Alleys up to St. George's Church, and beyond it thro' Blackman-street, towards Newtown, [or Newington.] The Liberties of which Borough extend almost to the Parish-Church of Newtown aforesaid, distant one Mile from London-bridge; and also South West, a continued Building, almost to Lambeth, more than a Mile from the said Bridge.

THEN from the Bridge, along the Thames Eastward, is St. Olave's-street, having continued Buildings on both Sides, with Lanes and Alleys up to Battle-bridge, to Horsleydown, and towards Rotherhithe, a good Half Mile in Length from London-bridge.

So that the whole continued Buildings on the Bank of the River, from West to East, may be accounted more than a Mile in Length.

THEN, from the Entering towards the said Horse-ly-down, is another continued Street, call'd Bermondsey-street, which stretches South; likewise furnished with Buildings on both Sides, almost half a Mile in Length, up to where the Monastery of St. Saviour, call'd Bermondsey, stood, before the Dissolution.

FROM thence is Long-lane, so called from its Length, turning West to St. George's Church, afore-named. Out of which Lane breaks another Street towards the South and by East, and this is call'd Kent-street, because it is the Way leading into that County: And these are the Bounds of the Borough.

THE Antiquities most remarkable in this Borough were, First, for Ecclesiastical, Bermondsey, an Abbey of Black Monks; St. Mary Overies, a Priory of Canons Regular; St. Thomas, a College or Hospital for the Poor; and the Loke, a Lazar-House in Kent-street. There were six Parish-Churches, five of which are yet remaining. The first was St. Mary Magdalen, in the Priory of St. Mary Overy, which is the Parish-Church for the said St. Mary Magdalen, and for St. Margaret on the Hill, that is now called St. Saviour's.

St. MARGARET on the Hill.

ST. Margaret on the Hill, which now long since is ceased from being a Church: But when it was, it had Monuments for John Hough, Esq; Thomas Curson, Esq; Thomas Yard, Esq; Robert Barbet, Esq; William Sidney, Esq; Peter Saverey, Thomas Hever, and Gayer Moreton.

THIS Church being put down, is now a Court for Justice, and called the Town-hall, fronting the Street, was burnt down, and rebuilt again. On which stands a fine Statue of King Charles II, with his Scepter in his Hand; underneath thus inscribed: Combustum, An. 1670. Reedificatum annis 1685, & 1686. JACOBO SMYTH, Mil. & ROBERTO GEFFERY, Mil. Prætoribus. Impensis, S. P. Q. L.

St. Thomas in the Hospital serves for a Parish-Church, as before. St. George, a Parish-Church, as before it did. So does St. Olave, and St. Mary Magdalen, by the Abbey of Bermondsey.

THERE are these Prisons or Jails:

The Clinke, on the Bank Side.

The Compter, in the late Parish-Church of St. Margaret.

The Marshalsea.

The King's Bench.

The County Jail. And

Bridewell.

ANTIEN Houses of most Note were:

The Bishop of Winchester's House.

The Bishop of Rocheſter's House.

The Duke of Suffolk's House, or Southwark-Place.

The Tabard, an Hostery, or Inn.

The Abbot of Hyde his House.

The Prior of Lewis his House.

The Abbot of St. Augustine his House.

The Bridge-house.

The Abbot of Battaile his House.

Battaile Bridge.

The Stews on the Bank of Thames.

And the Bear Gardens there.

OF these last there were two, the Old Bear-garden, and the New; Places wherein were kept Bears, Bulls, and other Beasts, to be baited; as also Mastives, in their several Kennels, were there nourished to bait them.

Paris-Garden is now become a Parish, and a Paris-Garden Church is built there, call'd Christ-Church. made the Parish of Christ-Church by Act of Parliament. For the doing of which there was an Act of Parliament made under King Charles II, intituled, An Act for making the Manor of Paris-Garden a Parish.

Parish, and calling it Christ-Church. Wherein may be seen some Account of the building of the Church, and the Occasion of making it a Parish. It sets forth, how John Marshal, of the Borough of Southwark, Gent. by his last Will dated the 21st of August, 1627, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, the 15th of April, 1631, did declare his Will and Meaning to be, That his Feoffees, or Trustees, (of whom Sir Samuel Broton, late one of his Majesty's Justices of the Court of Common-Pleas, Westminster, was one, and the Survivor of all the rest of them) their Heirs and Assigns, should raise out of the Revenues of his Lands, mentioned in the same Will, the Sum of 700 l. and with it erect a new Church and Church-yard, in such Place as they should think fit. And that the said Sir Samuel, in Pursuance of a Decree in Chancery, made 1663, in a Cause wherein the said Sir Samuel was Defendant, upon the Statute made in the 44th of Queen Elizabeth, touching Gifts to pious and charitable Uses, did convey all the Lands mentioned to be devised to the said Sir Samuel, and other his Co-trustees, by the aforesaid Will of the said John Marshal, unto Sir Edward Bromfield, Bart. Peter Scot, L. L. D. Edward Woodward, James Reading, Richard How, Edward Cook, Edward Ball, Esquires; John Butler, William Sherlock, Samuel Hyland, Michael Hart, and William Apps, Gentlemen, in the said Decree nominated and appointed Trustees, or Feoffees, in that Behalf, and their Heirs and Assigns for ever; to the Intent to perform the several Trusts mentioned in the said Will of John Marshal. And that the said new Trustees raised the said 700 l. out of the said Rents: And that William Angel, Esq; Owner of the said Lordship, Manor, or Liberty of Paris-Garden, by his Indenture dated April 1, 1670, did, for Considerations therein mentioned; infeoffe, and by Fine assure unto the said Sir Edward Bromfield, and the other Trustees, their Heirs and Assigns for ever, a convenient Parcel of Land for the Building of a Church, and for a Church-yard: And that the last mentioned Trustees had laid out the said Sum of 700 l. and other Monies, upon the Building of a Church on the Ground aforesaid, according to the Will of the said Marshal: And by the same Will the said Trustees were to allow to a Minister of the said new Church, out of the Rents of the Lands of the said Marshal, express'd in his Will 40 l. per Ann. till out of the Residue of the Rents and Profits of his Lands, they can raise sufficient to purchase Lands and Tenements to the Value of 60 l. per Ann. over and above all Reprizes. And such Lands and Tenements to purchase, and to endow the said Church with the same.

AND that after the building of a Church, and a Minister settled therein, the said Trustees were to dispose of, and pay the Rents, Issues and Profits of a certain Messuage or Tenement in Ax-yard in St. Saviour's Parish, of the yearly Value of 20 Marks, unto the said Minister and his Successors for ever.

AND that the Choice of the said Minister is by the said Will, to be for ever in the said Trustees, and their Successors for the Time being.

AND lastly, That the Inhabitants of the said Paris-Garden had petitioned the Parliament to be made a distinct Parish, to the Intent that these Things might be accomplished.

UPON all these Premises it was enacted, 1. That Paris-Garden be a distinct Parish accordingly, subject to the same Orders as other Parishes, and called Christ-Church, according to Marshal's Will. And, 2. That the said Trustees, viz. Sir Edward Bromfield, &c. and the major Part of them, be the Patrons of the Church, they, their Heirs and Assigns for ever. 3. That the Rector be empowered (without any Licence to purchase in Mortmain) to have, receive, purchase, and take to him all that is left by the Will of the said Marshal. 4. The Inhabitants shall be liable to all such Duties, Offices, Rates and Assignments, as if it had been an antient Parish. 5. The Ground and Soil whereon the Church stands, and the Church-yard, to remain in the said Trustees, and their Heirs, &c. for ever, to the Uses aforesaid, and such Articles, Clauses and Agreements as are expressed in the Indentures made by the said William Angel, unto the said Trustees. 6. The Profits arising by Burials in the Church and Churchyard (except the Vaults made by William Angel) to go towards the Repairs of the Church, Chancel, and Vaults abouts. 7. That there shall be yearly chosen by the Inhabitants of the said Parish, two or more Church-wardens, two or more Overseers, and two Surveyors of the High-ways, and to have the same Powers as in other Parishes. 8. The Trustees are authorized to pay the Rector till the said Church be endowed, the 40 l. per Ann. mention'd in the Will. 9. The Rector to receive all such Tythes, Compositions for Tythes, Oblations and Dues whatsoever, which are payable, or ought to be paid by the Inhabitants of Paris-Garden. 10. The Trustees allowed to raise farther out of the Estate of the said John Marshal, over and above the 700 l. already, a Sum not exceeding 400 l. as they, or the major Part of them, shall judge necessary for the compleating of the said new Church, and for paying the Church-wardens or Impropriators of St. Saviour's 100 l. for, and in respect of such voluntary Contributions and Tythes as have formerly come unto the said Church-wardens from the Inhabitants of the said Lordship, Manor, or Liberty, for repairing the Church. And they are required to pay the said Sum accordingly.

PROVIDED always, That nothing in this Act shall extend, or be construed to extend, to make any Part of the Manor of Southwark, or the Clinke Liberty, belonging to the See of Winchester, to be within the Parish of Christ-Church aforesaid, or to alter, diminish, or abridge any of the Passages, Bounds, Limits, Ways or Bridges, of Right belonging to the Manor of Southwark, or Clinke Liberty aforesaid.

THE Inhabitants hereabouts, on the West Part of Southwark, bordering on the Thames, were multiplied considerably, consisting of Woodmongers, Timber-merchants, Shipwrights, Barge-men, Watermen, and such whose Livings depended upon the River. And being a good Distance from St. Mary Overy's Church, it was a seasonable and pious Act to provide a nearer Place for the People to meet together for Divine Worship.

NEXT, on the Bank, was some Time the Bordello, or Stews, a Place so called from certain Stew-Houses there privileged for the Repair of incontinent Men to the like Women. The Stews on the Bank Side.

IN a Parliament held at Westminster, the 8th of Henry II. it was ordained by the Commons, and confirmed by the King and Lords, That divers Constitutions for ever should be kept within that Lordship, or Franchise, according to the old Customs that had been there used Time out of Mind; amongst which, these following were some, viz.

THAT no Stewholder, or his Wife, should let or stay any single Woman to go and come freely at all Times, when they listed.

No Stewholder to keep any Woman to Board, but she to Board abroad at her Pleasure.

To take no more for the Woman's Chamber in the Week, than fourteen Pence.

Not to keep open his Doors upon Holidays.

Not to keep any single Woman in his House on Holidays, but the Bailiff to see them voided out of the Lordship.

No single Woman to be kept against her Will, that would leave her Sin.

No Stewholder to receive any Woman of Religion, or any Man's Wife.

No single Woman to take Money to lie with any Man, but she might lie with him all Night till the Morrow.

No Man to be drawn or enticed into any Stewhouse.

THE Constables, Bailiffs, and others, every Week to search every Stewhouse.

No Stewholder to keep any Woman that hath the perilous Infirmary of Burning; nor to sell Bread, Ale, Flesh, Fish, Wood, Coal, or any Victuals, &c.

THESE, and many more Orders were to be observed, upon great Pain and Punishment.

THERE were divers Patents of Confirmation, one was dated 1345, the 19th of Edward III. In the 4th of Richard II. these Stewhouses belonging to William Walworth, then Mayor of LONDON, were farmed by Froes of Flanders, and were spoiled by Walter Tylar and other Rebels of Kent. Notwithstanding, Ordinance for the same Place and Houses, were again confirmed in the Reign of Henry VI. to be continued as before. Also Robert Fabian writes, that in the Year 1506, the 21st of Henry VII. the said Stewhouses in Southwark were (for a Season) uninhabited, and the Doors closed up. But it was not long (saith he) e'er the Houses there were set open again, so many as were permitted, for (as it was said) whereas before were 18 Houses, from thenceforth were appointed to be used but 12 only. These allowed Stewhouses had Signs on their Fronts, towards the Thames, not hanged out, but painted on the Walls, as a Boar's-head, the Cross-keys, the Gun, the Castle, the Crane, the Cardinal's-hat, the Bell, the Swan, &c. These single Women were forbidden the Rights of the Church, so long as they continued that sinful Life, and were excluded Christian Burial, if they were not reconciled before their Death; and therefore was a Plat of Ground, called The single Woman's Church-yard, appointed for them, far from the Parish-Church.

In the Year of Christ, 1548, the 37th of Henry VIII. this Row of Stews in Southwark was put down by the King's Commandment, which was proclaimed by Sound of Trumpet, no more to be privileged and used as a common Brothel, [Bordel,] but the Inhabitants of the same to keep good and honest Rule as in other Places of this Realm, &c.

The Clinke
Prison.

THEN next is the Clinke, a Jail or Prison for the Trespassers in those Parts, namely, in old Time for such as should Brabble, Fray, or break the Peace on the said Bank, or in the Brothel Houses, they were by the Inhabitants thereabout apprehended and committed to this Jail, where they were straitly imprisoned.

NEXT was the Bishop of Winchester's House, or Lodging, when he came to this City; which House was first built by William Gifford, Bishop of Winchester, about the Year 1107, the 7th of Henry I. upon a Plat of Ground pertaining to the Prior of Bermondsey, as appears by a Writ directed to the Barons of the Exchequer, in the Year 1366, the 41st of Edward III. (the Bishop's See being void) for 8 l. due to the Monks of Bermondsey, for the Bishop of Winchester's Lodging in Southwark.

THIS Bishop had also the Lordship and Manor of Southwark, which came to King Edward VI. upon Bishop Gardiner's Deprivation. And Anno 1552, there was an Exchange made between the Lord Marquis of Northampton and the King, whereby that Lord had the Lordship and Manor of Southwark, and the King had the Chief or Capital Mese of Lambeth, some Time belonging to the Duke of Norfolk, attainted of Treason. The said Marquis built a Gallery in Winchester House, and in Queen Mary's Time it was restored to the See.

ADJOINING to this, on the South Side, was the Bishop of Roche's Inn or Lodging, which was erected where certain Houses had been that were some Time Parcel of the Possessions of the Priory of St. Swithin's in Winchester.

THE Abbot of Naverly had also a House there.

The Priory CHURCH of St. MARY OVERY.

EAST from whence the Bishop of Winchester's House stood, is the Church called St. Mary-over-the-Rie, or Overy, that is, Over-the-Water. This Church, or some other in Place thereof, was (of old Time, long before the Conquest) an House of Sisters, founded by a Maiden, named Mary: To which House and Sisters she left (as was left to her by her Parents) the Oversight and Profits of a Cross-Ferry, or Traverse-Ferry over the Thames, there kept before that any Bridge was built. This House of Sisters was after, by Swithin, a noble Lady, converted to a College of Priests, who, in Place of the Ferry, built a Bridge of Timber, and from Time to Time kept the same in good Reparations. But lastly, the same Bridge was built of Stone, and then, in the Year 1106, was this Church again founded for Canons Regular, by William Pont de le Arche, and William Dauncy, Knts. Normans.

To this Monastery, among other its Revenues, belonged the Rectory and Church of Banstead, and the Manors of North Todworth and South Merfield, with the Appendances, in the County of Surrey.

THIS Priory was burned about the Year 1207. Wherefore the Canons did found an Hospital near their Priory, where they celebrated till the Priory was repaired. Which Hospital was after (by Consent of Peter de la Roche, Bishop of Winchester) removed into the Land of Anicius, Archdeacon of Surrey, in the Year 1228, a Place where the Water was more plentiful, and the Air more wholesome, and was dedicated to St. Thomas.

The PARISH of St. MARY MAGDALENE.

THIS Peter de Rupidus, or de la Roche, founded a large Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene, in the said Church of St. Mary Overy. Which Chapel was afterward appointed to be the Parish-Church for the Inhabitants near adjoining.

THIS Church was again new built in the Reign of Richard II. and King Henry IV.

John Gower, a learned Gentleman, and a famous Poet, (but no Knight, as some have mistaken it) was then an especial Benefactor to that Work, and was there buried on the North Side of the said Church, in the Chapel of St. John, where he founded a Chantry. He lies under a Tomb of Stone, with his Image also of Stone being over him. The Hair of his Head aburne, long to his Shoulders, but curling up, and a small forked Beard; and on his Head a Chaplet, like a Coronet of four Roses, an Habit of Purple, damasked, down to his Feet, a Collar of SS of Gold about his Neck; under his Head the Likeness ness of three Books, which he compiled; the first, named Speculum Meditantis, written in French; the second, Vox Clamantis, penned in Latin; the third, Confessio Amantis, set forth in English. Beside, on the Wall where he lies, there was painted three Virgins crowned, one of which was named Charity, holding this Device:

En toy qui es Fitz de Dieu le Pere,
Sauve soit, qui gist sous cest Pierre; i. e.

In thee, who art the Son of God the Father,
Be he saved that lies under this Stone.

THE second Writing, Mercy, with this Device:

O bone Iesu fait ta mercy,
Al' alme, dont le corps gist icy; i. e.

O good Jesu, shew thy Mercy
To the Soul whose Body lies here.

THE third Writing, Pity, with this Device:

Pour ta Pite Iesu regarde,
Et met cest alme en fauve garde; i. e.

For thy Pity, Jesu, have Regard;
And put this Soul in Safeguard.

HIS ARMS; in a Field, Argent, on a Chevron, Azure, three Leopards Heads; Gold, their Tongues, Gules, two Angels Supporters: On the Crest a Talbot.

THE Roof of the middle waste Isle fell down in the Year 1469. This Priory was surrendered to Henry VIII, the 31st of his Reign, the 27th of October, in the Year of Christ 1539, valued at 624*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.* by the Year.

ABOUT Christmas next following, the Church of the said Priory was purchased of the King by the Inhabitants of the Borough. Dr. Stephen Gardiner, Bishop of Winchester, putting to his helping Hand, they made thereof a Parish-Church for the Parish of St. Mary Magdalen, on the South Side of the Choir, and of St. Margaret on the Hill, which were made one Parish of St. Saviour.

THERE was an Act of Parliament, Anno 1540, the 32d of Henry VIII, for uniting these two Parishes, whereby the Church-wardens elected by the Parish were a Body Corporate.

IN the Year 1618, a Screen at the West End was set up, Anno 1621 and 1622, the Church was in many Places repaired, the new Chapel at the East End, which had been for above 60 Years let to Bakers, was Anno 1624, restored again to the Church, and 200*l.* laid out in the Repair, all at the Charge of the Parish. But that which has justly render'd this Church admired for its Beauty, is the Repair, an Account of which follows, as it is in a Table hanging on a Pillar against the Pulpit:

THIS Church was laid thro'out with Stone, new Pewed and Gallery'd; the great Vault sunk; the Pulpit and Altar-piece erected; the Communion-Table railed, and set with Black and White Marble; the Choir inclosed by Gates; the South and West Windows opened and enlarged; the whole new glazed; the 6th and 7th Bells cast; the

VOL. I.

Chapel paved, and all the Church cleansed, white washed and beautified at the Charge of the Parish, An. 1703.

It is a noble spacious Church, built with three Isles running from East to West, and a Cross Isle after the Manner of a Cathedral, and is probably the longest Parochial Church in England, as will appear by the Dimensions. It is built of the ancient Gothick Order, both Pillars, Arches, Roof and Windows; the Roof of the Body of the Church and Chancel, is supported by 26 Pillars, 13 in a Range, that of our Lady or New Chapel (now used for the Bishop's Court) with six smaller Pillars; and that of the former Church of St. Mary Magdalen (on the South Side) by six Pillars like the last, there are Galleries in the Walls of the Choir, adorned with Pillars and Arches as Westminster-abbey. The Tower is erected on four very strong Pillars, over the Meeting of the Middle Isle with the cross Isle; at the four Angles of which Tower is a Spire, all built of Stone, and the Walls of the Church of Brick and Boulder; the Roof is covered with Lead and Tile, the Floor well paved with Stone, and the Floor of the Chancel one Step higher.

THE last mentioned Reparation of 1703, will more plainly appear, by describing the Ornaments of this Church, which are not a few, for it is wainscotted nine Feet and half high, also pewed and gallery'd, on the West, North and South Sides, with right Wainscot; the Pulpit and Communion-Table are of the same Species of Timber, and finely finniere; the Latter having Enrichments of a Glory, Cherubims, Doves, &c. placed on a fine Black and White Marble Foot-pace, inclosed with Rail and Ballister, and with a Wainscot Fence, having Iron Spikes. The Altar-piece is very stately and beautiful, in Altitude about 35 Feet of Wainscot, it consists of an Upper and Lower Part, the Latter is adorned with four fluted Columns, and their Entablature of the Corinthian Order; the Intercolumns are the Commandments done in Black Letters on large Slabs of White and veined Marble, under a Glory, and Triangular Pediments, and between four Attick Pilasters, with an Acroteria of the Figures of seven Golden Candlesticks replenished with Tapers; all which Ornament is under a spacious Circular Pediment belonging to the said Corinthian Columns, which are placed between the Pater-Noster and Creed, curiously depencilled in Golden Letters on Black, each under a Pediment, and between small Pilasters. The upper Part is adorned with four Pedestals, and between them two Attick Pilasters, with a small Compass Pediment: On these six, and one on the Middle of the Pediment, are placed seven Lamps, and in the Center of this upper Part is a Glory in the Shape of a Dove descending within a Circular Grupp of Cherubims, all very spacious, and finely painted, and presented to the View, as it were by the withdrawing of a rich Curtain painted in Festoons; behind all which is a five Light Window, the Arch whereof is enriched with the Figures of six Swans, and an Angel. The Organ-Case is also of Oak, very lofty, elevated on ten square Pillars, the upper Part whereof is adorned with three Fames carved, standing in full Proportion, about 42 Feet from the Area of the Isle.

THERE are two handsome inner Door-Cases opening into the Choir Northward and Southward, and an Iron one at the West End of the Church under the Organ; also an outer Door-Case on the South Side, set up in 1676. Over the Apperture of the West Door, are the Words of Genesis xxviii. 17. Psal. xxxix. 5. Jerem. vii. 2, 3.

MONUMENTS in this Church were, and are, for

Robert Liliard, Esq; Margaret, Daughter to the Lady Audley. William Grevil, Esq; and Margaret his Wife. Katharine, Wife to John Stoke, Alderman. Robert Merfin, Esq; William Undal, Esq; Lord Ospany Ferrar. Sir George Brewer, Knt. John Browne. Lady Brandon, Wife to Sir Thomas Brandon. William Lord Scales. William Earl Warren. Dame Maude, Wife to Sir John Peach. Dame Margaret Elrington. John Bowden, Esq; Robert Saint Magol. John Sandhurst. John Gower, the Poet. Thomas Tong, Clarencieux, King at Arms. Dame Anne Crispe, first Wife of Henry Crispe de Quekes in Thanet, and afterwards to Henry Browne, younger Brother to Viscount Montacute. Obiit 1585.

Thomas Cure, Esq; Sadler to King Edw. VI. Queen Mary, and Queen Elizabeth, deceased the 24th Day of May, 1598.

ON a Monument in the North Wall of the Choir is:

AN EPITAPH upon John Trebearne, Gentleman-Porter to King James I.

Had Kings a Power to lend their Subjects Breath,
Trebearne, thou shouldst not be cast down by Death:
Thy Royal Master still would keep thee then;
But Length of Days
are beyond Reach of Men.
Nor Wealth, nor Strength, nor great Mens Love can ease
The Wound Death's Arrows make,
for thou hast these.
In thy King's Court
good Place to thee is given:
Whence thou shalt go to the King's Court of Heaven.

Osmond Bilson, of LONDON, Knt. Ob. 1605.

ON a fair Monument in the Chancel is this Inscription:

Peter Humble, Gentleman, dedicates this Monument to the pious Memory of Richard Humble, Alderman of LONDON, and Margaret his first Wife, Daughter of John Pierston, of Nathing, in the County of Essex, Gentleman. By whom he had Issue two Sons, John, who died young, and the above-named Peter, now living. Also four Daughters, Katherine, Weltham, Margaret, and Elizabeth, who survived the other three, and was interred the same Day with her Father, being the 30th of April 1616. Richard left Isabel his second Wife, Widow, who was the Daughter of Robert Kitchenman, of Hemstley, in the County of York, Gentleman. Bequeathing to the Poor of this Parish five Pounds four Shillings, yearly for ever, out of a Tenement adjoining to the South Side of the Three Crowns Gate in Southwark.

ON a Stone by the Communion-Table:

Guilimus Wickham, translatus a sede Lincoln. & Mense Martii, 1595. Existens Episcopus Winton. Obiit 11 Junii, proxime sequentis. Reliquit uxorem laudatissimam; qua sepelitur in Awkenberry, Comitatus Huntingdon, &c.

THE Monument of Bishop Andrews is in a Chapel at the End of the Church, and his Body lies within the Monument, on which is a long Latin Inscription:

IN the new Chapel, on a Grave-Stone, is this written:

Not twice ten Years of Age, a weary Breath,
Have I exchanged for a happy Death;
My Course so short, the longer is my Rest.
God takes them soonest whom he loveth best:
For he that's born to Day, and dies to Morrow,
Loseth some Days of Rest, but more of Sorrow.

UPON a Stone, under the Grocers Arms, is this Inscription:

Garret some call'd him, but that was too high;
His Name is Garrard, who now here doth lie.
He, in his Youth, was toss'd with many a Wave,
But now at Port arriv'd, rests in his Grave.
The Church he did frequent, while he had Breath,
And wish'd to lie therein after his Death.
Weep not for him, since he is gone before
To Heaven, where Grocers there are many more.

IN the same Isle, upon a Marble Stone, with the Merchant-Taylors Arms at the Head of it, is this Inscription:

This Stone was laid, and this Isle was paved by John Hayman, Taylor, and Merchant Taylor, the 28th of October, 1625.

NEAR to this, upon a Brass Plate, is this Inscription:

Here lies the Body of Alice Dudson, Wife of Thomas Dudson, who departed this Life the 14th of October, 1626, who, some Time, did dwell in this Parish, but died in St. George's Parish.

ALL these, with that rich and costly Monument of the Right Reverend Father in God, Launcelot, Bishop of Winchester, are in this Chapel.

Queen ELIZABETH's Monument.

St. Peter's Church, at Westminster
Her sacred Body doth inter;
Her glorious Soul with Angels sings,
Her Deeds live Patterns here for Kings.
Her Love in every Heart hath room;
This only Shadows forth her Tomb.

THERE is a Monument of John Bingham, Esq; Sadler to Queen Elizabeth and King James, who was a worthy Benefactor to the Parish, and to the Free-School there; who departed this Life in the Year of our Lord 1625.

THERE is a Monument for William Emerson, who departed this Life the 27th of June, Anno Dom. 1575, in the Year of his Age 92.

AT the upper End of the South Isle of this Church of St. Mary Overies, is a fair and curious Monument of the Austins, repaired by the Relations, Anno 1706, and refreshed with Painting and Gilding, that it might suit with the rest of the Church: It is emblematical of Christ, and of the Resurrection, according to the pious Fancy of the devout Mr. Austin, who set it up at first.

MONUMENTS of later Time are :

IN the Chancel : North Side. John Appleby, Esq; 1680. And Dorothy his Wife, 1682. Both good Benefactors to this Parish.

James Shaw, 1670. And his Wife Mrs. Alice Shaw, 1693, aged 81. Also her Nephew Captain Joseph Williams, and his Daughter Alice Shaw, 1697.

Richard Martin, M. A. who was near Eleven Years one of the Ministers of this Church, as his Father

Father Dr. Richard Martin had been for twenty three Years before him, 1702.

IN the said Chapel, a Figure of a Head well done: To the Memory of Richard Blifs of this Parish, a faithful Friend and most affectionate Husband. His Wife Elizabeth erected this Monument. He died suddenly Aug. 4, 1703, aged 67. Upon the Ground is a fair black Marble Stone covering his Body; on which is engraven his Coat impaling his Wife's.

NEAR by his another Stone covering the Body of Noel Whiting, that deceased 1704, some Time Church-warden of the Parish.

HERE against the North Wall is placed an ancient Figure of a Knight-Templar cross-legged in Armour, with his Dagger drawn in one Hand, and holding the Sheath in the other. It is new painted and flourished up, and looks somewhat dreadful. It had been thrown up and down in the Church before; and here they have placed it against the Wall upright, whereas it ought to have been laid along, as the Effigies of dead Men, on their Tombs, usually are.

IN the Body of the Church, a flat Stone upon Edmund Robinson, Brewer, departed 1652, married Dorothy Daughter of Ri. Rundul of the County of Surrey, Yeoman. By whom he had two Sons, Edward and Richard. Edward died 1656, and Richard, 1659.

Under this Stone lies three,
Join'd by Consanguinity.
The Father he did lead the Way,
The Sons made haste and could not stay.
The eldest Son the next did go,
The youngest Son could not say, No.
But as they did receive their Breath;
So did they go away from Earth,
For to enjoy that heavenly Rest,
Which is ordained for them that's blest.

Sarah Hatton, Daughter of Henry Hatton, late of Tewksbury, Gent, 1694.

Anne Matthews, late Wife of Charles Matthews, 1694.

Ralph Gall, Gent. 1685, of 90 Years of Age, and upwards.

THIS Living may be called a Rectory improper, the Church-wardens having Power to raise 350 l. per Annum upon the Parish to be thus applied, viz. To two preaching Chaplains 100 l. each per Annum. To the Master of the Free-School 30 l. per Annum, and the Residue to be laid out in Repairs of the Church. The said Chaplains to preach in their Turns, one in the Morning, and one in the Afternoon.

THE Chaplains are the Rev. Mr. Benjamin Slocock, and the Rev. Mr. John Smith.

PRAYERS are on Wednesdays, Fridays, and Holidays, at Eleven o'Clock; here is an Organ, and a Ring of Eight Bells, and a Sermon on the 2d of May. This Parish is divided into two Liberties, viz. the Borough and the Clinke.

THE Vestry is Select, consisting of thirty of the most eminent Inhabitants.

THE Parish-Officers for the Clink-Liberty are, Six Church-Warden, chose out of the Vestry. Eight Overseers and Collectors for the Poor.

THE Ward-Officers are, three Constables, three Headboroughs, four Scavengers, twenty-three Inquests.

FOR the Liberty of the Borough; six Constables, and five Scavengers.

IN this Parish is a Free Grammar School, a little Southward from the Church, in the Church-Yard, founded at the Charge of the Parish, by Patent granted by Queen Elizabeth, constituting six Governors, chosen out of the Vestry; the Chief Master hath 30 l. per Ann. and second Master hath 20 l. per Ann. In the same Place is a Free English School, founded by Dorothy Applebee, about the Year 1681, for 30 poor Boys of this Parish to be taught to Read, Write, and Cypher; for the Maintenance of which she appropriated 20 l. per Ann. out of an Estate in Fishmonger's-alley, by St. Margaret's-hill, to be under the Inspection of the Governors of the Grammar-School. In Three-tun-alley is a Free-School for Fifty Girls, that are taught and cloathed by Subscription. In Angel-court is a Free-School for Eighty Boys of this Parish, who are educated and cloathed; there belongs to it a Freehold Estate, and it has a voluntary Contribution besides. In Deadman's-place is an Hospital or College for the Poor of the Parish, founded by Thomas Cure, Esq; in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth; it consists of sixteen Rooms for as many poor Men and Women, each of whom hath 20 d. per Week, besides 3 l. 6 s. 8 d. given by his Son; and Mrs. Applebee gave 3 l. per Annum for Coals. This Hospital is govern'd by one of the Wardens, call'd, The College-Warden, and a Chapel belongs to it, in which Prayers are read Thursdays and Fridays, by one of the old Men belonging to the said Hospital or College. There are also two more in the same College, founded by Henry Sprat. In the Church-yard are two Rooms for two poor People, founded by Mr. Henry Jackson, Anno 1682, each of whom hath 20 d. per Week: Also two Houses founded by Henry Young, Esq; who endowed them with 5 l. 4 s. per Annum paid weekly. In the Back-part of Maid-lane is a Work-house.

NUMBER of Houses about 2500.

IN

IN Montagu's-clofe was the House of the Lord Montagu, and of the Lord Montacute also, now Part of the Estate of ——— Overman, Esq; In this Clofe it is said the Gunpowder-Plot was discovered by the Miscarriage of a Letter, to one of which Lords it was delivered by a Mistake, instead of delivering it to the other; which Place, viz. Montagu-clofe, enjoyed several Privileges for the happy Discovery of the said Plot, particularly one, viz. that whoever dwelled there, were exempted from having any Actions of Debt, Trespass, &c. served on them. But this Privilege, as also those of other Places, is suppressed by Acts of Parliament.

Now passing through St. Mary Overy's-clofe and Pepper-alley, into Long-Southwark, on the Right Hand thereof, the Market-hill, where the Leather is sold, there stood the late named Parish-Church of St. Margaret, given to St. Mary Overy's by Henry I. put down and joined with the Parish-Church of St. Mary Magdalen, and united to the late dissolved Priory-Church of St. Mary Overy.

A Part of this Parish-Church of St. Margaret is now a Court, wherein the Assizes and Sessions are kept.

FARTHER up on that Side, almost directly over-against St. George's Church, was some Time a large and most sumptuous House, built by Charles Brandon, late Duke of Suffolk, in the Reign of Henry VIII. which was called Suffolk-house; but coming afterwards into the King's Hands, the same was called Southwark-place, and a Mint of Coinage was there kept for the King.

THIS House was also called, while it was in the Duke's Possession, The Duke's Place; which Place he exchanged with the said King Henry VIII. And the King, in Exchange, gave him the Bishop of Norwich's Place in St. Martin's in the Fields. And this Exchange was enacted 28 Henry VIII.

The PARISH of St. GEORGE, SOUTHWARK.

NOW on the South Side, to return back again towards the Bridge, over-against this Suffolk-place, was the Parish-Church of St. George, some Time appertaining to the Priory of Bermondsey, by the Gift of Thomas Aderne, and Thomas, his Son, in the Year 1122.

THE old Church here was lately taken down, in order to erect a new one in its Place, at the Charge of the Parishioners, who are impowered, by Act of Parliament, to raise a certain Sum for that Purpose. On Tuesday the 23d of April, this present Year 1734, being St. George's Day, the Reverend Nathaniel Hough, D. D. Rector of this Parish of St. George the Martyr, did; (as Proxy for his Majesty,) with several of the Gentlemen Trustees for rebuilding the said Church, assisted by Mr. Price the Architect, lay the first Stone on the North West Corner of the new intended Church, on which is the following Inscription:

D. S.

MONUMENTS in the old Church were, for

William Kirton, Esq; and his Wives, 1454.

ON a fair Monument in the South Wall of the Chancel was this Inscription:

Lo, Master William Evans, he whose Body lieth here, Bequeathed hath by his last Will,
for ever by the Yeere,
Ten Pounds eight Shillings to the Poor,
which is a blessed Stay,
And must be given them in Bread,
on every Sabbath Day.
One half to Crekederus Poor,
his native Soil so deare:
The other Moiety to the Poor of this our Parish here.
See now all ye that love the Poor,
how God did guide his Ways,
Ten score and eight are served with Bread
in two and fifty Days.
More than many would have done
To yeelded any Share.
Praise God, ye Poor, who gave to him
so provident a Care.

HE was free of the Right Worshipful Company of Merchant-Taylors, and deceased the nine and twentieth of July, 1590, in the two and thirtieth Year of the most prosperous Reign of our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth. Ætatis 67.

ON a Grave-Stone, under the Communion-Table, was this Inscription:

Behold James Savage graciously hath done a godly Deed
To the Poor of this Parish,
for to relieve their Need,
Five Pounds a Year for evermore,
by Will he hath bequeath'd,
Which must out of the Angel Rents quarterly be received;
By the Church-wardens of this Church,
whom he hath put in Trust,
As Fathers in the Poor's Behalf;
to be upright and just.
Which Men I doubt not but our God, who seeth all Things, shall find True in dispensing of the same,
according to his Mind.
Ye Poor, thank Christ for Savage still;
extol God's Name with Praise,
That he to follow his good Act,
in Time may many raise.

Anno Domini 1588.

THE Persons of later Times interred in St. George's, with Monuments and Grave-Stones; (or in former Times, but omitted) are these whose Names follow:

IN the Chancel: A Monument erected at the only Charge of Thomas Lenthal, second Son of Sir John Lenthal of this Parish, Kt. in Memory of his dear Brothers and Sisters; and others of his Kindred here interred; An. Dom. 1643.

Captain Robert Morris, Citizen and Skinner of LONDON, died 1675. The Monument erected An. 1702, by the last Will of Margaret Morris, his Widow.

NUMBER of Houses upwards of 740.

IN this Parish is a Charity-School for 50 Boys, which is carried on by Subscription.

ON the West Side of the Road, near Newington, are 22 Alms-houses, founded by Sir Thomas Hunt, and others, for the Relief of indigent Free-men of the Fishmongers Company, or their Widows; to each of whom is paid 2 s. per Week by the said Company; and each House hath one Chaldron of Coals yearly. To these there is a Chapel, and one of the Pensioners hath 40 s. per Ann. extraordinary for reading Prayers twice every Day.

NEAR the Parish Church of St. George is the new built Jail for the County of Surrey, which was antiently kept at a Place called the White Lion, it having been a common Hostery, or Inn, with that Sign.

A little farther is the Jail, or Prison, of the King's-Bench, but of what Antiquity is uncertain. The Courts of the King's-Bench and Chancery, have oft Times been removed from LONDON to other Places, and so hath likewise the Jails that serve those Courts; as in the Year 1304, Edward I. commanded the Courts of the King's-Bench and the Exchequer, which had remained seven Years at York, to be removed to their old Places at LONDON. And in the Year 1387, the 11th of Richard II. Robert Trisilian, Chief Justice, came to the City of Coventry, and there sate for the Space of a Month, as Justice of the King's-Bench, and caused to be indicted in that Court, about the Number of 2000 Persons of that Country, &c.

It seems therefore, that for that Time, the Prison or Jail of that Court was not far off. Also, in the Year 1392, the 16th of the same Richard, the Archbishop of York being Lord Chancellor, for good Will that he bare to his City, caused the King's-Bench and Chancery to be removed from LONDON to York. But ere long they were returned to LONDON.

THE Prisoners in this Prison of the King's-Bench were formerly not only restrained of their Liberty, but were further punished by Reason of the Straitness of Room; there being more a great many about the Middle of Queen Elizabeth's Reign committed there than before, as well for Debt, Trespass, as other Causes. By Reason of which streightning and pestering one another, great Annoyances and Inconveniences grew among the Prisoners, that occasioned the Death of many. So that within six Years an hundred Persons died.

THERE are large Rules, at this Time, belonging to this Prison, taking in all St. George's Fields, the Mint, and Part of the Borough, which the Prisoners have the Privilege of living in, after they have agreed on certain Terms, and given Security to the Marshal.

The present Marshal of the King's-Bench is Richard Mullins, Esq;

ON the same Side of the Way is the Marshal's-sea, in which is kept the Marshal's-Court, which was at first intended for determining Causes or Differences among the King's Menial Servants, held under the Knight-Marshal, whose Steward is Judge of the Court, to which also belong four Counsel, Counſel, and fix Attorneys, beſides whom none may praſtiſe in this Court, they are all fix of Clifford's-Inn. The Court Days are every Friday, when they hold Pleas for Debt, Damage, and Treſpaſſes in Cauſes for 10 Miles round Whitehall, except in the City of LONDON.

THE preſent Judge of this Court is Sir John Darnell.

FROM the Marſhalſea up to the Bridge are many large Inns, among which the moſt antient is the Talbot, which is the Sign of a Dog ſo called, as it is now painted; but was of old Time called the Tabard, the Sign being then of a Garment of that Name, which was a Jacket or Sleeveleſs Coat, whole before, open on both Sides, with a ſquare Collar winged on the Shoulders; this ſtately Garment was worn by Noblemen, and others, at home, and in the Wars abroad; but in the Wars their Arms were embroidered, or otherwiſe depiſt upon them, that every Man might be known by his Coat of Arms: But now theſe Tabards are only worn by the Heralds, and called their Coats of Arms in Service; for the Inn of the Tabard, Geoffrey Chaucer, the moſt famous Poet of England, in Commendation thereof, in the Reign of Edward III. writes thus:

It beſel in that Seafon, on a Day,
In Southwark, at the Tabart as I lay,
Ready to wend on my Pilgrimage
To Canterbury, with full devout Courage:
That Night was comen into Hoſterie
Well nine and twenty in a Companie,
Of ſundry Folke, by adventure yfall
In Fellowſhip, and Pilgrims were they all,
That toward Canterbury woulde ride:
The Stables and Chambers weren wide,
And well we were eaſed at the beſt, &c.

WITHIN this Inn was alſo the Lodging of the Abbot of Hide (by the City of Wincheſter) a fair Houſe for him and his Train, when he came to the City to Parliament, &c.

UPON the Sign Poſt of this Talbot-Inn, is at this Time written:

This is the Inn where Sir Jeffery Chaucer, and the nine and twenty Pilgrims lodged in their Journey to Canterbury, Anno 1383.

St. THOMAS'S HOSPITAL and PARISH.

THE Hoſpital of St. Thomas, firſt founded by Richard, Prior of Bermondſey, in the Sellerers Ground, againſt the Wall of the Monastery, in the Year 1213. He named it the Almery, or Houſe of Alms, for Converts and poor Children; for which Ground the Prior ordained, that the Almoner ſhould pay 10s. 4d. yearly to the Sellerer at Michaelmas.

BUT Peter de Rupibus, Biſhop of Wincheſter, in the Year 1215, new founded the ſame again more fully for Canons Regular, in Place of the firſt Hoſpital: He increaſed the Rent thereof to 344 l. by the Year. Thus was this Hoſpital holden of the Prior and Abbot of Bermondſey, till the Year 1428, at which Time a Compoliſition was made between Thomas Thetford, Abbot of Bermondſey, and Nicholas Buckland, Maſter of the ſaid Hoſpital of St. Thomas, for all the Lands and Tenements which were holden of the ſaid Abbot and Convent in Southwark, or elſewhere, for the old Rent to be paid unto the ſaid Abbot.

IN this Hoſpital Church were the Monuments of Sir Robert Chamber, Knight.

THIS Hoſpital was ſurrendered to Henry VIII. in the 30th Year of his Reign. See more of this, Book I. Chap. XIV.

IN the Year 1702, this Church was re-erected, and the Charge whereof was defrayed thus: The Sum of 3000 l. purſuant to the Statute 8 and 9 W. & M. Chap. 14. out of the Coal Duty there mentioned; and the reſt by the Governors of the Hoſpital, and ſome other Contributors, Sir Robert Clayton, Knt. Preſident, Tho. Eyre, Treasuſurer.

THE Church-Walls are Brick, with Facias, Quoins, Door and Window-caſes of Stone; the Roof is flat, cover'd with Lead, ſupported without any Pillars; the Floor is paved with Stone, and is eight Steps above the Street; and there are two Iſles.

IT is adorned on the Outſide with a Stone Cornice, Pediment, and outer Door-caſes, enrich'd with Cherubims, and within the Roof has the Ornament of a Cornice, the Walls wainſcotted about ſeven Feet high, and pewed with Oak; 'tis alſo fitted with Galleries on the North and Weſt Sides, which have handſome Oak Bolection-Work Fronts; the Pulpit is of the like Wood finely finniſhed; and the Altar-piece is of the ſame Kind of Timber, conſiſting of two Pilasters; their Entablature and circular Pediment of the Corinthian Order; above theſe are two Attick Pilasters, whereon are placed the Supporters of the King's Arms, which is with ſome Diſtance between them; the lower Inter columns are the Decalogue done in Gold Characters on Black, under a painted Glory, within a circular Gruppa of Cherubims; and without theſe Pilasters are the Lord's Prayer and Creed done in Black Letters upon Gold, each being under a ſmall Triangular Pediment, and theſe under pyramidal Figures, on whoſe Vertexes are Lamps; behind all which is finely painted, a Crimſon Curtain, edged with Gold Fringe, and tied in Feſtoon, but very ſpacious, ſo as by way of Mantling, ſuppoſed to let down to cover the Whole; and behind this Curtain appears the Capitals of two Corinthian Pilasters. The Communion-Table is handſomely finniſhed, ſtands on a Marble Footpace, and is incloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

THE Dimensions are, Length 256 Feet, Breadth 33, Altitude 28, and that of the Tower about 92 Feet, in which are 5 Bells.

THIS Living is a kind of Impropriation, in the Gift of the Governors of St. Thomas's Hoſpital; the Value is 60 l. per Annum, paid by the ſaid Governors.

THE present Incumbent is the Rev. Mr. Joseph Casberd; and the Lecturer is the Reverend Mr. Major Best.

HERE is a Sermon every first Sunday in the Month, at five in the Evening, for the Benefit of the Charity Children; and also four in every Year, quarterly, at the Expence of several Parishioners, and Collections made at the Church-Door for the Charity-Children.

PRAYERS are Wednesdays, Fridays, and Holidays at 11 o'Clock; and on the 1st of May the Parishioners have a Feast, at which Time the Stewards collect Money to put out the Children of poor House-keepers Apprentices, and to Service.

NUMBER of Houses about 130.

IN this Parish is a Charity-School for 30 Boys: Also Alms-houses for the Poor.

The PARISH of St. OLAVE.

IN St. Olave's (or Tooley) Street, on the Bank of the River Thames, is the Parish-Church of St. Olave, which is built of Stone and Brick rendered over with a Finishing, the Pillars supporting the Roof; the Arches and Windows are of the Gothick Order; which Roof is flat over the Nave of the Church, and there are four Isles, and the Floor is paved with Stone.

It is adorned with Galleries on the North and South Sides: At the West End is a neat Organ-Gallery; and South West from that, at the same West End, is another, for the Use of the Free-School, as appears by the Supercription, dated 1697. The Church is also well pewed with Oak, and wainscotted six Feet and a half high; the Pulpit is carved, being done Anno 1652. The Altar-piece is painted in Perspective, being four Columns, with Entablature of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue done in Gold on Black, between the Portraits of Moses and Aaron, each in a Nich, the first in a Mantle, the latter in his Priest's Habit; and these between the Pater Noster and Creed, done in Black on Gold Colour. Over the Commandments is a Glory issuing from an equilateral Triangle, environed with Cherubims, with which Order of Angels and Festoons, &c. the rest of this Altar is embellished. On the Cornice is erected the King's Arms well carved, adorned with Cartouches between two neat Lamps or Vases; and the Foot-piece of the Communion-Table is Black Marble and Purbeck Stone, inclosed with Rail and Ballister.

AND on the North Side of the Church is the Portrait of King Charles I. painted as at St.

Botolph's Bishopsgate, and other Places is mentioned.

THE Dimensions are, Length, within 69 Feet, Breadth 69, Altitude about 40; and that of the Tower and Turret is about 95 Feet; in which Steeple are Eight Bells that are rung in Peal.

Monuments in this Church are,

AT the East End of the Southerly Isle a spacious painted Cenotaph, where is the Effigy of Queen Elizabeth represented cumbant on a Marble Tomb, adorned with Columns of Touche, of the Corinthian Order supporting a Triumphant Arch: She in her Robes of State, with the Regalia, embellished with her Arms; also these, two Lions-Passant Guardant.

THOSE also of Ireland, and those of Plantagenet, viz. Ruby, a chief Pearl; Surtout, an Escarbuncle of eight Rays. Pommette and Florette Topaz.

ALSO the two Lions above are impaled with the Arms of Scotland, and likewise with Gyrony of eight Topaz and Diamond.

ALSO three Lions of England, impaled with Paly of six Topaz and Ruby.

AND here is Pearl, a Chevron between three Eagles Heads, erased Diamond, impaled with Topaz, a chief indented Diamond.

ALSO Ruby, 10 Bezants, 4, 3, 2 and 1, with the Coronet of a Marquis; and these Words subscribed under all: I have fought a good Fight, &c. as at some of the Churches foregoing.

ON the North Side of the Altar, is a graceful Monument, with an Inscription of John Ramsey, Esq; his Wife and Children; but nothing farther remarkable therein.

ARMS here are, Or, an Eagle displayed Sable.

ON the South Side of the Altar-rails, is another Marble Monument, in Memory of Mr. George Rock, and Family; but not farther notable.

ARMS here, Argent, a Fess counterfory Sable, between three Rooks proper.

AT the East End of the Isle is a Brass Plate, in Memory of Thomas Malledge, dated 1579, and thus Inscribed;

To you that live posselt,
great Troubles do besal,
Where we that sleep by Death,
do feel no Harm at all:
An honest Life doth bring a joyful Death at last.
And Life again begins,
when Death is over-past.
Death is the Path to Life,
and Way to endless Wealth;
The Door whereby we pass
to everlasting Health.
These threescore Years and six have passed here my Life,
Thirty seven whereof,
thou Helen wert by Wife.
A Citizen also,
and of the Cutlers free,
And Warden of the same,
so worthy thought to be.
My loving Wife farewell,
God guide thee with his Grace;
Prepare thyself to come,
and I will give thee Place.
Acquaintance all farewell,
and be assur'd of this,
You shall be brought to Dust,
As Thomas Malledge is.

ON

ON a plated Stone, near the Communion-Table, is the following Inscription :

Here resteth, in the Mercy of God, the Body of John Eston, Esq; late Justice of the Peace, and of Southwark Steward ; leaving behind him Margaret his Wife ; which John died the eighth Day of May, Anno Domini 1565.

How rich be they certain,
That heavenly Kingdom gain ?
No Tongue can well express
Their Joys that be endless.

Nº 54. VOL. L

The PARISH-OFFICERS are,

5 Church-Wardens.
8 Overseers and Collectors.

The WARD-OFFICERS are,

9 Constables.
9 Scavengers.
2 Surveyors of the Highway.

BESIDES these Ward-Officers, there are others for a small Part of the Parish, which is within the Liberty of the City of LONDON, viz. one Inquest, one Constable, and one Scavenger.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

PART of London-bridge, High-street, or Borough, White-horse-court, Tooley-street, Bell-wharf, St. Leger's-wharf, Bridge-yard, Egglin's-gate, Cox-wharf, Mill-lane, Beal's-wharf, Harris's-gun-wharf, Battle-bridge, Tooley-bridge, Robinet's-court, Morgan's-lane, Green-bank, Stoney-lane, Unicorn-yard, Pickle-herring-stairs ; Part of Vine-yard ; Part of Chequer-alley, Church-yard-alley, Back-alley, King's-head-yard, Flemish-grounds, Wallnut-tree-alley, Smith's-alley, Bull's-court, Joyners-street, Crown-entry, Tooley-corner, Glean-alley, Flower-de-lis-court, Flower-de-lis-yard, Tenter-alley, Maes, Maes-court, Great Maes-pound, Little Maes-pound, Farthing-alley, Rose-alley, King's-head-yard ; Part of Barnaby-street, Naked-boy-street, Cross-keys-alley, Wheat-sheaf-alley, Three-bat-alley, Adam-and-Eve-alley, Tuttle-court, White-hart-court, Vinegar-court, and Blue-anchor-alley.

NUMBER of Houses about 1500.

IN this Parish is a Charity-School, where 40 Boys are Taught and Cloathed by Subscription ; and here is also a Charity-School for 60 Girls, who are Cloathed and Maintained. A Free-School, called the Free-School of Queen Elizabeth, in the Parish of St. Olave's Southwark ; and she incorporated 16 Parishioners to be Governors. Here is a first and second Master ; the former hath 60 l. per Ann. the latter hath 40 l. The Writing Master hath 40 l. per Ann. and the English Master hath 40 l. per Ann. The Lands and Revenues by which this Foundation is endowed ; were purchased by the Parish, and consist chiefly of Ground-Rents in Horsely-down ; and they have been augmented by several Donations and Benefactions. The School is for the Use of the Parish, and Dorothy, the Widow of Arthur Rawlins, Esq; gave 150 l. to it.

HERE in this Parish are 20 Alms-Houses, but the Poor are removed to the Work-House, where they, and poor Children, to the Number of 100, are kept in excellent Order, and provided with Lodging, Food, and Physick.

OVER-against this Parish-Church, on the South Side the Street, was some Time one great House, built of Stone, with arched Gates, which pertained to the Prior of Lewes and Sussex, and was his Lodging when he came to LONDON.

THEN East from the said Parish-Church of St. Olave is a Key. In the Year 1330, by the Licence of Simon Swanland, Mayor of LONDON, it was built by Isabel, Widow to Hamond Goodcheape ; and next thereunto was then a great House of Stone and Timber, belonging to the Abbot of St. Augustin, without the Walls of Canterbury, which was an antient Piece of Work, and seems to be one of the first built Houses on that Side the River, over-against the City : It was called the Abbot's-Inn of St. Augustin in Southwark, and was some Time held of the Earls of Warren and Surrey.

NEXT is the Bridge-house, so called, as being a Store-house for Stone, Timber, or whatsoever pertains to the Building or Repairing of London-bridge.

THIS House seems to have taken Beginning, with the first Founding of the Bridge, either of Stone or Timber: It is a large Plat of Ground on the Bank of the River Thames, containing divers large Buildings for Stowage of Things necessary towards the Reparation of the said Bridge.

THERE were also divers Garners, for laying up of Wheat, and others for Service of the City, as Need requires; moreover, there were certain Ovens built, in Number ten; of which six were very large, the other four not being half so big: These were purposely made to bake out the Bread Corn of the said Graineries, to the best Advantage, for Relief of the poor Citizens when Need should require. Sir John Throstone, Knt. some Time an Embroiderer, then Goldsmith, one of the Sheriffs, 1516, gave (by his Testament) towards the making of these Ovens, 200 l. which Thing was performed by his Executors; Sir John Munday, Goldsmith, then being Mayor.

OVER this Bridge-house there are two Bridge-Masters appointed, and these must be Freemen, chosen by the City, whose Office is to look after the Reparation of the Bridge: They have a liberal Salary allowed them. The Place hath sometimes been a good Relief for some honest Citizens fallen to Decay. The Keeper of the Bridge-house had, in antient Times, an Interest in certain Mills upon the River Lee, near Stratford; and the Master of St. Thomas of Acres had a Title to other Mills there. For, as it appears by an old Inquisition taken in the Time of King Edward I. there was a Calcetum, i. e. a Chalk Cawsey on the North, near Stratford, which was made by Queen Maud, through which there were three Trenches made for three Courses of Water to run, for the Use of several Mills, partly belonging to the Master of St. Thomas, and partly to the Bridge-Master: Over which were three Wooden Bridges made by the said Masters.

AT a Common-Council, July 14, Ann. 33 H. VIII. it was ordered, that the Seal of the Bridge-house should be changed, because the Image of Thomas Becket, some Time Archbishop of Canterbury, was graven thereon; and a new Seal to be made, devised by Mr. Hall, to whom the old Seal was delivered.

Note, This was occasioned by a Proclamation, which commanded the Names of the Pope and Thomas Becket to be put out of all Books and Monuments.

IN this House are managed the Affairs of the Bridge, to which there belongs a great Revenue in Lands and Houses.

THE present Justice of the Bridge-yard is John Nicholas, Esq; and

THE Clerk-Comptroller of the Bridge-house, Jeremiah Pemberton, Esq;

NEXT, between the Bridge-house and Battail-bridge, likewise on the Bank of the River Thames, was the Abbot of Battail's-Inn; the Walks and Gardens appertaining thereunto, were on the other Side of the Way, before the Gate of the said House, and were called the Maze.

The PARISH of St. JOHN in SOUTHWARK.

OUT of the last Parish is lately taken another called St. John in Southwark; and the Church, which is one of the 50 new ones appointed to be built by an Act passed in the Reign of Queen Anne, being finished, was consecrated on the 15th of June 1733, by Richard Lord Bishop of Winchester.

It is built of Stone, the Roof is flat, the Steeple is a fluted Column of the Ionick Order; there are two Venetian Windows adorned with Pillars of the same Order; it is paved with Stone, and hath three small Isles.

THE Ornaments of this Church are as follow: The Roof is Quadrangular, adorned with Fret-Work; on the West, North and South Sides are Galleries supported by Pillars of the Dorick Order; the Pews, Pulpit, and Reading-Desk are all of Oak; the Altar-Piece is painted Green, and edged with Gold; it is adorned with four Columns, Entablature, &c. of the Ionick Order; the Intercolumniation is of the same Colour, without the Commandments, Creed, or Pater-Noster. At the West End of the Church is a small Marble Font, set within a handsome Iron Rail.

THE Parsonage-House is near adjoining, and there is a handsome Vestry-Room, detached from the rest of the Building.

THIS Living is a Rectory in the Gift of the King.

THE Rector is the Reverend Mr. Philip Ayscough, who is likewise Rector of St. Olave's; the Lecturer is the Reverend Mr. North.

PRAYERS are Wednesdays, Fridays, and Holidays, about 10 of the Clock. No Organ, two Bells.

THE Vestry is General.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

PART of Vinegar-yard, Weavers-lane, Potters-field, Dancing-bridge, Freeman's-lane, Valiant-soldier-alley, Sharp's-alley, Red-lion-court, Sugar-loaf-alley, Chapman's-rents; Part of Crucifix-lane, Dog-lane, Miles's-rents; Part of Five-foot-lane, Lovet-court, Isle of Ducks, Hooper's-yard, World's-end-bridge, Carman's-yard, Union-bridge, Dog-and-bear-alley, Oatmeal-yard, Parish-street, Great-yard, New-street, Fair-street, Bridge's-rents, Horsely-down, Horsely-down-lane, Horsely-down-old-stairs, Crown-court, Shad-Thames; Part of St. Saviour's-dock-head, Rose-alley, Jerusalem-court, Black-fields, Williford's-fields, New-lane, New-walk, or Three-oak-lane, Free-School-street, and Goat-yard.

NUMBER of Houses about 1500.

THEN is Battail-bridge, so called from Battail-abbey, for that it stood on the Ground, and over a Water-Course (flowing out of the Thames) pertaining to that Abbey, and was therefore both built and repaired by the Abbots of that House, as being near adjoining to the Abbot's Lodging.

The Antient A B B E T of St. SAVIOUR BERMONDSEY.

BEYOND this Bridge is Bermondsey-street; turning South, in the South End whereof was some Time a Priory, or Abbey of St. Saviour, called Bermond's-Eye, in Southwark, founded by Alwin Childe, a Citizen of LONDON, in the Year 1081.

Peter, Richard, Obstert, and Umbalde, Monks de Charitate, came to Bermondsey, the Year 1089, and Peter was made first Prior there, by Appointment of the Prior House, called Charite, in France:

France: By which Means this Priory of Bermondsey (being a Cell to that in France) was accounted a Priory of Aliens.

IN the Year 1094, deceased Alwin Childe, Founder of this House: Then William Rufus gave to the Monks his Manor of Bermondsey, with the Appurtenances, and built for them there a new great Church.

Robert Pelewit, Bishop of Lincoln (King William's Chancellor) gave them the Manor of Charlton, with the Appurtenances. Also Jeffery Martel, by the Grant of Jeffery Magnaville, gave them the Land of Halingbury, and the Tithe of Alferton, &c.

MORE in the Year 1122. Thomas Aderne, and Thomas his Son, gave to the Monks of Bermonds-Eye, the Church of St. George in Southwark, &c.

IN the Year 1165, King Henry II. confirmed to them the Hide, or Territory, of Southwark, and Laygham Wadden, with the Land of Coleman, &c.

IN the Year 1371, the Priors of Aliens (throughout England) being seiz'd into the King's Hands, Richard Denton, an Englishman, was made Prior of Bermondsey; to whom was committed the Custody of the said Priory, by the Letters Patents of King Edward III. saving to the King the Advowsons of Churches.

IN the Year 1380, the 4th of Richard II. this Priory was made a Denizon (or free English) for the Fine of 200 Marks, paid to the King's Hanaper in the Chancery. In the Year 1399, John Attelborough, Prior of Bermondsey, was made the first Abbot of that House, by Pope Boniface IX. at the Suit of King Richard II.

IN the Year 1417, Thomas Thetford, Abbot of Bermondsey, held a Plea in Chancery against the King, for the Manors of Preston, Bermondsey, and Stone, in the County of Somerset; in which Suit the Abbot prevailed, and recovered against the King.

IN the Year 1539, this Abbey was valued to dispend by the Year 474 l. 14 s. 4 d. ob. and was surrendered to Henry VIII. the 31st of his Reign. The Abbey Church was then pulled down by Sir Thomas Pope, Knt. and in Place thereof a stately House built of Stone and Timber, since pertaining to the Earls of Suffex.

THERE are buried in that Church, Loufs-stane Provost, Shrive, or Domesman of LONDON, 1115.

Sir William Bowes, Knt. and Dame Elizabeth his Wife.

Sir Thomas Pikeworth, Knt.

Dame Anne Audley; this Lady (whose Name was not Anne, but Aime) bequeathed her Body to be laid in this Monastery, by her Will dated Nov. 1497, and would have a Priest to pray for the Souls of John late Lord Audley, her Husband, James late Lord Audley, her Son, and John Rogers, late her Husband.

George, Son to John Lord Audley.

John Winkefeld, Esq;

Sir Nicholas Blonket, Knt.

Dame Bridget, Wife to William Trussel.

Holgrave, Baron of the Exchequer, &c.

Margaret de la Pole seems to be buried here; for by her Will (made 12 Edward IV. and proved 1473,) she bequeathed her Body to be laid in the Monastery of St. Saviour's Bermond- sey, in the Chapel called The Virgin's Chapel, on the Left Hand of the Altar, making Sir John Heveningham, Knt. her Executor.

The PARISH of ## St. MARY MAGDALEN BERMONDSEY.

THIS Church being old, so that Part of it fell down, and the Workmen being of Opinion the rest would not stand long, it was taken down, and re-edified at the Parish Charge, Anno 1680.

THE present Structure is Brick, rendered over with a Finishing; the Windows and outer Door-Cases are Stone, and Stone Quoins; and the Roof is covered with Tile, the Inside thereof is cambered, and supported with Columns of the Tuscan Order. There are three Isles paved with Brick; but about the Altar with black and white Marble; and the Galleries are sustained with small Columns of the Composite Order. There is a School at the West End, covered with Lead.

THE Roof is adorned with Arches of Fret-Work, and a Timber Modellion Cornice, with Enrichments of Shields.

THERE are Galleries on the North Side and West End, with neat Oak Fronts, enrich'd with Cherubims, Fruit, Leaves, &c. and the Pulpit and Pews are well made of the same Species of Timber, wherewith the Walls are wainscotted near eight Feet high. The Altar-Piece is adorned with a Cornice and large Compass Pediment; under the latter are the King's Arms carved in Relievo; and under the former are the Decalogue, in two Tables, placed between the Pater-Noster and Creed, and these between the Portraits of Moses and Aaron: Here are also Enrichments of Cherubims, Leaves, Fruit, and Festoons.

THERE are three Wainscot inner Door-Cases, the Middle-most adorned with Pilasters and Entablament, of the Tuscan Order.

THE Dimensions are, Length 76 Feet, Breadth 61, Altitude 30, and of the Tower and Turret about 87; in which Steeple are eight Bells to ring in Peal.

These are the MONUMENTS in this Church; there being no Remainders of old ones:

Under the Communion-Table:

Two flat Marble Stones; one for William Williams, who had to Wife Susanna, Daughter of Thomas Goble, deceased 1661. and Susanna his Wife, 1664.

Another Stone there thus inscribed:

Where once the famous Elton did intrust
The Preservation of his sacred Dust,
Lies pious Whitaker: Both justly twin'd;
Both dead, one Grave, both living had one Mind;
And by their Dissolution have supply'd
The hungry Grave, and Fame, and Heaven beside;
This Stone protects their Bones, while Fame
Enrols their Deathless Names.

THE said Whitaker departed 1654; he and the said Elton were sometimes Ministers of this Church.

IN the South Isle is a handsome black and white Marble Monument, adorned with Columns, Entablature, and Pediment of the Composite Order, with Enrichments, two Cupids, Cartouches, one Cupid holding a Chaplet, the other a Death's Head, also Cherubims. &c. This Inscription:

M. S.

Siste viator quis heic jacet Opera pretium tibi scire nempe Gulielmus Castellus, Armiger. Navalis Mercatorii apud Redroffiam naupegus, in Agro Surriensi Irenarcha, Militæque ejusdem majoram vocant instructor, &c. ob Fidelem operam in iis muneribus Navatam serenissimo R. Carolo 2. inter paucos charus, vir in Arte sua præstantissimus, cujus si Pietatem in Deum, in Regem Fidem, in Pauperes Munificentiam, in omnes Comitatem spectes, parem illi inter superstites ægre invenies, plura discere non opus est.

Abi & Imitare.

Ob. 26. Junii 1681. 54. Ætat. salut. human.

His Arms; Argent, three Castles, Gules, impaled with his fourth Wife's, viz. Gules, a Saltier between four Flower-de-lis, Or; and also with his three others in as many different Places, as with Argent, on a Chief Sable, two Boars Heads couped, Or. In a 3d Place with Sable, a Chevron, Ermin between three Owls, Argent, crowned, Or; and with Sable three Nags Heads erased, Argent.

Here also lieth Margaret Castel, Wife of William Castel, Shipwright, 1635, and Margaret, Daughter of William Castel, 1640.

Also William Castel, Shipwright, 1649.

ON a Tomb-Stone of Grey Marble, on the South Side of the Church-Yard, this Inscription:

Here lyeth interred the Body of Mr. Thomas Byron, who had 12 Children by his Wife Joanna, and died the 18th of May, 1685, aged 41 Years and eight Months. Joanna (their Daughter) died the 18th of March, 1694, in the 11th Year of her Age.

Admired, beloved, lamented Infancy,
Hurry'd away, does here untimely lye,
Too good to live, and yet too young to die:
Hard Fate! that best of Things must be Always the Plunder of the Grave, and thee.
What Grief can vent this Loss, or Praises tell
How young, how good, how beautiful she fell.
Compleat in all but Days, resign'd her Breath,
Who never disobeyed but in her Death.

Elizabeth Walduck, Citizen and Cooper of LONDON, 1691.

Humfrey Seile, 1686.

Peter Theobalds of this Parish, who had to Wife Mary, Daughter of John Terry, Alderman of the City of Canterbury, 1650.

Susanna Collins, Wife of Philip Collins, 1673.

Captain Richard York, with his nine Children.

John Cheeseman, Gent. 1665, and Margaret his Grand-daughter, 1663. And Margaret his Wife, 1681.

In the North Isle:

Elizabeth Hickman, dying in Childbed, 1672.

Joseph Hickman, 1686, and Elizabeth his Wife, 1688.

Peter Boufine, 1696, and Andrew Boufine his Son, 1690; and Benjamin Boufine, and Anne his Wife, 1696.

THIS Living is a Rectory in the Gift of William Browning, Esq; Value 150*l.* per Ann. and rated in the King's Books at 15*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.* Half-penny.

THE Rector is the Reverend Mr. William Browning, Jun. and the Lecturer the Rev. Mr. Forrester.

NUMBER of Houses about 1900.

IN this Parish is a School for 50 Boys, by Josias Bacon; a Charity-School for 50 Boys, by Subscription; and a third for 20 Girls, by Subscription also; 12 poor Men, and as many poor Women are clothed on the 5th of November, by the Legacy of John Wright.

THEN in Kent-street was a Lazar-House for Leprous People, called the Loke in Southwark, the Foundation whereof Stow saith he finds not.

IT now belongs to St. Bartholomew's-Hospital, and is only for such as have the foul Disease; it is very convenient, and was lately new built, as appears by the following Inscription in the Middle of the Front:

St. B A R T H O L O M E W's
L O C K - H O S P I T A L.
A. D. MDCCXXVI.

ADJOIN-

ADJOINING to this, and belonging to it, is a Chapel, small and old; on the Front of the Gallery, at the West End, is this Inscription:

Martine Bonde, Esquire, Citizen and Haberdasher of LONDON, Treasurer of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, gave one hundred Pounds towards the building of this Chappel, A. D. 1636.

HERE is but one Funeral Inscription, and that for a Child of 11 Months old.

THE Ten Commandments and this Motto, Lift up your Hearts, are placed over the Communion-Table, which is ordinary; but the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper is here administer'd every Sunday Morning, and there is Preaching twice the same Day, by the Reverend Mr. Wilson.

WE come now to the present State of this Ward of the Borough of Southwark.

First, Southward from London-bridge:

THE Borough of Southwark, or Long Southwark, reaches from St. Margaret's-hill.

St. Margaret's-hill extends to St. George's Church.

Blackman's-street from St. George's Church to Newington.

Westward from London-bridge:

Stony-street runs from the Thames to Deadman's-place.

Counter-street, reaches Southward from Deadman's-place to St. Margaret's-hill.

Foule-lane, lies between the Borough and St. Saviour's-dock.

Deadman's-place extends from the East End of Bank-end to Counter-lane.

ALL these following new Streets made out of Winchester-park, seated betwixt the River Thames on the North, St. George's-fields on the South, and Gravel-lane on the West, viz. Red-crofs-street, White-cross-street, Worcester-street, Castle-street, Maiden-lane, Ewer's-street, Queen-street, Duke-street, George-street, Blue-gate-street, Pepper-street, Bennet's-rents; Bandy-leg-walk, Dirty-lane, &c.

Gravel-lane reaches from the Thames to St. George's-fields.

THE Upper-ground, between which and the Thames are divers Timber-Yards and Wharfs.

BETWEEN Gravel-lane on the East, Angel-street on the West, the Thames on the North, and St. George's-fields on the South, are these new built Streets and Passages, viz. Bennet's-street, Green-walk, and Angel-street.

EASTWARDS from London-bridge are, St. Olave's or Tooley's-street, extending to Horsely-down, betwixt which and the River Thames are these Places, viz. Mill-lane, Morgan-lane, Green-bank, Stony-lane, Vine-yard, and Weaver's-lane.

ON the South Side of St. Olave's-street are, the Maze, or Maze-pond, and Paris-street.

FROM the Middle of St. Olave-street Southerly, from St. George's Church Easterly, are two fair Streets, which both meet together at St. Mary Magdalen Bermondsey, viz. Barnaby-street, South from St. Olave's-street, and Long-lane, East from St. George's Church.

AND Southerly from St. George's Church is Kent-street.

From the East End of St. Olave's-street runs South East Horsely-down to Fair-street, which extends itself to Five-foot-lane, almost to the Head of St. Saviour's-dock, and between Horsely-down, Fair-street and the Thames, are these Places, viz. Freeman's-lane, Horsely-down-lane, Moss-alley, Rope-yard, Shad-Thames, St. Saviour's-dock, and Free-school-lane.

THEN from about the Middle of Barnaby-street is Crucifix-lane, extending Eastward to Roper-lane, which runs Southerly to Five-foot-lane, and that leads to the Head of St. Saviour's-dock.

AGAIN along the River Thames, betwixt Lambeth and Rotherhithe are several Publick Stairs, or Landing-Places, beginning Westward, viz. Lambeth-bridge, Stand-gate, or Sun-gate, Cupid's-stairs, Old-berghouse, Bull-stairs, Marigold-stairs, Paris-garden-stairs, Faulcon-stairs, Bank-end, St. Saviour's-stairs, and Pepper-alley-stairs.

THEN Eastward from London-bridge are Tooley's-stairs, Battail-bridge-stairs, Pickle-herring-stairs, Still-stairs, Old-stairs, New-stairs, Savoy-mill-stairs, East-stairs, Mill-stairs, Rotherhithe-stairs, Cherry-garden-stairs, and Elephant-stairs.

THE Parish of St. Saviour's is the largest, the best built and inhabited of any Parish in Southwark. In this Parish is the Bankside, which is very long, and runs Eastward towards Deadman's-place, having several Courts and Alleys with Passages into Maiden-lane. On this Bankside is a Prison belonging to the Liberty of the Bishop of Winchester, call'd the Clink-Liberty.

Maiden-lane is a long straggling Place with Ditches on each Side the Passage to the Houses, being over little Bridges, with small Garden-Plats before them. This Lane begins at Deadmans-place, and runs Westward into Gravel-lane, which is a good airy Place, having divers well built Houses, with pretty Gardens belonging to them; it begins at the Faulcon, and runs into St. George's-fields.

Bandy-leg-walk is a large Thoroughfare into the Park, passing through Queen-street into Bennet's-rents.

Deadmans-place, a long dirty straggling Street, of no great Account for Buildings or Inhabitants, except Mr. Fraile's Brew-House, and Dwelling-House.

Clink-street begins at Deadmans-place, and runs to St. Mary Overies Dock.

THE Borough of Southwark is of a very considerable Trade, and the rather, as being so great a Thoroughfare out of Kent and Sussex into LONDON, which makes it to be very well inhabited by Tradesmen of Repute, with Buildings answerable. It takes its Beginning from London-bridge, and falls into St. Margaret's-hill, which is a spacious Street, and likewise well inhabited and traded unto, especially the East Side, the West Side of the Borough being generally taken up by Butchers. And in this Part the Market is kept in the Street.

THE Parish of St. George's is of no large Extent, lying Southward of St. Saviour's. The principal Places are, St. Margaret's-hill and Black-man-street.

THIS Parish is of chief Note for the King's-Bench Prison, the Marshalsea Prison, and the Mint, the antient Retreat of Persons of ill Principles, who there shelter'd themselves from the Payment of their just Debts, before the late Act of Parliament, that took away that pretended Privilege.

THERE was formerly, in Southwark, but one Prison, particularly, serving for the whole County of Surrey, and that called the White Lyon, which was for the Custody of Murtherers, Felons, and other notorious Malefactors. It was situate situate at the South End of St. Margaret's-hill, near unto St. George's Church; but that being an old decay'd House within a few Years past, there has been a new County-Jail erected. 'Then is the King's Bench and Marshalsea Prisons, already mention'd.

St. Margaret's-hill, a spacious broad Street, and a great Thoroughfare for Passengers, Coaches, Carts and Waggons out of Kent, Surrey, Sussex, and Part of Hampshire; by reason of which it is much resorted unto, but not of so good a Trade as the Borough, nor is so accommodated with Inns. In this Street is kept the Fair, which begins some Days after Bartholomew-Fair in LONDON, and, according to Custom, continues a Fortnight, although it ought, by Charter or Grant, to hold but three Days; but this Fair is of small Concern for Commodities, being chiefly for Shows, as Drolls, Puppet-Shows, Rope-Dancing, Musick-Booths, and Tippling-Houses.

IN this Part of the Hill, which stands in this Parish, are a great many Courts and Alleys.

White-street begins at Blackman's-street, runs by St. George's Church, and falls into Long-lane, and receives Kent-street. This Street is not over well built and inhabited.

Kent-street, so called as being seated in the Road out of Kent into Southwark; a Street very long, but ill built, chiefly inhabited by Broom-Men and Mumpers. But here are divers large Yards, wherein are vast Stocks of Birch, Heath, and some only of Broom-staves, which the Master Broom-Men dispose of to those that make the Brooms.

Blackmans-street runs from St. George's Church almost unto Newington; the Street is broad, but the Buildings and Inhabitants not much to be boasted of; the End next to Newington hath the West Side open to St. George's-fields, being rather a Road than a Street.

THE Mint, generally so taken, is very large, containing several Streets and Alleys. In this Tract of Ground, called the Mint, stood the Duke of Suffolk's House. The chief Street in the Mint is so called, being that which gives an Entrance into it out of Blackman's-street; it is long and narrow, running into Lombart-street, thence into Suffolk-street, and also into George-street; which said Suffolk-street and George-street have open Passages into St. George's-fields. Before we leave this Place, we cannot help taking Notice of a Garden here, remarkable for a Summer-House in it, which is said to be built by the Celebrated Mr. Rusworth, at his own Expence, when he was a Prisoner in the Rules of the King's Bench, in which he compiled his Valuable Collections.

IN this long Tract of Ground there are, in the Borough of Southwark, generally so called, these Parishes, viz. St. Saviour's Southwark, St. George the Martyr's, St. Thomas's, St. Olave's, the new Parish at Horsely-down, called St. John's in Southwark, and St. Mary Magdalen Bermondsey. Then, on the West Side, the Parishes of Christ-Church and Lambeth. On the South Side, the Parish of Newington. And on the East, the Parish of Rotherhithe.

THIS Borough, as a Subsidy to the King, yields about a Thousand Marks, or Eight Hundred Pounds, which is more than any one City in England pays, except the City of LONDON. And also the Muster of Men in this Borough doth likewise in Number surpass all other Cities, except LONDON.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman, who is always the Eldest, or what they call, The Father of the City; he hath three Deputies, and a Bailiff; there are no Common-Council-Men; sixteen Constables, six Scavengers, and twenty Ward-mote Inquest-Men.

It is taxed to the Fifteen, at seventeen Pounds seventeen Shillings and eight Pence.

THE Alderman of this Ward is Sir William Humfreys, Knt. and Bart.
